Andy Heiberg passes

Bardo Lutheran Church was crowded on Monday afternoon when friends and neighbours gathered to pay their final respects to the late Andreas "Andy" S. Heiberg of the Bardo District.

Andy Heiberg was born in Ringebu, Norway on October 30, 1924 and passed away on February 21, 1979, while on a vacation in Hawaii. He was fifty-four years of age at the time of his passing.

At the age of two years, he immigrated to Canada with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Odd Heiberg, and his brother, Eystein. The family first settled in Camrose, later moving to the Klugman area, and then moved to the Bardo District in 1928, where he lived the remainder of his life.

He married Bernice Magnuson in 1951, and to this union was born two sons and two daughters.

He was a leading member of the Bardo Lutheran Church of which he was vice-chairman and a deacon.

Deeply concerned about his community, he was active in many areas, serving on the Regional Recreation Board and was heavily involved in its activities.

The Tofield Arena may well stand as a tribute to his own individual efforts, because it was his heavy involvement and willingness to attend meetings, and spend many hours of his own time to push and cajole officials for help. It was a great day in his life, when it was opened for the first time.

His involvement with helping his fellow man was not confined to the Bardo Community, as he was involved in many organizations in the Tofield-Klugman areas, as well as in the City of Beaver.

Mr. Heiberg is survived by his wife, Bernice; two sons, Lyle and Gordon; two daughters, Grace Schaefer and Elsa; his mother, Ragaa Heiberg of Camrose; his sister, Maria Dawson of Peace River; two nephews, Gary and Brian Dawson of Peace River; and a large number of other relatives, here and in Norway.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon in Bardo Lutheran Church with Rev. L.O. Sogge officiating. Interment followed in the Bardo Cemetery.

Palbearers were Lloyd Christensen, Bjørn Erickson, Leroy Finnest, Marvin Jacobson, Don Lilien and Leroy Johnson.

Burgar Funeral Home of Camrose handled all arrangements.

Don Mazankowski in his remarks, congratulated the club on their effort and the hours of work needed in taking down the old building and erecting the new one, and furnishing it. He then presented a Canadian flag and a typical picture of Ottawa to Mr. Heiberg.

Mr. Baituk brought greetings and congratulations from the Premier on the happy occasion and commended members, here and in Norway. A brief report was given by George Giebelhaus on how they had looked over several small buildings before starting the project. They had commended a drive for funds.

The building had cost $31,000 inclusive. Many of the materials had been donated, also work by those installing equipment, and he mentioned several organizations who had given

Speaking for Village Council, Mayor Shykora congratulated the senior citizens for the wonderful accomplishment, and then presented a plaque in the shape of the Province of Alberta, suitably inscribed.

On behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, Kevin Stambaugh offered the congratulations of members.

Mr. Kropelnicki, Reeve for the County of Beaver, offered greetings from the Council and congratulations on their achievements. At this time, Mrs. Allan read a telegram from Monique Benguine, M.P. offering congratulations and well wishes that the Center would be enjoyed.

A letter was received from Colleen Walker, with regrets she could not attend but she congratulated all.

Mr. Baker remarked that he had met with a youth group and a few senior citizens a few years ago, regarding a senior citizens drop-in center, and that was the result.

Mrs. Kathleen Hurum gave a very brief report of the commencement of their project which had culminated when the youth group had retained senior citizens. Title to the old Birk store was obtained in 1977 and when demolished, the new building started in June, 1978.

Candidates confirmed

All four parties will be contesting the provincial election in the Clover Bar and Camrose Constituencies.

Returning officers for both constituencies told The Mercury that candidates had filed official nomination papers yesterday (Wednesday).

However, the paper was unable to contact the returning officer for the Vegreville Constituency to confirm candidates for that riding.

Running in the Clover Bar Constituency will be Walter Buck, Social Credit (independent); Alan M. P. Dem, Liberal; Graham Griffiths, NDP; and C. Keith Thompson, Progressive Conservative.

Official candidates in the Camrose Constituency are Art Buttney, NDP; John Shores, Liberal; Ralph Brown, Social Credit; and Gordon Strumberg, Progressive Conservative (independent).

Andrew trounced Smoky Lake

Freebury's tribute

Andy Heiberg's sudden passing while on holiday in Hawaii came as quite a shock to the Bardo-Tofield area, where he was exceedingly well known and liked.

Dr. W.H. Freebury, Mayor of Tofield, perhaps summed it up best, when his statement of tribute was read during funeral services in the Bardo Lutheran Church on Monday afternoon.

Following in Dr. Freebury's tribute, Andy Heiberg's passing leaves us, not only with a sense of great personal loss, but, leaves a great void in the community life of Bardo and Tofield, and indeed, throughout the whole of County of Beaver.

He devoted untold time and enthusiasm to every worthwhile community project. Much of the quality of our life here today is due to Andy's hard work, his ability to assist in getting a job done.

Among other things, he was president of the Agricultural Society for many years, and through his many hours of

First place and the final standings, in the Boverhill Hockey League may not be decided until Saturday night.

Mundare has taken possession of first place but, Andrew is only two points back and could move into a tie for top spot with a victory tonight (Thursday) in Mundare.

If Andrew wins tonight's contest, Mundare will be playing in Holden on Saturday night in the final game of the season. If Mundare wins tonight, Saturday's game likely will not be played.

Tofield is caught in the middle between Mundare and Andrew. Tofield must finish in second place, if Mundare wins tonight's game. An Andrew win would drop Tofield into third place.

Tofield's sudden climb in the standings was as a result of an earlier unexpected victory, plus having an earlier tie

Made in Alberta

We've long felt Canadians would buy products made in this country, other things being equal, if only they knew more about the products made here. One of the reasons for this, we have felt, other than patriotism, which often doesn't count for much when it comes to the marketplace, is that many made-at-home products tend to be better built for our climate, more rugged and dependable, and designed more to our needs.

The trouble has often been that so little information is available on Canadian products, as compared to the deluge of products from elsewhere, mainly south of the border.

We were delighted last year to learn Alberta's Business Development and Tourism department, under Hon. Bob Dowling, has produced a list of Alberta farm implement and equipment manufacturers, together with pictures of many of their products. And even more delighted recently to learn it has been updated to the present year.

Seventy firms are listed (imagine, seventy in non-industrial Alberta) together with the range of products they produce. And the list is mighty impressive.

A topical clue is Jakarta, the one of gaining wide dissemination for the list. It's probably too much to hope that the list will be used by every farm equipment dealer who carries the list, because many of them are selling competitive lines. But at least it could be in every D.A.'s office in the province, and help to spread the information. And any farmer can have one free simply by getting in touch with the department in Edmonton.

Farm equipment is only a part of the Canadian manufacturing scene we were thinking about, but it can be a pretty important part, too. After all, the slogan from the Depression Years is just as good today: "What Alberta Makes, Makes Alberta."

Short lived?

Travellers on Canadian airlines will be delighted to see the war being fought over cut-rate flights for the next few weeks. Air Canada started the whole thing, announcing that for seven weeks from March 28 it would chop prices on some domestic flights by an incredible sixty or more percent.

Not to be outdone, of course, Canadian Pacific announced retaliatory action, and other airlines are also moving into the field.

Airline officers have long contended they don't make any money on domestic flights, although they can do very well with much lower rate international flights because the chartered flights are nearly always full. The flying public often wonders, but they realize there's certainly a point past which the airlines can't reduce, without losing money, and the question comes then, of who pays.

With Air Canada, of course, at some point along the line it's the poor taxpayer. The worst development would be if this turned out to be simply like the recent gas war in Camrose, where prices dropped dramatically for a couple of days, before taking a sharp jump upwards again. The end result, which drew relatively little comment, was that prices levelled off fully ten cents above the point they had been before the war started. Even though thousands of gallons went through the pumps at twenty or more cents below what had been normal, it shouldn't take too long to more than recoup its losses (7) with ten cents above the prices, especially when the new price sticks for much longer.

We wouldn't want to think the airline price war is simply the jump-off point for a new round of price hikes "to pick up losses."

The Honourable Jack H. Horner, M.P., Minister of Industry, Trade and Commerce

Indonesia stretches 5,175 miles long and is made up of 17,000 islands - about 4,000 of which are uninhabited. There are three time zones in the country. The climate is maritime equatorial - the two main seasons being the wet northwest monsoon which runs from June to September. We were there during the wet season and although it rained very hard it would dry off quickly once the rain stopped.

Indonesia is the fifth most populous country in the world, with an estimated 160 million people and a growth rate of about two per cent per annum. It is now expected the population will reach 300 million at the end of the century. Two-thirds of the population live on Java, and about two-thirds of the total population is under thirty years of age, about 80 per cent of Indonesians are Muslim.

A typical city is Jakarta which has a population of six million. It is quite a modern city with cars and hotels quite capable of accommodating a tourist trade considerably ahead of what we saw in China. Forty per cent of Indonesia's industrial activity is found in or near Jakarta. The country is rich in resources: oil, tin, nickel, bauxite, copper, coal, uranium, iron, sand, gold and diamonds. The government budget is about $12 billion (one quarter of Canada's).

Many Canadians might wonder why a trade development mission to Indonesia? One can readily see how the underdeveloped resources of Canada's know-how can play a great part in assisting Indonesia to improve its standard of living and national wealth by assisting in the development of their resources.

Canada has already sold a great deal of mining equipment to Indonesia and can sell more. The equipment can be used in their logging and mining industries. We have sold them something in the neighbourhood of $80 million worth of equipment for use in their nickel mines. We have assisted them in the engineering of their fertilizer and cement plants and many Canadian companies drill for oil in Indonesia. In fact, Sawden Drilling of Calgary had three rigs in Indonesia drilling for the Indonesian state petroleum company. I met with their trade minister and the minister of mines, resources and foreign affairs and, of course, their President, Mr. Suharto. I saw a farm very interested in Canadian fertilizer. Naturally, I quickly pointed out that Canada had a very high reputation for its Hulsstein fertilizers and said we had in Japan and I said I couldn't see why we couldn't send some to Indonesia.

Indonesia is a constitutional republic consisting of 27 provinces. I found it particularly interesting to visit all the islands visited by the United States government and had in fact a federal state which they found this did not work so now they have what is commonly called a unitary government, their house of assembly is elected and the President appoints the cabinet ministers.

Canada has a trade surplus with Indonesia. We import from them rubber, tea and palm oil and our exports to Indonesia are mainly manufactured goods plus some wheat.

There is a major project under way called the Bukit Asam project which is the coal mine of a coal mine on the island of Sumatra. The coal from this mine will move by rail to the ports, then it will be barged to the island of Java where a thermal electric plant is to be built. Canadian engineering firms have won the contract for designing the coal mine, the railroad and the thermal electric plant. Certainly there are great possibilities for Canadian construction companies in Indonesia. The country will be watched very closely by China, in fact, many of the projects in Indonesia could be given as models to demonstrate our ability in the oil and gas industry, the hydro electric and thermal electric plants, industries and the railroad and pipeline industry. The group of businessmen who accompanied me saw great possibilities for Canadian expertise and because of their knowledge of the oil, gas and pipeline industries in Western Canada, can contribute a great deal to the development of that part of Asia.

Curriers are disqualified

The boys on the Holden School boys' and mixed curling teams were declared ineligible to participate in the Central Alberta School Athletic Association Zone Curling playoffs on the weekend of February 23 and 24, because they competed in the junior men's curling playoffs in Viking last month.

Consequently, the County of Beaver was represented in the mixed Zone playoffs by the Ryley team, but there were no representatives in the boys' competition.

RCMP issue warning about "NSF" cheques

RCMP have issued another warning to business to be careful when accepting personal cheques from strangers. Two local businesses accepted such cheques earlier this week, and found out there was not sufficient funds in the accounts to cover the amounts stipulated on the cheques.

It was another bad week for vandalism in the area served by the Tofteld Detachment of the RCMP. A number of windows were smashed at the Tofteld Group Church over the weekend, when someone threw a number of beer bottles.

Two persons were fined $300 on separate charges of illegal possession of liquor.

Progressive Farming

All plants require light to manufacture food and grow. Light retards stem growth, but also promotes leaf extension. For example, early lighting is necessary for development of the red and yellow markings of certain plants (such as Cocks in Crows), and for the splitting in the leaf of the split leaf Philadelphus.

Lighting and day length regulate dormancy in some plants, and the budding and blooming periods of flowering shrubs. Because plants have a tendency to bend and grow towards the light, giving plants a quarter turn each week will ensure symmetrical growth.

Each plant has its own light requirement, some requiring very bright light and being shade-tolerant. Plants can be divided into three categories: those in which they thrive in a sunny window or full sun; those plants should be kept in a sunny south window; or a spot where they will receive at least four hours of direct sun each day. (Crops, Cereals, Gramineae, etc., many succulents, most flowering plants and shrubs.)

A plant receiving too much light grows extremely compact and the leaves curl under. For some plants in the shade, too much light causes a breakdown of chlorophyll (the green photosynthetic pigment). If leaves will during the warm part of the day or yellow or brown patches develop, they are receiving too much light.

Light itself is a factor in determining a plant's other requirements. A plant receiving only dim light is con-

30 DAY SUPPLY OF 1000'S There are five houseplants which prefer shade, like some ferns, because it is suited to their natural habitat. (Philodendron, Aglaonema, Spathiphyllum, etc.)

Water requirements are much lower for a plant grown in shade than for a plant grown in full sun. To avoid overwatering them, most foliage plants can be watered less frequently. To avoid overwatering, gradually reduce the frequency of watering. Normal amounts of water plus dim light result in wet, spindly growth. Reduce the strength of your regular fertilizer to one-half, but apply it as frequently. Keep the temperature around 12 degrees C (55 degrees F) cooler. With more light the plant can tolerate warmer temperatures.

By inspecting your plants regularly you can easily detect the signs of improper lighting. You may want to experiment with artificial lighting as a light can convert any spot in your home into a suitable growing place.

HOMESTEAD CATTLE NUTRITION COURSE PARTICIPANTS

As a result of the interest generated by the Homestead Cattle Nutrition Course in this area, we have decided to hold a seminar at the Ryley Legion Hall on March 1, 1979 at 1 p.m. All those participants who wish to discuss problems or require additional information on specific issues then far, are urged to show up to the seminar. If there is a sufficient interest in such a seminar, we will hold a District Agriculturalist AmT District Agriculturalist.

In Alberta, it is important to recognize the differences in light intensity between summer and winter. African violets, which require moderate light, will scorch badly if placed in a sunny window from February to November, but they will not bloom well unless they receive full sun between November and February.

A plant receiving insufficient light appears to be stretching toward the light; the leaves become long and the internode distance becomes longer than previously. The leaves themselves are usually large and pale, but if the condition persists, new growth is small. Leaves become thin and the stems weak and watery. A plant receiving too much light grows extremely compact and the leaves curl under. For some plants in the shade, too much light causes a breakdown of chlorophyll (the green photosynthetic pigment). If leaves will during the warm part of the day or yellow or brown patches develop, they are receiving too much light.

Showdown!

The Alberta Regional Championship of motorcycle racing was on stake last Sunday on Mirror Lake, where three top riders battled for the lead as they round the final turn. Spring-like temperatures and top-colour competition drew a tremendous crowd of all ages out to witness the highly entertaining action. When it was all over, Tom Goetz returned home to Calgary as grand champion.

Recreation Report

By George Baker

Now that March is here and the sunshine is starting to "bake" us with its presence, the farmers will be looking over their equipment to see what has to be repaired and readied for the spring and summer operations.

Not only will be taking place, other thoughts will be turning to the spring and summer activities for the younger people and children.

With all these items in mind, we will have to start planning for the organizational meetings to be held later in the month of March when hockey playoffs are coming to an end, and the season is completed. Some of the meeting to look at will be: Boys' basketball, Girls' softball, Ladies' fast ball, Men's basketball and fast ball, camping, swimming, playground activities, and some other activities that may be possible for the summer could be canoeing, family arts and craft camp-out for two or three days and the whole family together, and archery.

NEW IDEAS

Yes, the citizens of the county may have some other and unique ideas or suggestions to give for something different to do? What about a county wide Bar-B-Q in one of the larger parks? Any comments?

Dance dance lessons will be starting on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., at the Community Hall, and will last for eight weeks. Registrations will take place that evening. All other programs in the county are progressing very well and are meeting the half-way mark of their time.

the Joe Knoch family.

Peachy Stauffer celebrated her birthday on Feb. 17th. She and Garry visited with Erna Stauffer and Garry's brother, Edward and Arlene Stauffer, on Saturday evening. On Sunday, they were to Peachy's mother's, Ann Aulson of Edmonton, where they also saw Peachy's sister, Margaret Stout, her husband and family. It was interesting to note that Peachy, her sister and their brother, all have

Skank Hollow Muzzle Loaders held their 4th annual "March Hare Shoot" on Sunday afternoon at the outdoor range, south of the city. The winner is the most accurate shooter using the least amount of time. The fun comes when most all shooters go tumbling because of their snow-laden sleds.

In this event, all competitors wear snowshoes. They shoot at a target from 100 yards, run fifty yards, shoot, and go back to their original place and shoot again. The winner is the most accurate shooter using the least amount of time. The fun comes when most all shooters go tumbling because of their snow-laden sleds.

BATHING YOUR HOUSE

Do you wash the leaves of your house plants?

Alberta Agriculture horticultural specialist, Chris Campbell, says it is a good idea to wash the leaves of house plants periodically, but these with hairy leaves like African violets, because many indoor plants retain the same leaves for several years.

These leaves, like everything else in the house, collect dust. In the case of plants that cut out the amount of light that can penetrate their leaves.

They also reduce the light energy they absorb. You can use various commercial products that will wash the leaves of your house plants, but they can damage the leaves and are difficult to apply uniformly.

These coatings also cut down the amount of light which can enter the leaf because the silica reflects light instead of absorbing it.

Mr. Campbell suggests washing the leaves of house plants with a warm (25 degree C.) weak non-detergent soap solution. Gently wipe the leaves with a soft cloth or sponge, and be sure to rinse the leaves, as small, you can wash them several times in the solution instead of wiping them.

The above procedure will bring out the natural lustre of the leaves.

the wax on plant leaves and increase the penetration of light into the leaves, even when the plants are in a relatively dark area of the room.

"We knocked on Opportunity's door."

An Edmonton-based company, Datak Industries Ltd. is in the micro-computer industry. They required financing to purchase several pieces of very expensive equipment for their operations.

Explained Peter Van der Zee: "Like most small companies, we did not have an awful lot of collateral. And without collateral, it was difficult to get a loan from conventional lenders. So, we talked to the Alberta Opportunity Company.

"The people at A.O.C. took a look at our needs, understood our problem and helped us buy what we needed.

"Frankly, I'm glad I took the time to see what the A.O.C. is all about."

Old tires may save pelicans

Ten thousand used tires and a friendly investing company may yet save Pelican Island and its inhabitants, the double-crested cormorant and the white pelican. The project is being undertaken by the Fish and Wildlife Division of Alberta's Recreation, Parks and Wildlife.

The tires will be used to create a breakwater around the straitening island which is home for forty percent of the province's cormorant population and a traditional nesting site for the white pelican.

Canadian freightways have been built in Calgary, where they have been stockpiled by the Canadian Department of the City of Calgary, to the project site. The island in Lake Newell, which was given sanctuary status last year, because of its sensitive inhabitants has gradually been reduced by wave action to an extent that any further erosion may jeopardize the survival of both the cormorants and pelicans.

The construction of the floating tire breakwater is the second phase of a two phase project to stabilize the island. The first phase will include re-erosion of the shoreline and rock piling to minimize wave action.

The project will cost approximately $100,000. Funding is provided by The Bank For River Turbulence, supported by Alberta Sportmen and Naturalists and by the Government Department.

Petrified forest is possible attraction

The Battle River Turbulence Association discussed the new idea of a "petrified forest" which is the last word in a meeting in Leduc, Feb. 15.

Apparently, a number of giant dead stumps of petrified trees are located south of Rosedale, along the Battle River. The association decided to find out who owns the land on which they are located, before taking the trees as an attraction.

Manager Sylvia Chomura reported to the meeting that negotiations for the Trainers' Training Course scheduled for Camrose Feb. 25, 26 and 27th had reached the maximum of 20, indicating that it would be a success.

It was announced that plans are already being made in connection with the operation of various international clinics during July and August, this year.

While no problems were anticipated at Stettler, Bashaw, Virden, Sherwood Park, Kilham or Castor, the facility at Camrose is still uncertain, and new arrangements are being worked out for operation of the Delacoe unit. It was noted that the Camrose and Wetaskiwin Chambers of Commerce have permanent facilities.

More decision were made in connection with the Annual Cavalcade, taking place May 28 and 29th. It is supposed to assemble in the Camrose Exhibition Grounds at 8:30 a.m., where a registration fee of $10 per family must be paid.

The cavalcade is limited to 50 units, so anyone interested should contact the Battle River Turbulence Association as soon as possible.

Association members approved the suggestion of finance chairman Gertrude Thorne to delay a proposed project to stockpiles for resale in drug stores, because funds are lacking.

The next meeting of the Battle River Turbulence Association will be held in Camrose for the first time on March 15th.

Tiny friends aid farmers

Most prairie farmers are not fond of insects. But some tiny bugs and insect diseases organisms could soon be considered farmers' best friends.

Agriculture Canada's Research Branch is searching the insect world for species to biologically control insect and weed pests in the West.

Biological control has many advantages over pesticides.

Large scale use of pesticides is costly and may pose a hazard to the environment. Chemicals may also kill off other beneficial insects. Many Canadian and foreign insects and organisms are mostly parasitic - now are being tested and some have been released.

These tiny control agents are being directed against pests such as grasshoppers.

mosses and thistle plants that cost farmers millions of dollars each year.

Last summer, a small parasitic wasp was released near Winnipeg to help control the crawler flea beetle on rapeseed.

Small numbers of another wasp are being tested in Ontario in southern Saskatchewan as a control for the tarnished plant bug that feeds on alfalfa seed.

Several of the more common western weevils are also the focus of control programs.

A small weevil has been introduced to take infest of with rodding blight near Regina. The weevil may become a valuable weevil against the rodding blight.

As new weevils become in some parts of western Canada the growth of leafy spurge is being controlled.

Agriculture Canada scientists are using a moth species from eastern Canada to try to control the spread of the weed in southern Alberta. A moth and a beetle from the Ukraine are also being studied as possible control agents.

The scientists are turning to even smaller fungal parasites to control the spread of the pest.

Field trials conducted at the department's Saskatoon Research Station have shown that one tiny organism, called Nosema, can help to control grasshoppers and reduce the use of pesticides during grasshopper infestations.

At the Lethbridge Research Station, the controlled use of a naturally occurring fungal parasite that kills mosquitoes is being investigated.

Though still in an early stage, the use of biological control has great potential for saving western farmers from future ravages of many agricultural pests.

Canada penalized says Mazankowski

The 1979 Canadian Wheat Board contract for 1.3 million tonnes of wheat and 900,000 tonnes of barley just signed with the Japanese Food Agency signals a warning, if not a penalty, to Canada in this period of increasing world demand for grain. It seems likely instead that Japan should be cutting back on purchases. Last year's contract amounted to 1.4 million tonnes of wheat and 900,000 tonnes of barley.

I can only conclude, says Don Mazankowski, that because of the poor delivery performance of Canada Japan is playing it safe and capitalizing on the competition and reliability of other supplying countries. After all, Japan will surely remember that for a time we cut off all shipments because of insufficient supplies in Vancouver, Japan, incidentally, is not our best customer.

If Canada is to achieve its target of 80 million tonnes of grain exports by 1985, this trend will have to be reversed and to reverse it we must restore confidence in our shipping and handling systems.

So far, the Hon. Mr. Lang has not provided that reassurance to our customers, nor has been witnessed any evidence of this through the eyes of the Japanese.

Minister says "Overall, it has been doing an excellent job."

The Ryley and District Local Recreation Board has invited representatives of all groups and clubs in the community to a meeting in the Legion Hall, at 7:30 tonight (Thursday).

The purpose of this meeting is to discuss and explore the possibilities of having all groups and clubs work together under an "umbrella" concept.

In this way, plans for future community projects could be shared and worked on by more than one group. The Recreation Board also hopes to use a committee formed which will examine future plans for development of the sports grounds.

Individual clubs in the Ryley and the surrounding areas have been invited, anyone else who is interested is welcome to attend.

Ryley plans a new major sub-division

A plan for a major sub-division in the Village of Ryley has been approved by village council.

At a recent council meeting, a sub-division consisting of a total of one hundred and fifty (150) lots was approved. The sub-division, located in the northeast part of the village, was given the go-ahead after council heard letters read from village engineers and surveyors.

A letter from Alberta Municipal Affairs informed council that the village's 1979 equalization assessment had been set at $1,115,700 and that the varied rate for provincial school foundation had been set at $23.46.

Secretary-Treasurer R.C. Howland told councillors that it would appear that none of the debentures held by the village would fall within the scope of the Municipal Debt Restructuring Program, established recently by the province.

Council agreed that a Court of Revision should be held on March 15 (Thursday) and should consist of Mayor Albrecht along with Councillors Brown, Karson and Kops.

Council agreed that the village's 1979 financial statements should be published. The Mercury after it is received from the auditors. Minutes of a regular meeting held on Feb. 12th were approved and audited accounts were approved for payment.

Initiation for this news story was obtained from the unapproved minutes of a village council meeting held on Feb. 12th.

Share and Care session is held

Seventy ladies attended the Monday "Share and Care" gathering at the meeting room of the Tofield Community Centre.

Decorations on the walls and tea tables featured the colors and motifs associated with St. Patrick's Day. The ladies enjoyed the social hour and the refreshments.

Maria Frieda Reghr welcomed the guests and introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Constance Anthony of Sherwood Park, who accompanied by Mrs. Ken Rempel of Tofield, sang "Every Time I Feel the Spirit".

Mrs. Reghr then introduced Jerry Wender of Tofield and Country Decorating, Tofield, whose expertise in decorating was then shared with the audience. Mr. Wender has had sixteen years experience in the carpenter world and has been a member of the Tofield Carpenters' Guild.

Mr. Wender said that a quality last opinion to the square yard is not yet a universal standard and cautioned the ladies not to be deceived by any one's classification as there are several ways of computing the quality of the carpet.

Questioned about the carpet of carpet, Mr. Wender recommended carpet vanishing with a soap-proof cleaner, and steam cleaning by a commercial firm with knowledgeable operators such as Country Carpets in Tofield.

Mr. Wender was heartily applauded by the audience for his comprehensive presentation. He also answered questions about the carpet of carpet.

After the presentation, Mrs. Anne Neufeld was the winner of the door prize, small mugs.

Mrs. Reghr then welcomed to Tofield her friend, Mrs. Marilyn Schender whose husband, together with his wife, has been a member of the Tofield Carpenters' Guild.

Grain exports hinge on seven labour contracts

... reports Mazankowski

Report from Parliament Hill by Don Mazankowski, M.P.

There are to have been seven separate labour contracts involving the grain handling and transportation sector which have to be negotiated this year. The success or failure of these negotiations could well determine the extent of our grain export sales this year and, more importantly, our reputation as a reliable shipper of grain to other countries. These seven grain handling and transportation contracts are represented by the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, the Canadian National Railway, the Canadian Transport Workers Union, the Canadian Maritime Union, the Canadian Grain Elevator and Warehousemen's Union, the Canadian Grain Producers' Association, and the Canadian Grain Growers' Association.

Seven of seven action, mass confrontation break down. Other groups with contracts to be negotiated include the following: West Coast grain handlers represented by the Grain Raisers' Union; grain elevator workers at Thunder Bay; government grain inspectors at Thunder Bay; Great Lakes workers represented by the Canadian National Transportation Union; Seaway workers who operate and maintain the locks on the St. Lawrence Seaway; and the workers represented by the International Union of Marine and Inland Workers.

European agriculture tour

A three-week European tour, sponsored by the Canadian Grain Producers' Association, will leave Vancouver and return to Regina on August 8.

Home insulation saves heat cost

With the recent escalation of energy costs, the Home Safety Committee of the Alberta Society of Home Inspectors (ASHI) advises that it may be increasingly advantageous for a homeowner to consider retreating a residence which has been built in existence for some time. However, in doing so, it is important to remember that, although major savings can be achieved through retreating, there may also be unexpected and possibly disastrous side effects. Some types of insulation may be highly flammable, and others, under certain conditions, could give off irritating fumes.

In all cases, it is important to remember that flammable and freon-type gases from air intake in order to prevent the drawing of dangerous fumes into the living space. Therefore, air leakages should be carefully inspected before blocking to ensure that they are not a part of this intake system. Years ago, we assumed that the best measure of insulation was thickness. Times and products have changed. This rule-of-thumb is no longer reliable. Insulation is now manufactured with and by its thermal "resistance value" (called the "R" value) - a precise measurement of the insulation's resistance to heat transfer. The higher the resistance value, the less heat will escape through the insulating material. One brand of insulation may be thicker or thinner than another, but if they both show the same R-value, they will perform equally well. The R-value is stamped in large letters on the cover of most packaged insulation. If it isn't, check with your dealer who should know the value, or else check the product literature. Alberta residents might avoid the following levels at their minimum target. Higher R-values are certainly encouraged with the upper limit really determined by the physical characteristics of the home, by financial constraints and by the severity of winter in your area. Energy Mines and Resources Canada has recommended the following R-values of insulation for existing buildings, after upgrading:

Cathedral ceiling - 20, all other ceilings - 10, basement walls (less than 50 percent above ground) - 10, basement walls (more than 50 percent above ground) - 13.

Floors over unheated garage, crawlspace, etc. - 30.
Before placing insulation, homeowners should ensure that the insulation being considered is approved by the National Building Code of Canada and the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Even C.M.H.C. approval does not ensure that the material is fireproof. Wherever possible, the consumer should verify this fact with the Fire Prevention Branch, Building Standards Branch or the Local Building Inspector before buying. Installation of the insulation is critical in order to achieve the desired insulating characteristics while guaranteeing the safety of the residents. Only reliable contractors should be employed. Such agencies as the Better Business Bureau may be consulted to ensure the reliability of the contractor. In arranging to retreating your home, the following checklist is recommended:

1. Insulating material such as cellulose fibre, which is blown into place, should not be packed tightly - ground gas vents, chimneys, fan motors or wiring, as heat build-up may result in damage to mechanical units.
2. Do not place new insulation over wood shavings which have, in the past, been used for insulation. Shavings must first be removed.
3. Ensure that vapor barriers are properly installed so that moisture conditions do not result within insulation. Moisture in insulation may result in a leaching out of very retardant chemicals.
4. Ensure that adequate ventilation is provided to attic spaces.
5. A label should be installed by the applicator in accessible insulation spaces indicating the type of material used, the date of application and the name of the contractor.

"IF YOU THINK THE ENERGY CRISIS BROUGHT OUT ALL THE KOOKS, YOU SHOULD SEE WHAT INFLATION IS DOING!"

Cyclone carburetor

Some three and a half years ago, our files reveal, we received notice of a new fuel saving cyclone carburetor, which interested us particularly because of the invention of an Edmonton man Edmund Ryll. Improving both intake fuel evaporation and fuel air mix at the same time that it preheats the mixture for combustion, the invention works on the principle of a spiral cyclone for its super effect.

From time to time the world hears of such inventions, only to lose track of them again when they quietly disappear from sight.

Part of the concept of various members of this group may be being worked into related carburetors as the auto industry gears to meet government standards of increased mileage performance, but most of the target seems to be being met by designing smaller, and lighter vehicles, rather than by improving engine performance.

Surely the pressures of the energy situation, the public interest, and the need for the highest return from any variety of energy, at the lowest possible cost, demand that more attention be paid to inventions such as Mr. Ryll's, or the famous Pogue carburetor out of Winnipeg some forty years ago, or many of the others. If performance can be improved by even a tenth of one percent, it could be worth millions of dollars to the country over a few years. Even more important, it could save millions of barrels of oil.

Consumers need to know their interests are not being sacrificed to the interests of the international oil cartel, especially when it was shown just days ago how much interest has been in safeguarding agreements with Canada when international markets are involved.

Cat's paw?

For some time we've been intrigued with a remark by a certain James A. Froude which was reprinted in the Wheat Pool's Budget a few months ago, to the effect that "wild animals never kill for sport. Man is the only creature whose torture and death of his fellow creatures is amusing in itself."

We have no idea who Mr. Froude is, and we've agreed the indictment against the human race may well be earned.

Maybe our observations of animals could stand some polishing.

Peter Ward's Ottawa Viewpoint

Canadian Comment

OTTAWA (C) — These days if you have a few bucks set aside for rainy day you had better keep as sharp an eye on the going interest rates as any high-powered financial analyst. It will be losing money.

For the past few years it's been tough to get money at interest on money not made to match the rate of inflation in other words, unless you're a whiz at investment, your savings have been decreasing in buying power.

The rapid rise in interest rates we've seen during the past six months have forced ordinary citizens making long-term financial assessments of what their money can earn, and switching investment plans.

We may need higher interest rates than the U.S. to keep our dollar from disappearing on the international money markets, but it sure is providing for the bank government and citizens.

There's plenty of mortgage money around, but it's not available at interest rates that are so high that housing construction is discouraged. Miss Marmont's mortgage company has a 10 per cent charge or Mastercharge and it multiplies the amount owing.

The government had to boost the interest rate on the new Savings Bonds which went on sale last fall three times, and now that the lowest rates commercially have gone even higher, people in their 30s and 40s are taking it as a sign that the government is serious about the money situation.

The situation has been improving since the merger situation began.

Too many older policies have provisions which allow policyholders to borrow at six per cent and revalue the money for the better interest rate.

But no matter how you twist and turn, you'll still find buying power, because even though you have to pay interest tax on that interest you earn, trying to keep your money even with inflation.

The only possible conclusion is that government borrowing is the worsted about inflation. The only way the debt can be paid is if inflation keeps booming along, reducing the value of not only what we save, but what we owe.

There must be a message there somewhere.

Rodeo plans being set

Plans are rapidly being finalized for the Camrose Rodeo's annual Rodeo Queen contest. This year's rodeo will be held on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 6, 7 and 8, in the Recreation Centre.

Rodeo queens are ready to move into the Recreation Centre as soon as it closes down (today) and skating for the season, to prepare the arena for this year's big rodeo event.

Chairman of this year's rodeo committee is Ron Poole whose assistants are Ray Johnson and Lee Anderson.

As in past years, one of the major attractions will be the contest's annual Rodeo Queen contest, with nine girls seeking the crown.

All candidates (and their mothers) are attending a luncheon in their honor tonight (Wednesday) in the Horseshoe Motel or where a panel of judges will rate them on personality and poise. Tonight's luncheon is sponsored by the Klondike, who are also acting as judges.

During the rodeo itself, all nine candidates will have two appearances (Friday and Saturday nights) to be judged on their riding ability.

The new 1979 Rodeo Queen will be crowned on the Saturday night.

The nine candidates in this year's contest are: Resalee O'Connell of Weyburn, representing the Pipe Stone #1 Light Horse Club; Cindy Isaac of Edmore who is representing the Camrose Agricultural Society; Colleen Randall of Viking will be representing the Viking #1 Light Horse Club; Leanne Jurgens of Hastings Lake is representing the Hastings Lake Pony Club; Deb Eidey of Sedgewick will be representing the Morris #1 Light Horse Club; Joan Unger of New Sarepta is a candidate for the New Sarepta Gymkhana Club; Shelly Nien of Loughlin is representing the Loughlin Riders Club; Sue Bauer of Ponoka will be representing the Neudome Riders Club; Sandra Wengel of New Lake is the candidate for the New Lake Gymkhana Club.

Every year Japan produces about 100 million metric tons of steel. However, there is a surplus of 30 million tons of iron ore slag. Some of the by-product is used to make concrete or road surfacing. Now, through research and modern technology, the slag can be transformed into decorative rocks and gems.

Today, the slag is mixed with chemicals like soda ash and sea sand that will change its dull gray color. Next, the slag and coloring agents are fused together in a kiln, where the temperature is raised to 1600 degrees Celsius. What comes out of the kiln is an entirely new chemical formed by the fusion. It is poured into moulds that give it the size and shape needed for the manufacture of jewelry. Solidification takes about 30 hours. During this process, the product must be released at times, to strengthen its durability in appearance it can be made to resemble opal, turquoise or other gemstones, depending on the coloring agent used. The ugly slag now has become a medium for artists and craftsmen who will shape it into costume jewelry, or other decorative objects.

Bruce district news

By Ben Fredericks
Dean and Ken Stambaugh, who were the lucky winners of a free trip to Las Vegas, recently returned from their holiday and reported a most enjoyable time. While in Las Vegas, they made a trip to the Hoover Dam and Disneyland.

The Bruce Senior Citizens held their regular monthly meeting on March 13. President Tom Dwyer, reported that a quilt will be raffled and the draw will be made in April. The seniors will also be attending a dance at Kinsella. At the wheel drive held on March 14, prizes went to high scores, Margaret Christensen and Hamnermaster, while the consolation prizes were won by Lillian Siegel and Dan Taylor.

Although they weren't associated with any league, players on the Holden twelve years old under hockey team enjoyed a good season winning two exhibition seasons and learning the fundamentals of the game. The team is holding a bottle drive on Saturday with funds going towards a wind-up

Until recently, Canada was free of bluetongue, a virus disease of ruminants. This country's first outbreak occurred in a ranch area in Southern British Columbia that is now under quarantine. A cattle, sheep and goats there are being tested for the disease and infected animals slaughtered.

Agriculture Canada's Health of Animals branch veterinarians are confident that the bluetongue outbreak can be contained and the disease eliminated from Canada. They have found no infections in other Canadian cattle and are continuing tests of animals in areas along the British Columbia to Ontario border.

Restoring Canada's bluetongue-free status is important to Canadian cattlemen. Sheep exports to Australia and Great Britain and cattle exports to Britain have been cut off by these countries because of the presence of bluetongue in B.C. Bluetongue is a foreign virus disease of ruminants, usually more serious in sheep. Depending on the virus strain, sheep losses may be 50 to 100 per cent. Survivors lose their wool and ewes often become sterile.

Cattle don't appear to be seriously affected by the disease.

Bluetongue is spread by biting flies. In Canada by a species of midges. The midges feed on the blood of an infected animal and transmit the virus by biting a healthy animal. Because of its dependence on midges, the disease usually dies out during the winter in the northern United States and Canada. In the southern United States, the disease lingers all year creating a pool of infection from which bluetongue spreads out to spring.

Agriculture Canada has sent a team of virologists to British Columbia to study the bluetongue situation.

Cattlemen have expressed fears that bluetongue could linger in the wildlife population, making it a continuous source of infection.

The disease kills deer severely, killing most infected animals. Because most infected wild animals die, the survivors don't carry the virus, reintroducing the disease into the wildlife will not be a threat if the disease is eradicated in cattle.

Through the cooperation of British Columbia wildlife officials, the wildlife population is being sampled.

While spread has been the only number commercially exported to any extent in the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

Battle Island National Park, created in 1972, is Canada's first national park along the Arctic Circle.

Rare whooping cranes

Fort Smith, N.W.T. (CP) - A new program has created a second breeding ground for whooping cranes and dramatically increased the birth rate of these rare birds. Last year only two chicks were born at the traditional breeding grounds near this community 450 miles south of Edmonton.

This year, according to Brian Kert, a biologist with the Canadian Wildlife Service, eight chicks developed to the flying stage at Fort Smith and an additional six at the new stage at the new breeding grounds at Gray's Lake, Manitoba.

Last fall, a team of CWS biologists removed eggs from 14 nests and flew them to Gray's Lake, where they were placed in a nest and an additional six at the new stage at the new breeding grounds at Gray's Lake, Manitoba.

The eggs all hatched normally and the sandpipers raised the whoopers as if they were their own chicks. Mr. Kert said.

Six of the chicks were killed by weather and predators, and the remainder migrated to the southern United States with the sandpipers.

"This way we can avoid losing all our birds in one fall except to some natural disaster," he explained.

Whooping cranes normally lay two eggs, and since 1969 the CWS has been returning one egg from each nest and transporting them to a U.S. breeding centre in Pennsylvania. The birds hatched in captivity, but within the year they, failed to breed, Mr. Kert said.

Mr. Kert said the new program has worked out very well and the CWS plans to repeat the procedure next year.

"We are looking for a very good breeding year and believe with other government agencies."

Get to know it. You could save a life.

Carbon monoxide strikes quickly. Because you can't see, feel or smell it. But it can kill you or members of your family. Learning about carbon monoxide poisoning is the best way of fighting it.

Know the Symptoms

If you or members of your household develop these symptoms, get into the fresh air and notify your gas company immediately. Watch for:

- dizziness across the forehead and in the temples
- loss of muscular control
- watering and stinging of the eyes
- weakness, weariness, dizziness

Know About Prevention

Carbon monoxide gas may be formed through faulty combustion in your gas appliances. You can prevent its formation by following these steps:

- use only approved gas appliances
- have qualified experts install gas appliances
- give gas appliances an abundant air supply
- keep gas appliances in good condition

- report excessive rusting and carbon on your water heater to the gas company
- report escaping flames to the gas company
- keep the furnace fan compartment door closed and secure at all times
- clean furnace filters before the heating season begins and then as required
- report irregular flame patterns to the gas company

For more information on carbon monoxide poisoning and other household dangers, visit your nearest gas company office and pick up a copy of our free pamphlet "Take Time For Home Heating Safety" and "Home Safe Home."

In a free press fair hearings for all

There is something disturbing about a growing attitude among politicians and public figures that federalism is just a holy crusade that only one side should be promoted by the media. Liberal politicians have used the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission to try and bring the CBC to heel, firmly convinced that only the impartial viewpoint is being heard in Radio Canada. The recent CBC inquiry found no such thing, though there did appear to be an emphasis on reporting that favored the separatist cause.

Now Harry Boyle, who has been the critic of the CBC, who that inquiry was held, has warned that the media should not refer to the crisis as the official opposition.

Nothing could be plainer - freedom of speech, as applied to the broadcast industry, is a myth.

Mr. Boyle believes that the current political situation in Quebec is too serious to be treated as just another federal-provincial argument. That is quite true and newspapers are doing everything in their power to make their readers aware of the crisis of dismemberment that faces Canada.

But Mr. Boyle's structure that the media must overcome "a virus of detachment" raises the obvious inference: whatever type of lack of impartiality is being exhibited by the media is being exhibited in a free press, which clings to the belief that all sides in every debate must be given a fair hearing.

The Journal believes in the widest possible spectrum of opinion being presented in any question. For that reason, it has been running a column twice a month from Mr. Evelyn Dumas, an avowed separatist and the editor of Le Jour, a weekly newspaper wholly supportive of the separatist cause. The Journal has balanced that off against a column by George Spivack, an article editor for the Montreal Alouettes and a Liberal member of the Quebec National Assembly, who appears to be one of the most of the best voices representing the Quebec Anglo community's view on federalism.

It goes without saying that Canada is totally committed to the continuance of Canada as a nation from sea to sea, though not necessarily entirely in its present form. The Journal believes that Quebec belongs within Canada and Quebec's attachment to the state is an emotional rather than a logical aspiration.

The Journal holds fast to the expressed clarity by Premier Lougheed on behalf of the five western provinces that there should be no thought of an economic separation between Canada and a separated Quebec that would give Quebec all the benefits of Confederation without actual membership. That view must be reiterated constantly and firmly, because Premier Levesque tried to diminish it lightly when he appeared in Calgary a few days ago. Mr. Levesque says that would give Quebec all the benefits of Confederation without actual membership.

Neither do Mr. Levesque's media architects nor the separatist strategist - Mr. Morin and Mr. Parizeau. Their attitude seems to be that the rest of Canada may feel disgraced for a while, an economic association will eventually be arrived at and Canada has had time to cool off. Indeed, Mr. Levesque said that Quebec was more viable without Canada. He added that he was speaking in the "empire" of the mind and that it is easy to follow Quebec's strategy here - since the Parti Quebecois came to power 18 months ago. Quebec has been a fervent champion of Alberta's desire to attain world prices for her oil and gas.

The reason is obvious: if Quebec had to pay a referendum on separation with domestic oil and gas prices that were higher than the world prices, this would be a logical economic inducement for Quebec to reject separation. But if Alberta's oil and gas prices were at least equal to the world prices when referendums are held, then Mr. Levesque will tell his people that there is no point in staying in Canada because there will be no saving for the economy in this one vital area at all.

It is a cute strategy, though obviously there is an element of self-inflicting wounds attached to it. But anything goes when you are an extremist. It may be reassuring to some and to some to have Premier Levesque tell us Quebec is not hostile to Canada, "not even if it goes back to the Plains of Abraham." However, the fact remains that Quebec talks of independence as though she is a vassal state.

The word oppression is used in the free press of emotional Canada as though living in Canada can be equated with oppression. There is a difference between the freedom sought to escape the destroyed lives based on a conqueror and the uneven pressure between two founding peoples that has some reasonable balance between the two. It is not a matter of adjusting in the springs of the scales of history.

Be all that as it may, The Journal will continue to speak out in favor of federalism but it has no intention of pretending to be neutral. It will continue to speak along with Jean-Luc Pepin, co-chairman of the task force on national unity, that Canada will survive if it simply acts as if there were no disunion. We have no desire to lower the wattle of Mr. Pepin's beating heart, but there are differences between Quebec and the rest of Canada and they must be discussed from all points of the compass.

The preservation of the unity of Canada will not be achieved by turning the media into the lap dog of politicians or propaganda agents of unity. Just Gombosi used that for somewhat different reasons in Nazi Germany. His motives may have been less noble, but the purpose was the same.

As Charles B. Seib, Washington Post columnist, said recently: "A press that is itself used by the government, however patriotic that may seem at the moment, is not a free press. It is a captive press to the extent it is used, and to that extent it is incompatible with the notion of a free society."

A newspaper is an organ of information and opinion and not an echoing chamber for propaganda.

This is the fourth in a series of articles by John Litvack on the Totfield Minnesota Church. We can too long have sheltered ourselves within our comfortable homes, disregarding the plights of religious wars, the alcoholic, the drug user, the pregnant teenager. We have looked at the problems and, with calico hearts, have said, "Social Service should do it for them."

But such was not the view of Jesus who, in Matthew 23:27, stated that Heaven is prepared for those who personally respond to the needs. He said, "For I was hungry and you gave me nothing to eat. I was cold and you clothed me. I was sick and you looked after me. I was in prison and you came to visit me. I will tell you: Whenever you did for one of the least of these my brothers of mine, you did it for me."

Now where does that leave us? It leaves us with the rubber hits the road? Remembering that it is we who are the grime of God, we could be one of the alcoholics or drug users or people in need of a couple of dollars to help support our malignant habits. We need to think seriously about, and apply, the words of Jesus before helping the unfortunate.

The gospel of Jesus Christ needs once again to become exemplified in our lives if we are to be Christians. We must have much more than a Sunday-go-to-meeting type of religion. We must have a faith which presents visible solutions to the needs in our area.

"Faith without works is dead" is another maxim we should heed. The gospel has to take on arms and legs - ours. We must learn to put our money where our mouths are. Pious talk is cheap, but there are hurts that cannot be healed without personal contact with the victim. Two often we are willing to do what hurts only at a distance forgetting that even a band-aid must come to close quarters with his opponent to be effective.

If you eat seaweed from the sea, you are eating seaweed - RIGHT? Wrong. You could be from the Chinese, serving a delicious delicacy as a side-dish. In Korea, social workers are accompanying villagers to homes and soil local workers. With the aid of know-how a Korean villager can earn up to $800 a year. (See Haskett, page 46 of the March 22, 1979 issue of the Totfield Express, page 46.)

Round Hill news

Evlyn Law
 Mar. 19
 The regular meeting of the Round Hill Catholic Women's League was held on March 19th at the home of Mrs. John Tomaszewski in Camrose. All members of committees gave interesting reports, and discussion was general on several topics of a cultural and spiritual nature.

Sister Anna Maria brought greetings from their clergy and utilized several programs to be initiated in the near future. The hottest gift was won by Mrs. Walter Pius. Elections committee named was Mrs. Lloyd Wask, Mrs. Stan Petka, and Mrs. May Koshare. Elections will be held at their April meeting.

Celebrate their 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Algot Eliason of Camrose recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. They originally formed in the Bow area before moving to Armory and then, in 1968, they moved from farming and moved to Camrose.

Uniform welcome increase in initial wheat price

Uniform president Howard Falkenberg said recently that he is pleased that requests of Uniform and other western farm organizations have been recognized by the federal government in its decision to increase by 50 cents per bushel the initial price for wheat delivered in the crop year that began August 1st, 1979.

The request for an increase originated at the Western Agricultural Conference in Regina where it received the support of Uniform and other western farm organizations. The resolution was also carried forward at the annual meeting of the Agricultural Federation of Agriculture.

The increase in farmers is justified, Mr. Falkenberg said, in view of the current market price for wheat which is up about $3.30 per bushel over last year's price.

Alberta farmers, who are now making spring seedling plans, will welcome the 50-cent per bushel increase that will help to offset constantly rising production costs, he said. The increase brings the initial price to $3.30 per bushel for No. 1 CW Red Spring. Farmers, who have already delivered about 250 million bushels, should receive their Canadian Wheat Board cheques during April.

Camrose Fair gains A status

Effective April 1st, the Camrose Exhibition, sponsored by the Camrose Agricultural Society, will be elevated to Class A status under the exhibition grants regulation, reported J. H. Secretary manager of the Camrose Agricultural Society, Jerry Ash said Mr. Cameron extended his best wishes for success in the new category.

The move follows a similar notification by provincial minister of agriculture, Jim Martin Moore, last fall, although Mr. Moore pointed out the recognition was contingent on final authority of Ottawa.

Miller wins national crown 'Spels planned

A curling team from Stronze won a national championship Saturday.

Miller skipped his rink in the national Edna Lodge curling championship during a four-day playoff bonspiel which was held in Kenora, Ontario.

Miller's rink did it the hard way when they edged Saskatchewan 4-1 in the final. Miller had to score a point in the tenth and final end to earn a tie and force extra ends. Despite not having the hammer in the extra end, Miller stole a point and won the game and the Canadian championship.

Joining Miller on the national championship team are Don Hayes (third), Jim Miller (second) and Ben Thorpe (lead).

In addition to winning the championship, Miller earned an extra award when he was named as the All-Star Skip.

The Stronze quartet edged Manitoba 4-1 in the semi-finals while Saskatchewan was getting by the Northwest Territories 4-1.

All teams entered in the national playoff competed in a round-robin series with the top four teams advancing to a playoff for the Canadian crown.

Miller lost his first game 7-4 to Saskatchewan but then went on to win the six straight games to end with a 6-1 record and a tie for last place with Saskatchewan with the latter getting the nod because of the win in their first meeting.

Miller edged Manitoba 6-5 in an extra end, edged Ontario 7-1, whitewashed Quebec 11-2, stopped Northwest Territories 7-4, and edged British Columbia 7-4 and ended by stopping the Maritimes 7-2.

This was the second straight year that Miller's rink had represented Alberta in the national playdowns. In last winter's playoff, Miller ended with a 4-2 record, finishing in fourth place.

Miller won his second straight Alberta championship when he went undefeated in three straight games at different venues in provincial playdowns.

The team won the District championship during a playoff in Killam, then won the Manitoba Alberta title at a bonspiel in Drayton Valley.

Then, they won their second straight Alberta crown during a playoff in Westlock.

Next year's Canadian championships will be staged in British Columbia.

Industrial sub-division is proposed for Tofield

The Town of Tofield may be getting a new industrial subdivision. At a recent regular town council meeting, councillors approved, in principle, a request for such a development within the town limits.

Making the proposal to develop an industrial subdivision south of the railway and west of 51 Street, were town councillors, Don Halden and representatives of Tofield's Consulting Ltd.

These readings were given to a by-law which authorized an agreement with Alberta Environment for sewage treatment facilities. Council accepted the resignation of David Moddle as the town's representative on the County School Committee, with the resignation becoming effective on April 30.

While accepting the resignation, council moved to hold a nomination day on March 30 (see separate story). Council heard a nomination from some citizens to have a meeting early in the morning, after receiving a letter from the town.

Mr. Moddle had stated he would retain the position until the end of April. When nomination day was held on Monday, no nominations were received.

At the start of the meeting, a public hearing was held on the proposed rezoning of Lots 21-24, Block 3, Plan 20065 with no objections being received.

Information for this news story was obtained from the unapproved minutes of a town council meeting held on March 12th.

Councillors agreed that the Beaver Foundation request for a rezoning of $9,531.63 be paid.

Accounts amounting to $70,157.79 were approved for payment and other routine business matters were handled.

Minutes of a Feb. 28th meeting were approved.

About 112 pairs of Tofield spray valued at $7,700, was stolen recently and RCMP are asking the public to make them aware if anyone tries to sell any quantities of this spray.

A quantity of money, candy, and cigarettes were taken when thieves broke into the Tofield Post Hall. Four young adults have been charged in connection with this occurrence.

RCMP are asking the assistance of residents of all three counties in helping to identify the drivers of stolen vehicles, by obtaining license plate numbers.

Police are concerned that, unless these drivers are controlled now, even killed, by their actions.

Andrew finished the regular schedule in third place with a 10-11-3 record. Ryley was fourth with a 13-11-3 mark.

Edmonton tests grading of hogs

Canada's hog grading system is undergoing a thorough study by Agriculture Canada's livestock division. A team of department officials and support staff is analyzing about 1,500 selected hog carcasses at three meat packing centers - Richmond, Montreal, and Edmonton.

The study, which is being done in co-operation with the Canadian Pork Council and the Meat Packers Council of Canada, will find exactly how much lean meat and fat exist on all kinds of market hogs.

A similar wide-ranging study of hogs 11 years ago was the basis for Canada's current hog grading under Canadian pork producers since then have improved the breeding of hogs to produce more lean meat. The study now underway will provide an accurate gauge of how hogs have changed since 1967.

Frozen embryo transplants

A calf born at Macdonald College, near Montreal, Quebec, is an example of what can be achieved with the frozen embryo technique. As an embryo, it was kept at -196 degrees C. for 30 days.

First used in Cambridge, England, on mice, the technique is a further development of the embryo transfer technique in which fertilized eggs are removed from a donor cow and transplanted into later-mother cows. The latter technique was developed to increase the offspring of high-quality cows to many times their normal numbers.

Dr. R. D. Baker, technical director of Add Croft Farms, a company in Mississauga, Ontario, which has developed a program for exporting frozen embryos, says the frozen embryo technique is a valuable tool for major cattle exporting countries. This is mainly because of the high costs involved in shipping live cattle. Frozen embryos can be shipped to another country, sent implanted into a cow, and give birth to calves that have been too expensive to ship by air or sea.

The director of Alberta Agriculture's veterinary services division, Dr. R.N. Van der Horst, says that the frozen embryo technique is exciting from a technological point of view, but he points out that ship and should produce animals with better resistance to local diseases. This is because a frozen embryo has its total genetic formula established before it is trans-

Remember local Scoutmaster copies dad's famous mercy flight

Well known in the Wild West Boy Scout District several years ago when he worked here as a field director for the scout organization, Denby May is one of three pilots who will re-enact the famous mercy flight of his father, Vic May, who half a century ago delivered badly needed medical supplies to Fort Vermilion, flying an open cockpit plane in 35 degree below zero weather.

Chosen for the re-enactment of the flight, which will follow exactly the path of the original, will be June 25 the 75th anniversary of Vic May's death. The summer date of the commemorative event only to highlight the daring and bravery of Mr. May, and his partner, Vic Harner, making such a dangerous flight in an open plane in weather that was all Fahrenheit degrees below freezing.

The Commemorative Flight will employ a 40-year-old Ford Pacer, an open cockpit biplane powered by a 180 hp Continental five cylinder engine. The plane will be piloted by Denby May and Vic Harner at the controls.

The Commemorative Flight was planned by Mr. May, then Scoutmaster of the Edmonton Flying Club, and owner of the airplane and River Lake Station, Executive Vice-President of the Association of Manufacturers and Plastics Industries. The purpose of the 50th anniversary Commemorative Flight is twofold. First, by the participation in it, the participants are helping to bring life into the North. With the network of commercial airways, rapid advances in airplanes and communications networks, radio and radar, it is hard in 1979 to imagine how primitive conditions were only 50 years ago. Secondly, the Commemorative Flight will assist LAMP in its present military in northern Alberta. Just as people and planes brought life into the north fifty years ago, so LAMP uses people and planes to enhance physical, social, and spiritual life in the North today.

LAMP will invite the support of 1,000 people to sponsor the flight with a gift of $10 to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the original mercy flight. These gifts will be used in northern Alberta where one of six LAMP post-offices is based in High Level.

A special moment will be prepared for each sponsor of the flight. A commemorative envelope will be carried on the flight for each sponsor and mailed at Ft. Vermilion. The Commemorative covers will follow the tradition of early air mail covers. They will portray the flight with a rubber stamped picture and bear the signatures of the three pilots making the flight. Postage will include the 50-cent Canada postage stamp. The covers will also bear a special message of people around the world on Sunday after May and Vic Harner, who arrived back in Peace River. The surface temperature there was -33 degrees F. that day.

The low-grade fuel obtained at Ft. Vermilion had no lead, the plane that Saturday was spent preparing the Avro Arrow for the flight back to Edmonton. While in Peace River, Wop heard the voice of his wife speaking by phone from Calgary to CITA in Edmonton. She told him to hurry back for Wop to hear. He replied by telegram.

Edmonton was ready for the brave men when they returned. The plane was met by a crowd of people around the plane on Sunday afternoon when about 3 p.m. Later at an official reception the men were presented with gold watches as gifts for their bravery. Their flight had been successful. No additional deaths resulted from diphtheria at Little Red River or Ft. Vermilion.

May 1928. The 300 mile trip on the Peace River had taken 14 days for the plane and its drivers to complete. The death of Hudson's Bay manager Albert Legard and Harold Hazzman of Ft. Vermilion to need for diphtheria medicine. The lives of 250 Indian people at Little Red River and the people at Ft. Vermilion were in jeopardy.

No sooner had Dr. Bow, chief medical officer for the Province of Alberta, received the news when he contacted "Wop" May in Calgary to ask him to make the flight to Ft. Vermilion. Any other available means of transportation would have been far too slow - and too late for the people at Little Red River. Had the news reached Edmonton two days earlier, the big Western Canadian Airways Pacer would have been available. But now the only plane available was the open cockpit Avro Arrow owned by Commercial Airways. It was prepared for the 800 mile flight to Ft. Vermilion by Wop May and Vic Harner at the controls.

On Wednesday, June 25, 1928, Dr. Bow departed from Edmonton in an anti-airplane strapped in a basket to the rear of the plane. The rescue package was kept from the public. Wop May and Vic Harner left the plane at 11:45 a.m. Following the route of the original flight, they flew at 1,400 ft. (460 m) and 75 mph. The two men decided to stop at Maclean Junction, overnight and landed safely in flying light at 3:30 p.m.

At 4:30 a.m. on Thursday, June 26, the two men left Maclean Junction for the 300 mile flight to Ft. Vermilion. Again at Maclean Junction the log book was signed - landing at 10:30 a.m. A brief refueling stop was made on the frozen river at Peace River. After the departure from Peace River, only their safe return would bring the news of success or failure.

FRATERS ANSWERED
The people of Edmonton waited. Some many others across Canada joined their vigils. The Winnipeg-based Pacer was prepared as a backup if the news came from Peace River by Monday, June 25.

Already on Friday, June 24, the day after their safe arrival in Ft. Vermilion, Wop May and Vic Harner had arrived back in Peace River. The surface temperature there was -33 degrees F. that day.

On board the flight - instead of precious cargo - will be a special cover with a photo of the plane. Your name on one of the covers will go into the LAMP's mercy flight in northern Alberta and across northern Canada. The Commemorative Flight has the mercy flight has a purpose: to help the people in the north to enhance physical, social, and spiritual life in the North today.

Calgary loses cowboys but, Camrose gets them

Calgary's loss is Camrose's gain. A dispute over a contract in keeping professional cowboys from competing in rodeos in Calgary. The result is that the Stampede City is losing annual teams to fill the void this year.

Camrose is going to gain, because more than the usual number of top-flight professionals will be coming to Calgary for the Klamm's eighth (8th) annual rodeo.

The Klamm's three-day rodeo will be held in the Recreation Centre on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 6, 7 and 8.

The Friday and Saturday rodeo will start at eight o'clock while Sunday's performance gets underway at two o'clock.

Tickets for all three rodeos are available at Elbert Country and Western Store and Deane Western Shop.

Prior to the start of Friday and Saturday's performances, contestants in the Rodeo Queen competition will be judged on their riding ability with the new Queen being crowned on Saturday night.

Crowning the new queen will be Miss 1978 Klamm: Bonnie Jones, Angela Doodly of Sedgewick.

The nine queen candidates attended a tea in the Norman's Motor Inn last Wednesday night with Klamm's acting as both business and judge, in checking the girls as police and personality.

For the third successive year, Ron Parks is the rodeo chairman. His assistants are Ray Anderson and Lee Anderson.

In conjunction with the annual Klamm's will host their annual Winchester in the Drill Hall on both Friday and Saturday nights.

Wayne Volk of Pineda will again be supplying the stock for the different rodeo events which include calf roping, steer wrestling, barrel racing, riding, saddle horse, riding, brahma, bull riding, and amateur saddle horse riding.

Two novelty events will be returning from previous years. They include boys' steer riding and ladies' barrel racing.

A novelty event for service clubs has been changed. This year's event will be steer roping and deer hunting.

Attendance and interest in the Klamm's rodeo is growing each year. The event started out as a two-day affair, and was increased to three days in 1978.

Some of the top Klamm's cowboys will be competing in this year's rodeo will include Jimmy Gladstone, Mel Coleman, Dale Trivette and Jerry Thompson.

The winner of some of the top cowboys from the United States who will be coming to Camrose won't be known until week.

This year's rodeo will mark the return of one of the top cowboys in the person of Kelly La Costa, Mr. La Costa, who has performed in Camrose in the past, has been out of action for sixteen months due to an injury he had received in his capacity as a rodeo clown.

All proceeds from the rodeo and the Winchester will be used for Klamm's community projects.

The nine Rodeo Queen candidates are: Sandra Weigel, Hay Loken, Jean Unger, New Sarepta, Colleen Kusich, Viking, Rosalie O'Connor.

Wetaskiwin: Shelly Moss, Louheed; Lori Jurgens, Hastings Lake; Cindy Isaac, Edberg; Deb Elder, Sedgewick; and Sue Bauer, Ponoka.

THE MYTH OF NORTH AMERICA AS THE WORLD'S BREADBASKET

Over and over again we hear that North America is the world's last remaining breadbasket. Food security is invariably measured in terms of reserves held by a few industrialized countries. We are made to feel the burden of feeding the world is squarely on us.

However, food distribution is but a reflection of the control of resources that produce food. Who controls the land determines who can grow food, what is grown and where it goes.

Who can grow, a few or all who need to?

What is grown: luxury non-food or basic staples?

Where does it go: to the hungry or the world's well-fed?

The real need is to democratize the control of food resources.

Hunger is a social not a distribution problem. Ordinary people can do something about it.

Through World Development, the Anglican, Catholic, Lutheran, Presbyterian and United Churches are mobilizing public opinion favourable to changes encouraging human growth both in developing countries and in Canada.

Rapeseed world keeps changing

...looks brilliant

The time of the 1978 Alberta Rapeseed Growers' Association (ARGA) convention marked the end of the era of rapeseed as a major source of erucic acid and glucosinolates.

Conferences about the level of erucic acid and glucosinolates were prompted rapeseed farmers to turn to Canada and the double zero variety. Crushers may refuse to take higher acid level grains in the near future, forcing rapeseed growers to plant almost due to a self-contamination period.

"We're looking at a five year minimum, for the decimation of seed," said Phil

Thomas, supervisor of Oilseed Crops for Alberta Agriculture. "We should be making the switch to the double zero."

With the future of rapeseed looking better every year, Mr. Thomas told the convention the market of Eastern Canada is the largest potential market and should be aimed for.

"Our Eastern consumers are not aware of the quality of our product," he said. "We should be making them aware."

Mr. Thomas also told delegates that RAC is proud of the new Canada seed brand because it is low in erucic acid and glucosinolates. Canada was registered by the Western Canadian Oilseed Crushers in the fall of 1978 with the expressed hopes that 'Canada' will someday entirely replace the name 'rapeseed'.

Convention delegates were told that rapeseed now has 10 percent of Canada's oil market, 10 percent of Canada's overall oil market and 10 percent of Canada's total oil market.

"When the Japanese demand double zero, we have to be ready to meet that demand," said Allan Kart, RAC Association Director. The convention emphasized damage on a mandatory checklist similar to that used by the Alberta Cattle Council, but came up with no solid resolutions. A motion was passed to support the Alberta Cattle Council in their work.

President Elmer Lowndes of Viking and Vice-president Walter Pankowski of Bonanza were both returned to southern farms by the Board of Directors.

For Their Sake And Yours Do Not Disturb!

Wildlife are extremely sensitive. Particularly young wildlife.

How you respond to wildlife could affect their safety and yours.

Here are a few tips:

- enjoy wildlife from a distance ... only
- never handle or disturb wildlife
- do not feed wildlife ... ever — they need special diets for their survival
- be especially careful not to disturb fish when spawning — they could abandon their spawning grounds
- when visiting Alberta's wildlands, leave nothing behind that could harm wildlife — pop can rings, glass, garbage, plastic bags

If you suspect an animal has been abandoned or injured, report the situation and approximate location to your local fish and wildlife officer. He'll make sure it's well taken care of.

Controlling rabbit damage to trees and shrubs

The muskies have (also referred to as the muskies rabbit or bush rabbit) population is on the rise again in Alberta. Although damage to ornamental trees and shrubs is not likely to be severe this winter, it is expected to be a present year and for several years to come.

According to Cliff Barrett, supervisor of animal pest control with Alberta Agriculture, most of the damage this year is expected to be confined to areas that are close to heavy hedges, a ravine or a good source of food such as a wood stand.

He suggests that anyone who anticipates rabbit damage and who has only a few trees should mark their trees in burp or use an exclude such as poultry wire, bared away from the trunk of the tree.

One of the best ways to protect a small plantation of trees is to surround it with 36 inch (151) high poultry wire which has a 1/4 inch (25mm) mesh and bury the bottom edge in the soil. A second layer may have to be added if the muskies dig.

Mr. Barrett says little can be accomplished by shooting, trapping, snaring or scaring rabbits in a large area where the population is high. He also warns against poisoning rabbits because of the danger to other forms of wildlife eating the poisoned carcasses.

A local baiting rabbit population can be reduced by fencing of a lane that leads into a fenced trap area, but this method is not very practical because other rabbits will soon move into the area.

Repellents are available for protection when an area of trees is involved. They also give good protection against jack rabbits, mice and deer.

Mr. Barrett says that people who want to protect their trees should order their repellents early in the season. There has been a shortage of these products this fall.

One mixture that is recommended as an effective repellent is a mixture of cayenne (chili) and asphalt. It can be either sprayed on trunks or limbs of the trees or painted or sprayed on the trunks and limbs of the trees to a height of two feet (60 cm) above the expected snow line in the late fall when the trunks are dry and when the temperature is above freezing.

Another recipe for a home-made repellent that can be used in the late fall consists of 3 or 4 ounces of asphalt mixed with half a pint of a water-based paint in water to make up a gallon of spray. Since it is not known at the present time how toxic this mixture is to trees, it should not be applied to a tree that has special value to the owner.

After a sprayer has been used to apply any of these repellents it should be thoroughly rinsed with warm water followed by a solvent such as kerosene or turpentine.

Aspens destroying content of soil

Fire, when properly controlled, is a useful management method for Alberta's aspen parkland area. This statement was made by Dr. A. W. Bailey of the University of Alberta's Department of Plant Science who has been studying the aspen parkland vegetation at the University of Alberta since 1971. He is a nationally recognized authority on the aspen parkland.

When the aspen parkland in central Alberta was settled about 100 years ago, it consisted of a forest of aspen trees and shrubs. The aspen trees were the dominant species in the parkland area. They were the main source of food for the bison and the main source of fuel for the settlers.

Dr. Bailey says that the aspen trees are now being destroyed by fire. The fire is caused by the aspen trees themselves. The aspen trees are now being destroyed by fire. The fire is caused by the aspen trees themselves.

Prescribed burning is one of the means of economically controlling the expansion of aspen tree cover that is being studied. "Although considerable progress has been made in understanding the effect of fire on the parkland area, many problems still remain to be solved," Dr. Bailey says.

The native trees and shrubs are very adaptable to fire because of the many uses of the aspen trees.

fire that occurred prior to settlement. During the first growing season after the fire, they grow new sprouts from their roots, but these can be controlled by reburial, spraying and grazing.

A prescribed burn tends to burn the grasses more readily than the tree cover and causes them back anywhere from two months to about three years. According to Dr. Bailey, recovery depends upon conditions at the time of burning.

He says the least damage is done if the grasses are burned while they are still in the dormant stage. This is just after the snow melts in the spring.

Dr. Bailey is continuing his studies on brush burning and is attempting to develop a system of prescribed burning and follow-up treatments that will be practical for farmers to use.

Cleaning an electric blanket

Electric blankets cannot be dry cleaned because the dry cleaning solution will damage the wire insulation. Here is how Charlie Messer, Alberta Agriculture, suggests cleaning an electric blanket. First use an electric blanket. First use an electric blanket. First use an electric blanket.

Check the instructions on the blanket to see how the manufacturer recommends it should be dried. If you use an automatic dryer, set the dryer at a high temperature and prohibit it from tumbling. Fold the blanket in half and dry it for 15 minutes. Remove the blanket and stretch it out on a flat surface. Hang it up without clothespins and let it dry in the sunlight to finish drying.

If the manufacturer does not recommend using a dryer, stretch the blanket to its original size and hang it up to dry.

Mr. Barrett says that people who want to protect their trees should order their repellents early in the season. There has been a shortage of these products this fall.

One mixture that is recommended as an effective repellent is a mixture of cayenne (chili) and asphalt. It can be either sprayed on trunks or limbs of the trees or painted or sprayed on the trunks and limbs of the trees to a height of two feet (60 cm) above the expected snow line in the late fall when the trunks are dry and when the temperature is above freezing.

After a sprayer has been used to apply any of these repellents it should be thoroughly rinsed with warm water followed by a solvent such as kerosene or turpentine.

Mr. Barrett says that people who want to protect their trees should order their repellents early in the season. There has been a shortage of these products this fall.

Holden seniors' home receives council okay

An application for a building permit to construct a senior citizens' home in Holden has been approved.

At a recent meeting of council, approval was given to Handy Day Construction Ltd. for construction of an eight-unit senior citizens' residence.

The Village of Holden will be satisfied by CTVN on Saturday, and the information was necessary for the sale.

Council ratified the action of the hall renovation committee in awarding the plumbing and gas-fitting business being offered by Dennis Ryley, and approved the operation of the hall as a community centre (1978) Ltd. by Victor and Judy Ryley.

Council members were told that copies of the Holden General Plan would be distributed this month (April) and that a general public meeting would be held on May 18th. Margie Holden also attended the meeting to review the plan with council.

Council was told that a plan being drafted to provide a bus service to the Holden School Photo include Tofield, Ryley, Holden, Bruce, Viking and the County of Beaver.

Council members asked if they could receive copies of the building permit and the Village of Holden minutes, after being told by Don Allan, that their request for minutes had been refused because of the confidential nature of items being discussed.

Accounts amounting to $7,669.97 were approved for payment and minutes of a regular meeting held on Feb. 28th, and a special meeting on March 28th were approved.

Other routine business matters were handled. Because of the lengthy agenda, it was decided to hold a special meeting on March 28th.

Information for this news story was obtained from the unapproved minutes of a village council meeting held on March 28th.

RCMP are busy

A Tofield man has been charged with breaking and entering the residence of Don McLeod and his wife, and his son was taken to the hospital after being injured by a car crash.

There were seven traffic accidents (with one injury) reported the past week and RCMP responded to a total of 15-16 calls.

Board meets

The Board of Directors of the Town of Tofield met at a meeting of the Recreation and Parks Board, on Wednesday night.

A request from George Baker regarding maintenance of the town's main segment committee.

A letter received from the Town of Tofield was also referred to the management and RCMP again urged citizens to co-operate if it is to be stopped.

An unknown driver drove up on the lawn of 20 Magazine in Ryley destroying a number of trees and damaging the lawn. It was estimated that damages were nearly $10,000.

A vehicle owned by Ervin Symonds of Ryley was damaged by a hit and run.

Tofield might withdraw from regional recreation

The Town of Tofield has served notice that it might be withdrawing from the regional recreation program.

In a letter sent last Wednesday to the Beaver Recreation and Parks Board, Tofield has indicated that unless certain conditions are met, it will withdraw from the program.

In the letter, the town first advised the recreation board that it would not consider or approve of the 1979 recreation budget until a detailed audited statement had been received for 1978's operations and for all funds related to the three-mill program, since it was established.

In addition, the town indicated that all main spring or being regulated will be withheld until such a statement is received.

The Tofield letter suggests that the regional recreation agreement is not being complied with, particularly in regards to the expenditures of unbudgeted funds.

The last paragraph of the letter from the Town of Tofield to the recreation board lays it right on the line, as follows:

"Therefore the Town of Tofield hereby serves notice of its intention to withdraw from the regional agreement on June 30, 1979 unless the of Viking and the Village of Ryley and Holden.

The Town of Tofield has decided to proceed with planning for an office-library complex.

A decision by town council has resulted in the firm of William Haindman Architect Ltd. of 26 Magazine in Ryley retained to design and prepare the necessary plans for the complex.

The Edmonton architect has been asked to work in conjunction with the library board as well as with town administrators.

Ryley reclaims nuisance grounds

The Village of Ryley will attempt to reclaim its nuisance grounds.

At a special meeting of village council, three readings were given to a by-law which authorized the mayor and secretary-treasurer to sign an agreement with Alberta Environment to initiate a program for reclamation of the nuisance grounds.

The mayor, deputy mayor and secretary-treasurer were authorized to invest pre-paid mortgage loans to obtain an interest rate of at least 9.75 per cent.

Andrew is winner

Andrew has won the championship of the Beaverhill Hockey League.

The sixth game in the best of seven final series was played in Tofield on Thursday night with Andrew stopping Ryley 6-2.

The victory gave Andrew the series and the league championship, four games to two.

(available) land be listed with real estate companies to attract future growth and development in the village.

It was agreed that a meeting should be arranged with the County of Beaver to discuss the possibility of paying debts on major facilities from the provincial debt reduction program.

Copies of a traffic control plan were received from the officers and council agreed to discuss the proposed by-law at the next meeting.

Councillor Lando was named as an alternate delegate to the Regional Recreational Council.

Council decided that recommendations from the Chamber of Commerce's promotion committee that residential and commercial been asked by the village foreman to keep water running.

Councillors received copies of the 1978 village financial statement which are to be sent to all taxpayers.

Council agreed to purchase a new typewriter from a Canamex firm at a cost of $600.

Letters from hospital board of Tofield and Viking advised council that a request for board minutes would be forwarded for this news story was obtained from the unapproved minutes of a special meeting of management council, held on March 28th.

Festival is ready

Planning has been finalized for the holding of the sixth annual Beaver Arts and Music Festival which has been scheduled for later this month.

This year's festival will be held on April 28-29 with the location being the Viking School.

For the second successive year, residents of the Counties of Beaverhill and Viking have been invited.

All entries for this year's festival must be submitted by April 16th (except creative writing for which the deadline has already passed).

We can benefit from the revival of a true spirit of sacrifice as a response to God's loving provision of forgiveness and redemption. I need to be reminded of my self-indulgence, my selfishness, my greed, that I might be truly sorry for my sin, and genuinely want to be saved. I am saved from my sin. There is victory in that sacrifice death on the cross, everlasting life for all who trust in Christ. And, too in contemplating the evil and suffering in the world, we can be reminded of the sacrifice of the perfect sacrificial Lamb, who died for all. There need be no selfishness. I am saved from my sin. There is victory in that sacrifice death on the cross, everlasting life for all who trust in Christ.

Visitors to Bruce on the weekend included Arch Kells of Port MacMurray, Paul Hansen of Calgary and Shirley, Bruce and Robbie McMurran of Edmonton.

Many school children took advantage of spring break to be spoiled by their grandparents. Ory McMillan of Lodge was a visitor at the McMurran home; Laurie and Patrick Harris of Sherwood Park spent a couple of days with the Stathauges; Marsha McDermid of Edmonton visited Grandma & Grandpa Mitter; and Krista and Keat Dewar of Sherwood Park were at the Fredericks.

Building railway lines used to be a massive job of man labor, with a little help from machinery, or mules in earlier days. But the advent of the tie injector machine shown above takes most of the muscle work out of the job, and transmogrifies speeds the program of repair, replacement and new construction. Canadian Pacific used equipment such as this on projects totalling more than $14 million last year in Alberta.

Parsons plans camp

A former Canadian is attempting to improve the calibre of the Red Deer entry in the Alberta Junior Hockey League. Red Deer Rastlers did not have a highly successful season during the 1978-79 campaign, and Graham Parsons is planning to do something about it.

The first step in improving the team, according to Parsons, is the initiation of a spring training camp. The camp will be a weekend affair, starting on April 13 (Friday) and going until Sunday. The camp will be held in the Poudre Valley.

Parsons is inviting any players who feel they have the potential to play in the AJHL, to attend this special spring camp.

Parsons is one of the new owners of the club who took control of the team during the past winter. Parsons has a solid hockey background, having played professionally in the American Hockey League before retiring after first purchasing his contract from the Minnesota Canadiens.

Anyone interested in obtaining more information, or wishing to attend the training camp, should contact Parsons at 347-3177 (days) or 887-2801 (evenings).

Provincial Government Cuts into

School boards throughout the province should be alerted at the latest attack on local autonomy by Premier Peter Lougheed during his recent campaign to attract votes in the province. Boards should be addressing seriously the question: do we have the power and local autonomy to do the job they were elected to do? Have they been elected to do jobs which merely become pawns and pawns to be used by the provincial government through the department of education?

The largest and one of the most influential boards in Western Canada was cut off at the knees in their stand on creating the declining surrounding. During a campaign media conference Premier simply stated that every school closure needs Ministerial approval and if refused to power the Conservatives would not allow any school closures in Calgary this year. In his statement Premier said neither he nor the Minister of Education had seen a case for closure.

The real truth of the matter is the provincial government underestimated the conservatism which surrounds any recommendation to change the status quo in communities - and of course in Calgary the School Program Consolidation Report proposed 11 schools for closures over the next two years. The report, in the process of being studied by the Board as well as serving as basis for public brief, was originally scheduled for presentation during the month of March.

Declining enrolments in Calgary, in the province, or for that matter on the North American continent are not new. The fact that the Calgary Board of Education administration has spent approximately 60 man days discussing and trying to get complete and adequate information from the department of education was consequently established. The fact that the Calgary Board of Education was even given the decision Program Consolidation Report immediately following its public presentation on Nov. 5, 1978, and further that these same M.L.A.s, other major Alberta political party leaders and the Minister of Education and the Premier himself were invited to sit down with Calgary trustees to discuss situation was also overlooked. When the Chairman made the request to the latter two individuals he was told to meet with a group of Calgary M.L.A.s instead. In other words the Minister of Education could be asked to even listen to the Board of Education concerning the report proposing the consolidation of schools and programs.

The province's splash-in-the-water statement has no real basis. They destroyed the sequence and process of the community involvement scheduled to handle the School Program Consolidation Report. At no time did trustees indicate that the report would be accepted, exactly as presented. They were going to hear what the communities had to say about the proposals so that they, as elected officials of the public schools in Calgary, could make the best and most reasonable decisions to benefit and equalize the educational programming for all students attending classes in the system.

The situation is far more serious than just an attack on a big school board that got ambitious about handling its own problems. It is serious that Alberta trustees have allowed the erosion of their local autonomy to this point. It is time for trustees through the ASTA to become a strong voice to let the provincial government know that they are elected to manage and make decisions concerning the education in their jurisdictions. Premier Lougheed indicates through his outright statement, with no previous consultation with members of the board involved who is pulling the strings and calling the tune right now.

Tofield offers land for a new court house

The Town of Tofield has offered to sell land for the site for a new court house within the town limits.

This decision was made at a recent town council meeting. Councillors agreed to offer Alberta Housing land on the Fairgrounds, at the end of 3rd Avenue, as a court house site.

An outline plan for an industrial subdivision, to be located north of the railroad, in the east end of town, was submitted for council's consideration by Don Rabby and Laine Michalski.

After some discussion, it was agreed that the plan should be revised and then brought back for council consideration.

Approval of the Tofield Library's Board's 1978 budget, amounting to $12,171 was given, after a presentation by Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Taylor outlined the Board's planned services for the proposed new library and told council they preferred a system would cost approximately $270,000.

This information was presented to council following a meeting of council committee with the village's engineers.

Councillors agreed that a bylaw covering policies for the Ryley Cemetery should be prepared for the next regular meeting. In the meantime, it was approved that a chain and lock be placed on cemetery gates.

Council took this action following the reading of a letter from the Ryley Cemetery Committee.

Riders meet

Beaverhill Light Horse Association held their annual meeting on Sunday.

The new slate of officers are: President — Wesley Donald; Vice-President — Donald Wyble; and Secretary — Trudy Hume. Ladies — Ron Beckner and Lauretta Wade.

The first trial ride will be held on May 13 and the gymkhana are on June 18 and 24. Also the evening of June 27. Anyone interested in any of the events are welcome.

Ryley wants open ditch

The Village of Ryley has decided to consider only an "open" ditch for its proposed drainage system.

The Village Council made this decision recently after hearing that both pipe and a system would cost approximately $270,000.

This information was presented to council following a meeting of council committee with the village's engineers.

Councillors agreed that a bylaw covering policies for the Ryley Cemetery should be prepared for the next regular meeting. In the meantime, it was approved that a chain and lock be placed on cemetery gates.

Three-mile levy for regional recreation capital projects and decided to notify the Council of Beaverhill this effect.

Accounts submitted for payment were approved and the minutes of a meeting held on March 12th were approved. Information for this news was obtained from the village council meeting held on March 26th.

Mazankowski opposed in Vegreville riding

Don Mazankowski will be facing at least one opponent in the Vegreville constituency for the Progressive Conservative in the forthcoming federal election.

An Andrew man, Gerald Wink, has been nominated to contest the seat on behalf of the Liberal Party.

Although no announcements have been made by the NDP, unofficial sources indicate that the party will field a candidate for the May 22nd election.

Candidates have until the end of this month (April) to file nomination papers with the constituency's returning officer.

Mr. Mazankowski has held the Vegreville constituency for the past eleven years, for the fact that he is running again means opposition will face an uphill fight.

In the 1974 election, Mr. Mazankowski picked up a total of 18,288 votes, a total that represented 71.2 percent of all ballots cast.

In 1974, Mr. Mazankowski was elected to the House of Commons on the Liberal Party ticket.

The Liberal candidate finished in second place with 5,427 votes, followed by the NDP with 3,817 and the Social Credit with 2,444.

There has been no word as to whether or not Social Credit will field a candidate in this election.

Gardeners meet

Members of the Tofield Garden Club met on April 1st at the Anglican Church social room.

Progressive Farming

300-YILL SEEDING
Have you thought of planting your crop directly into the seedbed with no previous ploughing? If you are concerned about inadequate moisture, the night is in the air.

Doug Penny, sales specialist with Alberta Agriculture, agrees with the principle of no-till seeding on farms where winds can be economically controlled with herbicides and where the soil (light brown) is usually about 10 centimetres deep in a normal year. No-till seeding is also recommended in areas where soil erosion is a problem, especially in a dry year. Many types of cereals will plant reveals in no-till fields of previous crop residues are properly managed. Scientists at the federal research station at Lethbridge have been studying the performance of no-till seeding with cereals and drills on well-fertilized and stubble fields. have found seed placement was adequate in fields with up to 2,300 pounds of wheat stubble per acre. This is about the amount of trash there would be from a 35-bushel per acre wheat crop.

According to the Lethbridge scientists, trash was satisfactory cleared with the hoe system on a field where the straw was less than one foot long and normally spread over the field. Double and triple disc press drills also did a satisfactory job of seeding when they were able to cut through the surface trash. In these cases crop yields were at least equal to those from plots seeded with a hoe drill.

When there were differences between yields from hoe drills and disc press drills, they were mainly due to the presence of wild oats. The hoe drill tended to foster the germination of more wild oats than the press drill drills because of the tillage action of the hoe system. This reduced yields compared with yields from the disc press drills, despite the fact the hoe drill was seeded with the best seed.

According to the findings at Lethbridge, weed numbers were lower than under conventional tillage conditions and weed control was not usually necessary after a few years of no-till seeding. The research showed that, despite some difficulties in weed control and in seeding, spring wheat yields from no-till seeding fields average four bushels per acre more than yields from conventionally seeded stubble fields (two cultivations).

seeding depths and better soil moisture conditions were often credited for the higher yields from no-till seeding.

Jim Mackay, District Agricultural Officer, said:

"As I told Agriculturalists last year, the principle of no-till seeding is to

Recreation Report

Beaver Regional Recreation and Parks Board hope that you all had a very nice Easter weekend and holiday. We hope that the weather didn't co-operate too well making it pretty well impossible to enjoy camping with your family.

Last time we reported to you, we outlined a program of wilderness hiking and trips for the summer months of 1979. These trips and courses would be instructed by John Bladen who has been taking several courses this past winter at the University of Calgary. Mr. Bladen has been into our office and discussed the plans for this type of program, and to progress further with them, we need to hear from you as the citizens of the County of Beaver. So, for getting your name on the lists and more details, get in touch with John Bladen at Tofield at 662-460 or the Beaver Regional Recreation and Parks office, 663-3728.

Discuss it and send in your information now, so that plans can be arranged to fit into the schedule. Don't wait too long. What other programs would you like to see planned for during the summer months?

Tofield investigates radio network

The Town of Tofield will investigate the possibility of an inter-municipal radio communication network involving other communities in the County of Beaver.

The town has decided to include a radio communication system in its 1979 budget, and council has agreed that other communities should be contacted to see if a network, involving all centers, could or should be implemented.

Brodie was authorized to obtain price on equipment that would meet the necessary radio specifications.

A letter from Alberta Transportation informed council that a "Tofield" sign will be erected on Highway 14, approximately one-quarter of a mile south of the Salabury interchange.

Council passed a resolution whereby the town would amend its master agreement with Alberta Housing Corporation, County of Beaver, Town of Viking, Village of Ryley and the Village of Holden, for the purpose of constructing a senior citizens' home in Holden.

Approval was given for a bid which was to be submitted to the Beaver Regional Recreation and Parks Board, and which was to be presented to a meeting of all governing authorities, on April 11th.

An outline plan for development in two blocks, containing nearly forty-eight acres of land, was approved in principle and is to be forwarded to the town's engineer for comment.

In addition, The county of Beaver is to be requested to supply quotations for road construction in the area involved, and Calgary Power is to be notified of the proposed development.

Councillors agreed that the proposed closure of St. Anne's east of 48 Street be advertised. Accounts amounting to $20,000 were approved for payment and other routine business matters were handled.

Minutes of a town council meeting held on March 20th were approved.

Information for this news story was obtained from the unwrapped minutes of a meeting of town council, held on April 8th.

Candidates named for Federal vote

At least three candidates will be stepping out for the right to represent the Vegreville Constituency in the next Canadian Parliament.

Both the Progressive Conservative and Liberal nominated candidates some weeks ago and the NDP named their representative on Tuesday night.

There has been no word on whether or not any other parties might field candidates in the May 2nd election. All candidates must file their nomination papers with the returning officer by noon this coming Monday.

Don Mazankowski, the Progressive Conservative

Ryley Council has data on open ditch

In regards to the published information in The Mercury of April 12th, 1979, whereby it was captioned "Ryley Council has data on open ditch," the following information was obtained:

The Ryley Council are aware of the fact that the Storm Drainage System as presented by the Village of Ryley in charge of the program will cost a total amount of well over $200,000 and the program into three or four stages. It is estimated that the program will have a cost of well over the $200,000.

The Council are very anxious to have something done to have the program finished whereby danger to residents and particularly children in the area, can be removed. It is a very sore eye of the community, and as such a factor. Even though cutting the program is open ditch and allowing for up-grading of the existing ditch, and in raising the drainage pathway (though for holding water), the cost at present are still very high. To this end, the Council wish to have further studies made as it is known that other programs should take place if the Village is to grow and be a place where people in the community are getting a fair chance for development. Further information will be made available when it is received.

The Village of Ryley has taken the first major step towards development of sewage treatment facilities, and a paving program, during a recently held special meeting.

While the total cost of two projects amounts to $200,000, the cost to the village will be $115,000 as the rest of the money will be obtained by various grants.

Village Engineer Peter Siemens told council that the total cost of the new sewage treatment facilities would amount to $200,000 and the balance would come from the village at large.

Councillors agreed to the project on the condition that the per capita grant from the Municipal Debt Reduction Program could be applied.

First reading was then given to a by-law which would authorize the issuing of debentures for the purpose of base construction and asphalt surfacing. The two by-laws will be forwarded to the Local Authorities Board for that body's approval. When such approval has been received, the necessary second and third readings.

Information for this news story was obtained from the unwrapped minutes of a special meeting of village council, held on April 17th.

Blackball food From the mail bag

A group of women in Brampton, Ontario has formed "Women Against Rising Prices" and has issued a list of food items they suggest should be boycotted in an attempt to force supermarkets to supply more to their suppliers in the hope of moderating prices.

The list is pretty impressive, including head lettuce, all meats above $1.75 per pound, all sweetened cereals, all canned fish and a number of other products.

The information is being passed by branches of the Consumers' Association of Canada, and by inference, it is believed the action has gained their support.

We must confess to being highly intolerant of their action or their pressure, because we feel it lacks credibility.

Our first question would be how many of the Women Against Rising Prices, or their husbands, have declined an increase in their pay cheques in recent months. Or how many of them have offset the impact of their own higher pay cheque by a corresponding increase in production of whatever it is they work at.

We already pay the lowest proportion of our income on food of almost any country in the world, and the "Women" want to drive it even still. Yet only in February of this year the Anti-Inflation Board published a nine month study which declared in part "... for the first nine months of 1978, profit margins in the Canadian food processing and food retailing industry have varied little from historic norms. ... And they won't have to boycott beef and pork, as the women suggest, because production will dry up completely and there will be nothing to buy."

We have the highest regard for the work the CAC has done over a period of years, yet we feel this one wing hasn't displayed any integrity.

At no time have they suggested "fair prices," only "lower" prices. It's probable much thought went into the selection of their name "Women Against Rising Prices," but the acronym it develops seems highly unfortunate. At least to us it seems their viewpoint is indeed WARPED.

PREVENTING OFFENSIVE ODORS IN DUGOUT WATER
Do you have a farm dugout? Did the water turn black and develop an offensive odor last winter?

If you have encountered this problem, or wish to avoid it, you should treat your dugout water before it enters your water tank. The time to treat is before the water enters the tank and not after it has entered the tank.

Mr. Johnston, water and sewage engineer with Alberta Agriculture, says the water tank is a dugout and develops an unpleasant odor when it contains a mixture of organic matter. When the water is oxygenated, the odor is broken down. Using the organic material already in the water, the oxygen naturally breaks down the odor.

A statement in a recent issue of The United Church Observer leaves us almost incredulous, this being that a study found 37 percent of all drivers between the ages of 16 and 19 were involved in alcohol-related collisions in 1975. Not just 37 percent of the collisions involving teenagers, but 37 percent of all teen drivers in collisions ... with alcohol.

The article goes on to say "if a disease were killing as many young people as impaired driving, it would be a national emergency."

Alcohol has become a "real epidemic problem" in Canada, declares the Churchman, and as they combine it with driving, young people are killing themselves at a frightening rate.

Another report goes on to estimate that as much as 38 percent of Canada's youth are problem drinkers. "Problem may be relative so far as many readers are concerned, but it came as something of a surprise in a recent study conducted among a small number of pupils right in our own district to have three quarters say they drink on a regular basis.

Authorities in the field for some time have been charging that alcohol is more of a problem than the use of drugs, and indeed studies show that senior teens are switching more and more from drugs, and taking up with alcohol, to the extent it is much more threatening. Either "habit" is developed largely for "kicks" and to be part of the gang, but it's a pretty sick kick that can get you killed. Affluence is another factor of the problem, together with the example the kids are shown on almost every side.

It's not practical to think the liquor traffic can be eliminated completely ... too often the utility of this has been proven. But we can't just sit and watch the carnage go on ... some way has to be found to encourage people, both teens and older citizens, to admire the temperate drinker, while despising those who carry the means of refreshment to intemperance or excess. And to show it.

It takes a discerning eye to note that the subject in the picture is an overturned outdoor boiler facility. Vandals overturned the facility which is located in the Black Nugget Recreation Park. On April 15 in Hilder, the County of Beaver 4-H Council held a meeting to choose the 16 4-H delegates from the county to take part in an exchange trip to Ohio.

The delegates are to fly to Ontario, approximately the 2nd week in July and stay with Ontario families. After the week is over, Ontario delegates return with the Alberta delegates by train to stay with several families within this county. There were five 4-H members chosen from Ryer: they are Kathy Hays; Helen Club; Darryl Magnusson - Horse Club; Grant Munkedal - Beef Club; Ivan Munkedal - Beef Club; and Carol Jensen - Clothing Club.

The United Church Junior Choir sang in the Toftoid United Church Sunday, as a special feature.

Mr. Hays is home again after being in the Toftoid Hospital for some time.

Mrs. Penkala, Annette and Barbara, travelled to Calgary on Friday to attend Mrs. Penkala's nephew's wedding.

They stayed in Calgary for two days of wedding festivities and visited relatives.

The Ryley 4-H Clothing Club met at the Home Ec room on Thursday. There was a brief business meeting concerning achievement Day and an exchange, an upcoming Northern Alberta exchange, and 4-H regional camp. After the Almost 100,000 Alberta families had their Holiday Passports stamped last year.

Make this your year to Stamp Around Alberta

The Bells of Edmonton spent three weeks stamping around Alberta. They found Alberta hospitality amazing: "You always had somebody to give you a little bit of a hand." Ann, Ben and son Harold also found collectors' items and renewed friendships with relatives they hadn't seen in years. And they now have their proud set of medallions. But they're not the only ones eager to tell everyone about the fun.

How will you get in on this year's excitement? Do an auto tour? Join some of the 75th Birthday celebrations of many of our towns? See the more remote parts of your province? Whatever your way, this year is the time to get stamping—and get the six tourism zone stamps in your passport for your browser's medallion or the ten for your silver*, or all fourteen for your complete set.

Join the nearly 100,000 Alberta families with fresh stories to tell. Plan now to Stamp Around Alberta for your vacation or on weekends. Watch for the monthly Calendar-of-Events advertisements in your daily newspaper and save them. And there'll be much more to hear and see and read about.

If you haven't already got one, send for your Travel Alberta Holiday Passport and complete Stamp Around Alberta kit, including the 1979 Stamp Locations and Events lists. Just write Travel Alberta, Dept. 310, Box 2500, Edmonton T5J 2Z4.

Don't miss the fun.

Powerline League dominate baseball scene

The Powerline Baseball League will offer the "fastest" major baseball attractions of the coming season.

For the second consecutive year, Larry Rods of Tofield will be elected to serve as the league's president.

Mr. Rods was re-elected last Thursday night when the league held its annual organizational meeting at the farm house.

Re-elected again to serve the league in the role of secretary-treasurer, Rods was Jack Lamont of Tofield.

All six teams from last year's operation have returned to the fold, and they could be joined by a seventh team, while another team will play games on an exhibition basis.

Bardo Athletics, last summer's pennant winners and league champions, will have the returning team.

Other teams returning from last year will include Camrose Roadrunners, Holden, Rosedale, Ryley and Tofield.

A seventh team that might be joining the league could be the new team, which will participate in the league on an exhibition basis in an old team.

The team has been accepted into the league with players from within the area of the league's teams and will be using their exhibition games to prepare for provincial and national play.

There is a possibility that the Okeas, as a team, will play for this year while some of the players may operate, as a team.

Purchase of three federal government elevators by the Agricultural Development Corporation was confirmed last week by Lester Ordre, of the Agriculture Ministry.

The purchase was announced on Friday that ADC's bid of $1.2 million had been accepted by the Government of Canada.

A few other bids, some $1.5 million, were received for the property, but the ADC's bid was made entirely in good faith.

"We made our bid because we were afraid the property might be sold, and the elevators could be lost," said Mr. Ordre.

"They're badly needed by the farmers to keep their grain moving."

The three terminals have a total capacity of 170,000 bushels (4.1 million bushels). They

During those ten days between the Ascension and the Day of Pentecost there must have been much wondering, excitement and expectation as they talked together and waited the next "time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord" (Acts 3:19). Then, with the "sound from heaven like the rumble of a mighty wind," three appeared to them, tongues as of fire" (Acts 2:3), as they were led with the Holy Spirit and came to speak in tongues (Acts 2:4, 14). Mail beat the system

A. J. Maland of Nanaimo thinks he has the answer to the delay people experience in mail delivery.

Back in March, 1964, his brother was married in Island Hill, and Mr. Maland was invited. He didn't get the invitation, however, until the last week of March, this year. In the meantime, he's managed to make it to two wedding anniversaries, both in Round Hill.

The Post Office finally tracked him down, Mr. Maland told a reporter from The Nanaimo Daily Free Press, 20 years after the invitation was posted. At the time, he was working in a shipyard in Mission City, and the envelope bore only that address. Mr. A. J. Maland, Mission City, British Columbia.

Incidentally, it also bore the notation that it was insufficiently prepaid, since it carried only a four-cent stamp, with a picture of George 6th in naval uniform. The Post Office noted that it needed another six cents.

Confronting Your Faith

Confronting Your Faith with guest columnist, Mary, Paul trace of the fallen Lutheran Church, Klugman, for Rev.
 L.O. Sogge, pastor of the Lutheran Lutheran Parish
 The Resurrection obituary to her.

On the first Easter morning, it was those who had most to lose by association with Jesus who came to His tomb, people without - "volunteers" or friends in high places, His humble, broken disciples, people with nothing else to go on but the was gone. But there was something else that distinguished them - their love for Jesus.

First Mary Magdalene came, possibly the saint Mary who had anointed Him with the expensive statement in the house of Simon and Pharisee, about whom Jesus had said, "She loves me because she has been forgiven much" (Luke 7:47).
 Whether she was the same Mary or not, this woman, from whom Christ had cast seven demons, well knew Jesus!

Jesus himself.
 Mary, the forgiven one,
 a mere woman, and of no consequence in the eyes of the others but the power of Love to cleanse and transform was privileged to be first to meet the risen Christ, and he the messenger of the good news to the others: "I have seen the Lord!" (John 20:18).

Each of these disciples, distinguished from the other followers by exceptional love and loyalty to Jesus, was privileged to be first in some of the scenes of the resurrection. Peter, the bold, impulsive leader, anxious to prove his loyalty, was first to go to the tomb. Peter, who did not always stop to think, and often followed his allegiance to Jesus without having the courage to back it up, nevertheless was first to stand in the empty tomb and witness the evidence of Christ's resurrection.
 "He saw the linen cloth lying, and the napkin, which had been on his head," (John 20:6-7). John, close friend and confidante of Jesus, outran even Peter, and reached the tomb first, daring only to look in, John, because of his closeness to Christ in his life on earth, was first "to see and believe" (John 20:8).
 There is other evidence in John 21:7 that John was first to recognize the risen Christ.
 When Jesus appeared on the beach to the seven disciples who were fishing, and caused their nets to be filled with fish, it was John, "that disciple whom Jesus loved," who said
 "It is the Lord!" Significantly it was Peter who leapt into the sea, fully clothed, and swam to shore!

After Peter and John returned home, Mary still waited in the garden, believing perhaps, but not convinced, that the angels spoke to her, questioning her grief, and then believing forgiveness and acceptance.

Seeing the tomb open and empty, Jesus met the two disciples who would care most to hear: Simon Peter, whose faith and courage brought him forward, and John, the one who loved Jesus most.

Tofield's council had a very lengthy agenda

Council for the Town of Tofield faced a lengthy agenda at its last regular meeting. "Beaverhill Heritage Apartments" was the name approved by council for the new twelve-unit senior citizens' apartment complex.

Council decided upon the name in response to a request from Alberta Housing Corporation. A letter was received from Alberta Housing and Public Works acknowledging the town's offer of land as a site for a Court House.

Three readings were given to a by-law which closed a parcel of land in the town of Tofield. The by-law was approved by a majority of 10 to 2.

The town's engineer was asked to prepare a plan for Highway 84A south from First Street, linking with Hwy. 14, approximately 300 metres west of the curve.

Council agreed to ask CN Railway to re-open the railway crossing over the drainage plan; and that the town be granted permission to clean ditches on railway property.

It was decided that the County of Beaver should be asked to take another plot on the nuisance grounds, and that the town foreman be authorized to purchase about $200 worth of tools for the shop.

Council was in agreement that May 16-18 be declared as "Clean Up Week" in Tofield. Minutes of a regular meeting of council held on April 30 were approved and other routine business matters were handled.

Information for this news story was obtained from the unsupervised minutes of a meeting of council held on April 30.

Gun and Hobby Show is success

 by Grace Phillips
 The first Tofield Gun and Hobby Show, held this past weekend, was a great success and there was no competition for the awards. The two sponsors, the Tofield Gun Club, is grateful at the response of exhibitors and spectators alike.

The Tofield Arms, the ideal location for such a big event, was a busy place on Saturday and Sunday as people moved around the tables of nearly fifty exhibitors, some of which displayed articles for sale and others were for display only.

Among the arms represented were Saginaw, Saak, Althea, Dryden Valley, Hardisty, Torrington, Hinton, Edmonton as well as the neighboring towns of Tofield and Viking. Tofield was well represented in both commercial and non-commercial displays.

In an artistically arranged garden featuring a "running stream," Myrna and Wilmer Hubbard displayed the products of their ceramic hobby. The backdrop to the garden was a view of a house where windows gave a clear view of the activities in the old-fashioned kitchen. Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard were awarded a trophy for the "best hobby" display.

Other Tofielders were well represented in the commercial section. In the Hardware section, Mrs. Sharon Strong demonstrated spinning, craft materials, several types of weaving, products of local craftsmen were on view.

The Tofield Sports Shop had a comprehensive display of sports equipment with proprietor Vic Fairbairn in charge. The Tofield Hardware and Home Goods Store had a display of imported copper-craft articles. Leo Bauer displayed his coin collection.

The next fund raising is the "Highway Clean-up" on Saturday. Members are to meet at the Store at 8 a.m. May 12th is the date set for the "Saville House" sale. Members will be riding from the Hisey farm to Dodds Creek Mine, approximately 14 miles. The 4-H members have already started canvassing the towns for support.

Together they raised over one hundred dollars.

Board hires five students

The Beaver Regional Education and Parks Board has decided to hire five students for summer employment.

The decision to hire the students was made at a recent meeting of the Board. Two of the students will be hired for the travelling playground, two will work at the permanent playground while the fifth student will work on the RWEF project.

Martin Giebelhaus of Holden was named as an alternate member on the Theatre Committee.

The Theatre Committee, along with Administrator George Baker, were authorized to find out what must be done in order to meet fire regulations in the theatre.

The Parks Committee was asked to look into the matter of cleaning up the Beaverhill area. The matter was raised by Alberta Energy and Natural Resources, who claimed that an agreement was being violated as the area was not as clean as it should have been, last summer.

At least one member of the management committee was unhappy that CPWC Radio had been informed of what went on at a committee meeting last month (April) and was not in agreement that the Board minutes would be available for inspection (public).

names were blanked out so that we were unable to ascertain what two events were about.) Minutes of a Board meeting held on March 26th were approved.

Information for this news story was obtained from the minutes of a Board meeting held on April 30th.

DIAL BEFORE YOU DIG. THERE'S A LOT AT STAKE.

If you operate heavy machinery, it's more important than ever that you call your gas company before you break ground.

Because if you don't, you run the very real risk of damaging a gas main and being responsible for an accident which could cost thousands of dollars in damage and downtime. Or cut off the gas supply to an entire community.

Or cause dangerous explosions and loss of life — possibly your own.

So make sure that you call your gas company's Pipe Locator Team at least 48 hours before you dig.

They'll stake out the alignment of all gas lines in the locality so you can dig in safety.

The service is free. Please use it. There's a lot at stake.

Bride-elect feted at Tofield shower

by Grace Phillips
Miss Darlene Wade, bride-elect of Clarence Vash of Tofield, was honored at a bridal shower on Friday evening in the social room of the Tofield Baptist Church.

The bride's table was appropriately decorated for a shower, featuring a large suspended umbrella with hanging streamers and pom-poms. Seated with the bride were her mother, Mrs. Pauline Wade, the groom's mother, Mrs. Vash, the bride's sisters, Misses Shirley, Lois and Linda Wade who will be attending at her May 12th wedding.

Mrs. Irene Wiens welcomed the honored guests and pinned on Darlene a unique corsage made of kitchen gadgets.

After some contests had been participated in by the seventy ladies attending the shower, Arlene was presented with a large number of gifts by Rhonda Wiens and Cindy Ferguson. As the gifts were opened to be admired by the ladies, the boxes which had decorated the packages were put on a list which Darlene wore as she thanked those who had planned and attended the shower.

Mrs. Ann Bennett gave a reading on the many facets of love and wished Darlene every happiness.

Before lunch was enjoyed, Mrs. Laura Francis, grandmother of the bride asked a blessing.

Powerline League to have seven teams

The Poweline Baseball League will operate with seven teams during the coming summer season.

One of the seven teams will compete in the league on an exhibition basis while the others will be returners from last year.

It had been thought that the Camrose Cubs might join the league this year, as the team had asked for, and had been granted a year off from the Southern Baseball League.

However, a recent practice was played by only a couple of players, and there is an apparent lack of interest by senior players to line-up with this year's version of the team. It is now expected that all interested senior players in Camrose will join the Roadrunners, a current member of the Poweline League including the defending champions from Baroda. Other returners include Holden, Round Hill, Ryley and Telford.

The seventh team, which will play during the regular schedule on an exhibition basis, will be an area club, "senior" team. This team was to play exhibition games in the area of interest by provincial outlanders' playoffs.

Confronting Your Faith

Pastor Harold Hostager of the Ryley Memorial Church

Power is an intriguing phenomenon manifested in many ways and forms. We marvel at the ravages by water, wind and fire when nature goes on a rampage during a storm or erupting volcano. I continue to be amazed each time I see one of the giant air liners with its cargo lift from the runway in defiance of the law of gravity. History records the effects felt by influential people, naming armies and devastating armaments. Knowledgeable and sane people of our day ponder with concern the catastrophic potential of the world's nuclear stockpile.

There is a sense in which "power" holds our respect and admiration, which is understandable; but we need to be aware that power can have a subtle ability to claim our hearts and steal our trust away from the All-Powerful and Living God - an ability not peculiar to our time, but of long standing influence as we see from writings like those recorded in Deuteronomy 32:1-13; Isaiah 31:1; 1 Timothy 6:17. How easy it becomes to put our trust in bank accounts and insurance policies for economic security. It is good for a safeguard against devaluing currency, in stock-piled armaments, trusted armies and national alliances against threatening nations, and in charismatic political figures to protect our national, civic and social interests.

Like Judah's false prophets, false promises, we, under an increasingly secular society, need to be reminded that God is, rules and delivers with a strong hand and also gives extraordinary power to the weak; that the powerful things in the created world are not to be compared with or substituted by God. Isaiah 40:31. Omnipotent Power may be claimed and appropriated to us belated today by way of the Crucified and Resurrected Christ. The Apostle Paul said, "For the message of the cross is foolishness to those who are perishing, but to us who are being saved it is the power of God. For since in the Wisdom of God the world through its foolishness did not know Him, God was pleased through the foolishness of what was preached to save those who believe." (1 Cor. 1:21-25). Jesus said, "I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me will never walk in darkness, but will have the light of life." (John 1:9). We, under an increasingly secular society, need to be reminded

The CLC Vikings are going back to Europe.

It was announced last week by college officials, that the Vikings will be making a hockey tour of Sweden, and possibly might get to play a couple of games in Finland.

The Vikings will make the tour during the Christmas holidays, with most of the agenda already having been finalized.

The only block that could be thrown in the team's path would be a refusal from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. That body must give its approval before any Canadian team may visit and play in another country.

While the final schedule for the tour has to be completed, early indications are that the team will play at least seven games in Sweden, and might play two games in Finland.

Four of the Swedish games will be played in Stockholm. Two other games have been planned for Gävle and Uppsala while a third game will be played in either Örebro or Västerås.

The tentative two games planned for Finland could be played in Helsinki and Åbo.

Two of the teams that will oppose the Vikings in Stockholm have already been determined. They are Djurgårdens IF and Färjestads BK.

The Djurgårdens IF, representing team is a junior squad, and tentative planning calls for this team to play in Örebro later in the winter.

As a result of the planned tour, college officials expect the Vikings to have their largest ever training camp in the fall. Most of last year's team will be returning, and are expected to be joined by a good number of promising newcomers.

Tentative plans are being made for parents and fans to accompany the team on its European tour. Details and information on this plan are expected to be announced at a later date.

CLC Vikings played twelve games in Sweden during the 1976-77 season, winning ten while losing only two. Vikings outscored their opposition 90-30.

During that same season, Vikings won the ACAC crown, took the A-West championship and went on to win the Canadian college crown.

Seeding is delayed

Seeding of 1979 crops is going to be delayed at least two weeks, according to reports received from the Alberta Wheat Pool.

Seeding had started in a number of regions by the first week in May last year, but, it is likely to be at least the middle of May before farmers can get on the land this spring.

Snow and rain which fell throughout April and the early part of this month, has created very wet land conditions, and hot drying weather is needed for one to two weeks before the land would bear the weight of farm machinery.

Farmers around Tofield intend to increase reported production by about forty per cent. There will be a slight drop in barley while wheat will be reduced by twenty per cent and oats production will be cut in half.

Bawf farmers expect to increase wheat and reported production while cutting back on oats and barley, with about the same acreage as last year involved.

Flax production will double around Camrose while reported wheat will be increased about twenty per cent and wheat acreage should be unchanged. Twenty per cent crops are expected in oats and barley.

Farmers in the Dayland area will be increasing production of rapeseed, wheat and flax while holding the line on barley and oats, and are cutting back on oats.

New Norway area farmers will be showing increased production in rapeseed and wheat while remaining stable with flax and rye. Barley will show a slight drop with oats dropping thirty per cent. A thirty per cent increase is wheat, barley and flax. Oats will drop about ten per cent. Rapeseed in Round Hill will be increased and rye production will remain unchanged. Drains are planned in wheat, oats and barley.

Petition submitted about open ditch ... in Ryley

A petition submitted to village council has objected to the installation of an open ditch in the village of Ryley.
The petition containing 118 signatures was presented to council by Vivian Wide at a regular meeting of village council.
The theme of the petition was that a buried drainage ditch be installed rather than an open ditch, and that this project be given priority over all other future local improvement projects and developments.
During discussion, councilors noted that Alberta Environment had suggested that a further study be made regarding the interception of runoff from outside the village, along the south side of Highway 14 to the existing stream located about one and one-half miles east.

Councilors were told that the County of Beaver would no longer be acting as signing authority for regional recreation, as designated in the original agreement which was first signed in September, 1969.
Councilors were informed of the decision when a letter from the County of Beaver, addressed to the regional recreation chairman, was read.
The supplementary requisition from the County of Beaver amounted to $20,000 for the year's budget.
Jack Davidson was appointed the past of council take for the village, and was authorized to complete the 1979 census.
Secretary Treasurer R.C. Howland was authorized to attend the regional meeting of Zone 5 municipal administrators which was held in Camrose on May 10.
Councilors were authorized to take the land control by-law until its next regular meeting.
Acreage submitted for payment were approved and other routine business matters were handled.
Minutes of a regular meeting held on April 30, and April 17, were approved.
Information for this news story was obtained from the unsupervised minutes of a regular meeting of village council, held on April 30th.

Speakers

Taking a break prior to the start of a father-son banquet in Tofield recently were Don Daniels and Carl Murphy, coaches with the Edmonton Eskimos, and Lauri Weathers, master of ceremonies for the evening.

Bruce news
by Ben Fredericks
Rev. Ed Lohman was the keynote speaker at the Lutheran Women's Missionary League rally held at the Ryley Community Centre on May 6. Sixty-one ladies from various Alberta points, including Hinton, Edson, Leduc and Edmonton, discussed some of the social issues of today, mainly world hunger, nuclear war and the battered child. Rev. Robert Bauer, who serves as pastor for the diocese in Edmonton, was also present. Ladies from Bruce (Immanuel Lutheran Church) headed the event.
Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hagen recently returned from a holiday in Kilmory and other B.C. points. They enjoyed visits with their two daughters.
Evelyn Hunsell, Jackie Stefank, Trish Koutonen and Ben Fredericks attended the P.S.S. meeting in Holden on Wednesday night.
Fire meetings have been changed to the second Wednesday of each month. The firemen were out battling grass last Wednesday.
Congratulations are being extended by Dennis and Ciss to the birth of a daughter. The wee one arrived May 5th at the Viking Hospital and is a sister for a. "Roger and Charlene".
Mary Parlinger of Edson visited briefly in Bruce on Thursday. Bruce is very proud of Mary's son, John, who has played football with the Edmonton Eskimos for the past few years.

Palmer-Earling
Mrs. Joe Knudsen
Darlene, daughter of Clayton, Sask., a sister of Mrs. Lorraine Heideken of Earling, was honored with a "Mother of the Year" award at a night. Her mother, Mrs. Magda Norheim of Saskatoon, was also present.
Mrs. Mildred Pedersen was the m.c. for an interesting program, and she led the singing devotion. A musical selection was given by the Zee Band, followed by a piano selection by Bonnie Jane Heideken, a duet by Mrs. Lyle Brund and her son Darren accompanied by Rick and Dale Brund on the accordion and guitar, and a duet by Mrs. Ann Brund and Mrs. Earl Heideken. A few costumes were held and the program closed with a reading by Mrs. Ed Knudsen.
They gathered in the basement for the opening of the gifts, and Darlene expressed her thanks for everything. Darlene Norheim and Keith Knudsen will be married on June 30th at the Lutheran Church at Frontier, Sask. They will live on a farm at Major, Sask., close to the Alberta border.

Mrs. Bob Beattie and Alice Aker spent two days in Saskatoon. Mrs. Beattie visited her relatives at White Bear and Swift Current and Alice Aker visited her sister, Mrs. Clara Dallen, at Kindersley. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lohman of Leduc, and Keith and Lois Murray and Christopher Magnuson of Edson were visitors at the Cecil Immoral home.
Mr. and Mrs. David Wink and Cheryl of Valmont, B.C., were Monday visitors with Joe and Mary Lohman.
Sunday visitors at the Joe Knudsen home were Lorraine and Inge Pearce of Ryley, for Emma's birthday.
Mr. and Mrs. Julius Otto returned on Monday after spending the past six months at Apache Junction, Arizona. They arrived at the home of their daughter, Dore Cruden, and son-in-law George Cruden.

Recreation Report

by George Baker
Last week, we discussed in this column some of the programs that are being planned and would like feedback on so that we move ahead. Because of the lack of interest shown in some areas of programs, those particular ones have been, or are being, passed over for this year. It is now time for those recreational communities who wish to have their Traveling Playground at their particular community hall to get in the details for them to arrive during July or August.

Baseball and girls-Ladies softball football schedules are pretty well ready to go.

ALBERTA - SUMMER GAMES
The games this year will be held in St. Albert on August 2nd to 6th, and at the same time, there will be a Festival which will feature music, dance, children's art, ethnic-cultural activities and visual arts and crafts.

For further information on what sports are athletic activities are going to be held, drop into the Regional Recreation Office in Ryley and get a poster and pamphlet on this great summer event.

Last week, we brought to your attention a couple of events that will be taking place in the arts centre at Holden during May and July, for your entertainment.

Again we want to remind you of the one for May 20th, at 7:30 p.m., Lee Bles D'or, a French Folk-dancing group from the town of St. Paul.

A date also to keep in mind for a light comedy of entertainment will be the play coming in June 6th, from the Viking High School Drama Club. The name of the comedy will be "The Very Great Grandson of Sherlock Holmes."

Ryley

by Carol Jensen
The Ryley Junior High Students Union held a dance on Saturday, this music was by "The Hawks." It was a very enjoyable evening for all who attended.

The Ryley H Home and Beef Clubs cleaned up the highway on Saturday, around the Ryley area.

Mrs. Lena Rott is in the University Hospital this week undergoing eye surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Giesler and girls have recently returned from a week-long trip to Las Vegas.

Confronting Your Faith

with Harold Bostiger, Pastor of Salem Memorial Church.

"Love of money," said the Apostle Paul, "is the root of all evil" (1 Timothy 6:10). While we in Canada are experiencing the most affluent time in our history, we are also being harassed with increasing great social, economic, and moral ills; and though there is plenty of speculation, and finger-pointing in attempts to point blame it seems that no one is ready to assume any personal responsibility for their causes nor to offer visible remedies for their correction. It seems as if we are caught in the undercurrent of a mighty whirlpool from which there is no escape.

Of course it would be naive or would it be? — to suggest that a simple and personal, yet universal motive as love of money or greed might be the culprit hiding away in the shadows of the costly effects we have adopted and claim as rights, a lifestyle and based on our needs or on what is good for us, but rather on what we want and are led to believe is necessary to bring us fulfillment and happiness.

With ever-increasing costs and reduced currency value, the pressure is on to keep income equal to outgo and in the squeeze, it becomes easy to sacrifice good morals and relationships in order to feed our obsessed appetites. In addition, it seems quite obvious that there are few forms of evil which are not accentuated because of the material gain they bring to someone. I find it very disappointing that governments, serving supposedly for the public good, are not only hampered in the attempt to control such evils as alcohol and drug abuse, prostitution, and gambling because of the vested monetary interests of these involved, but also seemingly have been unable to resist the temptation of governmental involvement in such things as federal and provincial lotteries because of their uncanny fund-raising capacities. But, what is even more deplorable and which as a churchman I am sorry there is need to address the extent to which the church has also been involved in the same warfare which, according to my understanding, are unethical and antithetical to the church's life and mission.

If then, as I assume, self-interest is not one of many of our social and moral ills, and it does not seem unlikely to have a reawakening higher and more authentic goal? And should not people who profess to be Christians (church people) be the ones who not only teach but model such a life perspective?

Jesus said to the returning multitude whom He had miraculously fed, the preceding day, "Labor not for the meat it feed, which perishes, but for that meat which endures unto everlasting life, which the Son of Man shall give you." He then proceeded with this noted metaphor to them in which He presents Himself as the Bread of Life which, if a person eat of, he will never hunger (John 6:37).

What kind of bread are you seeking, that which at best has only limited and temporary value or that which will endure eternally?

Three persons injured in highway accidents

Three persons were injured when three separate motor vehicles occurred in the area during the past week.

A total of six charges were to be laid following complaints about a disturbance in a Tofield bar. One of the charges will be for theft of a pool cue.

The Clark of Woodstock was placed on probation for a period of nine months, providing he makes restitution for damage he caused to a person's property in Ryley in March.

Value of the damage property is $2,500. Mr. Clark pleaded guilty, in Westlock, to driving the vehicle over the property of Ed Magnusson, destroying a number of valuable trees.

The May meeting of the Round Hill Catholic Women's League was held on May 10th at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Wink.

Reports on the diocesan convention held in Edmonton on May 4, 5, and 6th were heard from Mrs. Josephine Banack, Mrs. Margaret Banack, Mrs. Rose Parke, Mrs. May Koshane, and Mrs. Dorothy Tomsawick.

A donation was sent to help in the work of the Bureau of Indian Affairs. Convener of standing committees were named as follows: Church Life, Mrs. Dorothy Tomsawick; Community Life, Mrs. Anne Banack; Cultural Life, Mrs. Marilyn Banack; Education Committee, Mrs. Cecilia Banack; Communications, Mrs. Patricia Wink; Legislation, Mrs. Margaret Banack; Membership Committee, Mrs. May Koshane; Handicraft Committee, Mrs. Rose Parke and Mrs. May Koshane.

Mrs. Cecilia Banack was named as C.W.I. representative on St. Stanislaus Parish Council. The next C.W.I. meeting will be on June 10th at the home of Mrs. Anne Banack.

The vehicle, operated by Ernie Dewart of Holden, went out of control, left the road and rolled. Mr. Dewart and a passenger were taken to hospital with modernized injuries.

Shelley Ann Sutton of Edmonton received minor injuries after her vehicle left Highway 16, one-half mile east of Fox, also on Saturday.

Violence caused by Richard Mayak of Camrose and Barry Koshane of Viking were in collision in front of the Recreation Hall in 1:45pm, on Sunday. No one was injured in the mishap.

Persons unknown hot-wired the recreation bus in Tofield and took it for a ride over the weekend. It was abandoned in the middle of an intersection.

Dan Diseriale of Ryley reported the theft of a number of eight-track tapes and a socket set from the cab of his truck while it was parked on Main Street in Ryley.

Ludvik Banack of Holden reported the theft of his ten-speed bicycle while it was parked in front of John's Pool Hall in Holden.

Albert Haukelid of Tofield discovered that a number of items were missing from his property near the Docks Coal Mine. Included among the missing items were a wood-burning kitchen range and an oak work stand.

Claude Gallinger of the Tofield area reported finding the remains for four cattle on his property.

RCMP are investigating on the premise that the cattle were castrated, butchered elsewhere and the remains were dumped on the Gallinger property.

RCMP were notified that the gate leading into the oil well north of Tofield had been wrecked off its posts. Damage was estimated at $100.

CONTROL OF HOUSEFLIES IN ALBERTA

Houseflies are the most numerous and most annoying pests in and around livestock handling facilities during the summer months in Alberta. Because they breed in unsanitary situations such as manure and garbage piles, they can become involved with disease organisms which can be transferred to humans via animal and food contamination. Flies are also a nuisance to livestock and humans and can carry pathogens from livestock manure to nearby urban centres without difficulty. Flies are also a nuisance to humans and animals, and can cause discomfort and annoyance just by their presence in homes, offices, and classrooms, often in overwhelming numbers.

The rapid build up of fly populations during the early summer necessitates some method of control being applied. Otherwise populations become so large later in the summer that effective control becomes more difficult and costly. The best control procedure is a combination of proper sanitation and proper chemical application to keep fly numbers at an acceptable level. Without a proper sanitation program, chemical control will prove to be unsatisfactory and will be a waste of time and money.

Baiting
Houseflies breed in such materials as manure and garbage piles, rotting hay, silage, and moist, spilled grain. These also should be removed and disposed of by May so overwintering adults have fewer places to lay eggs. This close up procedure should be maintained on a weekly basis throughout the summer and early fall. Clean out silage pits thoroughly, remove spilled grain from around grain storage and handling facilities and under feed bunks. Make sure manure is removed from inside pens and outside under fences. Flies do not breed in pure manure, therefore bedding and manure accumulated over the winter provides an excellent breeding site and should be removed and spread on fields as early in the spring as possible.

However, as is often the case, manure accumulated over the winter cannot always be removed to the fields due to wet soil conditions and must be piled for later disposal. It is under such circumstances that insecticide control should be initiated once the first generation of flies is noticed in May.

Electric Fly-Insect Trap
A number of electrical devices have been developed that can assist in reducing fly numbers in confined areas such as offices, homes, milking parlours and rooms, small barns, auction sale rings, etc. These electric fly-insect traps consist of one or two ultra-violet lights surrounded by two screens. The screens are energized by a transformer, and the flies, attracted by the ultra-violet lights, are electrocuted when they attempt to fly between the screens. The moisture of the body of the insect completes the electric circuit.

Chemical
Chemicals can be applied by three methods: residual wall sprays, fly baits, and insecticide-impregnated strips. Residual sprays. Residual sprays are applied as a low pressure spray to areas where flies congregate, i.e. ceilings, light fixtures, windows, doors, stanchions, and walls. Outdoors flies congregate on silage, fence, and other surfaces exposed to direct sunlight, especially in the morning and late afternoon. By limiting the application of residual sprays to areas where flies congregate less chemical is required and more effective control is achieved. Depending on residual life of the insecticide, repeated applications may be necessary as soon as any increase in flies is noticed.

Fly Baits
Fly baits or baits are especially useful in restaurants, milk rooms, etc. where sprays are not permitted. The flies are either killed by contact as they rest on the baits, or are killed by fumigant released by the baits as they fly.

Fly Baits
Fly baits are manufactured in various formulations and mixtures, consisting primarily of an attractive bait mixed with an insecticide. Baits alone are not very effective for controlling flies but in combination with residual sprays provide very satisfactory control. Placing bait stations in areas where flies congregate greatly increases their effectiveness. The user is not told but instructions and keep the bait out of reach of children. If you have any questions on any of these other topics, please contact the District Agriculturalist's office at Ryley, phone 662-3855, for further information.

Home care program offered

The Co-ordinated Home Care Program, which is available now through the Vegreville Health Unit, will allow residents with certain health care needs to receive services in their own homes, rather than in institutions. By identifying home and family supports available within communities and arranging for appropriate medical services, people can often be assisted to remain in or return to their own homes while ill or recuperating.

The purpose of Co-ordinated Home Care is to eliminate the need for a person to be involuntarily sent out all the help needed in a community when least able to do so. Basically the goals are to provide nursing, physiotherapy, occupational therapy, and respiratory therapy at home under a doctor's supervision. We hope to maintain continuity of care and fill in "gaps" between levels of care without duplicating services. In some cases the program might help by relieving undue strain on family members who are giving care.

Some health services that can be provided are dressings, injections, catheter care, rehabilitation training, exercises, supervision and teaching of a wide range of treatment activities. The nurse or therapist involves the patient and family in learning how to maintain proper care between visits.

In many cases, home support is essential in enabling someone to remain at home. Help with light and heavy housekeeping, personal grooming, provision of nutritious meals, shovelling walks, cat's care, minor repairs, telephone check-ups, someone to visit regularly of those with the disease between independence and hospitalization.

Anyone living in the Vegreville Health Unit area is eligible for Home Health Care if his/her doctor consents to the program and if the person has Alberta Health Care insurance, if needed medical and support services are available, and if care can be given properly at home. Ask at the Health Unit if interested.

It is very important in home health care to recognize that the ability of the Health Unit to deliver a variety of health services in the home is mainly related to the variety of support services in the community. Are resources lacking? Where resources are few, perhaps we can help stimulate development. If any individual or community group is interested in finding out more information regarding Home Care, in organizing services, in sharing information about existing services, or in identifying personal or community needs for care and support, please call the Vegreville Health Unit at 622-3331 and talk to Leraand, Home Care Coordinator or Marie Ousabko, Volunteer Program Organizer.

WESTERN DRUG MART
"My Glimpse of Eternity"
At 8:00 on a July morning in 1959, 27 year old Betty Maltz was pronounced dead. Now 30 years later, she describes her experience on the other side of that dividing line that hospital bed — to the stunned disbelief of her grieving father and the hospital personnel. The book is a good news story for all of us, for it is the story of how God dealt with a more materialistic woman who had to die to learn how to live.

Confronting Your Faith

Harold Beutger, Pastor of Salem Memorial Church, is likely to every new person will sooner or later be confronted with the question of life's purpose. Am I, are you, here by chance or design, and if by design what is the purpose of our being? We were here to live the world without having had anything to say about it.

Stunting drivers nailed by RCMP

Stunting drivers in and around Holden paid the penalty on Saturday when they were caught by the RCMP.

In a case which lasted four hours, RCMP were able to lay a total of ten charges against drivers, mostly for stunting. The Holden area is part of an ongoing attempt by RCMP to control dangerous driving habits in some communities. RCMP have apprehended three young Edmonton males following a brawl and enter a cable at Hastings Lake. Items taken from the car were recovered as well as evidence taken from other residences.

An investigation is being conducted into the alleged rape of a fifteen year old girl which was reported to have occurred on the weekend. Vincent Priore of Ryley reported the loss of a 180-gallon gas tank and pump while Mrs. Peggy Petry reported the loss of a license plate bearing the number 203088. A vehicle accident on Friday.

There were two accidents involving driver and RCMP investigated a total of forty-one complaints during the past week.

FLY CONTROL IN HOG

Barns. Sanitation is the most important factor in keeping housefly populations down in hog barns. In fact, most populations can be kept to a non-annoyance level in barns which are designed and equipped to eliminate material breeding areas and to make frequent cleaning easy.

A barn that incorporates a scoop or flush manure removal system will go a long way towards discouraging housefly breeding. Because housefly larvae thrive in fresh, semi-solid manure, it is important that the manure be scooped or flushed at least once every two weeks in a holding tank where it is quickly converted into a liquid.

In barns that have not been designed for such systems, the next best method of control is chemical. Chemical control should be aimed at the adult flies and the larvae as well as at breeding sites in the vicinity of the hog barn.

The types of insecticides available include residual wall sprays, impregnated strips and baits. A residual spray should be applied at low pressure to areas where the flies congregate. These include walls, windows, ceilings, partitions etc. Residual spray products recommended for use in a hog barn include Basudin, Vapona, Cygon, Malathion, Methidathion, Pyrethrin, Ravap, Korlan and Dieldrin.

Fly strips kill by contact or by releasing a fumigant. They are suitable for barns with a high fly population and should be hung from the ceiling so that they do not come in contact with people or animals. Recommended products include Vapona and Strip Fly Bands.

Fly baits should be used in combination with a residual spray and be placed where flies collect. Recommended dry bait can be made according to label directions. Vapona, Malathion and Korlan. Since such insecticide has special precautions that must be taken, it is extremely important to read label directions carefully before using any of them.

Hugh Philip, entomologist with Alberta Agriculture's plant industry laboratory, who has been doing research on housefly control, says one insecticide should not be used continuously throughout the fly season because the flies may become resistant to it.

He reports that there are a number of promising new insecticides currently being tested. Among them are the quick-acting synthetic pyrethroids for controlling adult flies and such insect growth regulators as Thimol (Deltin).

Mr. Philip also says that larval is developing in the use of electric flying insect traps as a means of keeping fly populations down after an acceptable population level has been achieved. He explains that the traps consist of one or two ultra-violet lights surrounded by two screens which are energized by a transformer. Attracted by the ultra-violet light, the flies are electrocuted when they pass through the screens.

Another form of fly control being investigated involves the use of bacterial and fungal pathogens. "Hogipity," says Mr. Philip, "this biological control method will one day reduce our dependence upon chemical control methods."

Tofield Library Board hears invited speakers

By Grace Phillips

The Tofield Library Board held a wine-and-cheese, coffee-and-herby on May 23 in the meeting room of the Community Centre, for the purpose of hearing the views of Neville Sisk of St. Paul and Miss Christine Holmes of Edmonton, regarding the function of the library in the community.

Mr. Sisk is the regional representative of Alberta Culture's Performing Arts; Miss Holmes is associate director of Alberta Culture's Book Services.

This was not a public meeting; only those connected with the library were invited. Of the invited guests, those present were: Dr. W. H. Prosser, mayor of Tofield; Neil Brodie, town administrator; Ed Rogers and Alberta Wait, members of the Tofield Recreation Board; Ron Taylor, chairman of the Library Board; Phyllis Mahabauer, secretary; Penny Nabrinak, treasurer; Derrika Prosser; Jody Hastings, Gayle Mann, members of the Board; Jean Sears, Florence Voigtlin, Helen Brown, Wanda O'Brien, Joyen Smith, Les Hubbard volunteer helpers; Grace Phillips, reporter; Mrs. Mary Taylor and Alan Munro were also present.

Ron Taylor explained the difficulty the present library is facing because of increasing supply of books and the growing number of subscribers. It is hoped, said Mr. Taylor, to have a new, larger and better equipped library incorporated into the new administrative complex now being planned for Tofield.

Mrs. Mahabauer presented the architect's tentative plan for the complex. This plan allows for a library more suited to the needs of the community with adjacent rooms available for displays of arts or hobbies and meetings.

Mr. Sisk and Miss Holmes pointed out that the library is an important part of the community to have its influence restricted by inadequate space, or even to have space only for books is a pity, because it is not a hobby displays should be available to fulfill the needs of the community for entertainment, instruction and information.

Mr. Taylor explained the request for increase financing for the library. Twice the Library Board appealed to the County of Beaver for support in view of the fact that a large proportion of the users of the library are rural, rather than urban, residents; twice the County of Beaver has refused any assistance.

The Town of Tofield gives the Library Board a per capita grant for town residents, but a grant is received for rural residents which means there is a possibility of rural residents' library fees may have to be increased so that they may contribute their fair share.

Considerable discussion took place concerning the possible role of the library in meeting the expressed needs of the community when the new library becomes available.

After lunch had been served by the members of the library board, Derrika Prosser presented Phyllis Mahabauer with a birthday cake. Congratulations were extended to Mr. Mahabauer while the guests enjoyed the cake.

Tofield's withdrawal is being investigated ... from regional recreation

The legality of Tofield's withdrawal from regional recreation is being investigated by the Beaver Regional Recreation and Parks Board.

At a meeting of the Board's management committee, it was decided that the county lawyers should investigate the legality of Tofield's withdrawal.

In another move the committee agreed to ask the Bank of Montreal in Tofield to investigate loan payments made by the Tofield Agricultural Society.

Earlier in the evening, during a Board meeting, members discussed Tofield's withdrawal and questioned the county's reputation over the withdrawal.

Neville Seale of Alberta Culture was a guest at the meeting to outline the areas in which the department was involved.

The final decision for a new summer end season for the parks department was left in the hands of the parks committee.

Accounts for May were approved for payment after being reviewed by George Baker.

Minutes of a Board meeting held on April 24th were approved.

Information for this news story was obtained from the minutes of the Board meeting held on May 24th, and minutes of a management committee meeting held on the same date.

Watch a glacier move

Jasper National Park, Alberta... If you want to see just a glacier moving there's much more to watch than you would expect.

For instance, surface movement on the lower portion of the Athabasca Glacier, one of the great glaciers issuing from the Columbia Icefield in Canada's Rocky Mountains, is only 30 metres per year.

In fact, in recent times, movement has been more than offset by the recession of the glacier's ice. Lynum Glacier, located just below the position high above the glacier.

Studies of the ice and surface movement by the International Glaciological Association (IGA) and the International Geophysical Year (IGY) have shown that the Athabasca Glacier is one of the most studied glaciers in the world. The Calgary office of the Environment Canada agency has been putting two and a half tonnes of scientific activity that makes the Columbia one of the most studied glaciers in the world.

The Calgary office of the Environment Canada agency has been putting two and a half tonnes of scientific activity that makes the Columbia one of the most studied glaciers in the world.

These glacier surveys are carried out to establish changes in glacier size, shape and movement rates. Warner said. "Field information indicates a climatological relationship between long-term climatological changes, rates of advance or recession and ablation. The contribution of glacial melt to streamflow is also determined."

This last factor is most important in hydrology for the Columbia Icefield. The last factor is most important in hydrology for the Columbia Icefield.

The Columbia Icefield provides source waters for three important North American rivers: The Athabasca, eventually flowing north to the Arctic Ocean; the Saskatchewan, flowing east to Hudson Bay; and the Columbia, flowing south and west to the Pacific.

"It is relatively simple to plot the position of the glacier ice every two years," Mr. Warner said.

Such movement of the 700-metre-wide Athabasca Glacier and the Saskatchewan Glacier, however, presents a slightly different problem. The best solution proved to be the installation of metal plates or plaques on the surface. If you want to see just a glacier moving there's much more to watch than you would expect.

These glacier surveys are carried out to establish changes in glacier size, shape and movement rates. Warner said. "Field information indicates a climatological relationship between long-term climatological changes, rates of advance or recession and ablation. The contribution of glacial melt to streamflow is also determined."

This last factor is most important in hydrology for the Columbia Icefield. The last factor is most important in hydrology for the Columbia Icefield.

The Columbia Icefield provides source waters for three important North American rivers: The Athabasca, eventually flowing north to the Arctic Ocean; the Saskatchewan, flowing east to Hudson Bay; and the Columbia, flowing south and west to the Pacific.

"It is relatively simple to plot the position of the glacier ice every two years," Mr. Warner said.

Such movement of the 700-metre-wide Athabasca Glacier and the Saskatchewan Glacier, however, presents a slightly different problem. The best solution proved to be the installation of metal plates or plaques on the surface. If you want to see just a glacier moving there's much more to watch than you would expect.

For instance, surface movement on the lower portion of the Athabasca Glacier, one of the great glaciers issuing from the Columbia Icefield in Canada's Rocky Mountains, is only 30 metres per year.

In fact, in recent times, movement has been more than offset by the recession of the glacier's ice. Lynum Glacier, located just below the position high above the glacier.

Report from your M.L.A.

by John S. Baulch

A very impressive opening of the first session of the 19th Legislature on May 29th. Of the 13 elected representatives to the Legislature on the first day.

The Honourable Ralph Manning, Minister of Agriculture, delivered the Throne Speech.

A number of priorities were emphasized for the first session which I find very favorable to the Vegreville constituency and the province as a whole.

1. A commitment of over $200 million expenditure for hospital and nursing home construction and health care. 2. The expansion of existing programs with new approaches for the needs of our handicapped citizens will be emphasized.

3. The importance of Agriculture as one of two major industries will be emphasized in the interests of Alberta farmers in export markets and grain handling and transportation.

4. Reducing the housing needs in our growing province. Substantial funds will be requested from the Legislature for one initiative under the Alberta Family Home Purchase Program.

5. A new Department of Economic Development to promote business and agricultural processing will help to strengthen Alberta's economy.

6. This year marks the 20th anniversary of the United Nations Declaration of the Rights of the Child. There will be programs to provide special benefits to the children of the province.

The Minister of Municipal Affairs introduced a Bill to allow the Eastern Assistance for senior citizens be raised from $20.00 to $25.00. This Bill would allow senior citizens to live in mobile homes and rent space for their mobile homes to have the opportunity to take either the Senior Citizens Tax Credit or a full tax abatement in their taxes.

Much of the oral question period was used by the Second Opposition in questioning the Premier about his receiving free airline tickets. It appears very pitiful that the opposition cannot find something more concrete to question when we realize that they spent very much time in the full meeting contradicting this action.

A very lively and interesting debate continues on the Throne Speech.

Realizing that there are 30 new members, their presentation are very informative and will be very beneficial to all members.

Over the past eight years I have served on several committees and have agreed to the following during the 19th Legislature.

1. Vice-Chairman: Alberta Government Services

2. Chairman: Task Force on the Environment

3. Member of Utilities Committee to my column in the past so it is my intention to continue to keep my constituents informed on the proceedings in the Legislature.

I am thankful to the Editor of this paper who so willingly publishes my column as a service.

I also appreciate the support I received from the selection of the Vegreville Constituency and I will continue to represent all to the best of my ability.

Ryley triumphs with no losses

Three straight wins last Sunday in Camrose propelled Ryley to victory in the Pioneer League (senior) tournament.

In the first game against Camrose, Randy Strickland of Ryley blanked the Roadrunners 5-0, while Gord Nelson was tagged with the loss.

Holden earned a berth in the semi-final by edging out Round Hill 7-4 in the second contest. Dennis Deniak picked up the victory on the mound, defeating Barry Strickland.

In the third game, Bob Fashang pitched Ryley to a class 43 win at Tofteld's expense. Lionel Williams was the losing pitcher.

By virtue of their earlier victories, Ryley and Holden met in the semi-final match-up which Ryley won 8-5 with Brian Lyons on the mound.

The loser was Lethbridge. Just one run separated the two contestants in the final as Ryley scored seven runs in Bardo's six. Ralph Burke recorded the win and Ron Fashang was the losing pitcher.

Officials estimated a turnout of close to 170 people during the tournament games.

Kingman

Stanley, Josephine and Michael Wenger were to Banff on the weekend of the 19th.

During the month of May the Kingman-Round Hill kindergarten took some interesting field trips. On May 2nd, they went to Edmonton and spent the day at the Storeland Valley Zoo. On the 28th they went to the Red Cross Nursing Home and Auxiliary Hospital where they entertained the patients with songs and enjoyed milk and cookies. On May 31st, everyone went out to the home of kindergarten teacher, Mrs. Green Peterson where they enjoyed a volunteer treat.

Round Hill unbeaten

Round Hill is still surprising everyone by remaining undefeated in the Powerline Baseball League.

Round Hill extended its unbeaten streak to five games when they picked up two more wins during the past week.

Hadden has jumped into sole possession of second place while Bardo has dropped into third spot. Camrose and Ryley are tied for fourth while Tofield is still winless, in the basement.

There are no games scheduled for this evening (Thursday).

On Monday evening, The Area Oldtimers will be playing an exhibition contest in Hadden.

Tuesday's action will see Hadden host Round Hill while Ryley travels to Camrose and Bardo plays in Tofield.

Games next Thursday night will have Ryley playing in Bardo while Hadden hosts Tofield and Camrose will be in Round Hill.

In last week's action, Round

Hidden outscored Ryley 11-1 and then outscored Bardo to a 13-1 outburst. Camrose whipped Bardo 14-4 and a game between Tofield and Camrose was postponed because of rain.

Around the town

Mrs. Joan MacKinnon of Kilmarnock, Ontario, has been the guest of Neil and Grace Phillips for the past two days during which time a trip to Pukimuk Creek and Watson was enjoyed.

J.J. Jefferson of Cambridge passed away on May 28th.

Jefferson operated a grocery store in Tofield for many years, first as "Jefferson and Evans", then as "Jefferson and Watson" and finally as "Jefferson and Brown". He is buried in Cambridge in 1961.

Winners in the recent bico sponsored by the Tofield Hall Board were Anne Rut (1), Clara Herbert (2), Audrey McElroy (3), Sarah Dierksen (4), Herta Macdonald, Ellen Eaton, Nancy Massey, Collette Watson, Jodie Paulson, Margaret MacDonald, Jean Kilmarnock and Vern Watson (jacked).

The cadets were allowed five days then, and enjoyed the hot weather and sight-seeing (including a trip to Disneyland).

At Sacramento, the cadets had another four-day stopover before leaving the return voyage to Ensenada, which lasted five days at sea.

After plotting, engineering duty, and warehouse duty were among the many annual procedures taught the cadets while at sea.

They were on duty each day from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., besides another four-hour shift during the evening or night, and also had study time allotted them to keep up with their schoolwork.

"A new and exciting experience," Eric said, "the cruise was definitely the highlight of my cadet career."

Eric Schenck, 18, of Holden, was chosen with 20 other Canadian Sea Cadets to take part in a training exercise in the Pacific Ocean on board three Destroyer Escorts, HMCS MacKenzie, HMCS Saskatchewan, and HMCS Triumphant.

Leaving Esquimalt, B.C. the ships sailed south at a distance of two hundred and fifty miles off the coast, docking first at San Diego.

Art exhibition held

Once again Cavell Rabehak Lodge of Ryky has sponsored the annual art exhibit in Ryky Community Hall.

Twenty-six artists from Camrose to Vegreville and from Leduc to Virden have given seventy paintings for the enjoyment of the general public.

Over and over again people viewed the paintings, both oil and water color, large and small, and over and over again commented on the

Cadet takes cruise

A four-year member of the Holden Sea Cadet Corps was recently rewarded by the opportunity to join a cruise in the Canadian Annual Cruise season.

"Salad Night" program held by Care and Share

"Salad Night" sponsored by Care and Share on June 8 in Valois House Tofield attracted nearly one hundred ladies.

Mrs. Frieda Ryberg, after welcoming the ladies, invited them to sing for their salads under the leadership of Mrs. Gladys Severson. With Mrs. Pat Livins accompanying on the piano, several old favorites were sung. Mrs. Kille then sang her own composition "Care and Share are Three Little Birds".

Mrs. Regier offered a prayer of thanks for the prayer of thanks as exemplified by the Tofield group. She also thanked Mrs. Wynne Hurlbert for her gift of several containers for the table-servant tomato plants which would later become the property of the ladies who had donated the salads.

The door prize a book on "Vegetable Gardening Made Easy" was won by Odele Cohen.

Mrs. Jeanne Rude with the help of her daughter, Tracy, Mrs. Pat Livins, Mrs. Gail Pohang, Mrs. Mary Warburton and Mrs. Severson, conducted the devotional period. The theme was "The body is many parts, but just one" as it applies to the Christian community. Each person in each stage of life is important, whether she be a child, a teenager, a baby mother or a teacher or a deity person. Each has a personal and important place in the house of God and no one needs to isolate anyone.

Accompanied by Mrs. Elaine Kaufman, a vocal trio was presented by Mrs. Margaret Stutzman, Mrs. Ellen Lauder and Mrs. Gwen Baugher. Later, Mrs. Lauder again accompanied by Mrs. Kaufman sang, "In the Spirit".

Mrs. Kathy Freeman gave a reading which stressed giving up individual desires for the good of all.

Mrs. Jean Collins of Tofield was the featured speaker of the evening. She had chosen as her topic "Faith" as exemplified by Mary Magdalene. When she said, "I have seen the Lord".

Mrs. Collins compared the search for faith to a shopping expedition in which the shopper cannot find the light bulbs she needs because they are so close.

"The Light of the World," said Mrs. Collins, "is always within our reach." Mrs. Collins, a born in Winnipeg, England, was baptised in St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church. She was taught by rote, the "usual prayers of the church. These words were meaningful to her when war was declared in 1939 and her father was stationed in England.

She described the spiritual exhilaration found in the Southern, Indian, conference, especially during its closing Mass in St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church, where she met with hundreds of priests in attendance.

When, later, her husband had a serious injury, her prayers and prayers of her family and friends "gave peace and joy, and the grace to come out of the ordeal without bitterness."

The spiritual growth or transformation of the individual comes through life as such becomes a new creature in God because of faith.

Mrs. Hurlbert called on Mrs. Madeline Anderson to offer a prayer for the recovery of Mrs. Fern Nies of Ryley who is hospitalized after a serious accident.

Mrs. Gail Pohang and Mrs. Gail Priest, presented a dialogue "Balloons in Church." The dialogue was a celebration of life, its sensory delights, its compassion, Christian living, love for neighbors and friends, and especially the message of the Cross. The dialogue stressed that life is a celebration, a cause for joy, and that not to appreciate joy in God's world is blasphemy.

Closing the program Mrs. Stutzman, Mrs. Lauder and Mrs. Baugher sang "In the Garden" with Mrs. Kaufman accompanying.

STAMPEDE CM
even better

"Stampede CM gets right to work on a whole range of weeds in wheat and barley. It has increased activity on wild millet (green foxtail) and it controls more of the broadleaf weeds. Stampede CM keeps a tight run on wild mustard, wild buckwheat, volunteer rapeseed, red root pigweed, lamb's quarters and several other broadleaf weeds.

"If you're tired of doing hard on wild millet and the broadleaf weeds, STAMPEDE CM them out of your fields."

PINK EYE IN CATTLE

Pink eye, the common cause for an infectious eye disease in cattle of all ages, can occur at any time of the year, but is most prevalent in the summer when flies and dust aid in its transmission.

Dr. Frank Baker, Alberta Agriculture's beef cattle extension veterinarian, says the discomfort and debilitating effect of pink eye undoubtedly results in considerable loss of milk and meat production in an infected herd.

Occurring in most countries of the world, this disease is caused by a bacterium (Moraxella bovis). Dr. Baker says it is very important to isolate affected animals in the early stages of an outbreak because of the contagious nature of the disease. Early signs include watering of the infected eyes and inflamed eyelids and "whites" of the eyes, hence the term pink eye. Pink eye can occur in one or both eyes. As the disease progresses, a cloudiness appears on the eyeball. This cloudiness can vary in color from white to yellow and may develop into an ulcer. In severe cases, the eyeball becomes cone-shaped and may rupture, causing blindness.

According to Dr. Baker, when treated early, pink eye usually responds well to antibiotic preparations. He says that ointments and lotions are preferable to powders because the latter often cause irritation. The medication should be applied at least once a day and preferably two or three times a day. Treatment is longer and more difficult when the eyeball has become cloudy or ulcerated. In these cases, veterinarians frequently inject an antibiotic and corticosteroid into the eyeball.

"The importance of shielding the eyes from sunlight," says Dr. Baker, "is part of the treatment that should not be overlooked." It can be done by confining the animal, or animals, indoors or by putting a match over the affected eyes. There are commercial patches, similar to those worn by humans, on the market, but many caution against use as a piece of cardboard. It should be large enough to completely cover the eye and be attached to the forehead with "ball connet" (the term used by cowboys for the glue that is used to put the tag on the backs of cattle at auction houses). Although an animal often rubs the patch off in a few days, it usually stays on long enough to help the eye to heal.

Among the factors that make cattle susceptible to pink eye is a deficiency of Vitamin A. dust, flies, strong sunlight, wind, tall grass and anything else that tends to irritate or injure the eye. Dr. Baker recommends dusting everything possible to minimize these conditions. The fact that infected animals can remain carriers for more than a year makes the elimination of pink eye difficult, if not impossible.

Ryley may take part in a gov't program

The Village of Ryley is likely to get involved in the Community Services Program offered by Alberta Housing and Public Works. Discussions on entering the program took place at a regular meeting of village council, and at two special meetings.

Mr. Warren attended a regular council session to outline the program and to discuss the funding on any projects would be the Federal Government pay fifty percent while the balance would be split by the province and the local government.

Drafts of possible projects were presented at one special meeting and one project that received approval was the cost of landscaping the Councillors gave approval for the use of the Sports Grounds by the Lions and Grange Club for a Sports Day on Saturday. Additionally, the village decided to combine with the surrounding communities to enter a lot in the provincial fair.

Councillors were told a cheque amounting to $20.00 had been received from Alberta Environment to assist in making debenture payments for the water re-use facilities.

After looking at a rough draft of the proposed 1980 budget, council tabled the subject until the next regular meeting.

Councillors agreed to give balance of cash and get further program to Tri-Link Engineering to be done in connection with the paving program. The decision was made after hearing a report from a representative of Associated Engineering. The appointment of a road inspector was deferred until the next meeting and other routine business matters were handled. Minutes of a regular meeting held on May 14th were approved. Information for this news story was obtained from the unrecorded minutes of a regular village council meeting on May 14th, and two special meetings held on May 1st.

program. The decision was made after hearing a report from a representative of Associated Engineering. The appointment of a road inspector was deferred until the next meeting and other routine business matters were handled. Minutes of a regular meeting held on May 14th were approved. Information for this news story was obtained from the unrecorded minutes of a regular village council meeting on May 14th, and two special meetings held on May 1st.

Councillors were told a cheque amounting to $20.00 had been received from Alberta Environment to assist in making debenture payments for the water re-use facilities.

TODAY'S HOUSEWIVES PREPARE THE FINEST MEALS YOU'VE EVER HAD

Canadian Comment

OTTAWA (AP) — For decades the golden west has been increasing its political clout. Canada's richest source of energy resources and the recent rapid international price increase of crude oil.

Natural gas discoveries in the west near the Alberta B.C. border have been happening at almost the rate of one a week in the past two years, creating almost an uncontrollable boom.

Understandably the least prosperous area of Canada, the prairie provinces, has been casting envious eyes westward over this boom and the shift of Canada's economic centre of gravity westward.

The long drought may be ending for the Maritimes.

For the past five or six years there has been extensive investigation of the oil-shore hydro-carbon potential of the east coast. What seemed at first to be promising drilling signs petered out into something less than anything.

The last major oil consortium drilling off the Nova Scotia coast began early this year with the first of five $10 million wells — but that last hole was the one which kept the oilmen drilling.

Petro-Canada's, one of the nation's largest oil companies, said the results of that last well were so encouraging that the drilling program will be continued and that it appears there will be enough natural gas to warrant the building of a pipeline to bring the stuff ashore for Maritimes use.

It could displace 400,000 barrels a day of the expensive oil shore oil that keeps the economy appetites of Maritimers satisfied, at horrendous cost. So promising is the latest east coast gas find that it has been called the "Alaska of the Maritimes" to carry western natural gas — will be postponed.

High time the Maritimes got a decent break. If you put the end of June on the calendar, you can't stop up the Alaska way.

Now what we need is some real federal-provincial cooperation in developing those resources, so that the fabric of the entire nation can be strengthened.

Report from your M.L.A.

by John S. Baskin

As the Legislature sits, the present important legislation is being brought before the House.

The Minister of Municipal Affairs introduced Bill 21, The Municipalities Reduction Act. This Bill will transfer over $1 billion from the general revenues of the province to 160 municipalities across the province. Implementing Premier Lougheed's announcement of February 14 to provide the $100 per capita assistance to a wide range of municipalities. This Bill will assist property tax payers across Alberta in this future eliminating some $100 million.

In 1974 Mr. Parnis, then the Minister of Utilities and Telephones, introduced The Municipalities Reduction Act to provide cities and towns with a moderate cost to help them.

Since natural gas is being used with difficulty with the use of a 2000 pipe which was faulty and after only a few years the cost of the pipe must be replaced. The present Minister of Utilities and Telephones, Mr. J. Shaben, advised the Assembly that the cost of the pipe would be 10 percent of the cost of the gas.

The fact that confidence and respect is a two-way street. If the politicians lose confidence and trust in the people, it won't be very long until the people lose trust and confidence in the politicians.

It's not too late to right the imbalance... after all, an election is still more than three years away. On the other hand, people can remember for that long.

The Minister of Housing and Public Works informed the Assembly that a contract for the construction of a new city's bridge in two Hills is being awarded at the latter part of June.

Upgrading of several roads in the city of Calgary is being undertaken as the road system is being upgraded. The fact that confidence and respect is a two-way street. Some speculation is being made as to where Athabasca University will be relocated if this occurs. The Minister of Advanced Education informed the Assembly that relocation of the University has been considered for quite some time. He stated that he has received numerous requests from municipalities indicating their wish to have the move made to their area. However, a decision has not

Charity at home

Canadians are all being besieged these days with invitations to join one or another type of lottery, with beguiling promises about the ease of winning, the relative frequency of winners, the wonderful things the big winners do with their prizes, and so on.

Almost no-one could be unaware of the fact there is a huge promotion program centering on the promotion of lotteries, whether they're federal or provincial.

But, man, does it stop there! There's no way it can continue to the local field. Oh, there are small lotteries around, but they're given only grudgingly assent by the attorney - cral's branch, they're severely restricted as to expenditures, none of which may come from the promotion itself, and they're discouraged at every turn.

Maybe the bigger operations give politicians more scope for showing how wisely they support sports, or the arts, or whatever. Maybe it's because they're capable of producing an audit more quickly, with less trouble and checking for the bureaucrats. There may be other functions we're not aware of.

But two things we're downright certain of. First is that thousands of people have no interest whatever in the big-time promotion, the gamble, the flyer, and their only interest in lotteries is supporting the home town team, the Lions, the Kinmen, the 4-H clubs, the Legion, Elks, you name it. Basically, they know they're going to be called on to provide support in some way, and they're happier doing it through the medium of a lottery that just might repay them.

And the second is that more good accrues at the local level through the most amateurish raffle than ever does through the slick national or provincial promotion where so many hands, so many agencies are siphoning off the proceeds, as compared with the almost hundred percent contributed effort at the local level.

The way things stand now, thousands of Alberta citizens are being told when they try to promote raffles that the government has lost confidence in the local citizenry. The politicians shouldn't overlook the fact that confidence and respect is a two-way street. If the politicians lose confidence and trust in the people, it won't be very long until the people lose trust and confidence in the politicians.

It's not too late to right the imbalance... after all, an election is still more than three years away. On the other hand, people can remember for that long.

FAIRY RING OF DEATH
Fairy Ring is the most common disease of grass that occurs during the growing season and is very persistent in all areas of the country this year. The disease is readily recognized by the rings it forms in the turf. All cultivated and many wild grasses are susceptible to it. The grass in the rings may be a dark green color or may be dead or any combination of the two.

LEARN HOW TO

The results of the Nutrition Canada Survey in 1978, showed that over 80 per cent of the Canadian population is overweight in both men, and at every age level.

Exercise is the most important means of controlling weight in children and adolescents. Camp Slim Teen places a strong emphasis on the participation in physical activities which appeal to teenagers.

Camp Slim Teen is a camp experience where overweight teenagers can be given help in dealing with their obesity, through an integrated program of individualized nutrition counselling and activity.

For the sixth consecutive year the Alberta Registered Dietitians' Association will be co-ordinating Camp Slim Teen. The camp, located at Yamaska Centre 45 miles west of Calgary, is scheduled for July 3 to July 6.

If you are interested in more information or an application form contact the Calgary Dietitians' Association.

CAMP SLIM TEEN
Alberta Dietitians' Association is sponsoring craft workshops this summer to encourage arts and crafts development at the community level.

Craft topics include sculpture, pottery, drawing and painting, primitive weaving, stained glass, wood arts and glassblowing.

Crop conditions range from excellent to poor

Condition of crops in the area range from nearly perfect to those suffering extensive damage, especially among reported flood areas.

Almost ideal conditions are being reported around Ryley with all crops being described as normal. Wheat is seven centimetres high while barley and rye are two centimetres in height. Although there was a slight bit of damage in rye from flea beetles, all crops around Canmore are being described as normal with wheat already 10 centimetres high. Other crops range from 1.5 to 10 centimetres high. Crops in the Dayland region are described as normal with wheat having reached 10 centimetres in height with other crops just slightly behind.

About ten percent of the reported crop in the Headland region has been damaged by flea beetles while other crops are normal. Wheat has reached a height of seven centimetres with other crops being just slightly lower.

Horden area farmers have suffered the most extensive damage in the reported with the crop being assessed at only about one-half normal. One-quarter of the crop was damaged by flea beetles while another five percent was lost from excessive moisture conditions.

Crops and barley are rated at about eighty percent normal while wheat and flax are described as being about three-quarters of a normal condition.

Members of the Holden Primary special education class received a grant from the Canadian Commission for

Ministik district

Min. Jim Pickard. The annual community picnic held on Saturday at the school grounds was a great success.

After a doubtful start due to the weather, a pot-luck dinner was enjoyed by all, at noon. Some of the races were most hilarious contests. When the races were completed and a potluck scramble was finished, softball took over for the remainder of the afternoon.

The refreshment booth was a popular spot during the afternoon. The wind-up picnic and dance that followed in the evening, was also a most successful affair.

A cold plate supper was served by hostesses, Joyce Howerton and Theresa Rogers. Willy McDonald supplied the music.

The anniversary, which was played honoring George and Joan Klein, and Ralph and Lil Leach on their respective wedding anniversaries. Lena, Rodrick Kurey celebrated her 21st birthday.

All sang "Happy Birthday" honoring her. For and Margaret Patterson who spent four days in the mountains, were home to attend the picnic and dance.

John and Trina Vandermere also enjoyed several days at home and other mountain peaks.

Verden heard had the misfortune to injure three of his fingers, while working on his hobby, a car. Monday evening, he has been a patient at Tofield Hospital since.

John Vandermere remains a patient in Tofield Hospital as well, while tests are being taken.

Renald Patterson and his new bride from Surrey, B.C., were guests this past week at the Joe Vandermere and Ralph Leach home, also with Mr. Bill Vandermere in Tofield. He is the second son of Joe and Lil's late sister Nell Armouring. Joe Vandermere, Jr. was a recent graduate from Salisbury High School with exercises in the Jubilee Auditorium in Edmonton.

Several people from the community attended the funeral at Sherwood Park of Terry Shultz, who was killed in a tragic car accident.

Myron Bowerman an old school and ball team, was a pallbearer.

The June meeting of the Ladies Club was held at the hall on Wednesday afternoon.

Jean Ferguson gave a most favorable report on the recent strawberry jam, and thanked all who helped to make it the successful affair it was.

Alice Whifford had a June birthday. It was decided to recess for July and August meeting again on September 12, at the local camp site if weather permits.

A lovely lunch was enjoyed by all.

Every year thousands of cars like these end up as junk. Many before their time. In many cases, it's simply because their owners think it would cost more to fix them than they think the car is worth.

WE'RE CHANGING THAT IDEA

Instead of the scrap heap, more and more of these cars are ending up in our repair shop. It's not likely that we will ever put a salvage yard out of business, but we can put your car back on the road in the new condition.

amize and are effective and safe when used as prescribed on the label. He says the amine formulations are recommended because it is non-volatile and, when properly applied, should not damage desirable plants.

He also says that spraying a lawn to control dandelions is not an expensive proposition. An average sized lawn of 3,000 square feet would require only eight ounces of 2,4-D amine, an applicator equipped with a nozzle and water for mixing and the best results.

The important points to remember when treating your lawn to control the dandelions

W. S. SHEETS HUTCHINSON

Some people think that covering the leaves keeps dandelions under control, but this is not so because the leaves are below the cutting edge of the mower. If the cutting edge is lowered the dandelions will still have a competitive advantage over the grass. Cutting dandelion plants out of a lawn is not effective either because only a small piece of root left in the ground is enough to produce a new plant. Mowing a lawn is not considered to be efficient or economical.

M.L.A. report . . .

John S. Beish

June 21, 1979
One of the very important highlights of the year was the initiation of the Budget Speech. Many of the budget announcements will benefit the people of the Vegreville constituency greatly.

Some of the very significant ones are:

1. Double the renters' assistance grant to Senior Citizens from $250 to $500. This will provide a further $7 million annually to our Senior Citizens.

2. The New Handicapped Income for the Handicapped will provide another $8 million.

3. $80,000 Alberta will benefit $30 million by the Personal Income Tax Reduction programme.

4. Provide $60 million to reduce corporate tax on small businesses which will reduce the tax from 1 percent to 0.5 percent.

5. The Alberta Family Home Purchase Programme will provide subsidies of up to $250,000 toward the purchase of a home. Those with income between $10,000 and $21,000 would be eligible. Even though Alberta has less than 18 percent of the population of Canada, the building grants in Alberta exceeded 30 percent of the building grants in Canada.

6. Due to the recognition of the importance of Agriculture, $5 million will be spent on the irrigation program. To improve crop handling, a comprehensive plan of $10 million is provided to finance the required, the Price Support grain storage facility.

7. An increase of $67 million will be provided in additional grants to municipalities. Even though homeowners in Alberta pay the lowest property tax in Canada, assisted by the Homeowners Property Tax Reduction Plan, the Municipalities, however, are not.

8. The province provides $66 per capita to each municipality with a total of more than $1 billion.

9. At the end of June the Senior Citizen Home Improvement Programme which provided up to $1,500 to senior citizens, will end and a new program, "The Alberta Homeowners' Repair Programme" will come into effect. This will provide grants of up to $2,000 to senior citizens for improvements to their homes which will enable them to live in their own homes.

It is expected that this program will commence early in July.

Why brides say 'I do' with a diamond

To some people the diamond means wealth. To those born in April the diamond is their birthstone.

But to young couples in love the diamond is the universal symbol of commitment.

Though many times the tradition of the diamond engagement ring is stronger than ever—75 percent of first time brides received a diamond engagement ring in 1977.

Another is the amount of gold or platinum in the design.

Because although diamonds everything, have increased in price, gold has gone up too. It means that a wide ring will cost more than a narrow ring with the same size diamond.

Putting it another way, for the same price you can get a bigger or better quality diamond if it's set in a narrow band rather than in a wide one.

"And it's the diamond, not the setting, that is going to last for a lifetime and beyond. Many diamond engagement rings have been passed down from generation to generation."

What about shape? The shape of the diamond is also a factor in its cost. In general, the round or brilliant cut is less expensive. The very word diamond comes from the Greek word "Adamas" meaning invincible.

Every diamond has two diamonds in the world are the same. It's the round or brilliant cut and appears larger than a brilliant cut.

The oval is an adaptation of the round or brilliant cut and appears larger than a brilliant cut.

The major consideration in choosing an engagement ring is, of course, its cost. Today, a good-quality half-carat engagement ring can cost from $600 up.

Values fluctuate. It is important to know what factors affect the price of a ring. One, naturally, is the size and quality of the diamond.

stones must be ground every 10 years to form the two polished ends.

It is a very feminine and graceful shape, and has been growing in popularity as an engagement ring choice in recent years. It has a great deal of fire and sparkle like the brilliant.

Because of its shape, the English name for the French cut is the "old mine" cut, which is related to our word "mine". The cut is a variation on the brilliant cut, with one wide cut curving smoothly to a point. The point of the pear is always worn toward the finger.

The emerald cut is a straight-sided oblong—goes back centuries to the old cut method of fashioning gem stones, particularly emeralds. But the emerald cut diamond is the most recently developed of all the popular diamond shapes.

A diamond is forever. Because of its clarity, modern look, the emerald cut diamond is most often set in platinum, usually with two baguette side stones.

Specimens, by the way, are thin and rectangular, somewhat like the emerald cut, but with fewer facets.

As with anything else, the shape of a diamond is a matter of individual taste—one is not preferable to another, they are all works of art.

Anna Shavchuk Exchange student at Holden from Japan will leave in July. Tetsu Tsukamoto is a foreign exchange student from Japan in Holden says he will leave early July. Tetsu stayed at the home of the Schilling family while waiting for his flight to the 1979-79 term.

During his term in school Tetsu was very pleased that his English improved. He took active part in many school activities and played the piano for the Community Choir. At the Holden graduation exercises of 1979 Mr. Shavchuk presented Tetsu with a school pin as a memento for attending school at Holden. Tetsu has several tape recordings of his English lessons.

Fight against tent caterpillars

Wabunan, Alberta — They've been known to bring water freight trains to a halt, with the caterpillars moving in to get traction in a sea of furry black bodies covering the rails.

The delicate green aspen forests of early June can be reduced to ugly twigs within days.

And countless years ago and wept out, have been raised by thousands of tent caterpillars as they swarm over the ground searching for every last green leaf.

The fight against this infestation has been varied. That was the original agent of the invasion would be cooperated with the knowledge that the invasion would be laid. Northern Forests Ltd., the war-line woodier insecticide, now baused through much of the world because of its persistence and long term effect on the environment.

Matiation, a substitute thought to be much less damaging in the long term, now is used in many trials to control the caterpillar pest.

The search goes on, however, for a more effective agent that is absolutely safe.

The search by two men, Bill Ives and Jim (the J. of the insects in Edmonton, has led to encouraging results.

"We have been for a long time that a virus being transferred in the population of caterpillars," said Mr. Mulder.

"The virus is harbored only in the tent caterpillar and is absolutely harmless to man and other animals," he said.

Special care must be taken to spray the virus-bearing caterpillars as soon as they are found to spray soon after the larvae hatch. However, the virus will cause mortality if applied during any of the first four of the five larval growth stages.

Complicating the application is the fact that the virus cannot tolerate sunlight. It is less in soil and on a stickier and sunlight protection is essential to spray when there is some leaf cover to help protect the virus from direct sunlight.

"Introduction of the virus laden foliage and is infected. The caterpillar eats the virus laden foliage and is infected."

"Research at Agriculture Canada's Lethbridge, Alta. Research Station shows that zero tillage has great potential for preventing soil erosion and improving soil quality."

It can save time and money with zero tillage, the crop is seeded on land that has not been tilled since the previous crop. Weeds, normally a problem with tilled land, are controlled by herbicide.

If the savings from using zero tillage, combined with increased crop yield, amount to more than the increased cost of herbicides, farmers will increase their profits.

most now be collected from caterpillars that have died from the virus, either in laboratory rearing or in the field. Mass rearing of larvae in the laboratory are practically impossible because of the labor involved. However, field collections of infected larvae are also expensive and there are limitations to the wholesale use of a commercial base.

Two factors would radically change the factors dictating against commercial production of the virus however. In the first place, insecticides might dictate that even the most persistent pesticides are too dangerous to be released further into the environment.

"And the production of a culture medium that would allow extensive production of the virus at reasonable cost could eventually be a reality," Mr. Ives pointed out.

In that event, Canadian Forestry Service workers do not want to be caught without adequate information on the timing and rates of application as well as the persistence of the virus compound.

Operational field trials involving aerial application of the virus were followed last spring in an attempt to provide more data on the virus. However, weather caused the larvae to hatch well before the foliage flushed on the aspen. As a consequence, the retard development of the aspen leaves caused starvation among the larvae. Virus also caused mortality but separating the two causes was almost impossible.

Marketing culled cows

Did you know that with the proper management culled cows can be up to four years of age have a good chance of grading in the Canada grade when they are slaughtered?

"According to Dr. Mick Price of the University of Alberta's Department of Animal Science, culled beef cows have the best chance of making a A grade if they are fed for three or four months before they are slaughtered."

"Even though when slaughtered, the improvement in their conformation and finish more than compensates for the additional age," he says.

The reason that a culled cow is more likely to be a grade is that it has been fed for a few months in the feedlot before slaughter. Regulations allow more time for the cow to gain weight and improve its condition before slaughter.

As we see it

by Dr. Wali Bakh, MLA
Clover Bar

On Thursday last week, I followed through with a commitment to my constituents to bring forward in the next few weeks a report on the most serious environmental problems in the province, particularly as they affect agriculture and small holdings.

I asked specifically for establishment of a Select Committee of the Legislature to study the problem.

On Friday, the committee was established. I am sure that the committee will be able to bring forward a report by the end of the year.

Report from your L.A.

by John S. Balfour

As the spring session progresses, some important announcements have been made.

The minister responsible for culture, in a ministerial statement, provided the assembly with additional information regarding the Provincial Cultural Facility Grant Program. The program will allow organizations in Alberta to apply for direct financial assistance for capital expenditures to establish, renovate, furnish, equip, or improve cultural facilities. The assistance is available to non-profit, amateur citizens or organizations which are incorporated under the Societies Act or the Companies Act or the Provincial Corporations Act.

Municipal Authorities to apply on behalf of similar organizations.

Financial assistance will be a basic, non-recurring grant not to exceed $50,000 and up to $200,00 on a matching basis. An organization must have more than one application, however, funding will be on a first-come, first-served basis. Applications will not exceed $3,000. Applications will have to be submitted before December 31st in each year and applications will be processed as received.

The deputy premier and minister of economic development informed the assembly of his productive meeting with the Minister of Economic Development for the province of British Columbia. There was a strong agreement in the need to jointly maintain the feasibility of constructing a fertilizer plant in the area.

There was also agreement to work together on a common policy on the use of water, adequate port access and territorial facilities as well as Canadian producers will be able to take advantage of marketing opportunities in the U.S.

The minister of housing and public works announced the extension of the Home Start program to provide grants up to $1,000 to landlords and tenants as well as limited low income home owners to adapt their premises to facilitate handicapped persons.

The minister of agriculture reported to the assembly that the minister of agriculture has been asked to look into the longhorn problem on strike. Even though I have three outlets for my exports, these experts are saying that the longhorn problem is not continuing enough to be a matter of concern. They are trying to get the longhorn problem to be a matter of concern.

Dominion Day

We're not sure if there's a connection between observing Dominion Day on the First of July, and giving a bit of thought to the prize we have in our form of democracy. But it seems there's enough connection to dwell on the matter for a few moments.

Specifically, of course, Dominion Day, which is still the Dominion Day, was instituted to commemorate the first beginnings of this nation of ours, stretching from sea unto sea, and its continued existence. And strange as it may seem to many of us, even though it's only 112 years old now, our country is still among the senior nations in the world today, where many countries, and their governments, represent nations of comparatively recent origin.

In itself, we suppose, longevity is hardly anything to be very proud of. But what can be proud, what we should hold high as the well known pearl beyond price, is the democratic freedom we enjoy in our country.

Probably this comes home most clearly to those who travel in some of the other countries of the world, if ever so briefly, but where they are brought to trial in short order. To go further, there is no right to free criticism, especially the freedom to criticize the government, or of worship, or the other freedoms we think are as automatic as the coming up of the sun in the morning.

Some fifty Romanians had this brought home to them most clearly only last week when they viewed a film about the eastern side of the border. In his native German village, which is almost on the border of East-West Germany, in the film he showed with astonishing clarity the utter lack of freedom for those on the eastern side of the border.

For them there is no democracy, at least not on the level we know it, and there is precious little freedom. Freedom for that very reason, and also because they know how much worse things might grow, they prize very highly the little freedom, the minuscule democracy, they do have.

More of us should see films like that of Mr. Watterdott. More of us should learn how precious our democracy, and our freedoms, are, because, truly, one could not really exist without the other.

But, unless freedom nor democracy are as guaranteed as death and taxes. There are no guarantees whatever. Only in the way we learn to appreciate them, to "stand on guard" for them, can we have any hope of passing them on to succeeding generations.

That's more than enough to think about, but not only Dominion Day, but on every day throughout the year.

So let's wish Canada a Happy Birthday . . . and many more of them, too.

Powerline is up in air

Final standings in the Powertech Baseball League will be determined until all games have been played.

Round Hill appears to have first place in the league and it looks like Tofteld won't make the playoffs.

Everything else is up in the air.

Only two games were played in the regular schedule during the past week, or teams failed to notify CFWC with results.

It was expected (not officially informed) that game scheduled on June 11 (which they played) included six games that saw Ryley at Barrie, Canmore in Round Hill and Holden back in Tofteld.

Canmore is the only team with a chance to catch Round Hill, according to results received, although Holden does have a chance to tie if Round Hill was to lose all remaining games.

Only two points separate the second through to the fifth teams in the standings.

Tofteld's only chance of earning a playoff berth would be to win all remaining games while Barrie and Ryley lose.

Ryley's fight for a playoff berth means winning both games left while Barrie loses both.

Three contests.

The playoffs originally were scheduled to start this coming Tuesday evening.

However with the postponed games (or unreported) left in the schedule having a direct effect on the final standings it was not certain just when the playoffs would get underway.

The Oldtimers still have two games left to play.

They play in Round Hill on July 10 and in Tofteld on July 11.

In the only two results while Barrie and Ryley lose, Round Hill edged Ryley 10-4 and beat Tofteld on an 11-11 tie.

Standings

Round Hill 4 2 3 14

Canmore 4 2 0 8

Holden 3 2 0 8

Crops start slipping

Only about one-half of the crops planted in this area of Alberta can be described as being in a normal condition, according to reports received from Alberta Wheat Pool.

Crops in regions around New Norway, Swift, Tofield, Hinton and Hay Lakes are all said to be in a normal condition with crops in other areas ranging from fifty to ninety percent normal.

The best ranging in height from ten to twenty centimeters, while in the Hay Lakes area, crops are from one to fifteen centimeters high.

Crops around Tofield are from six to eleven centimeters high. Their big problem is that rate is falling in some regions and not in others.

The percent of cereals around Hinton have reached the short blade stage with crops ranging from seven to ten centimeters high.

Seeding was completed in the Hay Lakes area after very slow start with crops only two to five centimeters high, although conditions at that stage are being described as normal.

In the Camrose area, there have been a few instances of hail damage and some areas reported a germination problem because of dry conditions.

Flax and rapeseed are between four and fifteen percent below normal while other crops are in a normal state. Crops from five to thirteen centimeters high.

All crops in the Hilly region are reported to be about one percent below a normal level and some farmers are still spraying for pest beetles in the rapeseed crop. Crops are from four to twelve centimeters high.

Little change was noted around Hinton with rapeseed about fifty percent of a normal condition while other crops are estimated to be one-third to three-quarters normal with heights ranging from seven to ten centimeters.

Conditions in Daysland changed radically during the past week dropping from normal to only about seventy percent normal and are behind schedule in development, ranging from four to ten centimeters high.

The latest report from the Round Hill region noted that crops were below normal, going from sixty-five to seventy percent normal.

The Homemaker

Maxwell Buchanan
"Remember Your Homemaker"

One of the secrets of a satisfying vacation is careful pre-planning. Alberta Cottage and Corporate Affairs suggests some things to consider.

As a general rule, credit should cover the expenses that will be consumed before they are paid for, like vacation.

Months before the trip, for months afterwards takes the joy out of holiday memories.

By using credit, you eventually pay more than satisfaction for your holiday, through interest costs. If you do choose to use credit for the vacation, plan to pay off the entire amount when the bill comes.

When estimating vacation costs, be sure to include all expenses, such as: transportation, accommodation, food and drink, entertainment, laundry, cost of handling pots, newspapers, gifts, camera film, exchange on foreign currency, and gratuity or tip.

After estimating a reasonable budget you then determine the amount to set aside each month before the trip.

A big part of the vacation is the planning. It is important to search out several sources of information and not forget to get every family member involved in some way. Happy holidays!

A new type of milk is presently being produced by Palm Dairies at their Edmonton plant.

"Never talk to . . ."

by Dan Barr

Never talk to little kids in a hospital waiting room.

This past Tuesday my wife and I had to take our young son J into Edmonton for some extensive tests at the hospital.

If there is anything in this world I enjoy, it is hospitals - they make me sick.

Of course you all there and read the Reader's Digest or anything else that is handy, and try to ignore all the sick people that are sitting around.

It didn't work! This little lady started asking questions and the conversation was on as soon as I mentioned Tofield.

Her name is Mrs. Jila Prefland, formerly a Johnson of the Harbo arm. It was 60 years ago this coming December 30th that she and her family moved to Jila Glen but she still remembers the Harbo arm with very fond memories.

She and her family travelled all the way into Tofield by horse and wagon for the celebrations. Jila was quick to point out that this was a major event, this trip into Tofield and it wasn't done very often.

All the schools in the district participated in the parade. Jila and 11 of her classmates formed a drill team, dressed in red, white and blue. It was truly a great day for her.

Jila still has a niece in Tofield. (The author's) Bjorne (The author's) Erickson.

Jila is in the hospital having tested done and will be having an operation later (Thursday). We wish her a speedy recovery.

Ryley seeks a grant under a new program

The Village of Ryley will apply for participation in the neighbourhood improvement portion of the Community Service Program.

Three projects are being proposed by the village, one of which is major and two are minor expenditures.

The big project suggested by council is the construction of a curling rink at an estimated cost of $200,000.

A second project would be the erection of a municipal library at a total estimated cost of $40,000.

The other project under consideration would be the construction of dressing rooms at the skating rink along with a trailer dumping station, at an estimated cost of $28,000.

When councillors first discussed the neighbourhood improvement program, they had considered the inclusion of a sidewalk construction program, but dropped this topic at its last meeting.

It was not immediately known just when Alberta Housing and Public Works would process the Ryley application.

"We've Reached the Ceiling"

Taxing the sick

Major opposition is being mounted to the proposal of possibly a $10 deterrent fee to users of Alberta hospital rooms. The fee came as a suggestion from the Minister of Hospitals and Medical Care last week, in an attempt to focus sharp attention on the amazing escalation of hospital costs.

The minister, Hon. Dave Russell, said later in the week it was advanced only as an idea, although it sounded at first like a pretty firm proposal.

In either case, the idea is being fought very strongly by the Social Credit Opposition, and the NDP. NDP leader Grant Noddy says the fee is part of a Tory policy of eroding the medicare scheme, of denying the principle of universal health care, and of taxing the sick.

To the extent that mighty few patients are in hospital except at the direction of their doctor, there may be pretty solid grounds for opposing this particular proposal. But to the extent that medical costs are soaring higher almost by the day, there is almost no sympathy to sympathize with the concept of studying every imaginable avenue for reducing spending, or slowing down the rate of escalation.

Deterrent fees may not work in the field of hospital care, but maybe they would be of some help in ensuring that visits to doctors, or spending on drugs, was justified. NDP leader Grant Noddy says his party is out to bury forever the "user pay" philosophy of health care, but this is patently ridiculous on the face of it. Nobody is asking

OTTAWA (CP)—Smack in the middle of the spring election campaign, former U.S. President Gerry Ford gave a speech in Toronto that was obscured, to a degree, with our national geo-political overtones that would govern Canada after May 22.

Ford said that Canada should make it as easy as possible for the U.S. to import Canadian resources - particularly oil and natural gas. It was badly advised as president Ford, was really getting a bum word or two in the left ear when he dreamed the theme for that Toronto speech. He made it sound as though the United States takes Canada for granted as a colony, and that's just not on. In any Canadian's mind.

You'll get strong argument from the fact that for Ontario to have been too tight in selling our resources south of the U.S. is, in fact,

There are vast areas of the U.S. which are over-populated and under-watered. Many Americans appear to take it for granted that there will be diversions of Canadian water to fill U.S. needs, but no American government will give the license for that.

Whooping crane eggs transferred to Idaho

Port Smith - A precious cargo of about 100 whooping crane eggs, which were found in Wood Buffalo National Park to a wildlife refuge in Idaho.

In Idaho, the eggs were placed in the nests of great sandhill cranes at Grays Lake National Wildlife Refuge. The sandhill cranes were chosen to hatch the eggs and act as foster parents to the young whooping cranes.

Ernie Smith, a biologist with Environment Canada's Wildlife Service, says the transfer of eggs to Idaho was a success. The American program to remove the whooping crane from the endangered species list.

"Basically it's an attempt to establish a new breeding population of whooping cranes from those in Wood Buffalo National Park."

Since the only breeding population in the world is in the western United States, the whooping crane is the only bird in the world that is not native to North America.

The egg transfer program was begun in 1975. It has been successful in producing nine young whooping cranes. These cranes, which are not yet sexually mature, will be released into the wild in Idaho and bred in Idaho.

Although whooping crane eggs are being transferred to Idaho, the transfer of eggs to Idaho later parents was in-usually lay two eggs, only one chick generally survives to the nest. The transfer program which involves removing any extra eggs from the cranes' nests has not diminished the breeding success of the wild population.

Whooping crane raised in the wild population is a pure breed. The numbers declined to a low of 15. From that level, the population of whooping cranes grew only slowly, by 1974 there were only 15 cranes.

To increase the whooping crane population, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has marked on a program in 1971 to transfer whooping crane eggs.

The eggs were transported to the Idaho Wildlife Service Center near Laurel, Maryland. There the eggs were hatched and the young raised. The goal of the program is to produce a captive breeding flock of whooping cranes, and ultimately, to release the offspring of these birds into the wild.

Although the program was successful in establishing a flock of birds, no whooping crane has been introduced successfully into the wild. However, in 1977 the captive cranes produced a total of 15 young. It is hoped that whooping cranes may be released during the next few years to augment the flock migrating naturally between Idaho and New Mexico.

Blanching

A different method of blanching rhubarb is mentioned in my new Canadian Cook Book. First remove leaves and tough stems from slender ripe rhubarb stalks. Stand the stalks in a container and pour boiling water over them. Discard the water, cut the stalks into short pieces and use in your favourite recipe. This blanching method reduces the amount of sugar required.

Here are a few recipes for

RHUBARB CRUMPS PIE
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup salt
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup rhubarb stalks
1/2 cup rolled oats (uncooked)
2 T. shortening
Unbaked pastry shell
Combine two-thirds cup sugar, 1/2 cup salt and flour. Toss through rhubarb. Put into a pastry lined pan and add water. Combine rolled oats, 1/2 cup salt and one-third cup sugar and sprinkle over rhubarb mixture. Bake with shortening. Bake in preheated oven at 425 degrees for 15 min. Turn oven to 375 degree and bake for 20 min. until fruit is cooked and topping is brown.

ROSY RHUBARB PUNCH
1/2 c. rhubarb (cut up)
1/2 c. water
1/2 c. can frozen lemonade
1/2 c. cans water
1/2 c. sugar
1/2 lb. of bottle ginger ale Add 1/2 c. water to rhubarb and simmer till tender. Strain and chill the juice. (there will be about 4 c. juice) To the chilled juice add frozen lemonade, 1/2 can water and sugar. Just before serving add ginger ale. This makes about 10 cups of great punch for a hot day.

Stewed rhubarb goes great with gingerbread or cookies, over pudding and ice cream.

Strawberries, raspberries and apples combine nicely with rhubarb either stewed, in pie or crisp.

For added flavor try adding ginger root or fruiting ginger orange peel to cooked rhubarb.

By Art Minkin

POETRY . . . 1980

Not far from the town of worked saguaro all day long, and so frivoly, however in- chow, during the early part of this century, there lived an excellent farmer. Each day he rose at the crack of dawn, he never had any date, or if he had, he always paid him on due date.

barley chop dashed in snell, he never had any date, or if he had, he always paid him on due date.

I never knew this man never heard of him in fact but I know he was there because the country is overrun with such men and the Qu'Appelle Valley is no different from any other part of the country.

This wonderful farmer lived a mere fifty years ago, or maybe it was only thirty years ago, and already he is forgotten, even by those who knew he was there - even by the great grand-niece who inherited his farm.

Across the road from the farmer, or at least in the same general neighborhood, lived a young Englishman by the name of Stanley Harrison. Stanley was everything that his neighbor wasn't. Stanley kept no pigs, because pigs and the Harrisons have never been what you could call good mates.

Harrison did keep horses, but not for pulling stumps. He kept them for racing, and so that he could warn himself in the drive time that spent on a horse's eye and for its inspiration in writing poetry - for writing poems, often about horses, was the sort of farming that Stanley Harrison did.

I don't know how Harrison made a living, but he must have made one, because he went on living until he was "full of years and wisdom." Great Harrison, in a short biography of Harrison, is remembered as a man who had been forgotten as a horseman, and that is the point I am leading up to.

A poem is usually regarded as a rather flimsy piece of horsehockey, with very little of the value intrinsic to a side of pork. But poets, I repeat to say, are remembered longer than printers, except maybe by the short and poets are remembered longer than poets.

Many people nowadays are not quite sure whether Longfellow taught school or was a literary stable, though most of us could recite his list the poem about the little girl who had a little curl right down the middle of her forehead. I know of a student who asked his teacher who wrote the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam.

Stanley Harrison has been remembered for quite a spell because he wrote poetry, and if his poetry is good enough it will be remembered for quite a spell after Stanley Harrison has been forgotten, and that is a warning to every Master Farmer in Alberta. I wonder if the Fifth Column would make more impression if he remembered longer, if I did it in verse? The column thing says again, make a homey cheer - the local paper costs you a mere two pence per year.

Livestock insurance program

Alberta's Livestock (Cattle) Insurance Program has undergone a few changes since it was limited two years ago in response to requests from some of the farmers using the program and from some who plan to use it.

Mainly intended to protect farmers against disaster situations, the program is unique in that it was designed through the co-operation of the insurance industry, the Alberta government and the Alberta Livestock Raisers' Association. Although it is a private sector program which covers insured and grade and dairy cattle, it has a government established independent arbitration board for "grey area" claims. It replaces all sections of the Livestock Indemnity Program except the one pertaining to predator losses. Predator losses will continue to be covered under the indemnity program.

The changes to the Livestock (Cattle) Insurance Program include a new format, the addition of two perils, the deletion of frosty heat, a different method of insuring cattle and different deductible limits.

The revised program is divided into Part A (Named Perils) and Part B (Named Perils Disaster Coverage). Both must be included in any policy.

Part A covers drowning and floods; electrocution including lightning; fire, riot, riot damage; falling aircraft or falling objects from an aircraft; vandalism and malicious acts other than those caused by the insured, his representative or others who have been, custody or control of the animals; wind, cyclone, storm, hail and blizzards; explosion; transportation with the exclusion of any animals being transported by a common carrier with P.V. license plates; collapse of roofs and buildings; theft, including escape or mysterious disappearance (addition to the program); and collision of any animal with a vehicle except those owned or operated by the insured (addition to the program).

Part B covers suffocation, including suffocation caused by animals piling on top of each other, the collapse of a roof or building, an electrical fire, smoke, searing or scorching; indirect losses arising from death within five days that results from sickness caused by wind, a cyclone, lightning, storm, hail or lightning; poisoning; and new diseases that are declared by Alberta Agriculture's veterinary services division. Diseases named or declared under or added to the federal government's Cattle Diseases Act are not covered.

There are now two methods instead of one that farmers can use to insure their cattle under the program: the co-insured method where the animals are insured on the animal unit basis. An animal unit consists of a mature cow or a yearling heifer, a yearling steer or a yearling bull. A calf less than six months old is considered to be half an animal unit, and a calf that is less than six months old is automatically insured under the animal unit basis.

Under the other method, called the scheduled method, a farmer lists his cattle on an individual basis. With this method he can limit them up to a maximum of $1,000 per head.

The revised version of the Livestock (Cattle) Insurance Program contains two deductible plans from which farmers can choose. The original program contained four.

In Plan 1 there is no deductible clause in Part A of the program. The minimum number of animals that can be deducted under either part is two and the maximum number is 18. This policy also covers 90 per cent of the full value of the insured animals, and the premium is 70 cents per $100 of insured value.

Similar insurance programs for swine and poultry are in the final stages of development and should be available to Alberta farmers in the near future.

Further information on the cattle insurance program can be obtained from Ken C. Devine, P. Ag, Agri Insurance Services, 707 Imperial Bank Building, 9000 - Jasper Avenue - Edmonton, T5J 1P9. (Telephone 684-3383).

Changes in Alberta's three trial courts, which became effective July 1, will have little impact on Camrose. The Canadian was told Tuesday by a representative of the attorney general's department in Edmonton.

Essentially, the courtroom in Camrose is conducted by Provincial Court Judge Alex Murray, and no changes have been made in the provincial court section.

The former Supreme Court of Alberta and District Court scheduling which once prevailed.

Further changes will likely be made in the future, said the spokesman, with judges of the Court of Queen's Bench being made resident in each of the province's 13 judicial districts.

In contrast to the present system, where judges are rotated from district to district for periods of time, it is felt no change will be seen in this respect in Camrose for a long time.

Judges of the provincial court will be seen in the provincial government, while judges of the court of Queen's Bench, the Alberta appeal

Employment and Immigration Commission for at least 14 weeks in the year before your Qualifying Period. Then you would only need 10 to 14 weeks depending on the Variable Entrance Requirement* where you live.

Are you starting to work again?

If you're coming back to work after being away a year or more, you'll usually need 20 Weeks of Work* in your Qualifying Period* before you can qualify for UI benefits.

This applies wherever you live. This 20-week rule won't apply, however, if you were in any of the following situations for a total of at least 14 weeks in the year before your Qualifying Period*.

These are the situations that count:

1. You were getting temporary worker's disability compensation from a provincial program;
2. You were receiving sick or maternity leave payments;
3. You were out of work because of a labour dispute at your place of work;
4. You were on a Commission-approved training course;
5. You were on UI claim;
6. You were working in insurable employment.

So, for first-time workers and those coming back to work:

- A. If you were in any of these six situations for a total of at least 14 weeks in the year before your Qualifying Period*, then you need only 10 to 14 Weeks* Work* in the Qualifying Period*, depending on the VER* where you live.

- B. If none of the six situations fit your case, you will have to have worked at least 20 weeks to qualify for UI benefits.

NOTE: If you are returning to work after being away more than one year, the 20-week rule will normally apply to you.

Did you get UI benefits in the last year?

If you got UI benefits in your Qualifying Period*, there are new rules that may apply to you - unless the Unemployment Rate* in your area is over 11.5 per cent.

1. If a claim you had in the last year has not run out, you may be able to renew it.

2. If you're claimed as a new claim, you will need the usual 10 to 14 Weeks* Work* depending on your local VER*, plus up to six "extra" Weeks* Work*. The number of "extra" weeks you'll need depends on how many weeks you got on your previous UI claim. You need one "extra" week (up to a maximum of six) for every week you got over the VER* needed in your area.

Here's an example: You need 12 Weeks* Work* in your region (your local VER*) to qualify for benefits the first time. On your last claim, you drew 15 weeks' benefits before going back to work. Now, you would need the usual 12 weeks, plus three "extra" work weeks. That's the difference between the 12 weeks you need to work and the 15 weeks of benefits you drew. In total you would need 15 Weeks* Work* to qualify again within one year. The most anyone needs anywhere is 20 weeks of work to qualify.

Again, please remember, when the Unemployment Rate* in your area is over 11.5 per cent, this rule won't apply to you. You'll need only 10 Weeks* Work* to qualify for regular UI benefits.

Other changes have been in effect since January 1979:

- The weekly benefit rate was reduced to 60 per cent of your average insurable earnings (from 66 2/3 per cent).
- Most people employed for less than 20 hours a week are no longer covered by UI.
- Higher-income claimants may have to repay part of UI benefits drawn in the 1979 tax year. This will only affect people whose income, including UI benefits, is over $20,670. This will be explained when you get your 1979 tax return.

These changes haven't changed: Just as a review, these points haven't changed: You may still get UI illness and maternity benefits and the special benefit paid at age 65 if you've worked 20 weeks in your Qualifying Period*.

There's still a two-week waiting period before UI benefit start.

To get regular benefits, you must still be available for and looking for work each day you are on claim.

You must report any work and earnings while on claim.

Canadians could do worse

A possible cure for what appears to be a terminal UI ailment was offered last week by a recent visitor to the office of The Mercury.

During the interview, Dr. Peter Jones of Vancouver indicated that a form of myopia had invaded Canada, affecting vast segments of the population and becoming solidly entrenched through the country.

His prognosis took an even stronger turn when he suggested that the disease might be self-inflicted, however subtle.

The symptoms of the malady are numerous more than ever before. It can be treated successfully, he has the advantage of perspective, coming to Canada 15 years ago from England, teaching religious studies and history for a decade at Concordia University, spending almost five years with the Canadian Council of Churches and a year in the United States, finally moving into his present position as Executive Director of Food For The Hungry.

According to Dr. Jones, shortsightedness is the potentially fatal ingredient that eventually may leave this country party, yet he has devised a simple, yet slightly painful (though not physically) cure.

At one-time outsider-looking in, he proposes that the insiders start looking out.

"Canada has been obsessed with internal problems in the last decade," Dr. Jones said, suggesting that the country might become more aware of looking outside to areas of the world whose problems are far greater than the ones found here.

By doing so, Canadians would see they are included in the 20 percent of the world's population that is gobbling up all percent of the resources on this planet, he said.

But it's the other 80 percent that interests Dr. Jones and his organization, which concentrates on feeding hungry people around the world as better yet, helps them to feed themselves.

The Vancouver-based P.F.H. affiliated with a territorial body of the same name, has been operating in Canada for the past few years, depending mainly on private donations to carry on its program.

Dr. Jones said a stable rate of doesn't increase at the rate of about 10 percent, such as providing housing for the homeless, but has now reached 80 million.

The money is used to finance a wide range of projects to alleviate the plight of people in underdeveloped areas and right now, P.F.H. has noted on the list of the problems, the "drinking water" as one of its goals.

As an example, Dr. Jones pointed to northwestern Saskatchewan, where a shortage of drinking water was created when the rivers changed course.

More information on P.F.H. programs can be obtained by writing to Food For The Hungry, P.O. Box 2000, Vancouver, B.C. V6Z 2Y7.

Explaining UI terms:

This means weeks of work that are insurable for Unemployment Insurance. Most employment of 20 hours or more a week is insurable.

*Qualifying Period

What UI calls your Qualifying Period is the 52 weeks before we start your claim. Or if you had a claim in the last year, it's the time since your last claim started.

*Variable Entrance Requirement (VER)

To qualify for Unemployment Insurance benefits, you must have worked from 10 to 14 weeks in insurable employment during your Qualifying Period*. The exact number of weeks depends on the Unemployment Rate* in the economic region where you live. (See below).

If you don't have enough weeks to qualify on your file your claim, we keep your application in the computer file. If the Unemployment Rate* changes so you then have the weeks you need, we will send you a notice.

*Unemployment Rate

For Unemployment Insurance, the Unemployment Rate* used for each of the 48 economic regions of Canada is set the current monthly Statistics Canada unemployment rate in that region. It is a three-month average of seasonally-adjusted monthly unemployment rates.

Recreation news

Viking has hired their summer playground staff, and are busy organizing tennis lessons, etc. for the summer months. Baseball and softball are also going along well.

In Bylaw a Homecoming Committee is very busy right now working for the homecoming being held July 30-31, 1979. Construction will also commence shortly for the washrooms at the skating rink and the sewer dumping station.

Baseball and softball are pretty well finished for the season. Swimming programs are in progress and are well attended. The Sports Day was very successful this year. It was held on June 16th. Two S.T.E.P. students have been hired for the summer and they will be involved in the beautification of the town of Ryley.

Around the town

Dr. and Mrs. Freestary enjoyed a holiday with Colin and Michael Freestary at the Opiskin Lake Resort, Rideau Country, Ontario. On June 17, they attended the annual Garden Party which was held at the Government House. This being the "Year of the Child" events and music were suited to the children. F.I.S.T. Rock band included.

Lucy and Larne Anderson have returned from a holiday to Saskatchewan where they visited with Lucy's sister as well as spending some time at Meadow Lake Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Purvis of B.C. were visiting in Tofield July 1st.

Frolic in the pool

This boy from the Burgess School in Camrose is enjoying the water of the Camrose Memorial Swimming Pool on a sunny afternoon. Several members of the school's staff chaperoned a group of students for the aquatic activities last week.

From one good energy manager...

You may think of an energy manager as a power plant engineer. You're right. But energy management is important to your home too!

Why? For one thing, we have to use Alberta's non-renewable resources to generate your electricity. For another, the costs of building and operating additional facilities are escalating.

The more you do to manage energy at home, the more you can save on your electricity bill now. And the more you'll help keep future cost increases to a manageable level. There are many ways to manage electricity yet will enjoy a good lifestyle.

Most are little ways.

- Turning off lights when not needed does save electricity.
- Carefully select appliances that use less electricity than larger ones, so for small amounts of cooking, use your Toaster or "toaster oven."
- Wash only full loads in your dishwasher.
- Plug your energy day so avoid using major appliances during the 7 p.m. "peak load" period.

Conserve... it's worth the energy!

POWER LINES AND BARBED WIRE — Power lines and barbed wire fences near marshes are hazards to flying waterfowl. Many casualties occur when the birds are flying low, especially in fog, bad weather, or during migration when flights take place at night. During courtship or in defence of territory, birds will dart about at high speeds, rising and dropping as they wing about the marsh. In some instances, they can be caught on a barbed wire fence and will be unable to break free. Any head-on contact with wires means almost instant death.

Muddy conditions shorten Sports Day

Muddy ground conditions caused by heavy rain did not dampen the spirits at Tofield's annual sports day on Monday.

Despite cancellation of several events Tofield residents lined the streets to watch the parade and the family fun run.

Many people started the day off right with pancakes and sausages at the pancake breakfast at That Place.

Later in the day 30 people participated in a shortened version of the scheduled gymnastics events. The weight lifting competition, historical display and bingo took place as scheduled. However, wet ground conditions forced cancellation of the baseball tournament. There was a hose laying contest, the barbecue and the family race.

Marsh World

MUSKAT EAT-OUTS — An important addition to any cattail marsh is the presence of muskrats. If cattail is allowed to grow unchecked it will quickly choke out other marsh plants and completely blanket the water area, making it unsuitable to waterfowl. "Eat-outs" (areas cleared by muskrats for food or building material) create open areas through dense stands of cattail. This increases the available "shoreline," enabling more pairs of ducks to use the area. Another vital role muskrats play in the marsh is that their houses provide loafing sites for ducks, coots and other marsh birds.

ADC lending farmers
tops $30 million

Direct loans to Alberta farmers exceeded $30 million in the fiscal year that ended March 31, 1979 reports Lorne Orde of Camrose, chairman of the Agricultural Development Corporation (ADC). Of the figures over $8 million was lent to 34 young beginning farmers, who without the corporation's assistance would not have been able to start farming. Total loans outstanding to farmers are now in excess of $15 million.

In addition, over $54 million was provided by other lenders under the corporation's Alberta Farm Development Loan Guarantee (AFDL). It enables farmers to obtain financing from other lenders at favourable interest rates because ADC guarantees a portion of the borrowing. Nearly $8 million worth of loans have been guaranteed by specific guarantees to agribusinesses and farmers who were unable to secure an AFDL. These guarantees enable farmers and agribusinesses to obtain financing at preferential rates from conventional lenders.

ADC maintains an ongoing review of all its programs to ensure that they meet the needs of Alberta's farmers. As a result two new programs were introduced. Farmers who presently do not have viable units may qualify for the Farm Starter Package which provides incentive rebates on direct loans used for land development. The Sheep Producers' Incentive Rebate Program is designed to encourage sheep production in Alberta, and, as its name indicates, does this by providing incentive rebates. In the corporation's continuing attempt to encourage improved productivity of Alberta's family farms, more than $800,000 in incentive rebates were provided to farmers during the past year. In addition to this, consulting was given by the corporation's staff to more than 13,000 farmers and potential farmers to help them develop a suitable financial package for their situations.

The corporation has its head office in Camrose and operates through its field staff who are located in more than 30 locations throughout the province.

God's Country as believers
Because of Canada's cultural mosaic, until now there has never been a spiritual movement that has touched the whole nation. The current Christian revival extends from one end of the country to the other. It not only crosses denominational lines but it actually brings Christians together.
How did all this start? All Reformers set out to find some answer. As Reformers, counsellors, teacher, researcher, writer and Anglican priest, is also an answer for and occasional co-host of the Christian television program, 100 Housley Street.

MARGULIES

John S. Bataik
As the last week of the session proceeds end of the time taken has been spent in securing reading and committee of the whole on bills which require approval. Considerable time is taken up in committee of supply which is reviewing and creating the provincial budget.

Although much criticism has been placed on hospitals and health care it is appalling to see over one quarter of the Provincial Budget spent on hospitals and health care. A 14.1 per cent increase in hospital care is being approved which amounts to $120,000. With the amount being spent from the Heritage Savings Trust Fund the total will exceed $1 billion. There will be a 28 per cent increase in hospital care. The provincial government is capital construction. It will be interesting to note that health care increases will cost over $120 million.

Since 1970 over 100 towns and villages have installed water and sewage systems. Such programs have helped to reverse the rural exodus of population. Increased usage of water through systems created problems for a number of towns and villages.

This week I proposed a motion that the Legislature consider the appropriation of money from the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund to finance water and sewage treatment and distribution systems where present systems are inadequate. With the exception of Two Hills and Hairy Hill, all other town municipalities are concerned about their future sewage disposal.

A debate followed on the motion. But then, maybe it had to listen to the voters. It couldn't hide in the anonymity and remoteness of a provincial department.

But then, where's their MLA? Don't be, too, have to drive over them?

reduction of this motion. The House from 1970 has criticized the motion severely at first, but at the end of the session.

The estimate of the budget of the minister of culture were reviewed in a sub-committee. The estimate of the minister of culture were reviewed in a sub-committee.

Forty-six counties have been granted for the year. The annual grant for the year is $2,000. Grants of $2,000 will be available to seniors whose income is under $6,000, $1,500 to those whose income is between $6,000 and $10,000, and $1,000 to those whose income is between $10,000 and $12,000.

The senior citizens will have five years from date of approval to spend their funds. Applicants who were awarded a grant under the Senior Citizens program are eligible if they meet the income requirements.

Senior citizens will also be eligible for the program to repair or purchase of vehicles, refrigerators, stoves, and washers. It is expected that 15,000 senior citizens will be assisted.

At the Assembly adjourned on Monday night. In contact, I very much of the constituency. Reaching the activities that are stated in all the communities I do envision that I will have a busy summer.

I would like to express my appreciation to those weekly with all other such burning. The most will be done when it is for tender and pulls away easily from the loose.

A barbecue picnic can be put on the last 5 minutes of getting for extra favor. Although outdoor eating means fun, sun and relaxation, it also means extra caution for food safety.

Bacteria grows in food best between 40 degrees F and 140 degrees F. When preparing and transporting foods to the picnic be sure to keep hot foods hot, (above 140 degrees F) and cold foods cold (below 40 degrees F). This rule is most important when dealing with meats.

When packing cooked large blocks of ice will help to keep it cool longer than crushed ice.

Meats to be cooked at the picnic should be kept in a cooler. Fully cooked meats should be kept in a cooler and reheated in a covered pot.

Hard on cars

Many Camrose area drivers have felt that the west end of Highway 13, from the Janssen Farm area to Wetaskiwin, must be one of the roughest roads in the province, but as they watched reconstruction after section improved under annual contracts they felt resigned to seeing reconstruction move slowly.

We've run into a situation a few days ago which by all odds makes Highway 13 look fairly good. Why, it's no trouble to drive to kilometre per hour and you can even go up to 60 or so if you want in places on the west end of highway 13.

But we tried to drive to Beaumont recently, and used at least four, possibly five, different roads in our attempt. No speed is possible anywhere, and in some areas we found it difficult to keep our cars from slipping, without simply shaking a car to pieces 25, incidentally, just to place it in perspective, is slower than the crawl through a school zone.

We know some people in Beaumont are up in arms over their roads, and well they should be. By holding back on construction, even by delaying it, the government must be adding unnecessary to the cost of vehicle maintenance and upkeep.

Nobody communicates there could be expected to drive those speeds all the time, yet there's no better way in or out, according to our checks, the roads are the province's responsibility, not that of the county, and it must be admitted the county used to do an excellent job.

But then, maybe it had to listen to the voters. It couldn't hide in the anonymity and remoteness of a provincial department.

But then, where's their MLA? Don't be, too, have to drive over them?

2 Dollars Per Year

IT'S BIRTHDAY I have often said myself that I had not made me a provincial MLA. I have often said myself that I had not made me a provincial MLA.

But then, maybe it had to listen to the voters. It couldn't hide in the anonymity and remoteness of a provincial department.

But then, where's their MLA? Don't be, too, have to drive over them?

for at least 14 weeks in the year before your Qualifying Period. Then you need only need 10 to 14 weeks, depending on the Variable Entrance Requirement* where you live.

Are you starting to work again?
If you're coming back to work after being away a year or more, you'll usually need 20 weeks of "work" in your Qualifying Period* before you can qualify for UI benefits. This applies wherever you live. This 20-week rule won't apply, however, if you were in any of the following situations for a total of at least 14 weeks in the year before your Qualifying Period:

- These are the situations that count:
1. You were getting temporary worker's disability compensation from a provincial program;
 2. You were receiving sick or maternity leave payments;
 3. You were out of work because of a labour dispute at your place of work;
 4. You were on a Commission-approved training course;
 5. You were on UI claim;
 6. You were working in insurable employment.

So, for first-time workers and those coming back to work:

A. If you were in any of these six situations for a total of at least 14 weeks in the year before your Qualifying Period*, then you need only 10 to 14 weeks "work" in the Qualifying Period*, depending on the VER* where you live.

B. If none of the six situations fit your case, you will have to have worked at least 20 weeks to qualify for UI benefits.

NOTE: If you are returning to work after being away more than one year, the 20-week rule will normally apply to you.

Did you get UI benefits in the last year?

If you got UI benefits in your Qualifying Period*, there are new rules that apply to you — unless the Unemployment Rate* in your area is over 11.5 per cent.

1. If a claim you had in the last year has not run out, you may be able to renew it.

Crops in this area of Alberta benefited from between 30 and 45 millimetres of rain which fell during the past week, according to reports from Alberta Wheat Pool.

In the Banff region, crops are reported to be doing the best with grain heights between 35 and 40 centimetres. Barley crops are reported to be doing the best with grain heights between 35 and 40 centimetres. Barley crops are reported to be doing the best with grain heights between 35 and 40 centimetres.

Despite the warm weather and wind, rain, Canmore area crops are reported to be a week to ten days later than last year.

2. If yours is classed as a new claim, you will need the usual 10 to 14 weeks "work" depending on your local VER*, plus up to six "extra" weeks of "work". The number of "extra" weeks you'll need depends on how many weeks you got on your previous UI claim. You need one "extra" week (up to a maximum of six) for every week you got over the VER* needed in your area.

Here's an example: You need 12 weeks "work" in your region (your local VER*) to qualify for benefits the first year. On your last claim, you drew 15 weeks' benefits before going back to work. Now, you would need the usual 12 weeks, plus three "extra" work weeks. (That's the difference between the 12 weeks you need to work and the 15 weeks of benefits you drew. In total you would need 15 weeks "work" to qualify again within one year. The most anyone needs anywhere is 20 weeks of work.

Again, please remember, when the Unemployment Rate* in your area is over 11.5 per cent, this rule won't apply to you. You'll need only 10 weeks' "work" to qualify for regular UI benefits.

Other changes have been in effect since January 1979:

- The weekly benefit rate was reduced to 60 per cent of your average insurable earnings (from 59 1/2 per cent).
- Most people employed for less than 20 hours a week are no longer covered by UI.
- Higher-income claimants may have to repay part of UI benefits drawn in the 1979 year. This will only affect people whose income, including UI benefits, is over $20,670. This will be explained when you get your 1979 tax return.

These things haven't changed:

- Just as a review, these points haven't changed: 1. You may still get UI illness and maternity benefits and the special benefit paid at age 65 if you've worked 20 weeks in your Qualifying Period*.
- There's still a two-week waiting period before UI benefits start.
- To get regular benefits, you must still be available for and looking for work each day you are on claim.
- You must report any work and earnings while on claim.

Concerned Abertans turn to solar energy housing

The concern of energy-conscious Canadians regarding the source, cost, use, and conservation of energy has intensified with the present fuel shortage in the United States. While some people worry about the future availability of energy, others are troubled over the increasing costs of fuel to heat their homes and operate their cars. Regardless of the nature of their concerns, there are efficient methods of energy use and conservation which can be employed.

One method becoming increasingly popular in Canada is solar heating. Although Saskatchewan is considered the best province for solar housing, Abertans are beginning to recognize the feasibility of solar heating. The most common solar energy houses are passive. This means they do not utilize solar collectors and other complicated machinery as does an active solar house. Passive solar energy houses are much cheaper to build than active ones.

Rev. Larsen of Bentley, Alta. completed construction of his solar energy house this spring at an approximate cost of $8,000. The house has 1800 sq. ft. of living area dependent on solar heat through windows exposed to the south. Heat storage methods include good insulation and a long rock wall, one foot high, set in one foot from the south wall of the house. The wall absorbs heat from the sun's rays during the day and transmits heat at night, insulating heat and preventing heat loss through windows in winter.

A heat exchanger recycles warm air from the clothes dryer and distributes it throughout the house. The compact machine can also convert cold air in the house into warm air by convection.

An electric system provides back-up heating during the colder winter months. The cost of using electric heat for a three month period would be approximately $30.

Rev. Larsen shows his house to many interested Abertans. Those who have visited his home now realize the energy savings possible in residential construction.

Another solar energy house is presently being constructed north of Hound Hill by Donald and Wendy Prewar. When completed, the A-frame house will have 1800 sq. ft. of living area heated by basic solar methods with an electrical heating system and wood stove for back-up.

South orientation of most of the windows, good insulation, and an attached greenhouse are the basic solar ideas to be employed. Insulating curtains and shutters will be used on all windows to maintain the heat when desired. Rock planters will be used inside to absorb heat during the day and to turn give it off at night. A whirpool in the greenhouse will serve the same purpose.

The greenhouse which uses hydroponic (soilless) gardening helps heat the house during the day. In turn, the house heats the greenhouse at night.

Contrary to popular opinion the house will not look much different than a normal A-frame with the exception of extra windows on the south side.

The Prewars are confident that their new house will be both economical and practical. Mrs. Prewar has attended seminars on solar energy and has also visited Rev. Larsen's house at Bentley. She recommends that anyone interested in obtaining additional information on solar energy concepts write: Office of Energy Conservation, 1914 Hamilton street, Regina, Saskatchewan. One problem or another

If it's not one problem it's another for the crews reporting heavy trouble. When 17 cars went off the C&N track two miles south of New Horley last Friday, repair crews worked all through the night, then into the oppressive heat on Friday. But late Friday night it rained in torrents, bringing out swarms of mosquitoes that just about "ate the men alive". Then on Saturday morning, the mosquitoes went gone, but the rain left the cars in huge mud puddles, and the mud stuck to the undercarriage. Workers above were recording one more to be moved back towards the big derrick on the track.

250 heifers at Jr Show

The Babush Ag. Society announced the total entry for the Alberta 4-H Heifer Show to be 110 heifers and the Canadian Junior Angus Show to be close to 100. The two shows are being held consecutively in July, starting on the 16th and winding up on the 25th of July.

The Angus Show will lead off the big event for Juniors on the 16th when the Ag Society welcomes the first arrivals from Canada and the U.S.A. and the Canadian Junior Angus Show will begin on the 23rd with the arrival of 100 beef females of all breeds from the most exotic to the traditional British breeds.

This year's National Angus event will honor Mrs. Dorothy Banks of Calgary who can best be described as a friend of the Agriculture Industry in general and the Angus breed in particular.

Mrs. Banks was secretary of the Alberta Association for 15 years from 1963 to 1978, helping new and young breeders to get established and helping to build an association that went from some 100 members to today's market and its benefits. Mrs. Banks was born in England and raised in Alberta, where she was educated as a teacher and became an educator in both rural schools and at the old Edmonton Normal School. She married, raised cattle, and a family and is now a gracious and proud grandmother. The Babush Ag. Society is both pleased and happy to be able to honor Mrs. Banks at the 4th "National."

The Ag Society is very encouraged by their efforts to bring a greater participation to this year's Alberta 4-H show encourage more young people to get started as cattle breeders and to take a part in the society in the future of Agriculture in Alberta.

Misbehavior may indicate stress

It is not uncommon for children to exhibit coping mechanisms they use to deal with stressful events and personal conflicts. Children are also subject to stress and emotional upsets but more often than not, they are left without support or guidance on how to deal with these situations. In an attempt to cope with their problems, children may develop undesirable behaviors or nervous manifestations which are indicative of stress.

Once the area of conflict has been identified, it is easier to deal with. Nagging and criticism being few positive results. Praise and encouragement and family support during a crisis period will prove more successful. As is true for adults, children require guidance in developing good coping mechanisms.

The Canadian Mental Health Association has published a series of ten pamphlets pertaining to family life with young children. Copies may be obtained through the health unit or by writing for: "Feelings and Your Child" Canadian Mental Health Association 1116 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ontario, M5S 2Z5.

Typical anxieties are easily handled and soon forgotten. Strange or unusually powerful feelings require special care and attention in order to be handled successfully.

The child who throws a toy or bashes a door because he is angry, is not appreciated, but his action is understood. However, if he sucks his thumb, bites his nails, chews a lip, or wets the bed, he is criticized for being childish or reprimanded for annoying his elders by his behavior.

If he is consistently disobedient or aggressive or excessively shy and withdrawn he is labeled stubborn or bullhead and again criticized for his actions.

These or similar behaviors, which last for prolonged periods, possibly indicate that We're too tolerant

Canadians are much too tolerant of drinking drivers.

That fact is emphasized by a report just released by the Camrose Detachment of the RCMP which reveals that accidents involving death and injury caused by drinking drivers are on the increase. This is not something that is just happening at a local level but, in province wide and nationwide. The local police report merely emphasizes the fact that it's not happening somewhere else, but it's also happening here.

Once all across the country are increasing their efforts to eliminate the drinking driver from the highway. While they are nailing more drivers, the number of drivers under the influence who don't get caught is suspected to greatly outnumber those who do get caught and have to pay the penalty.

Stiffer penalties are required. While the present law allows a penalty of up to $3,000 for a conviction of impaired driving, a check on court reports indicate that the usual fine is considerably less, amounting to about $250. That

If the courts were to increase the amount of fines levied, it very probably would remove many more drinking drivers from the highways. Any increase in the duration of a license being suspended would be an additional deterrent.

While there are many who would feel that any increase in the present penalty system would be excessive, it still wouldn't be as severe as in the case in some European countries where a driver could be jailed for a lengthy period of time while having his license suspended for life.

Surely anyone that is careless enough to drink and drive with the result that a person loses his life, should expect to pay a severe penalty. A person's life is their most precious possession, and should not be lost because some idiot gets behind the wheel when he's too drunk to drive.

Our lawmakers should see to it that penalties for drunken driving should be enforced to the limit, and if that doesn't improve the situation, much more rigid penalties should be drafted.

Politicians are awayed by public opinion. In this regard, a loud outcry from the people might see the legislators enact laws that would remove this menace from the nation's roads.

Canadian comment

OTTAWA (J.F.)—There's quite a contrast in the way two of the new power people around Prime Minister Joe Clark have reacted in the early days of the Progressive Conservative Government.

Clark is very impressed with Robert de Cotret, who became Minister responsible for Economic Development, Industry Trade and Commerce, a key member of the inner cabinet. De Cotret, however, like his Ottawa Centre seat, which he could have won, had he displayed a greater degree of political ingenuity. Clark values De Cotret so highly that he brought him into the cabinet through the Senate, thus giving him a "by" in the corridors of power, while leaving him some Tory faithful who vote regularly at every election, out in the cold.

It has created friction in the Conservative caucus, to say the least. Contrast that with the way things worked out for Andre Payette, the Quebec TV star who lost his bid for a Quebec seat on July 2 Payette, too, would have been a valued addition to the Clark cabinet.

Prime Minister Clark, in fact, offered Payette a cabinet seat through the same route that carried De Cotret to the Senate, in an appointment is the Senate. The reaction from Payette, though was different.

He told Clark that he did not feel he should sit in cabinet in the way he had won an election, but until such an opportunity again came up he would be glad to serve in Clark's office, if the PM would have him.

Now, that is class. That is political realism and the kind of behaviour which deserves the respect of Canadians, no matter whether they speak English, French, Spanish, German, Ukrainian, or Greek. Payette not only did the right thing, but he won respect from old-time Tories who think the same should be played that way. Payette has had a touch of magic, so necessary to any person entering public life, a shrewd sense of right or wrong and human understanding. It will stand him in good stead.

De Cotret? The man has the most impressive list of academic credits you could hope to see in a politician, but the credits are all academic. Because of the way he entered cabinet, he is starting with two strikes against him, and that may be unfair. He deserves at least the chance to show what he can do. As one of the other Tory ministers said, when a better has two strikes against him, that's when the ball sometimes gets hit out of the park.

Who do you hear?

It's amazing the difference in opinions being reported as the true feeling of farmers over the purchase of 2,000 hopper cars by the Canadian Wheat Board. Only a week ago we found one grain firm reporting their survey showed a whopping 88 percent of farmers opposed to the purchase, while the representative of another firm told us the same week he could hardly find a single farmer who expressed displeasure.

We've also heard the comment that the trouble with wheat deliveries lies, most people pointing their finger at the next agency in line, and charging them with inability to get the job done.

Thus, the grain companies say they can ship the grain faster than the railways can move it, the workers at the ports can handle incoming trainloads so rapidly there's no need for overtime. The railway companies say they can deliver more cars than the terminals can handle, and so it goes.

One thing which does come under question is whether there is sufficient marshalling space in the confined terminal areas, for all the cars needed to unload on a continuous basis, and another seems to be the question of what union has to move in and get the cars in and right times.

It could be a highly expensive for the farmers, but the purchase of more than enough rolling stock might prove at least one is not to blame in this continuing nuisance of losing potential customers due to their fear Canadian farmers will not be able to deliver the grain they purchase.

Nature's guide

RECREATION PARKS

GOULDS DESERT PARKS

It's not always fun being the parent of young Canadians. The problems sometimes leave home, not one at a time, as can happen in any family, but as a complete brood. Wildlife biologists call the phenomenon "brood watching."

Usually it happens when two broods are in the same place. The smaller brood, as a group, leaves its parents and joins the larger family. Sometimes the deserted parents protest, at other times they don't. Whether the parents protest or not doesn't matter, the deserted brood goes on its way. There are no winners here, just two new losers.

Wildlife biologists have no explanation for this futile behaviour, noting only that when it occurs, the deserted brood parents make the deserting brood, it seems to be a case of genuine wishes.

They note also that both families sometimes generally take place in crowded nesting areas, and when the parents are too busy to take care of their own brood, they desert.

The phenomenon, however, does have biological, if not moral, implications. It suggests that when an established brood will desert newcomers, they can move birds from one area to another for example, from an overpopulated area to an underpopulated one, or, under certain circumstances, from an area previously deserted of Canada.

August holiday for Tofield

Monday, August 6th, will be a civic holiday in the Town of Tofield.

The decision to declare August 6th to be a civic holiday was made at a recent meeting of town council.

After having a presentation by Town Foreman, Ernie Macdonald, council agreed to purchase a stamper at an estimated cost of $2,000 and to obtain prices and information regarding a new street sweeper.

J.N. Bredie was appointed as acting disaster services director until a full-time appointment was named.

Councillors agreed to forward a letter to the Agricultural Society requesting that they be given priority for drainage from the Arma to the street, and to ask what plans they had for future drainage.

Wesley Tofield Limited was awarded the job of installing manholes in front of the Community Hall at a cost of $1,800. Councillor Watson abstained from voting on this matter.

Mayor Foreman agreed to attend Library Board meetings until a member of council is named to sit on the Board.

Councillors agreed that the recreation bus should be offered for sale, using the tender rules.

Accounts amounting to $1,838.11 were approved for payment and other routine business matters were handled.

Minutes of a regular meeting held on June 25th were approved.

Information for this news story was obtained from the unaudited minutes of a meeting held on July 9th.

Pioneer honoured on 90th birthday

About 125 relatives and friends gathered at the Legion Hall in Ryley in the afternoon of July 15 to celebrate the 90th birthday of Martha Hillier, a pioneer of that district.

Visitors from many parts of Alberta and some from British Columbia, honoured Mrs. Hillier with their presence.

The luncheon was prepared and served by daughters, granddaughters and great-granddaughters. A presentation was made by Eunice Elston, eldest granddaughter.

The gift, a painting of a child, is suitably described from her family.

The tea table was centered with yellow roses and the birthday cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Ruth Jacobson, was made in matching colors. Those present included her sisters Mrs. Ella Skiles and Mrs. Elma Twissman, her sisters-in-law, Mrs. Edith Solberg and Mrs. Edna Gjerde, and her nieces, Mrs. Alma Wilman and Mrs. Lorraine Vick.

The guest book was kept by granddaughter Mrs. Diane

Board talks programming

Summer programming was the main topic at a recent meeting of the Tofield Recreation Board.

Backpacking was discussed and it was agreed that John Bladen should be contacted in regards to offering this program.

Members agreed to include pedal pushers in its program (likely one hour in the morning) and agreed that children not regular members of the program should pay a fee for this program.

The subject of a senior citizens' bus was discussed with members being told that additional information was being forwarded by Colleen Walker.

Lynda Watt attended the meeting to sell details about playground programming. Ms. Watt is a playground leader with the County of Strathcona.

Other routine matters were handled at the meeting which was held on July 3rd.

Powerline playoffs have gotten underway

One series is tied and the other is surrounded by confusion, as semi-finals in the Powerline Baseball League are underway.

The best of three series between Camrose and Hards is deadlocked at one game each. Round Hill leads the other series one game to none with one game tied and it is the last-ter result that is causing the confusion.

Barrie will be travelling to Camrose this evening (Thursday) to play the deciding game in that semi-final series. Barrie had taken the opening game 5-3 with Camrose rebounding to take the second match, a slugfest, 20-11. Round Hill walloped Holden 15-0 in the opening game of their best of three series with the second match being called because of darkness with the two teams tied 2-2.

As of yesterday (Wednesday) morning, no decision had been made on how to decide the tie game.

The problem is whether or not to leave the game tied, or to have the match completed.

In any event, the finals are expected to get underway this coming Tuesday evening at the home of the semi-final winner.

When choosing your vegetables for freezing remember that what comes out of the freezer is no better than what went in.

Freezing simply preserves high quality produce at its peak of freshness. Select vegetables that are young, tender and at the initial stage of maturity. Avoid tough, starchy or woody produce.

Not all vegetables are suitable for freezing. Beans, broccoli, peas, spinach and other leafy greens are particularly good. Vegetables that are usually eaten raw, such as carrots, lettuce, tomatoes do not freeze well.

Tomatoes that are cooked slightly can be frozen for use in soups and stews. Cooked beans are best frozen sliced or diced rather than whole, because the texture turns rubbery and limp.

Many vegetables need to be blanched before freezing. Be sure to follow blanching times exactly because underblanching doesn't destroy the enzymes and overblanching overcooks the vegetables, reducing flavour.

Chill immediately after blanching by placing in cold running water or ice packing the vegetables thoroughly before packing.

Always use packaging materials that are moisture and vapor proof, airtight and tasteless to exclude as much air as possible because oxygen is the enemy and will blanching overcooks the vegetables, reducing flavour.

Armena farmers object to UGG elevator closing fifty-five farmers will be directly affected if UGG continues with present plans to close the elevator by the end of this month.

Nearly sixty persons attended a meeting in Armena on Monday night to try and find a way to keep the elevator operating for at least one more year, and two years if possible.

If the Armena elevator closes, farmers wishing to deal with UGG would have to haul their grain to Camrose, otherwise, they could deal with the Alberta Wheat Pool in Hay Lakes.

According to one spokesman for the farmers, the main problem has been done to the elevator in the past ten years. Farmers were upset because the UGG elevator in Armena would not be an official operating centre (i.e. trucking) and would mean much inconvenience with plane which could get underway as early as next spring.

According to an ABI spokesman, appearing before committee of white (city) council, the institute expects to break ground next spring for two phases of the proposed expansion.

ABI expects to increase its total enrolment to two hundred and fifty to three hundred students in the next five to eight years, according to present indications.

Many of the students expected at ABI will be part-time students at the institute for religious training, while also attending at full-time academic studies at Camrose Lutheran College.

Rev. Robert Heam told aldermen that the first two phases of construction would include a dormitory, a printing plant and national office headquarters for the Church of God.

The expansion program is being financed by the sale of existing facilities, with Rev. Heam, president of ABI, informing aldermen that the church now owns the entire block (bounded by 4th Avenue, 5th Street, 6th Avenue and 5th Street), on which the Church of God also sits.

The third planned phase would be a mail complex on the centre of the property which would contain kitchen and dining facilities, meeting rooms and an outdoor arena.

The final stage would see the existing ABI facility undergo a complete renovation program.

While the first two stages of construction would be planned for next spring, Rev. Heam indicated that other construction would get underway as funds become available.

Rev. Heam said a preliminary sketch of the mail complex to include a library, Rev. Heam said the existing ABI facility is an excellent offering complex library facilities have been donated by Rev. Heam, C.L.C. and Canadian Lutheran Bible Institute.

In response to a question, Rev. Heam indicated that an earlier plan (submitted a year ago and rejected by council) for a complex on Mirvick St. had apparently been dropped.

Rev. Heam said, although he suggested that the senior citizens' nursing home he built on church property in the Alza area.

Govt. to clear CLC's deficit

Chambers Lutheran College will have its operating deficit for the past two years cleared by the government to allow the college to resume operations in the next year.

Rev. Robert Heam told aldermen that the first two phases of construction would include a dormitory, a printing plant and national office headquarters for the Church of God.

The expansion program is being financed by the sale of existing facilities, with Rev. Heam, president of ABI, informing aldermen that the church now owns the entire block (bounded by 4th Avenue, 5th Street, 6th Avenue and 5th Street), on which the Church of God also sits.

The third planned phase would be a mail complex on the centre of the property which would contain kitchen and dining facilities, meeting rooms and an outdoor arena.

The final stage would see the existing ABI facility undergo a complete renovation program.

While the first two stages of construction would be planned for next spring, Rev. Heam indicated that other construction would get underway as funds become available.

Rev. Heam said a preliminary sketch of the mail complex to include a library, Rev. Heam said the existing ABI facility is an excellent offering complex library facilities have been donated by Rev. Heam, C.L.C. and Canadian Lutheran Bible Institute.

In response to a question, Rev. Heam indicated that an earlier plan (submitted a year ago and rejected by council) for a complex on Mirvick St. had apparently been dropped.

Rev. Heam said, although he suggested that the senior citizens' nursing home he built on church property in the Alza area.

Crops suffer hail damage

At least five areas reported crops were damaged by hail during the past week.

However, in most instances, conditions were reported as good although continued hot weather is still needed to bring crops to maturity.

In the Headingley region, crops are reported to be in a normal condition with crops having all reached the shot blade stage (sheaths in bloom) while one-half of the crops have flowered and cereals are starting to fill.

About ten percent of the crops were damaged by hail.

All crops except rapeseed are reported normal around New Norway with rapeseed being about five percent below normal.

Over three-quarters of the crops have reached the shot blade stage and a start has been made to the flowering process. No hail loss was reported.

Small farmers suffered a slight bit of hail damage and otherwise all crops are said to be in normal condition.

Rapeseed is ninety percent in bloom with pods forming on nearly one-quarter of the crop. Shot blade in other crops range from forty to seventy percent and a small start has been made in flowering.

Only a slight amount of damage was incurred by hail. Rapeseed has eighty-five percent of the crop in bloom and ten percent has flowered pods. Other crops are just over one-quarter in the shot blade stage with a start having been made in flowering.

Two percent of all crops in the Headingley area were damaged by hail and crop conditions are that amount below normal.

Eighty percent of the rape crop is in bloom with the shot blade stage ranging from ten to fifty percent in other crops and the flowering process is just getting underway.

No hail damage was reported around Round Hill with crops ranging from three to ten percent below normal.

About one-half of crops have reached the shot blade stage and about thirty percent of rapeseed has flowered pods.

Rapeseed around Holden has failed to recover from damage caused by flea beetles and is only sixty-five percent normal. Flax is said to be three-quarters normal while other crops are ten percent below normal.

All crops around Tofield are reported to be in normal condition and did not suffer any hail damage.

Less than one-quarter of the crops have reached shot blade stage and a start has been made in flowering.

About ten percent of the crop around Hay Lakes was lost to hail and flood conditions with crops otherwise being reported as normal.

Two percent of the rape crop has now formed pods.

Says Jerusalem artichoke excellent but neglected

Although the potential for Jerusalem artichokes seems unlimited, there is still only a small specialty market.

According to Grace Sillescu, a member of Alberta Agriculture's staff at Three Hills, the Jerusalem artichoke is not really an artichoke, and it has nothing to do with Jerusalem. Sometimes called a sunchoke, it is a native of North America and a member of the sunflower family. Tubers used to be eaten by the Indians and early settlers.

Ms. Sillescu says interest in the plant began some years ago when scientists at Agriculture Canada's research station at Morden, Manitoba, discovered that it yielded up to 30 tons of small potato-like tubers per acre. It also produced a massive amount of vegetation above the ground. It takes about 120 days to mature, and it has a long growing season than conventional crops because of its tolerance to frost.

"The Jerusalem artichoke," says Mr. Sillescu, "contains more sugar than a sugar beet and twice as much alcohol as corn." It can be used as a source of protein in the form of a vegetable for people and as a high-protein, -energy livestock feed. It may also be used as a perennial forage crop.

Dr. Mark Stauffer, head of new crop studies at the Morden research station, thinks that the Jerusalem artichoke has potential as a winter storage crop for the baking and canning industries and even as a substitute for gasoline in cars.

The main problem, however, has been that private companies have not been interested in trying to find commercial uses for this plant.

Ms. Sillescu says that home gardeners could use the Jerusalem artichoke as a fresh vegetable after the frost has destroyed other green vegetables. She also says that it can be brewed, fried, baked or mashed as a substitute for potatoes.

Shelterbelt tree applications available

Alberta Agriculture is now accepting tree applications for the 1979 tree shelterbelt plant program. The application deadline is November 1, 1979.

Trees can be obtained under this program for farmstead and field shelterbelts. However, the proposed planting side must be submitted by the summer and must pass inspection next fall.

If it does not pass, the application will be rejected.

Most counties in Alberta have passed by-laws which regulate tree plantings along roadsides. In Shireley, for example, a roadside shelterbelt must be planted 100 feet back from the centre of a rural or district road. If it is to be situated beside a secondary road, it must be 134 feet back from the centre of a rural road. In the case of a primary road, it must be 267 feet back from the centre of the road. These regulations are designed to protect the trees from having to pay for moving a shelterbelt if a road is widened and to prevent the road from driving over the trees, which are too expensive when the trees are too close. All counties in the province have similar regulations information on your county or M.D. office.

When planning a shelterbelt, be sure to enclose an area that is large enough to accommodate all the buildings and working areas and that will allow for expansion (five to 10 acres).

Plan for a shelterbelt of no less than three rows of trees approximately 20 feet apart. The rows should include a row of evergreens and a hedge (outside row).

When choosing shelterbelt trees and shrubs, you should take into account such factors as the mature size of the species, its winter hardiness, its rate of growth, its flowering habits, its tolerance to salt and acid soils, its moisture requirements, its susceptibility to damage from insects and disease and its maintenance requirements.

Different trees and shrubs will behave differently on the same site. If the site is not well drained, you should consider such species as willow, poplar and white spruce. If the site is very dry, caragana, aspen and Scotch pine are recommended. Caragana, willow and green ash are recommended for saline soil.

You can get a list of the trees and shrubs that are available from your planning from your district agriculturalist. He also has a illustrated catalogue of shelterbelt trees and shrubs, which you can look at to get ideas of what the species you are considering will look like when they are mature, and very easy publication.

One entitled "Practical Shelterbelt Beautification," deals with the layout and design of the farmstead. The other entitled "Shelterbelts in Alberta," gives detailed information on choosing, planting and maintaining farmstead and field shelterbelts in Alberta.

New railway steel layed near Tofteld

The laying of 31 miles of new railway steel was completed in the Tofteld area last week by the CNR maintenance crew for the Tofteld area.

Donna Hadden said CNR workers started the project during the first week of June, finished laying the final section of the 31 miles of steel on Monday.

The new steel was installed from Lake 20 to mile 328 in the Tofteld area near the Tofteld railway said Valier.

The new section of track extends from three miles east of Tofteld to just west of Land-

According to Valier, a 130-pound per yard weight of steel is required for the new steel which had been installed in 1961. The steel was replaced this year because it had started to show signs of wear.

CNR pickup crew is at work picking up the old track. Pickup crew foreman Ron Jeffery says the CNR gang have to move more of track to pick up. He said he expects the crew will be finished picking up track in three weeks.

The old steel is being picked up in quarter mile stretches by CNR work trains, Jeffery said.

According to pickup crew foreman, the old steel will be shipped to Transcona.

Progressive Farming

July 13, 1979

From a magazine received it would seem that 1000 will be another good year for Canada Thistle. This weed is not only found in grass, but being equally at home on rights of way, overgrown pastures, cultivated fields, roadside or home grounds.

Canada Thistle is a persistent weed because of its long creeping roots which will spread far yards under ground, sending up new stems periodically. The root is deep in the ground that they are always assured of moisture, the barley crop may be damaged, but not the Canada Thistle.

Cultivation, as normally done, is not enough to chop the roots and spread them over a wide area where each piece sends up a new shoot and a new infestation is under way. It is also reported that some are spread far and wide by wind currents, water and in baled hay or straw. The seeds are believed to be quite long lived, surviving up to 10 years in the soil under field conditions.

The increasing popularity of periodic rotation tillage will certainly favour the Canada Thistle in some regions. The longer these patches are allowed to develop then the deeper the rootstock will become. This combination of factors will result in some potential weeds growing under such conditions.

CURTIS

The secret of adequate control on the plant and its survival to death.

In the case of Canada, not underseeded to legumes, no underseeded to 8-10 ounces of NPK-A will kill Canada back to the underground roots and by the time new shoots have developed the crop should provide enough competition to prevent a buildup of food reserves in the roots. A fall treatment after harvest will prevent a fall replenishing of food reserves, and will all in all starve the thistle.

Productive areas for fall thistle control include 2-40 or NPK-A at 3-11 ounces. Amtritol-T at 4 pounds, dicamba (Banvel Lab) at 14 ounces, Glyphosate (Roundup) at 10-14 ounces (use 10-14 ounces in height and pictures (Thistle) at 12-14 ounces, applied as a spot treatment by, or under the direction of, a licensed applicator.

There will also be two horse races, the pony race and the two-for-all.

At intermission, there will be two tag-of-war competitions, a men's and a ladies' Bruce man will be there defending their championship.

People won't go hungry at the grounds. There will be a small hot dog, hamburgers, French fries, ice cream, but for those who enjoy more substantial fare there will be a food bar beginning at 4 p.m.

This year, more seating space has been provided to the spectators in order that people may be more comfortable while viewing the events. Progress will be available at the gate and in the bleachers. This year's program will be the most exciting yet, Bruce's own version value competitor.

Edmonton man dies while para-sailing

An Edmonton man was killed Monday evening when he struck a tree while para-sailing behind a jeep near Tofield.

Herald Hirschman, 32, died on his way to hospital from injuries suffered when his para-sail veered into a tree, one and one-half miles north of Highway 14 on Deville Road.

Members of the Tofield Detachment of the RCMP are investigating the accident.

In another incident, seven-year-old Danielle LaFontaine remains in hospital after sustaining numerous bites from a German Shepherd dog. The seven-year-old required between 70 to 80 stitches for bites to her head and neck.

The little girl was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Grummet near Hirschman when their dog attacked her. No charges have been pressed but the Sherwood Park RCMP are looking into the attack.

Tofield RCMP are investigating the possibility of arson in connection with a barn fire near Hardisty Lake barn, owned by Barbara Germain, was destroyed in the blaze.

Three automobile accidents were also reported during the past week. Last Tuesday a two-vehicle accident occurred at the junction of Main Street in Holden and Highway 14. One driver was charged with entering the highway when unsafe to do so. There were no injuries and no suits were released.

In an accident on Friday, Kenneth Hink of Tofield was charged with driving without due care and attention after a two-vehicle accident on Highway 14 in front of the Tofield Station in Tofield.

A total of $1300 damage was reported in another accident on Friday. The two-vehicle accident occurred 35 miles east, eight miles south and four miles west of Tofield. No injuries were reported and no charges were laid. Names of the drivers were not available.

On Saturday a 12-foot aluminum boat belonging to Travis Gahr was stolen from the water near his residence on Hastings Lake. RCMP are investigating.

The Tofield RCMP recovered a stolen motorcycle last Thursday. The motorcycle was found abandoned on Highway 10. The bike had been reported stolen on Tuesday from Len Knoch.

Last Wednesday Dorothy Albrecht of RMA Tofield reported that she found a horse. The horse is brown with a white face and a blue collar.

In other incidents this week, RCMP investigated a noisy party at Hastings Lake on the weekend and a family dispute in Holden at 1 a.m. Monday morning.

The motion was designed to alleviate problems of the village council who were going builders approval only to have the Alberta Standards Board refuse their request. The village also granted the Ryley Homecoming permission to hold a Beer Fest in conjunction with their Annual Ball Tournament on August 4. William Wood was present on behalf of the baseball club to make the request. The Beer Fest will be held at the Community Hall. It was decided that the Village Solicitor draft up an agreement with the new owners of lots in the Thomas Subdivision and the Ryley Homecoming. The agreement will be set out the manner in which the lots will be sold to the owners with the lots of the lot improvement. The new owners

An application for an amending of the Ryley village council to approve the proposed conditional approval from Ryley village council at a meeting on July 2.

The application, which was submitted by Alberta Wheat Pool, was approved on the conditions that the local plant site be fenced and that the plant meet provincial standards.

The site for the new plant is located on the south side of the village. Councilors Larry Anderson and Robert Fergusson, from Ryley, were present because they had pecuniary interest in the plant.

In other business the Ryley Council decided to approve a motion which stipulated that all plans for new buildings or additions, residential or commercial, be required to have Alberta Standards Branch stamp of approval before being approved by the village council.

The motion was designed to alleviate problems of the village council who were going builders approval only to have the Alberta Standards Board refuse their request. The village also granted the Ryley Homecoming permission to hold a Beer Fest in conjunction with their Annual Ball Tournament on August 4. William Wood was present on behalf of the baseball club to make the request. The Beer Fest will be held at the Community Hall. It was decided that the Village Solicitor draft up an agreement with the new owners of lots in the Thomas Subdivision and the Ryley Homecoming. The agreement will be set out the manner in which the lots will be sold to the owners with the lots of the lot improvement. The new owners have purchased the lots for the purpose of constructing a plant.

The new owners had proposed the plant site in order that people may be more comfortable while viewing the events. Progress will be available at the gate and in the bleachers. This year's program will be the most exciting yet, Bruce's own version value competitor.

The Ryley Council also passed a motion that the village refund to Mr. Fergusson his money regarding the sale of Lot 16, Block 11, Plan 684AC in accordance with Village Policy.

Fergusson was in the process of purchasing the village, however, Council rejected his application for title when he proposed to move a house onto the plot.

According to Village policy, houses may not be moved onto that land but must be constructed on the site.

The council also agreed to grant $200 towards the purchase of seven or eight Chrysler LeBaron cars to be placed on the power poles during the Christmas season. The chairs are estimated to cost between $100 and $150. The council also decided to inform the Ryley Homecoming Association of their intentions.

Other matters on the agenda were council plans for a new playground and a new park. Council also held a closed committee meeting on the building of the Water Treatment Plant for the Village.

Soil being tested in County of Beaver
The Soil Division of the Research Council of Alberta is currently conducting a soil survey of the County of Beaver.
The purpose of the survey is to map the soils of the county at a scale of 1:62,500 (1 mile = 1 inch) and to determine their capability for agriculture.
The information collected during the survey will be used for: (1) to map the soils of the county at a scale of 1:62,500 (1 mile = 1 inch) and to determine their capability for agriculture.
The new survey will replace the soil information for the county previously available in the much less detailed soil survey of the Edmonton Sheet published in 1962.
Initiated in 1979, this project is expected to continue until 1982.
During the 1979 field season mapping is being done by Bob Howitt and Nancy Phinney in the western portion of the county (Holden, Ryley, Tofield and Lacombe areas).
The work involves digging holes in road cuts and fields in order to classify the soil, determine the thickness of layers, type of material and depth of soil.
This information is recorded in field sheets, then transferred to aerial photographs where areas of similar soil and land form are outlined and named.
In conjunction with the soil mapping program, information on yields of crops grown on different soil types is collected. This information is collected in the county, will be collected.
This will allow more complete evaluation of the soil resources of the county. The study will also determine the soil's ability to produce crops and to support livestock.

Reclamation open house is planned
Reclamation in the Devo's and Hill areas will be discussed at an "open house" planned for Saturday, Calgary Power and Fording Unit have planned the open house for the Devo's community hall, 1/2 mile south of Ryley, on Saturday.
Open houses will start at 10:00 a.m. in the morning and continue until seven o'clock in the evening.
Representatives from Fording Coal, Calgary Power and the consulting firm of McAllister Environmental Services will be in attendance to discuss past, present and future activities at the two sites in the Devo's-Hill area.
The two companies have conducted extensive reclamation studies in the area since 1971, and according to a recently published report, results promise that agricultural land in the area can be reclaimed for farming purposes.
If the weather is hot on Saturday, open houses will be moved to August 11th.

The Alberta Hail Project ended on July three days during the past week. On Thursday, July 12th, twenty-two top and twenty-one base flares were used on a small storm from Chumby to Arma with tops to 27,000'. Twenty-eight hail reports were received, mostly about one inch.

Isolated showers occurred throughout the project area on July 14th. Storms developed in the Wetaskiwin, Millar, Three Hills and Kinsey areas. One hundred three top and 21 base flares were used and only five reports of pea and shot hail were received.

On Wednesday, July 18th about six to the evening, storms developed in the Rocky Mountains to Sandy area eventually forming a low from Rocky to Calgary. Tops reached 30,000'. This storm was high-based with vivid lightning well after midnight. Seventy-eight top and 21 base flares were used. A hail survey is in progress.

with almost 300 women.
The program for visitors to cluded basketball games on Friday evening in the school gymnasium and football and baseball at the Sports Grounds on Saturday and Sunday. The game which drew the biggest crowd and ended in the closest score was a game on Sunday between the Ryley Men's team and a constantly changing team of 25 former Power Line League players from the homecoming crowd.
The Ryley ladies' association was a popular place in the afternoon and Saturday evening.

Two bus tours of the Village, headed by Peter Ness using the Lions' bus and driver, G.
Mendenhall, proved immensely popular. Tour guides, Bill Wessman and Alana
Adams, provided commentaries complete with interruptions by excited guests remembering former occupants of the village.

Concessions at the Sports Grounds, Legion and Community Hall were places for visitors to gather.

On Saturday morning over 300 people enjoyed the periodic breakfast put on by the Curling Club at the Community Hall. On Saturday evening the Agricultural Society's barbeque at the Sports Grounds was enjoyed by about 100 people. Gordon Hosie was barbeque chef.

During the afternoon, the Senior Citizens' Sunshine Club was host to an overflow crowd at their afternoon tea and a sale of handcraft novelties.

Vernor Jensen, on his accordian, supplied music entertainment. Vernor is a former resident of Ryley.

In mid-afternoon, the visitors were treated to a gymnastic program by 10 members of the Ryley Homecoming Club, who paraded to the Sports Grounds Gymnasium arena and put on an excellent display of horsemanship before a large crowd.

The welcome ceremony was held at the Sports Grounds at 5 o'clock on Saturday with George Kauland, president of the Homecoming Committee as m.c., and flanked by these members of the Homecoming Committee on the platform: Walter Stenrod of the Royal Canadian Legion, Glen Hillerud, Ryley Homecoming Club, Peter Ness, Senior Citizens' Sunshine Club, Janet Wessman, Beaver Heritage and Agricultural Society. Also Pope, LCV, Thomas Manderson, CWL, Ruth Munkedal, UCW, Bernice Kope, Limer Club, Glen Strickland, Curling Club, Agnes Elsey, Business Association, Beatrice Wickstrom, Hebeek Lodge, and Harriet Brown, Legion Auxiliary.

Vernor Jensen contributed two musical selections during the program.

The members of the Homecoming Committee were introduced by the m.c., and he welcomed the crowd on behalf of the Committee.

Mayor Albrecht welcomed the visitors on behalf of the Village and accepted from the President the framed congratulations to the Village from Premier Lougheed on behalf of the Government and of citizens Alberta. A message from Don MacIsaac, MP for the area, was read by the m.c.

Saturday evening the Community Hall, its capacity increased by the addition of a large tent on the south side, accommodated a tremendous crowd for a social evening and dance.

Church services in all the churches were well attended.
Most services were followed by a light lunch, giving the congregation another opportunity to renew old friendships.

During the weekend, private parties brought together families for reunion, school classes to reacquaint and friends to catch up on news of past times.

Friday night, preparation of the barbeque pit for Saturday's barbeque, necessitated a very large fire in the pit, and as usual, while the wood burst of coals, a large crowd gathered around the fire entertaining all while keeping distance to a roaring sing-song lasting into the early hours of the morning.

Holden to sell land for a seniors' lodge

In a meeting last Wednesday, Holden Village Council decided to sell 1.4 acres of Holden land to the Alberta Housing Corporation for a seniors' lodge.

The village council ratified the action of its Deputy Mayor, Marvin Gledhill and Secretary, Christine McKay, in signing an offer to sell the land to the Housing Corporation. The councillors signed the offer in the event that no land was available to the council did not wish to do any construction.

The land, located in Block 27 near the Holden Sports Grounds, is to be used for a 44-unit seniors' lodge. The lodge will be similar to the one in Tofield where senior citizens have their own room but where meals are served in a common area.

In other business the council agreed to proceed with the clearing of water and sewer lines. Council authorized Thru Service to go ahead with the project at an estimated cost of $2,000.

The Holden councillors carried a motion to advertise for bids by tender, the Holden water tower. The water tower is being replaced by the water tower a new water reservoir.

The water tower is to be added after the reservoir is in operation. Three by-laws were also passed by council at the Wednesday night meeting.

A by-law restricting heavy traffic on 56 Ave. in Holden was passed. The by-law is designed to limit the weight of vehicles travelling on Holden's main street, delaying the by-law has been subject to fines.

Under the same by-law, no vehicles exceeding one ton are permitted on 56 Ave. between 40 Street and 54 Street. Vehicles with metal axles, hugs, chests or heads projecting from the surface of the street or drive are also not allowed on the road.

Persons operating school buses are exempt from this by-law. Special permits may also be issued where it is essential that load limits have to be exceeded.

In the event that drivers are charged with a breach of any provisions of this by-law, a fine will be levied. A $50 fine will be levied for a first offence while a second offence warrants a $100 fine.

Another by-law authorized the Holden Council to borrow money, should they find it necessary.

The third by-law authorized council to appoint a by-law enforcement officer. The officer will be responsible for levying fines for by-law infractions.

Other business saw the Holden council ratify the amount of $1,200.00 in accounts paid. The councillors also approved the payment of accounts in the amount of $16,000.00.

Under correspondence, Councillor Dennis Danilak was authorized to attend the Alberta Disaster Services Council in Edmonton, August 14 to 18.

Tofield authorizes $67,618 for sweeper

At a regular meeting Monday night the Tofield Council authorized the spending of $67,618 for the purchase of a new street sweeper.

Council agreed to purchase the sweeper from Purvis Ritec of Edmonton. The councillors opted for the new sweeper because it is believed to be more productive than the sweeper Tofield currently uses.

At the same meeting, the council supported a motion to put the old street sweeper up for tender.

The Towns Council also decided to award a contract for the construction of chain link fences to be erected on the township property and at the south end of mainline. The contract was awarded to Mid-West Fence Erectors of Ed-monton's decision came in response to a letter from the chairman of the Regional Recreation board George Baker, which requested that the audit be returned as a new audit is being conducted.

Council also reacted in favor of allowing Orval Jones to subdivide his property so that a small part of the land could be transferred to the Royal Canadian Legion. Jones brought the matter before council because the Royal Canadian Legion Building property sits alone on a piece of land and he would like to allow the Legion to purchase the land that they might be located on their own property.

Kozack families hold big reunion

The family of the late Tom and Marie Kozack held a reunion at Drivest Motel Lake and Camrose on the weekend of July 14 and 15.

Over eighty people were in attendance for the occasion with family members coming from Arlington, Washington, USA; Rickland, Washington; Everett, Washington; Vancouver, Tasson, and Chetbrook, B.C.; Wilkie, Saskatchewan; and Alberta points including Calgary, Edmonton.

Source: Grove, Drumheller, Hinton, Wetaskiwin, Ryley, Dids, Round Hill and Camrose.

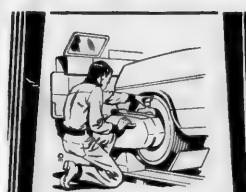

A huge waterer roast kicked off the festivities on Saturday night with a pancake breakfast getting underway at a good start.

A fishing derby was held Sunday morning followed by a fish fry in the evening and much of the two days were spent recalling old times and becoming acquainted with new members of the family.

The oldest family member was seventy-seven year old Annie Patrick of Camrose while the youngest was two-week old Christopher Patrick of Ambrose.

The Kozacks first arrived in this area in 1960 and were introduced in the Round Hill-Dids area, before succeeding generations scattered to different parts of Canada and the United States.

Rauser accepts job to gain experience

A desire for experience in the recreation field was what made a 19-year old Viking girl take a job as Recreation Program Supervisor for the County of Beaver.

Pats Rauser, who has just finished her first year in a four-year recreation program at Camrose Lutheran college, accepted the summer position to determine whether she was suited for a job in the recreation field.

"You can read all the books you want, but they won't tell you what you can learn from the actual job," Rauser said.

Rauser, who has lived in Camrose since she was 10, graduated from Viking High School last June. After a year at Camrose Lutheran college she applied for the job as Recreation Supervisor for the County of Beaver.

She commutes daily from her home in Viking to her job at the Regional Recreation Office in Viking.

So far, the summer program supervisor says she enjoys her job.

As program supervisors, Rauser is in charge of the seasonal teams and is responsible for organizing summer recreation activities. She also informs the public of the upcoming recreation events.

There are always more recreation programs in the fall because people are more into recreation then, she added.

Rauser is currently organizing a canoeing course. She has contacted several Red Cross instructors and she is planning to hold the two-day canoeing course on August 11 and 12.

The program is open to anyone 15 years and over and will be offered at a minimum cost to people interested. If more people should register for the program, Rauser said she would consider expanding another program to accommodate them.

Rauser has also planned an outing for senior citizens for July 31. However plans for the outing and night supper to Elk Island National Park for senior citizens is still tentative.

After she finishes her summer job of planning recreation activities, Rauser will continue making plans of another nature. She is getting married next spring and will be busy with many wedding plans.

Although she is uncertain about her future in recreation, Rauser is considering returning to Camrose Lutheran College to take another year in the program.

There were several Tofield entries in the Lloydminster Fair horse show.

In the Western Quarter Horse show, Erick Holmstrom placed first in the 12 to 14 age category, Katherine Holmstrom placed second.

Dennis Frankson placed first in the 12 to 14 age category, Erick Holmstrom placed second in the 12 to 14 age category.

In other categories it was Rick Hope Holmstrom placed first among the Appaloosa of 1978. Rick Hope Holmstrom is owned by the Viking Ranch.

Many Little Spots, owned by Lori Argenta, placed second in the Appaloosa Adult Geldings section.

It was Kyla Kaye placing third in the English Pleasure section while Rick Hope Holmstrom was fourth in the Western Pleasure.

Recreation audit planned

A new notified statement is being compiled for the Beaver Regional Recreation and Parks Department. In a letter to each of the five governing authorities of the recreation and parks board, George Baker, the administrator for the department, requested that all the 1978 audited financial statements be returned as a new audit is being conducted.

Baker issued the letters in response to a request by the auditors, Deloitte, Haskin and Sells to gather up all the statements issued after the first audit.

According to the letter the auditors "will be making the audit as an additional cost."

It was the auditors who made the decision to re-audit the audit and Baker. It won't be a new audit. The auditors will probably re-audit the 1978 audit and re-audit areas of the old audit and make a better breakdown of figures, he said.

The Recreation Board was not happy with the way things were broken down in the 1978 financial statement, Baker said.

The administrator said he went to see the auditors after the statement was issued to have them explain some of the figures that were confusing.

His visit to the auditors may have made them decide to re-audit the audit, he said.

Earlier this year Tofield withdrew from the Recreation Board when their request for a new detailed audited statement was refused.

Tofield were council had also felt that they weren't getting their money's worth from the recreation board.

"They (Tofield) weren't satisfied with the financial statement and they didn't want to take the time to study it," Baker said.

"I am working on a book to show each of the governing authorities what they have put into the recreation board and what they get back. But they didn't want to wait for that either," he said.

A Century of Living

By Grace Phillips
The appropriate number of people, one hundred, helped Mark Ferguson (formerly of Tofield, now of the Rimby Nursing Home, celebrate his one hundred birthday on Sunday, in the Rimby United Church.

Since Mark moved to Rimby in 1971, his birthday party has been held annually at the home of Gordon and Florence Ferguson in Rimby. This year being such a special occasion, it was decided to hold the party in the social room of Rimby United Church and in the interested friends, as well as relatives, to attend.

Staten Tofielders took advantage of the invitation, among them were seven members of Palestine Lodge No. 48, A.P. and A.M. of which Mark is a life member.

The Tofield contingent consisted of Doug and Vivian Murray, Verby and Ethel Ferguson, Ed and Nola Ferguson, Arnold Swift, Thomas Jack Hall and Grace Phillips. John and Ethel Hall, Fred and Mrs. Regier (the Regiers are 55th anniversary of their marriage) were also present.

Mark is a Past Master of Palestine Lodge. The two Ferguson families from Tofield are related to Mark.

Mark seated in his wheelchair and surrounded by a host of grand and great-grandchildren and nephews, received the greetings and congratulations of the guests while holding a congratulatory plaque from the Premier of the Province of Alberta. Many pictures were taken of Mark with the small children, as well as with his nieces and nephews, and with his Masonic brethren from all the lodges present.

Before the festive merrymaking was enjoyed, grace was said by Bert Smith, a former Tofielder. Mr. Smith's wife, formerly Anne Smith and now Anne McInnes, who was also present, was Mark Ferguson's niece and was raised in the Tofield area.

Later in the afternoon with his nephew Gordon Ferguson as Master of Ceremonies, Mark listened to a short resume of his long life and to congratulatory telegrams read by nephew Gerald Ferguson from Premier Peter Lougheed, Gordon Taylor M.P., Stan Scheiblerberger, J.L.A. and Herbert Lewis from Granby, Quebec who was prevented from attending by an untimely car accident. Gerald explained that messages of congratulations from other dignitaries were expected later.

The lace-covered table at which Mark sat as the focus of everyone's attention was decorated in his honor with a Bible tall candles flanking the all-important birthday cake which was made in three segments one for each of the lodge in 1979 and gifts. Some two great-grand nieces were conducting their own benediction that same day, a miniature version of Mark's cake was presented to them.

"Happy Birthday" was sung by guests to both Mark and the children. Mark received a standing ovation as a tribute to his longevity and as an expression of affection from all present.

When the festivities were over, Mark spoke a few words of appreciation for the party and thanked those who had come to it.

Mark Ferguson was born in 1879 in Granby, Quebec. At the age of 21, he came to Manitoba and then to Alberta in 1904 where he homesteaded north of Tofield.

In 1908, he moved to what was to be Tofield, though at that time it was a mile east of the present town. He established a harness shop which he eventually moved to the present townsite. Here it stayed until 1914.

In 1920, when the Town of Tofield was incorporated, Mark Ferguson was a member of the council. He remembers the choosing of "Tofield" as the official name of the town in honor of Dr. J.H. Tofield, the pioneer doctor of the area. He also remembers the coming of the railroad in 1920 on June 30, giving the residents a special reason for celebrating on July 1, already a traditional feast.

Mark Ferguson served two terms of the town council. He also became a carter, as to some which remained with him until it became prudent to sell "Tofield" house. Even then he responded to Thomas "Acad" need for a lead man in farmers' hospital, the trophy risk won on that occasion is still a prized possession. Mark is a life member of the Tofield Masonic Lodge, which he joined in 1914.

After participating in the pioneer era of Tofield, Mark moved to the Athabasca area in 1928 where he lived on the farm of Mrs. Bertha Seale. In 1931 he moved into Tofield and in 1971 to Rimby, where his nephew Gordon lives.

Bruce Stampede postponed ... goes this Sunday

By Ben Fredericks
It has been 18 years since Bruce has had to postpone a stampede but, it happened again on Sunday.

After consultation with the cowboys and Voids who supply the stock, the 800 rodeo was not cancelled but was postponed for one week.

The parade took place as scheduled on Sunday morning a little damp and bedraggled but, everyone managed to smile, that is everyone except the occupants of the Bruce Hardware float which ended up a muddy mess unable to reach the parade route.

Lillian and Don Teah, who will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on August 5, stole the show in their 1928 automobile with Lillian's mother Mrs. Fredericks in the rumble seat waving a riding pin.

Despite the threatening sky, approximately 300 optimistic people paid their admittance to the grounds and shortly after noon a few had picked themselves good seats in the bleachers. By 2:30 the rain arrived with a vengeance and at 2:30 the stampede was officially postponed. Those who were fortunate for next Sunday's performance.

A few hardy souls still strolled a-wind the rain-soaked meadow, some with garbage bags draped over their shoulders to keep out the rain, but by 7 p.m. the grounds were deserted.

Have we any premiers?

Dear Sir:

I have just told Jim Clark in a conference that they were Chinese from the Communist countries in the last of the population of Alberta, or Saskatchewan, or the Maritime provinces? While our economy is in dire straits and we have unemployment, crime, racial unrest, a catastrophic national debt and also personal debt, and mediocre cuts that cannot be made for even the poorest population, why are the people in the labor of an skilled (in Alberta) uneducated and unskilled persons who are told within in Asia that if they only learn English or French a bit, they won't have to do such degrading work as "dredging for logs"? These people are in Vietnam because they don't want to do any productive labour, why should we be deceived into believing they will work any more willingly? And if they work only three or four weeks they can go to the debt of the year? I don't know why we pay our premiums, and the M.C.A., who are not representing and protecting the people, why are these people instead of making them into the Old Testament slaves? And a contract is written when the people were looking for land, even when they said, and even when my father told me with his heavy yoke, I will add to you, I will change you with white, but I will change you with non-white.

Instead of bringing some comment into the immigration issue, the IPC (Immigration and Refugee Commission) is, rightly called the Progressive Commission, is following in the steps of father Trudeau. Clark's immigrants must be stopped at that and total of 12,000 at the most!

Did you know these Heart facts

Your heart, governing the own power and is the strongest muscle in the body.

The heart pumps enough blood around the body in 100 seconds to fill a bathtub.

There are nearly 800 million capillaries in the body - almost enough to circle the world three times.

The heart pumps blood at a rate of 100 gallons per minute.

We already have an excellent example of insurance available to all at the same rates, differing only as to amount of coverage. Indeed, unemployment insurance is not only available to practically every worker, but compulsory. On the face of it, it's perfectly equitable that young or old, male or female, all pay the same rates. And few among us would want to see the same sort of inequities, the same sort of abuses, or the sort of irrationalities develop in the auto insurance industry.

This is surely one place where equity is best achieved through the application of the law of averages, rather than the ideal of equity. A crashworthy insurance would be as good as a fool who would bet as lightly on rolling the dice for a two or six as would rolling a seven. The odds are just as different.

Canadian comment

OTTAWA, July 30 (CP) - At several smaller ports south of here on the Italian Riviera, warships are growing on the buildings.

There are dangers, however, in once again in the volatile Canada with U.S. technology for construction of our new warships, because that is the route which in the past has contributed to the technological abilities of the Canadian industry.

Defence purchases are the biggest demand by government on industry, and if Canada seeks to build a new industry, as the Clark government claims, we must be ready to see defence contracts go to the Canadian industry.

That means that when we buy ships, we are also looking for innovative and dual technological uses for the ships. We have said-of benefits to civilian commercial uses.

The Italian being used by Canada is a 1,575 billion dollar, and a team of military civil service experts are presently evaluating the five.

Italy is the Italian-Danish bid, the ships would be built in Quebec to bid for the construction of six new warships planned by the Canadian Navy. The price would be about $1.575 billion dollar, and a team of military civil service experts are presently evaluating the five.

Treasury Branches grew up with Alberta agriculture. Just like you.

Agriculture in Alberta has become highly complex and commercial.
Generally it still remains a family business.

Treasury Branches has kept pace with the growth. But we haven't lost the family touch.

That's why your Treasury Branch manager is a good source of financial planning.

Ask him about our Agri-Plan, a loan service designed for farm and ranch needs
- new tractor, improvements, breeding, stock.

He can also help you invest your money in one of Treasury Branches' high interest earning programs.

There's bound to be a Treasury Branch conveniently near you, with over 200 branches, sub branches and agencies

Plans are finalized for Tofield's Fair

By Denis Brown
The 17th Tofield Fair committee met on Wednesday evening last week to finalize plans for the Tofield Fair.

The fair chairman this year is Howard Brown and the secretary is Hazel Patterson. The Tofield Fair will be held on Friday and Saturday, Aug. 17th and 18th.

The forecast will be much the same as last year, with the judging being done on Friday, except for the horse show, pet show and livestock displays which will be judged on Saturday.

The livestock displays will be judged at 1 p.m. on Saturday. This category includes all kinds of livestock and people are encouraged to enter their animals.

The displays set up in the areas by businessmen, church groups, individuals etc., are also much appreciated by a public and will once again be a feature at our fair. Many have already indicated that they wish to set up displays and others are encouraged to do so.

Volunteers are needed to help with the supervision at the fair both on Friday and Saturday, anyone wishing to help please contact Hazel Patterson at 662-4888. Prize lists and exhibitor tags may be picked up on Aug. 11.

Confronting Your Faith

with Curtis Johnson, William, Seventh Day Adventist Church, Bay.

And whatever you do in the word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by Him. Col. 3:17

The Lord requires that every human agent shall do as best, and those that do their best will have the greatest personal satisfaction and will bring the greatest satisfaction to those who have an interest in them. The youth need to realize that they need to have a deeper hold upon them, and which, if not overcome, will drive the Spirit of God out of their hearts. Bible religion is not an influence among many, but its influence is supreme, pervasive and controlling every other influence. Bible religion is an essential control over every day conduct. It is not to be like a death of color brushed here and there upon the canvas, but its influence should pervade the whole life, as though the canvas were dipped into the color until every thread of the fabric were dyed a deep, lasting, undying blue. The Lord will give you understanding in all practical Bible truths as you bring them into your life to control it again and again. He must go to work with determination and energy to overcome his defects by building up opposite traits of character. He will not show this work because it is difficult. Uniting energy is required of the Christian; but he is not obliged to work in his own strength; divine power awaits his demand. Everyone who is sincerely striving for the victory over self will appropriate the promise, "My grace is sufficient for thee."

Through personal effort joined with the power of faith the soul is trained. Day by day the character grows into the likeness of Christ. If may cost a warm conflict to overcome habits which have been long indulged, but we may triumph through the grace of Christ. If we are true to the promptings of the Spirit of God, we shall go from grace to grace and from glory to glory until we shall receive the fulfilling touch of immortality when Jesus comes in the likeness of His Son.

By the grace of God I am what I am; and His grace which was bestowed upon me was not in vain; but I laboured more abundantly than they all; yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me. 1 Cor. 15:10

There are those who attempt to second the leader of Christian progress; but as they advance, they begin to put their trust in the power of man, and soon lose sight of Jesus, the author and finisher of their faith. The result is failure; the less of God that has been gained, God indeed is the condition of those who, becoming weary of the way, allow the enemy of souls to rob them of their Christian graces.

The love of God in the soul will have a direct influence upon the life and will call the intellect and the affections into active, healthful exercise. The child of God will not rest satisfied until he is clothed with the righteousness of Christ and sanctified by His life-giving power. When he sees a weakness in his character, he will strive to control it again and again. He must go to work with determination and energy to overcome his defects by building up opposite traits of character. He will not show this work because it is difficult. Accidents occur in Tofield area

Several motor vehicle accidents occurred in the Tofield area during the past week, according to reports from the Tofield Department of the RCMP.

A two-vehicle accident at the corner of 39 Street and 85 Avenue in Tofield on Thursday saw a vehicle driven by Catherine Norbury of Ryeport, Saskatchewan, involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by Walter Husbart of Tofield, but only minor damage. There were no injuries and no charges have been laid.

Shane Topolitsky suffered minor head and leg injuries after a single vehicle accident five miles west of Tofield on Highway No. 54. Topolitsky reported his car entered the ditch when he swerved to miss a deer.

In another single vehicle accident, James Desjardins of Edmonton sustained minor property damage to his vehicle after an accident on and near the main road of Tofield.

Dennis Stewart of Red Deer reported a hit and run last week which saw his 1975 Ford Mustang sustained damage. Stewart's vehicle was parked on 40 Avenue in Ryley when the incident occurred.

Then Cheryl of Ryley found the carcasses of four butchered sheep on his property last Tuesday. The RCMP were unable to confirm any leads on the sheep.

An abandoned vehicle was reported last Tuesday, 11 miles south of Horden on secondary road 805. A blue Plymouth station wagon with an Alberta license plate number 1983 was found on the road with three children and a woman trapped. RCMP are investigating.

Several complaints of missing livestock have been turned into the RCMP. Harvey Chabrous of Ryeport reported his 1974 Ford pickup truck, which he had been missing for over a week.

A cow and a calf have been missing from the BUI Ranch residence at 8882 Tofield. The value of the cow and calf is estimated at $1,000. The cow is three years old and the calf is five months old. Both animals have ear tags and are light brown.

Edwin Meyer of Winnipeg, Manitoba, reported his 1974 Mustang license plate number 794 had been last in the Tofield area.

Recreation Report

RIS RANGER TRIP
Last Thursday was the day chosen and planned for the senior citizen's trip to the Island National Park. We left Tofield at approximately 8:30 a.m. with two groups, one from Holden and the other from Ryley.

We had planned to visit the Ultramar Pioneer Village on our way but, when we arrived there it was found that the buildings were locked. Apparently there were no visitors there as we just drove through and looked in what was small.

We reached Elk Island at 11:00 a.m. Some of the seniors were hungry already, so they ate lunch while others wandered around the park. Many of us visited the Ultramar Pioneer House which is situated right in the Park, and found it extremely interesting.
The majority of the although we spent playing cards, lawn darts, going for walks, or just merely relaxing. We had coffee and coffee around 3:00 p.m. and then headed the house for home. On our way out of the Park, we toured the Buffalo
Paddock and then Mr.
Ingram, one of the bus drivers, suggested that we take a different route home which proved to be very enjoyable. We stopped in Deville for gas and ice cream and then again at the Tedman residence where the couple were kind enough to show us their fabulous collection of antiques. We then continued homewards and arrived in Ryley at 5:45 p.m.

The entire day was a great success which was due in part to the lovely weather and also our amiable bus drivers. Mr.
Ingram's knowledge of the country and Mr. Ingram's ability to "follow closely" were definitely major assets, which helped insure our good time.

BUYING HAY SUPPLIES

When buying hay by the bale, be conscious of the weight. For example, 8-bale for either 600, 800 or 900 bales is 100, 80, and 60 per ton, respectively.

Generally, top-grade hays are better buys than low quality hays due to increased density and moisture value.
For example, good quality Alfalfa at 800 per ton is a better buy than average quality Alfalfa at 900 per ton.

Consider the following check list to evaluate quality:
1. Type of Forage? - For example, order of quality from best to worst: Alfalfa, Brome-grass, Timothy, Creole, Wheat Grass, Oat
Hay, Prairie Hay, Slough Hay, Straw.

Leaf-Stem Ratio.
Although leaves are very nutritious, most stems are low in quality. Also, as hay matures, stems become more abundant and result in low quality hay.

Moisture Content - New hay that feeds moist or warm when you push your hand into the center of a bale is too wet and should be avoided due to risk of mold or spoilage.

We're learning... and we'd like to share our results with you.

Since 1975, we've been learning how to restore agricultural land disturbed by surface mining for coal. And we'd like you to learn about the kind of demonstration work we've been doing. That's why we're inviting you to an open house on July 28 at the Shaw Community Association Hall. From 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., there will be guided tours of the reclamation test plots, ongoing question and answer periods, along with coffee, sandwiches and doughnuts. Just in case we have bad weather that day, the open house will be held on August 11.

We've also compiled all results of the yield data into a handy, pocket-size pamphlet — yours for the asking. Send for your free copy of the Third Annual Report — Land Reclamation and Demonstration at Camrose-Pryley 1978.

Camrose wins title

Camrose Roadrunners are the champions of the Pioneer Baseball League. Roadrunners defeated Holden in the final game to win the title to take the league crown.

The first game in the final was played last Thursday evening with Holden defeated 10-1. The second game was played on Friday evening with Holden winning by a 7-4 score.

Holden was the site of the second game on Thursday evening with home diamond not proving to be favorable as the visiting Camrose team won 7-1.

Earlier in the playoffs, Camrose had eliminated the defending champion from Burdette while Holden pulled an upset win over Bonnet Hill.

Around the town

Leslie Bailley and his wife Bernice from Kelowna were Sunday visitors with his mother Mrs. Mable Bailley of Tofield 12402 and John and Irene Wain.

Rough ride at Stampede

It was a rough ride for one cowboy as he was dumped

4,000 attend Bruce's rodeo

By Bob Fredericks
At the annual Bruce Stampede held on Sunday, Lynn Jensen, the 1978 "all-around cowboy" award winner, once again captured the trophy donated by the Viking Treasury Branch.

Ninety-four of Canada's top cowboys competed for the $7,482.50 offered in prizes before an audience estimated at 4,000.

During the morning, the weather was unsteady but by 3:30 p.m. Stampede Association members seated as the bleachers filled up and the rain apparently went elsewhere.

Erlin Dorn of Bruce picked up top money in the wild horse race while Bob Gottfredson of Calgary marked an 88 on a barrel named Yellow Bear to take home the prize money in the Saddle Race riding. In the same event, local cowboy Francis Bourque split fourth with Will Hyland from Salmon Arm, B.C.

The Barrel race event was won by Gene Miller of Ryley with a score of 81. An Old cowboy, Jim Freeman, topped the bull riding and the steer wrestling champ was Lee Phillips who hails from Camanash, B.C. His time was 1:14.40.

Ken Baskin of Tisdale took the 10 to 10 seconds to beat the 10 to 10 minutes in the calf roping. Announcer for the rodeo events was Jack Jensen.

The prize race was won by Lynn Jensen while Bonnie Hobbitt came in second and Dean Baskin placed third. Bob Oram of Dewberry took home the prize money in the free-for-all and Gerry Sauer and Archie Sauer were second.

Seventeen pony chuck-wagons completed for the money in that event and despite the rain which arrived to dampen the last two heats, the crowd stayed on to cheer for their favorite competitors. The "all-around" staged during intermission proved most entertaining.

Vermilion and Viking pulled first with Viking emerging victorious. Then, the Ryley team was easily defeated by the cowboys. The cowboys and Viking met next but, Viking proved no match for the Bruce busters. Last year's champs from Bruce put up a good struggle but the cowboys took home the trophy. This year, for the first time, there was also a ladies' competition. The Dawd ladies were no match for the powerful Bruce girls which means the trophy remains at home.

In the horse tournament Cecil Stenrud and Jay Johnson from Ryley were the big winners. They took home the Art Erickson Memorial Trophy and the Stampede Association Plaque in the A Event.

Winner of the B Event was John Stokewitz and Elmer Fuboldt of Holden who gave Stenrud and Johnson a tough fight in the final. The C Event was taken by Gordon Masdahl and Ed Kalash. Last year's champion Williamson and Frygman went down to defeat against Stenrud in the A Event.

New sewage system proposed for Ryley

By Carolyn Martindale
A by-law, permitting the construction of new sewage treatment facilities for the Village of Ryley, was given final reading at a special meeting of Village Council on July 25.

The new facilities will be located one mile west of Ryley, on 20 acres of village land. The site for the new facility is across from the existing sewage treatment area which is being closed down.

The first of four phases in the construction of the plant will cost an estimated $60,000 and will be located on a 20-acre area of the 80-acre village plot.

The first phase of the plant is designed to accommodate the sewage treatment requirements of the village of Ryley up to a population of 250 people. Each of the remaining three phases will replace the old garbage plant consists of two anaerobic cells and two holding cells. One of the holding cells has a six-month holding capacity, while the other one has a holding capacity of up to one year.

In other business regarding the sewage treatment facility, Ryley Council decided to award the contract for the construction of the facilities to P.K. Construction Ltd. for $447,871. The estimated cost of the project is $447,871 to $447,871.

The village council also decided to pass a by-law providing for acquiring land to build a new sewage treatment plant for garbage disposal. The land-fill site will be located north and east of Ryley. The new land-fill area will replace the old garbage ground located at the east end of Ryley. Ryley Council supported a motion to renegotiate a tender with Everall Construction to build a new sewage treatment plant which was dug into a culvert at the end of a culvert and gate to pick up drainage from the east end of the Ryley tract.

Other business saw council approve a motion to invest a $10,000 in the purchase of interest. The cheque is part of a Public Transportation Trust grant is being provided by Alberta Transportation. The grant is being provided to rural communities in Alberta, for the next five years, on a basis of $1 per capita, per year.

Alberta Housing Corporation was granting a permit to build a new municipal housing project in Ryley. The information for this story was obtained from the unapproved minutes of Ryley Council meetings.

required to keep the garden cool over 2. Reducing variations of soil temperature and this allows for better growth of many sensitive plants. 3. Reducing the amount of moisture lost from the soil by evaporation. This also in keeping the soil from drying out which allows for more frequent watering of the garden. 4. Preventing the soil surface from crusting. There are two types of mulches — organic and inorganic. Organic mulches tend to be cheaper and work just as well as inorganic mulches. Organic mulches include peat moss, leaves, grass clippings, straw and compost. Inorganic mulches include plastic. When they decompose they add valuable humus to the soil. Black plastic sheeting is an example of an inorganic mulch.

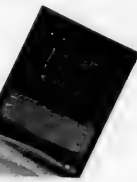

Mulching involves spreading the organic or inorganic material around the base of the plants. The depth of mulch depends upon the type of material used. Grass clippings, for example, may be an inch or more thick, while black plastic sheeting may be 4 to 6 mils thick.

Black plastic stretched over the soil between rows of plants hinders plant maturity and holds in the soil moisture, but it should be removed at the end of the growing season. School Board grants money for play ground

By Carolyn Martindale
The Board of Education gave final approval to two Viking residents to go ahead with the construction of a tree playground at the Viking School, at a meeting on Tuesday.

The board also pledged $2,500 to help cover the cost of the playground.

Donna Watson and Caroline Nordstrom attended the meeting to ask the board to give them final approval for the playground which will be located on school property and which they estimate will cost between $4,000 and $5,000.

The playground was granted tentative approval earlier this year but, the board requested that the plans for the playground be organized before the board granted final approval.

"The playground will be a good safe playground and is designed to interest a wide range of age groups," Nordstrom told the board.

The Viking residents have hired a consultant to assist them in planning the playground.

Nordstrom said Watson said they might anticipate some of the problems that have been involved by other owners was true for the job by themselves. Nordstrom related several incidents where the playgrounds not standing up to wear.

Gary Debooy of Pure Play Pieces of Calgary is the consultant that Viking has hired to work with them.

The two Viking residents contend he has already saved them from making several mistakes concerning selecting trees for the playground.

The residents have decided to eliminate some of the construction costs by having trees donated and by having volunteers participate in the construction.

The construction day for the playground is October 28. On this day they will need about 75 volunteers to help put the playground together.

The two residents plan to let students participate in the construction project.

By having high school students help construct the playground which will be located on school property and which they estimate will cost between $4,000 and $5,000.

Having the community help build the playground will give the community a sense of pride in the playground, Nordstrom added.

Board members expressed concern that Debooy's design fee of $2,100 was high. However, Nordstrom said the consultant was able to give them firm advice and would guarantee the safety of the playground.

"We think he is worth it. He is giving us instruction on how the playground should be constructed and he is making changes to see that it meets his standards. Unless it meets his standards, it's not guaranteed," she said.

The Viking residents have expressed interest in having a playground and they intend to canvas clubs and organizations in September. However, they said they have no idea what they can expect to receive.

"Looking back" is name of New Sarepta's history

The New Sarepta Historical Society has to announce the title of the New Sarepta local history book as chosen from "Name the History Book Contest". The title of the book will be "Looking Back". This suggestion was submitted by Catherine Newman. It is most fitting as selected as there is a lake in the district bearing the name and also the fact that the book deals in "Looking Back" into the history of this district. The area to be covered in this book will be the former seven school districts of Looma Vista, Stony Creek, North Sarepta, South Sarepta, Maple Hill, New Sarepta Rural and New Sarepta Village. If you are living, have previously lived or know of someone who has lived in these districts, the society is anxiously awaiting to receive the story family and individual stories. If you have photos, maps, (Continued on Page 15)

LIGHTEN THE LOAD on Alberta's energy future.

Reduce your company's overhead now and help keep electrical costs in line tomorrow.

Energy Management matters – for you and for Alberta.

Alberta's electrical utilities have completed a complete study. It shows that a combination of load and energy management – by industry, business, farms and homes – can trim future power generation costs.

By controlling demand and energy use, you can reduce the additional generating facilities that will be needed. Because the cost of adding these facilities is continually escalating, the controls can help keep future power cost increases to manageable levels.

Of more immediate interest to your business is that energy and load management can reduce your operating overhead. Depending on your particular needs, energy saving pays can be achieved in numerous ways. Check the lighter side below. Reducing the levels on balls and no-ways, but one company reported a $4-million first savings of 25%.

Energy management is easier than you think. Find out for yourself. Send for your Energy Management Action Kit.

Dorin attends 56th

Brian Fredericks, Grandson of the Year 1978

By Ben Fredericks
This was the 56th stampede to be held in Tofield and it is likely that veteran rodeo competitor Ernie Dorin who celebrated his 58th birthday on July 20 has been present at 56 of them.

One of 13 children, Ernie was born and raised on a farm just west of Bruce, a portion of which he still farms. His father had a great many horses, but he was initiated to riding at a tender age.

It was probably Ernie's misadventure in the Bruce stampede each year, in 1963 he was in the arena at the age of 17 when he launched his rodeo career by winning the bareback bronc riding championship at Vegreville.

Naturally Ernie has participated in the Bruce stampede each year, in 1968 he was in the arena in four events. He captured top honors in the saddle bronc riding, split end and sh in the bareback riding and picked up bids in both wild cow milking and steer decorating.

In his 41 years of competition he won in every event except the chuckwagon racing. When he isn't competing he can be found opening chute gates, untying calves or judging the various events.

In the past ten years Ernie has been the Canadian wild horse champion nine times; furthermore he also established a new earnings record in the C.R.A. in 1968. His greatest moment came in 1976 when he was named Cowboy of the Year at the annual C.R.A. awards banquet in Edmonton. He was the recipient of the C.N. Wood award, sculptured by Corne Marinos of Cochrane, a $100 cheque. This award goes annually to the cowboy judged best in ability, sportsmanship, appearance and personality.

Unusual experiences are common the rodeo circuit.

Ernie recalls being invited to a chicken slaughter at 1000 yards, a chicken not to be eaten. He said he is the first to eat a chicken that has been slaughtered in the field. He also recalls a time when he was the only one who went to a spurs. Another time he was pushed into an enclosure behind the chute to a runaway horse. Luckily he escaped without injury but he took a lot of ribbing from fellow cowboys.

Ernie, who still participates in wild cow milking, wild horse racing and steer wrestling, is best known for his eternal cigarette and his "old faithful" truck which always seems to get him to the rodeo on time. When he is at home he is often observed riding bareback with granddaughters Lynette.

Good weather's having given us feel it the didn't mean he is so sure these things.

Board seeks reasons for towns' withdrawal

By Carolyn Martindale

On July 18, the County of Regional Recreation Board voted in favor of asking Tofield and Viking to provide reasons why the two towns withdrew from the Regional Recreation Board.

At a regular meeting, the board decided to write letters to the two towns councils to request the information. The board also intends to ask Tofield and Viking what the reasons are for alternate ways of handling recreation. The letter will also be used to inform the two towns of the action the board is taking regarding the 1979 budget.

According to the direction of the regional department, George Baker, the information obtained from the two towns will be used to make changes in the recreation department to best suit the needs of the communities that remain in the regional system.

In late May, Tofield withdrew from the regional recreation board when their request for a detailed updated statement of 1978 was turned down. Last month, Viking joined Tofield in withdrawing from the board. Viking decided to withdraw from the board because Viking representatives said they weren't getting their money's worth from the association.

However, Baker said the reason Tofield and Viking withdrew from regional recreation were never presented to the board.

"They (Tofield and Viking) just gave the board notice that they were withdrawing and they didn't provide us with any reasons," Baker said.

In other business handled at the meeting the Board discussed the implications of Viking and Tofield leaving the recreation board.

Two constituents were on hand to participate in the discussion. Doug McEwen, consultant for Recreation and Parks Development and East Hendrick, a consultant for Regional Recreation in Vegreville, explained how the regional board would work under the two towns.

"There are no complications regarding Tofield and Viking withdrawing from the system," Baker said. Tofield and Viking will be the only ones to lose from their withdrawal. They stand to lose about 40 per cent of the grant money they were entitled to when they belonged to the recreation board, he said.

When they were in the regional board, Tofield and Viking were entitled to grant money for the rural areas in the county. However, when they apply for grants, they are only entitled to money on a per capita basis from the towns themselves, he explained.

Baker said the towns who opt out are losing recreation programs as well, since he contends the board did much of the groundwork for programs.

"We have scheduled day-visits in August for the towns in the County of Beaver when residents were moved to present their ideas for recreation programs. However, we rarely have people show up at these sessions," Baker said.

Don Nienitz and family visited his grandmother, Mrs. Nienitz, at the lodge last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Malfred Wilken and girls of Sherwood Park visited their mother, Mrs. Wilken.

Mrs. Margaret Peterson left for Williams Lake, B.C. to visit with her brothers when she hasn't been since 1928.

Mrs. Martindale Eggen returned to the Lodge after spending several weeks visiting with sons and daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim McCowan and Cindy Ferguson visited with Mrs. McCowan last Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Esther Thomack of California was a guest with Mrs. Wilken at the Lodge. Mrs. Thomack will be leaving for home next week.

Mrs. Lena Hyler is visiting with her family in Ryley, Holden and Camrose.

Mrs. Wilken visited with Mr. and Mrs. Edith Wilken last Sunday.

"Recreation people are being spreaded (in terms of recreation programs). If we waited for their decision we would never get anything done."

The members of the recreation board can only get back what they put in, he said. Recreation programs organized by the individual towns are also more expensive to operate. The individual towns will have to set fees too high for anyone to participate, he added.

The recreation board also passed a motion that asked that a letter be sent to each governing authority on the recreation board, regarding the three mill program. The letter will ask each of the authorities their interpretation of the three mill program, and how they relate to the limits were given to the towns.

The three mill program was introduced in 1970. But since then the board has changed and many of the members don't know what means Baker explained.

"Basically it means that 90 per cent of the money we collect from the towns and villages is divided among them and other out of next door to the county."

This is the first time we have asked for their interpretation of the three mill program and Tofield is the only one that has given it to us," Baker said.

Vandalism and theft reported to RCMP

An incident of vandalism was reported to the RCMP Detachment of the RCMP over the weekend.

On Sunday, Agnes McGinley of Tofield reported. Wilful damage had been done to her mailbox on her property, one and one-half miles west and two miles south of Tofield.

The RCMP are also investigating a theft at the Tofield School. School custodian Mrs. Hilda Lindsay notified police on Sunday regarding two gallons of beer that had been stolen from the school. The beer was valued at $50 to $55.

Two possible breakings and entering incidents are also under investigation. Last Wednesday, Idina Weber of Holden reported a possible breaking and enter at the Cargill Feed Elevator in Holden. Tofield police checked out the report but could find nothing missing from the elevator.

In the other incident, a regular police patrol in Ryley uncovered suspicious activity at the Ryley Swimming Pool. A motor bike was noticed near the pool building. However, the driver fled when the police went to investigate. The RCMP found two witnesses had been opened at the pool.

An abandoned vehicle was reported last Thursday. A black and white Cougar with 4-H photographer is farm safety winner

A Tofield boy was among prize winners in an Alberta 4-H Farm Safety Photography Contest, held recently.

Daniel Brown, 13, of R22 Tofield, placed second in the farm home safety category and took third prize in the farm yard safety section of the provincial competition.

The two photographs that netted Brown the prizes were two of five photographs, taken with a 35 mm Olympus camera, that he entered in the contest. Four of the photographs depicted safety hazards in the farm-yard while one photograph showed a safety hazard in the home.

"Photography is just one of my hobbies," said Brown, who has been taking pictures for four years.

The safety lessons Brown learned by taking photographs for the contest will be especially valuable to him since he lives on a farm, and plans to become a farmer when he is older.

Brown will be honored as a 4-H Farm Safety winner, at the 4-H Leaders Conference to be held in Banff next November.

Another photograph on test is scheduled for later this year and Brown said he plans to enter. He participated in many other 4-H activities which are organized from November to June.

The contest was organized by the Alberta Farm Safety Program which is jointly sponsored by Alberta Agriculture and Alberta Workers' Health, Safety and Compensation. The winning photographs will appear on posters and in brochures, reports and manuals.

The purpose of the contest was to provide a vehicle through which 4-Hers could become more critical in terms of farm safety and help them identify hazardous situations in the farm-yard and in the home.

According to Solomon Kermack, many of the Alberta Farm Safety Program contests like this one are particularly valuable because they involve the whole family.

"The children learn by discussing the dangers on the farm with their family, and this approach is consistent with the 4-H motto of learning by doing, and with the Alberta Safety Program's philosophy of family involvement and individual responsibility," he said.

There is even a pot of money for the winners of the Agricultural Society and the exhibitors were hard to make the Fair a success. One more item is needed—an audience to view the displays.

These in charge of the Fair now everyone to plan to "Come to the Fair" thereby showcasing those whose work promotes the event.

At the close of the Fair, an auction will be held of many exhibit entries, such as handicrafts, garden produce and home baking.

We're a day late!

Now out on time it just can't be possible. Most readers are likely aware that our front page notices that we are published every Thursday, which means, in fact, that we are not really late.

However, for the past few years, the paper actually has been published every Wednesday afternoon to ensure that readers obtain their copy as quickly as possible to take advantage of bargains offered by area businesses.

This time it just wasn't possible to be printed on Wednesday. We can hope it never happens again. We're late and we're sorry!

The Peter Brown family of Tofield is presented with the Camrose Auction Market Farm Family Award by Fair President Orville McEwen. The family of Peter and wife Yvonne and children

Daniel, Douglas, Dale and Deanna (missing from photo) won the Manager's trophy and the high point exhibitors award at the Camrose Love A Fair II.

Oldtimers beaten in provincial play

The Powerline Baseball League All Stars won two out of five games played in the provincial Twilight baseball championship in Whitewater held during the past weekend.

Lorne Kuehnel was selected as the Most Outstanding Player in the provincial delinquent tournament, picking up the team's only award.

The Powerline All Stars were edged 11-10 by Pembina in their opening contest and bounced back to whip Ne-Ne Lake 20-6.

The area squad then earned a berth in the semi-finals when they edged the host team from Weyburn by a 10-0 margin.

In an exciting contest, the Powerline League All Stars were dropped into contention for the bronze medal when they were edged 7-4 by Highway 12.

Highway 12 went on to win top honours when they knocked Edmonton 12-9 while Pembina took the bronze medal by thumping the Powerline 11-4.

Subdivision approval requested by Tofield

At a council meeting Monday, Tofield councillors decided to approach County Council for assistance regarding the approval of subdivisions in the Tofield area.

The decision came during a discussion on the increasing number of subdivisions in the outlying areas that are being approved by the Alberta Planning Board.

"The Town of Tofield cannot prevent subdivisions from being approved in outlying areas but we are expected to share our garbage disposal facilities with these subdivisions," said Tofield administrator, Neil Brodie.

"It's crazy," Tofield's present garbage disposal facilities are unable to accommodate the present population for more than one year without having to share our service with new subdivisions," he said.

Brodie said he wrote a letter to the Provincial Planning Board last year, asking that Tofield be advised of subdivisions being considered for approval so Tofield could monitor whether the town had the facilities to accommodate them.

However, the administrator said he has become aware of several new subdivisions that were approved without Tofield being contacted.

"And we have no idea how many more have been approved since then," he said.

Councillors decided to approach County Council since they can prevent subdivisions within the county from being approved.

Progressive Farming

Every year's growing number of farmers are switching over to the general practice. Among the advantages of earlier weeding, that is, the weeding work is done before they start on the ground. It doesn't take the time that crops are exposed to the elements and natural sheltering. It results in a weed-free crop in the field, which is more securely anchored in the soil (unless the stable is very light). Most important, it hastens the time that the crop can be combined and stored in the bin.

Bagging and weeding a crop is ready for weeding when it is a light gold with a slight greenish tinge and the green seeds are firm when rolled between the finger and thumb. Research shows that weeding averaged at 30 per cent moisture has no adverse effect on the yield, color, oil or protein content of the seed. However, weeding at 40 per cent moisture or above causes a 300 to 400 pound per acre drop in seed yield, increased damage and results in a one per cent drop in oil content.

When the seed moisture content drops to 30 per cent or less, the seed is in the firm stage and starting to turn yellow. When the seed moisture content drops to 25 per cent (the seed is in the firm stage and starting to turn yellow), the seed should be weeded at a moisture content of 30 per cent and left to dry until the moisture drops to at least 20 per cent. If combined above 18 per cent, the grain should be artificially dried. To avoid germination damage, the drying temperature should not be allowed to go above 43°C.

Barley - Feed barley can also be weeded at the 30 per cent moisture level when a kernel can be cut with the thumb nail without shattering any water on the kernel but shattering and seed, barley would be better left until the moisture content is down to at least 30 per cent. (Barley is changing to a straw color, the firm when pressed between the finger and thumb, and no moisture appears.) With matting barley, the whole field should be ripe, but not over-ripe because of shattering and kernel damage during combining.

Oats - Oats can be weeded at a moisture content of 40 per cent (Early Dought) with no real danger of shattering.

Full Rye - Full rye should be weeded when the moisture content is 40 per cent (with straw) or it will shatter during weeding and combining.

Feed Analysis: It is strongly recommended that farmers submit feed and forage samples to be tested for nutritional value early this year. Each year farmers tend to leave this to the last minute before they start their winter feeding program. This creates a "bottleneck" at the laboratory and as a result, samples take longer to be processed rather than the usual time of 8 weeks. The cost of the analysis is $25.00/sample and can be submitted at our office (a good representative sample should be taken). If required the nutritionist at the lab can also formulate a ration using the available feed on hand providing you submit all the type of feed you intend to use.

Barley - Feed barley can also be weeded at the 30 per cent moisture level when a kernel can be cut with the thumb nail without shattering any water on the kernel but shattering and seed, barley would be better left until the moisture content is down to at least 30 per cent. Tofield seeks a new 50-bed hospital

... and a nursing home

By Carolyn Martindale
Later this month, representatives from Tofield Municipal Hospital Board will be meeting with provincial government officials to discuss proposals for a new hospital in Tofield.

According to Don L. Bell, the Tofield Hospital Board will meet with officials of the Alberta Department and Hospitals and Medical Care in Edmonton, regarding the project request the board submitted to the department on August 10.

The number one proposal in the project request is for the construction of a new 50-bed hospital with no additional bed nursing home, at an estimated cost of $2,350,000.

The Tofield Board submitted the proposal along with four alternative proposals in accordance with new departmental rules which require hospitals making project requests to list several alternative proposals in order of preference.

The four alternative proposals are as follows:

Council's decision came in response to a written request for clarification of the three mill agreement made by the County of Beaver and each of the three municipalities for three mill capital projects.

At a meeting last Wednesday, Holdens Council decided that funds for three mill capital projects were to be collected as a percentage of the total taxes collected, according to the three mill agreement.

Rec Board future is uncertain

By Carolyn Martindale
The future of the County of Beaver Regional Recreation and Parks Board is uncertain, following the withdrawal of three of the board's five governing authorities.

Two weeks ago the County of Beaver decided to opt out of the regional board, effective September 30. The County was the third governing authority to withdraw.

Tofield opted out at the end of May and in July the Town of Viking announced its withdrawal, effective August 30.

The only authorities who remain on the board are the two smallest authorities, Ryley and Holden.

According to Regional Recreation Board Chairman, Marvin Tomashavsky, it is questionable whether in fact there is a Regional Recreation Board as of September 30.

"It's uncertain because the County of Beaver had the signing authority for the board," he said.

However, the secretary-treasurer of the county council says the Board can exist without the County of Beaver.

"The future was authorized by the Board to be the signing authority for the Regional Recreation Board," he said. "Administration is another service you can't really put a price on. Having a full time regional administration means paying someone to have information when you want it. Most districts will be unable to afford a full-time administrator, he said."

Tomashavsky said many communities may still organize district recreation programs if the regional board is dissolved.

However, the County of Beaver would have to approve the district program before it could proceed.

According to Cross the county is unlikely to approve five separate district programs, mainly because it would be five times as expensive for five programs instead of one.

Cross said he could see the County entering into five separate agreements like the one entered into with the Regional Board.

In any event, the fate of the Regional Recreation and Parks Board is to be decided at the next Board meeting, on September 12.

Holden makes decision on three mill agreement

According to the chairman, the three mill capital development program, which was set up in 1974, was designed to cover not longer than ten years or until requisition obligations were met. Under the agreement, the Beaver Regional Recreation Board was responsible for requisitioning the County of Beaver and each of the three municipalities for three mill capital projects.

Garden Club presents awards

By Doris Brown
On Sunday evening, the Tofield Garden Club held a banquet at the Legion Hall.

Following the meal, the awards and trophies donated to the club by local businesses and seed companies, were presented to club members for their accomplishments at the Tofield Fair.

First to be presented with prizes were the Juniors - those 13 years and under.

Holden to invest

Last Wednesday, Holden Council voted to favor of investing, at the best rate of interest, a $700 grant received from Alberta Transportation. The firm is the first of a six-part annual conditional grant that the Village of Holden was given under the Public Transportation Operating Assistance Program.

The grant is offered on a $2 per capita basis to rural communities, providing they use the money for installing wheelchair accessibility transportation projects for senior citizens, the disabled and the handicapped.

Holden Mayor Osh Rykers said the grant could be used for providing transportation for senior citizens once the Holden senior citizens' lodge is completed.

In other council business, Barbara Macdonald from Alberta Planning was present to discuss changes being made to Holden's Municipal land use by-law. Once all of the necessary changes are made the matter will go before a public hearing.

The public hearing, which is scheduled for 8 p.m. on September 19, will give Holden residents a chance to voice their concerns regarding the proposed by-law. Council also authorized Christine McRoy, the village secretary, to register for a course in the study of local government. The village agreed to pay the $150 registration fee for the course.

"Vertec, the Time Machine, makes earlier and shorter"

Wind, rain, frost, early snow. Sometimes there just doesn't seem to be a right time for mowing.

And time slips, you couldn't do a thing about it. But times change. Now you have the advantage of the Time Machine the VERTEC GRASS DRIVER.

You can beat nature's clock by getting into the fields earlier in the fall and by putting more hours into your harvesting day. And you don't have to watch time and the elements rob your crop of quality and grade.

If you take the time to buy a Vertec now, you'll make time this fall.

The Homemaker

MY JAM DIDN'T SET!
Homemakers jams have been around for years and are the problems in making them set. The Food Advisory Division of Agriculture Canada reminds us that the sugar, pectin, acid and water have to be in a definite proportion for jam to set.

You cannot simply reduce the amount of sugar called for in a recipe and expect success. Don't tempt!

Some fruits contain pectin naturally and other fruits require added pectin to set. Currants, blackberries, gooseberries and grapes do not need added pectin. These jams do need a longer cooking time to reach the gel stage than those made with added pectin.

The freshness of the pectin will keep improved for two years. To test if liquid is still usable, pour it into a bowl and look for clots. If there are clots, throw it out.

Unless specific instructions are given, don't interchange powdered and liquid pectin. Liquid pectin is added to the jam and sugar after it has boiled for one minute.

Powdered pectin is added to the unsweetened, crushed fruit before adding sugar.

For those interested in making jam with less sugar, or as sugar as all, there is a new product on the market. It is a gel agent called "Slim Set" and it sets the jam with very little sugar. For example to make 1 cup of fruit I would use 1/2 c. sugar or 1/4 c. honey, or a sugar substitute. The result is a jam that is well set and much lower in sugar. Look for this product on store shelves and try some this year.

If you have questions about making jams and jellies feel free to give me a call. See you at the 75th Anniversary Exhibition and I'll be glad to help.

A NEW PRODUCT - Watch for a new Alberta product on store shelves. Packaged sour cabbage will soon be in the produce section of supermarkets. I tried the sour cabbage at the Edmonton Exhibition and found it very tasty!! Look for it soon.

Progressive Farming

Progressive Farming is a new concept for forage seedlings. However, because it can cause erosion and crusting problems in susceptible soils, it is a good idea to leave jumps on the field of about a half to one inch in diameter.

In view of the cost involved in preparing a seedbed for forage crops and the price of the seed, Mr. Garsen strongly recommends waiting to find out what fertilizer is needed. He says the fertilizer should be incorporated into the soil before the crop is seeded, rather than with the seed, because forage seeds are up to ten times more likely to injure than the large seed of other crops. An even more important reason is that the fertilizer will kill the inoculant.

Companion crops are not recommended for grasses that are seeded in the late summer or in the fall. The reason is that companion crops will reduce the growth of the grasses which need as close to ideal conditions as possible to become well established before winter sets in.

Carrying a rabbit's foot did him a lot of good.

Is carrying a rabbit's foot really a good luck charm?
Of course not, it's a myth.
Once an automobile has been in an accident, it is no longer any good either if it has been repaired.
This is also a myth.

We would like to show you how we can repair a vehicle after it has been in a collision and put it back into "like new" condition... feel free to call on us and see how we work... discuss your body repair needs with us... Estimates are FREE.

Recreation Report

By Tom Hagan Program Supervisor
SENIOR CITIZENS

On August 24 the senior citizens groups from Stuy, Holden, Bruce and Viking visited Big Knale Provincial Park near Parryville.

bypassing Dayland. Upon reaching the Correction Line, the Stuy and Holden groups, driven by Jim Ingram, headed west and our busload, driven by Tom Hagan, turned toward Viking.

We reached Forestburg where we stopped to refuel and then continued on to the Battle River Power Plant. At the plant, we were divided into two groups and given very interesting tours lasting approximately one hour.

Since this is my final week of work at the Regional Recreation Office, I would like to say that I have met and worked with a lot of very fine people. The experiences which I gained throughout the summer will be irrevocable to me.

to years to come.
At the moment there is a lot of confusion concerning recreation at a regional level. It will take a lot of time and reorganization, but, I truly believe that everything will eventually iron itself out. It is essential that everyone try and work together, not against one another. As the old saying goes, "Two heads are better than one."

Progressive Farming

FALL PROTECTION OF TREES AND SHRUBS — Are you wondering whether you need to give your ornamental trees and shrubs a good soaking this year before freeze-up? The answer is yes.

Herman Osterhuis, in charge of Agriculture's tree planting programs says that soil moisture reserves are still depleted in northern and central parts of the province (particularly western areas), despite the above normal precipitation that has fallen. The reason for the low soil moisture level in those areas is the small amount of snow that has fallen during the last three years. The melting snow in the spring is one of the main sources of subsoil moisture in Alberta.

"Watering ornamental trees and shrubs before freeze-up is even more important in the south-eastern part of the province where the abnormally low subsoil problem has been compounded by the very low rate of precipitation received last summer," Mr. Osterhuis says.

He explains that a plentiful supply of water in the fall is needed to enable trees and shrubs in this province to withstand the drying winds and variation in temperature that occur during the winter.

months. Since trees and shrubs have only limited ability to take up and transport moisture when the ground is frozen and they are relatively dormant, they must have an abundant supply of moisture to prevent dieback. Evergreens like pine, spruce and pines are more vulnerable to winter desiccation than trees that lose their leaves in the fall because evergreens lose moisture through their needles.

Birch trees are another species that should be well watered just before freeze-up. Their shallow root system prevents them from having access to the deep subsoil moisture.

Mr. Osterhuis also points out that regardless of the rain that falls during the summer, the soil near the south and east sides of a house in Alberta is always very dry because it is in the rain shadow. Also, the soil on the south side of houses give up its moisture rapidly because of the heat of the sun.

This means that all plants, including climbing vines like clematis, should be thoroughly watered, no matter how much rain has fallen, before they go into the winter. Bill Brown, District Agriculturist, Box 300 Ryley, Alta. Pk. 988-555.

Confronting Your Faith

Confronting Your Faith with Pastor Gary Barr, Lutheran Church, Ryley.

OUR GOD FOR AN ORDINARY GOD Part three: "The Loving God of God act in many ways. Often we as mere human beings cannot completely understand his action. If we look to nature and to many of our extraordinary, we can become very confused. Is God truly a God of love? How do we know that God is truly loving?"

In the Gospel of John we have the greatest explanation of this, "God so loved the world that he sent his only Son, Jesus, the Son of God, coming to us to die for us as the supreme example of God's love for us. When God humbles himself to such a degree as to take upon himself human flesh, to live on this earth, to experience first hand the torments of every-day life, to feel the hurts of people, to weep, to die, this truly is a great act of love! God emptied himself and came to us. This is God's great act!"

No longer can we speak of God as being far removed from the world. No longer can we speak of a mighty, cosmic being that could not care less about human beings. No, we have God who cares so much he gives all that he can give, his only Son, Jesus Christ, to save this world and then dies for us. Only then does it that God came to become ordinary.

God does not remain in a celestial throne far away from us. Instead, he comes to us. He comes in the flesh and blood of a man. He comes to walk among people in a land on the very outskirts of the mighty Roman Empire. He comes not as a great king but as a lowly carpenter. He is not born in splendor, but in a stable. He is ordinary!

From this extraordinary, from this cosmic being, we can see that God is not far away from us. He is here with us. He is here with us. He is here with us.

TAKE A BREAK!

This is a busy time of year for everyone. Gardening, food preservation and getting ready for school, to name a few activities. To get the most out of your day without the day getting the most out of you try a few of these suggestions from Barb Green, a fellow Home Economist.

— One of the first signs of fatigue is irritability. As a signal to take a short breather. Too lengthy a rest may actually decrease efficiency, since the longer we are away from the job the more energy we have to expend warming up to it again.

— If you are always feeling unappetizingly tired, look for a physical reason first. Take a slim look at your diet and eating habits. If you are dieting, plan a slower program. Also see your doctor for a thorough checkup.

— If resting and sleeping does not do the trick, try looking to your emotions. — Exercise (believe it or not) is a valuable antidote to fatigue. After an exhausting day a little exercise can do wonders.

— Stop racing and start looking where you're going. A major cause of nerve and brain exhaustion is our modern rush-rush way of living. Hurrying usually reduces the amount of energy you have without actually getting you any faster.

— If all else fails, use your sense of humor. Offer a brighter outlook will change how we feel about ourselves and how we feel about life.

"Be cheerful. If all the things you wear, your ex-ter programs. If you have any requests, personally or as a group please let me know and I will try to fit it in. Maureen Beaman, District Home Economist, Ryley, Alta. 75, 965-364.

Tofield proposes a traffic by-law

At a meeting Monday evening, Tofield Council voted in favor of advertising a proposed by-law which is designed to regulate heavy vehicle traffic in Tofield.

Council made the decision to "put some teeth" into a heavy traffic regulation by-law made earlier this year. The by-law regulates heavy vehicle traffic to two designated truck routes in Tofield. Truck route signs were posted. However, sign-ers have been ignoring the signs and driving through other areas of town.

Without advertising the by-law it's almost impossible to enforce it, said Neil Brodie, town administrator for Tofield.

Council decided the by-law would be advertised in the local newspaper for two consecutive weeks. A copy of the by-law and the proposed truck routes are available in the Tofield town office.

In other business, council decided to re-apply for a grant under the Neighborhood Improvement Branch of Alberta Housing for money for a town office library complex.

Under the Neighborhood Improvement program, communities are invited to apply for grants that will improve their communities.

Earlier this year Tofield's application for a grant of approximately $30,000 for the complex was turned down. According to a letter Tofield Council received, the reason Tofield's application was turned down was the needs of other communities were greater than Tofield's.

Council decided to wait until after meeting with the County of Beaver Council before submitting another application for a grant.

However, Tofield intends to submit their application for a grant.

There are still means available to confront our Lord. God has seen to it that Jesus did not come to us and die for us to leave us alone. He promises to be with us when we gather in His name. He comes to us in the word of scripture. There are all means available to us in the word of scripture. There are all means available to us in the word of scripture. Confronting Your Faith

Tofield Drama news

"Confronting Your Faith" with Pastor Henry Barr, Tofield Baptist Church.

Part Four: The Wayward God. In this act of fiction we have been shown about our need for God. We talked of the problems that we have as human beings, especially of God's night. Granted, God is powerful, but this mightiness may keep him from us.

Therefore, the drama has been upon the need for an ordinary God. This God does not answer. There are still means available to us in the word of scripture. There are all means available to us in the word of scripture. There are all means available to us in the word of scripture.

County buys graders at cost of $154,700

By Carolyn Martindale
County Council voted in favor of buying two motor graders at a total cost of $154,700, at a meeting last Thursday.

The graders were listed at $101,160 each. However, the county received trade-in allowances totalling $49,000 for 1966 and 1967 graders the county owned.

The three other bids for two graders with the trade-ins were $185,254.36, $203,410 and $222,860.

In other county business, Council decided to erect a gate at the county gravel pit located one mile east and four miles south of Kinross.

Council made the decision to provide tighter control of gravel being removed from the pit.

"Right now we don't have being headed from the pit, nothing is stopping anyone from going down to the pit and getting a load of gravel without being authorized to do so," Council member said.

Election scheduled

Two Tofteld residents are vying for the position of town councillor in the municipal by-election which will be held in the "Tule" Town Office next Wednesday.

Hans E. Christensen and Russell J. Dryden are the candidates running for the councillor position which was vacated by Ray Pittet. Pittet resigned earlier this year for personal reasons.

Christensen has been a Tofteld resident for over 20 years. He is a member of the Tofteld Agricultural Society and is the treasurer of the United Church.

Dryden has lived in Tofteld for five years and has a lifetime membership with the Royal Canadian Legion.

Polling for the election will take place in the Town Office from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Wednesday.

Watch is sought for Ryley

By Carolyn Martindale
At a meeting last Thursday, Ryley Village Council voted in favor of arranging a September meeting with the Tofteld RCMP to establish a Neighborhood Watch Program in Ryley.

The councilmen made the decision in their efforts to stop what they describe as "Halloween on every night in Ryley."

Council was referring to the mischief and vandalism which has been occurring regularly for the past few years.

"Until you get the public involved, you'll never stop the mischief," Council member Brown said.

Neighborhood Watch Program is a Neighborhood Watch Program on they can assist in policing their own area. The program is a series of meetings where the residents of the area are going to come and discuss the problem with the police.

However, Lammert said he was unsure that a Neighborhood Watch Program would work for a small town since the program demands community involvement.

"People don't want to get involved. There is a reluctance to make waves," he said.

"They (residents) don't want to report their neighbor's son. They don't want to make waves," he said.

"It's pretty easy to turn a blind eye to what's going on. You don't want to know what's going on, you just want to know what's going on," he said.

"If there is a vandalism problem in the area, it's not the police's job to solve it. It's the community's job to solve it," he said.

There is never any problem with the police car as it comes around. But when the police are all of the time, the area is not safe.

"We know what's happening when the police are all of the time. The area is not safe," he said.

RCMP have busy week

By Carolyn Martindale
Several motor vehicle accidents marred the holiday weekend.
Friday night, an accident in Tofield resulted in approximately $700 damage. The accident occurred at the corner of Secondary Road 44 and 47 Avenue where vehicles driven by Terry Lohman of Tofield and David Urdin of Kugman, collided.
A total of $400 damage was the result of another accident in Tofield on Saturday. Vehicles driven by Arne Klaman and Anthony Camm, both of Tofield, collided at the corner of 30 Street and 30 Avenue.
Another motor vehicle accident at Pox last week caused also damage. The drivers of the two vehicles were Gordon Vance of Lavey and Hugh Morrison of Edmonton.

Several thefts were also reported to the RCMP during the past week.
On Saturday, David Scott of Ryley reported his son's new motorcross bike was missing. Bill Doyle of Ryley told RCMP that six cassette tapes and an old gauge were taken from his car on Thursday.
On Thursday, a jack-haul and two 14 foot logging chains were reported stolen from a residence at R246 Tofield.
Holden resident Jack Strambsch reported that tires and rims were stolen from a vehicle parked on the property last Wednesday.

Four occurrences of wildlife damage were also brought to the attention of RCMP last week.
On Saturday, Edna Paudon of Tofield reported that a vehicle parked on her property had been damaged Friday night. Paudon told RCMP that vandals who managed to unlock the car, placed a running water hose inside the car causing the carpet to be water damaged.
Helen Burial, also of Tofield, reported that a pellet had been shot through her window Friday night.
Another incident of wildlife damage was reported by Peter Nees of Ryley. According to Nees, a dog bottle was thrown through the window of the Ryley Senior Citizen's Centre on Thursday night.

Vivian Westchell of Tofield had a rock thrown through her windshield while she was driving near Minitask last Wednesday.
Two animals were also reported missing last Thursday.
Marshall Ennals of Tofield is missing a six-month old calf, while Ada Wasteler of Round Hill reported her English Shorthorn missing.
Last week, Tofield RCMP responded to 36 complaints. That brought the number of complaints to over 300 for the month of August.

The Homemaker

The success of your child at school depends greatly on the home and neighborhood learning environment.

How can you make your home more conducive to learning? Surprisingly, it has little to do with teaching the alphabet or making a child read at a young age.

Here are some positive suggestions for parents, to help give your children maximum opportunity to enjoy school and succeed in learning.

1) Establish the child's security.

A child should be made to feel secure very early in life. When he does, he is able to learn better from the people and things around him.

Security is established by making the child when he is uncomfortable and being noisy as much as possible.

A child also has difficulty learning if he is under stress, if he is lonely or if he is hungry. His basic needs must be met before he can learn at his best.

2) Provide a stimulating environment.

A child learns by interacting with things around him. If the surroundings are bare and if he is left alone for long periods of time his learning capacity is diminished.

Try to create a rich and varied environment for your child. Expose him to various noises, various odors and various objects to feel and taste. Also, give your child the opportunity to shop with you, to visit parks and wander about stars and snow, trees and flowers.

3) Describe your child with positive words.

When talking with your child, describe him positively. Describe him and what he does with words that describe desirable behavior. Tell your child that he is kind, that he enjoys helping others and that he will like school. Generally, negative comments do not contribute to learning.

4) Remember that your behavior teaches.

Children learn a great deal by observing what parents do and do to be an effective parent, practice the values you want your children to have. Also, express the emotions you want your children to express.

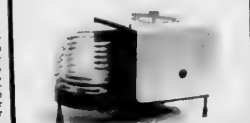

In relating to children, treat them the way you want them to treat you.

If you respect your children, they will respect you.

5) Motivate the child to enjoy learning.

Children are motivated to learn when they experience success in the learning process. Involving children in family discussions about vacations, dividing household

It takes teamwork to construct a home, and there are obstacles along the way, as these children discovered Monday afternoon. The children were having problems

Volunteer firemen needed

... in all communities

By Carolyn Martindale

Fire protection is being granted by people in the County of Beaver, according to County Fire Chief Laurie Weatherill.

"People don't know a darn thing about fire protection and they expect full fire service," Weatherill said at a meeting of the Tofield Volunteer Fire Department last Thursday night.

Some people aren't even aware the County firemen are volunteers, Weatherill added.

"We've been lucky that we haven't had a major fire," the County Fire Chief said, indicating he was unsure the Tofield volunteers could handle a major fire at their present number.

The number of active volunteers has dwindled to eight since several volunteers moved out of the area and have not been replaced.

"We should have 30 guys so we could count on 15 guys at any time," said Doug Morris, a Tofield volunteer fireman.

"We have no trouble getting people to volunteer when a fire breaks out. But these people aren't trained. They waste volunteer firefighters' time because they don't know how to use it. And you can only put so much water out," Morris said.

"People who are inexperienced are often more of a nuisance than a help," added Wayne Lysons, another Tofield volunteer.

The Tofield volunteers said they are willing to train anyone interested in joining the Fire Department. Tofield Fire Chief John Thielmann holds fire practice at 7:30 p.m. every Thursday at the Tofield Fire Hall, and anyone interested in volunteering is welcome to attend.

"We would also like to get some commuters to volunteer because they are in town in the evenings and on weekends," Lysons added.

However, the firemen said they were unable to get many people to volunteer.

According to Weatherill, the difficulty in recruiting active volunteers is not limited to Tofield.

"It's the same problem in Ryerley and Holden and right on down the line," the County Fire Chief said.

Ryerley Fire Chief Terry Miers says Ryerley is experiencing the same problem.

"We have only four active volunteer firemen, and three more active commuters who are only available in the evenings and on weekends," said Miers. He estimates Ryerley needs at least a dozen volunteers to handle the area.

According to Miers, the Ryerley volunteers haven't even had a practice in six months.

"I used to phone all of the guys before a fire practice but nobody would show up except the same four guys," said Miers, who has been Ryerley Fire Chief for two years.

The fire chief said he had already run into fire situations where there were not enough volunteers.

"At one of two last fire alarms, I ran to the Fire Hall. I waited four or five minutes and nobody came. I ended up going and picking a guy up from the coffee shop and we went out to fight it."

"Another time last fall a CN car load of two by fours was ignited by a hot iron. There were only three of us to run the fire engine. After we had fought it for two hours we got some help off the street," Miers said.

"I'm not supposed to commandeer people off the streets because they aren't volunteers."

fireman. But what are you going to do? You can't pull fire out of hoes by yourself."

Several volunteers firemen used to go to fire school in Vermilion. They would come back full of information to teach the other volunteers, but no one would show up at the practice Miers said.

According to Holden Fire Chief John Ogonski, the situation is the same in Holden.

The active firemen in Holden are myself, the deputy fire chief and a couple of others. There's maybe six at the most. We used to be a good dozen firemen," he said.

"We used to hold practice but it was always the same guys."

"So far we've been lucky. There hasn't been a major fire. I hope we aren't short of help when there is a serious fire."

It may take a serious fire to convince the people would take notice of the situation. People don't realize that if there was a major fire the firemen may be going for two hours.

Resignation is received

At a meeting Monday

Tofield Council received formal notice that the town assistant administrator is resigning.

Peggy Nahmank, who has acted as Tofield's assistant administrator for the past three and one-half years says with it, "County Sherrie Walter Krupnicka told the council."

In talking to do with anyone at the office, she said "It was a beautiful place to work."

Nahmank said she intends to leave the town area Krupnicka added.

Petition opposes Tofield re-zoning

By Carolyn Martindale

A petition opposing the rezoning of five lots from R2 to R3 zoning was submitted by three Tofield residents at a public hearing Monday night. Ed Schmidt, Barry Martin and John Schmidt presented the petition to Tofield Council at a public hearing, which preceded the regular council meeting.

The petition contained signatures representing 15 households in the Beaver Hill area of Tofield near lots 2-11 in Block 4 Plan 6002 which have been proposed for rezoning. Changing the zoning to R3 would allow a proposed 15-lot residential development to be constructed opposite the Tofield school.

According to the brief the three men presented, the construction of the 15-lot development would "depreciate the value of single family dwelling in the area by 25 per cent."

The three residents were opposed to the construction of the development because they feared the development would be a "nuisance" to the area. They said the development would be a "nuisance" to the area because it would be a "nuisance" to the area.

With the rezoning by-law it scheduled to be discussed at the September 24 council meeting.

Fair pay?

Announcement came on Monday that new levels of pay for Alberta's legislators will be recommended when the Legislature meets early in November.

A complete new schedule of salaries, the first adjustment since 1975, has been recommended by a committee headed by Mr. Justice Tevis Miller. Mr. Justice Miller is highly regarded in legal and government circles, and must be felt to have had wide access to as much information as he felt necessary in carrying out his survey, and making his recommendations, yet somehow we feel he is out in two areas.

His committee is recommending an increase of 47 per cent in salaries for Members of the Legislature, jumping from $18,500 at present to a recommended $27,000. By contrast, the recommendation for the Premier's salary is barely more, in dollars of increase, rising from $50,000 to $66,000 which is slightly under 20 per cent.

By all odds, we think Mr. Justice Miller has his priorities in the wrong place. We can't really see how a salary of $27,000 is warranted for the average MLA, particularly since the Premier last summer added a number of special per diem allowances for committees they may sit on.

But on the other hand, we feel $66,000 is far too little for the kind of person we demand to perform the premier's role. There's absolutely no question but that the same person in private industry could draw in a far higher salary. We load him with almost impossible pressures, set impossible conditions for performance, and then establish ridiculously rates of pay. Just by way of illustration, the past levels of salary for the premier was three times that of the average MLA, while the new proposal is far below that.

It can be argued, of course, that any man can live on a salary of sixty-plus thousand, but that's hardly the point. Surely the job is worth what industry would pay. . . at least, that's the kind of argument we keep hearing in favor of raising civil service salaries.

The right way

Alberta's Department of Education recently tabled figures which support the contention, long held by many Canadians, that the crash French language courses so enthusiastically supported by Mr. Trudeau when he was prime minister, were not nearly so effective in raising our national French language consciousness as programs in the schools.

The point came in the announcement of 12 school students who scored in a recent province-wide French achievement test. The thing we found most interesting was that of nearly 8,000 students who wrote this year, the marks were all higher. Fully a third more scored honors this year, while the number who scored less than fifty percent also showed a sharp drop.

Winners came from all across the province, ranging from Val d'Or in the north to Chatham in the south, which indicates the improvement is by no means localized.

Mr. Trudeau may have met an immediate need, but like many others, we have long contended the same amount of money would have produced far more significant results had it been made available to schools.

Peter Ward's Ottawa Viewpoint Canadian Comment

OTTAWA: There will be no international meeting in Stuttgart, West Germany, this week, that presents Canada with a unique opportunity.

Lockheed Aircraft Corp. is the Klinglin in putting together an international proposal for an experimental airline to carry cargo between four nations - Germany, Britain, Saudi Arabia and the United States. Canada wants to be part of the experiment, and it's a daring one.

The proposal is to use four L-1011 jet liners which will have to supply fuel - for a while - and provide ground facilities. The airline is supposed to begin operations in 1980.

A growing amount of new fast-fueling petroleum fuels is being used to power airlines and cargo planes. It's becoming too expensive to be economic and the finite limit of petroleum as a fuel is in sight. There must be a replacement for petroleum-based fuels. So far hydrogen appears to be the best answer. It's at least as safe as gasoline, jet A, or natural gas, and the way Canada wants to produce it, cheaper too.

The proposal is that the U.S., Germany, and Britain obtain their hydrogen from coal - a fairly expensive and pollution-producing process. Saudi Arabia would get hydrogen from natural gas, which they have in abundance.

Canada? We happen to be the world's technology leader in producing hydrogen from the electrolysis of water. You add electric power through water, and you get hydrogen and oxygen. Hydrogen? The plan is to use up the valleys in the electricity grid, and use it to produce hydrogen. There's always more electric power running through the mains at peak industrial hours, and at dinner time. The power is there and available at night when most of us are asleep, and that's when it would be taken off for hydrogen production.

A group of private entrepreneurs in Toronto has put together more than 80 million in capital to accomplish the feat of starting Canada into the hydrogen economy age, and there are plenty of people in government who have viewed the scheme well.

It's a private enterprise operation which is not meeting government funds. It's merely the beginning of a new technology which could displace the pollution-causing nature of life.

It's also exactly the kind of idea that the Clark government has been seeking to break Canada out of the old bureaucratic mold. Let's hope they accept the Canadian bid to become part of the world's first hydrogen airline when that Stuttgart meeting comes around September 14.

Weeds cost money

Weed! If you have them they are going to cost you money one way or another. You are fortunate enough to be treated with some of the easily killed weeds such as the common chickweeds, pigweeds, (bushes and hump nettle), then it's going to cost you $1.30 to $2 per acre to spray for these, using 2-4-D or MCP formulas.

If these weeds are not killed by spraying they could take up to 10 per cent of your potential crop yield as well as most of the fertilizer applied. The weeds could be up to 20 bushels per acre, which would cost you $1.30 to $2 per acre to spray for these, using 2-4-D or MCP formulas.

If your weed problem is of a more serious nature featuring such toughies as smartweed, lady's thumb, corn spurry, chickweed or buckwheat, either wild or cultivated, you are going to have to use a very heavy-duty spraying program. To get these weeds you are going to have to use 2-4-D or MCP formulas, which could cost you $1.30 to $2 per acre for the spray, and you will still need the weather to cooperate or you will end up with something no better than straw.

If you are set up for silage and can use it, then this may be a better choice. However, the crop will have to be cut before the wild oats are mature and they will drop and cause the field. Putting up a silage crop will drop and cause the field. Putting up a silage crop will drop and cause the field.

Another expense you will have if you are going to use the wettable powder and the high volume of water needed to kill the tough weeds is that of remodelling your old sprayer. You start with a high volume pump for adequate tank spraying, 10 gallons of water per acre and probably a new set of sprayer nozzles, and may be larger hoses and fittings - you have no connection between the pump and sprayer nozzles. This connection can cost up to $200 or you could buy a new sprayer (for $2,000).

Well, for a cost of $2 to $5 per acre, you can use a soil-injected herbicide that may give 30 to 80 per cent control if the weather is right. If it stays very dry, you may be whatever you must to control the weeds because if you don't, they will take over the crop and you lose all your expensive operation as two or three extra trips over the field are needed, and this could leave your fields susceptible to erosion, either by wind or rain. This operation would probably cost $2 or $3 per acre.

UNEXPLORING MILK
by Betty Birch
Alberta Agriculture
District Home Economist
at Stettin

What next! Milk that doesn't require refrigeration? Palm Dates is processing a new product called as UHT milk (Ultra-High Temperature), in Alberta. The name comes from the processing. The milk is pasteurized at higher temperatures and for a shorter time than normal and then quickly cooled and sealed in a five layer airtight package.

The aseptic packaging is the most essential step in the processing as it eliminates the possibility of contamination and enables the milk to be stored at room temperature. The recommended shelf-life for this product is 6-8 days, as experience in Eastern Canada indicates it will keep longer.

When you want to use the milk, put it in the refrigerator and open the package overnight to let the milk return to its normal temperature. The milk has been kept refrigerated. It may taste a bit more creamy and look whiter than what we're used to, but it's quite acceptable and can certainly be used for cooking.

Naturally the milk is very similar to regular milk - the calcium and protein are unaltered by the higher temperatures.

UHT milk is slightly more expensive than two percent milk.

Bruce district news

By Sue Fredericks

Some people look at advantage of the pleasant weather in the fall to try their luck at fishing. Jack and Norma Hulse, Jack and Jim Tracy, and Audrey and Vernon Pratt took their families to Park Lake to enjoy the last long weekend of summer.

Ervin and Harold Himeit attended the wedding of Harold's cousin, Len Himeit, which was held in Wainwright on September 1.

The Koppels had the family home for the long weekend. Rudy Koppel, son of Douglas and Stanley, and son-in-law Dale Koppel and Victor Campbell, participated in the Labor Day Golf-Put at Vegreville. Stanley placed second in the 2nd Flight while Rudy captured second spot in the 19th Flight and Douglas received the consolation award in the 12th Flight.

An old stampede poster unearthed by Roy Tsuke makes interesting reading. The 1941 stampede was on July 31 with the war effort. At that time, Henry Orms was president, Gus Lantz acted as vice-president, and Jack Perfield served as secretary-treasurer. Administration was 50 cents for adults and children under 14 were admitted (two kids in 1941, there were six kids every night, saddle riding, horse riding, colt decorating, wild cow milking, calf roping and steer and slick riding. The money in the colt roping was 25¢. Steer roping seemed to be more popular at that time for instead of the two races held in recent years, at that time there were four: the free-fall, cowboy race, ladies race and the pony race. The cowboy race was held on Sunday and the first prize was $100. As added attraction, the poster states, there will be a merry-go-round on the grounds and a hot dog stand.

John and Irving Babin were in Calgary on the Labor Day weekend to attend the wedding of John's niece.

Francis and Leo Maruszewski have left the district to make their home in Tofield. However, Leo is still farming south of Bruce. He is back at the farm almost every day during harvest season.

Hazel and Bob Bruce have also left the district to take up residence in Camrose. They will be near their daughter and son-in-law, Gail and Gordon Chumack and grandchildren, James and Brian.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hansen will be leaving here shortly to make their home in Phoenix, Saskatchewan where they will be near their daughter Jenny. For the past year, the Hansens have lived in Mary Robertson's house on main street.

Kate and Stanley Bruce enjoyed a visit from daughter Jenny, son-in-law Mike and granddaughter Lindsay of Slave Lake. The Bruces were on their way to B.C. to visit Mike's parents.

Ernie Davis attended a rodeo in Merritt, B.C.

Ruth Dryer hosted the Bruce Women's Institute meeting on September 1.

Plum are being made for a potluck supper for members and their families, to be held in October.

Once again the Bruce Agricultural Society is giving you the opportunity to win your Thanksgiving turkey. A sheep will be held in the Community Centre (school) on Friday, October 12 at 8 p.m.

Gladys Kadatz got a surprise when she was digging potatoes. She found an exceptionally large one that resembled a rabbit. Growing your meat and potatoes together might be one way to beat inflation!

Lorraine and Irvin Fredericks attended the Link Hardware show which was held at the Sports in Edmonton. They also spent the night in Sherwood Falls and visited their daughter and son-in-law, Gail and Gordon Chumack and grandchildren, James and Brian.

valuable the kingdom of heaven is for us. When we humble upon it, it should be so great, so valuable, so important to us, that we are willing to give up anything for it. This is the first side of repentance, its value for us.

Now because repentance is so valuable, and, also, because Jesus calls out to us to repent, we could come up with really rotten feelings about ourselves. This would especially be true if Jesus just said "Repent" and then would turn his back on us. We could even become proud of ourselves, showing others how well we do at being repentant. We could take great pride in being ashamed of ourselves. But this is not Jesus' way.

Jesus announces the gift and stays right there. "The Kingdom of God is at hand, repent and believe the Gospel". First Jesus calls out for repentance. This is the very reason that Jesus could sit down and eat with sinners. Jesus never would say repent and then I will proclaim the gift and then come to you. No, first Jesus proclaims the gift and then calls for repentance. Jesus proclaims the treasure and then says "Come to this treasure". Repentance is the joy of returning to God's fold. Repentance is the declaration that we are God's children. Repentance is the daily declaration that Jesus is our God, Jesus is our Lord, and the Kingdom is ours.

Repentance is more than just sorrow. It is the declaration that we are a part of God's kingdom. We truly have a new life in Him!

In the parable the man stumbles upon the treasure; then he goes out and sells all he has and purchases that field. This is how valuable that treasure truly is. This is how

Ryley plans clean-up of unsightly premises

By Carolyn Martinella

At a meeting on August 30, Ryley Council voted in favour of drawing up a by-law governing garbage disposal and maintenance of property in the village.

The decision will enable the village to take action against several landowners whose property has been deemed unsightly. The result of overgrowth of weeds, or of garbage strewn over their property.

Although the landowners have been notified, several of them have not cleaned up unsightly things very well. We are trying to make our village an attractive place to live and we have some local people living in the area. Councillor Larry Andrew has told the council.

The current garbage disposal regulation in Ryley is one which states that every household must dispose of garbage in a can in not over 30 inches high and not exceeding 75 pounds when full. The regulation does not stipulate the penalties which a landowner may face if he does not keep his property free of garbage and excess weeds.

"It's only a regulation. If it isn't a law we can't enforce it," said Secretary-Treasurer Ray Howard, during the discussion until presented the motion.

The by-law the council intends to draw up will put teeth in the existing regulation by stating the penalties a landowner faces if he does not maintain his property.

In other matters brought at the meeting, Council recommended a motion which appointed Councillor Larry Andrew as Ryley Building Inspector.

Council also decided to maintain the decision of having a cooperative housing program in Ryley. The program, which is sponsored by the Ryley Housing and Public Works Department, is designed to help low income families who want to build their own home.

RCMP check break-ins

Two breaking and entering incidents were reported to the Tolled Detachment of the RCMP during the past week.

RCMP responded to 44 complaints during the past week.

Both incidents occurred at the home of Bruce Fleming, seven miles east of Tolled.

Fleming reported Saturday that a couple of dollars in change was all he could find missing following a break-in at his home. He estimated the break-in occurred sometime between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m. The Fleming home had also been broken into on September 3. RCMP are investigating both incidents.

Last Tuesday, Jim Clark of Ryley reported that he had been harassed by youngsters riding in a red pick-up truck. Clark claimed the youngsters drove up and down the street shouting obscenities at him. He was unable to get the license number of the vehicle.

In another incident Tuesday, Christine McKay of Halden reported two signs had been damaged over the long weekend. McKay told RCMP that the signs at the corner of 51 Street and 51 Avenue and a no-park sign at the west end of Halden had sustained damage.

On Friday, a CNR dispatcher from Wainwright reported a cow was stuck in the mud on the north side of the tracks, near Fox. The dispatcher said the cow could drown unless it received assistance.

On Saturday, Timothy Dumas of Tolled reported a driver of a car had been wired a Dodge Club Cab from the Tolled Station in Tolled. Dumas told police the driver of the car had taken the club cab to help move his vehicle which was stuck in the mud. The driver managed to get the vehicle from the mud but had the club cab in the mud. RCMP are investigating.

Wendy Komarinsky of Ryley Halden reported an abandoned vehicle two miles east and two miles south of Halden. A green Ford truck without license plates was parked in a hazardous position on the road.

Tofield opens two schools

By Grace Phillips

September 1979 is unique in the history of the County of Beaver. In that it saw the opening of two public schools, Tofield School (formerly the only school in Tofield, now having grades four through twelve) and the new C.W. Sears Elementary School for students in kindergarten through grade three.

Each school has its own principal, teaching staff, support staff, and custodians; each deals only with its own concerns. As the schools operate independently, the public is asked by the principals, Al Pulask for the Tofield School and Keith Hudson for C.W. Sears Elementary, to contact the appropriate school when questions or problems arise, give phone number of the Tofield School (grades K-12) is 86-0137, that of C.W. Sears Elementary (grades K-3) is 86-0130.

Scouts, Cubs, Beavers to take registrations

By Carolyn Martindale

Registration for Boy Scouts, Cubs and Beavers took place at the Tofield Community Hall last Sunday, with seven boys signing up for each of the three groups.

However, any boy wishing to be a Scout, Cub or Beaver may still sign up by attending meetings next week.

The first Beaver meeting will take place in the Tofield United Church basement at 7 p.m. on Monday.

Beavers are boys from five to eight years old. They will be involved in handicrafts, hiking and singing. This year, the Beaver leaders are Kathleen Kemm, Lucy Anderson and Jean Clouston. The Beavers also need several other volunteers to act as leaders.

The first Cub meeting will be at the Lindbrook Hall at 7 p.m. also on Monday. Cubs are boys aged eight to eleven years old. The Cubs are involved in camps, crafts and earning badges.

Howard Gates will be Cub leader this year with Curtis Hastings, Al Pollack and Ray Thompson assisting.

The Boy Scouts first meeting will be Tuesday night at 7 p.m. at the Lindbrook Hall. Boy Scouts are boys aged 11 to 15. Boy Scouts are involved in first aid, camps, canoeing, crafts and badge earning.

The Scout leader this year is Dick Thomas, with Ron Clouston assisting.

By Harriet Brown

Jack Yull, Director of Campaign & Branch Organization for the Canadian Red Cross in Northern Alberta and NWT, was a guest of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Royal Canadian Legion, Ryley Branch, for their first fall meeting, on Sept. 5.

Mr. Yull presented a film on the work of the Canadian Red Cross in Alberta and spoke on the assistance given by volunteers.

He presented a citation to the Ladies' Auxiliary for outstanding service rendered to the Canadian Red Cross by its members, this citation being accepted by the Auxiliary President, Marie Dyer.

Mr. Yull also made presentation of Certificate of Merit to several members of the Ladies' Auxiliary for outstanding voluntary service to the Canadian Red Cross.

Members receiving the award were Julia Anderson, Kathleen Anderson, Harriet Brown, Marguerite Fish, Helen Hjeler and Maxine Reid. Through an error, Patricia Jeffrey was not included, but she will receive her award next year.

The members of the Ladies' Auxiliary have, for eight years, received outstanding cooperation from the residents of the Village of Ryley in their annual drives for the Canadian Red Cross.

From: Alberta 75th Anniversary Commission

Next year will be an important milestone in Alberta's heritage! On September 1, 1905, we became a province in the proud Confederation that is Canada.

This is your invitation to take an active role in the province-wide, 75th Anniversary celebrations that will be held throughout 1980.

working on it right away. Develop an idea that will recognize Alberta's history, acknowledge her present, or contribute to her future heritage. Perhaps you can even combine all three! And, whatever you plan, we're

1980 — an ALBERTA 75 program. Now is the time to submit details of your ALBERTA 75 celebration event or other idea for official approval. The Alberta

75th Anniversary Commission will recognize approved submissions in one or more of these ways:

- A letter, certificate, plaque or other recognition from the Alberta 75th Anniversary Commissioner.
- Use of the official ALBERTA 75 emblem, as illustrated in this invitation.
- Availability of commemorative support materials, including flags, buttons, pins and posters.
- Advertising and promotional support.
- Participation by the Alberta 75th Anniversary Commission wherever possible.
- The services of an ALBERTA 75 field representative to assist in your celebration plans.
- Inclusion of your plans in a Calendar of Events.

Thirty-eight people attended a Knosack family reunion held in the Kingman Hall on Sunday. A Polish dinner was enjoyed by the families which came from Tyley, Tyley, Edmond, Round Hill, Leduc, Kingman and Riffe. Mrs. A. as well as visiting, the other people gave ideas for information, which will be written to contribute to the Kingman history book.

Mr. John Lee and Bobby Knosack are patients in the Tuleid Hospital. Bobby was out on a day pass on Sunday and was able to attend the reunion.

Miss Gertrude Aap recently spent a week in Calgary visiting with relatives and friends. On her way home she brought her brother David of Red Deer with her and he stayed with the Aaps for a week, returning home last Tuesday.

Wayne Lawson, Mrs. Ellen Dunn read a poem entitled "The Old School". Mrs. J. McCowan then read a poem from a letter which she had received from Peter Klaskan who now resides in California. To end the program, everyone sang "Silent Days" with Mrs. M. McCowan at the piano.

During the evening, Wayne and Leonard Lawson entertained with selections on the piano and violin. The reunion ended with a dance in the evening.

With the increase of class to 180 students, the teaching staff will remain at approximately 40, the same as 1978. At 7 a.m. Johnson announced that construction of the science extension onto the south end of the classroom building would begin late this fall or early next spring. He also said a Faith and Life Centre and new library for the college are in the planning stages.

and we do have the room. We have no other reason," he said.

"Well, we hope that your bus would not be going into pick up the elementary kids," Knapitsch said.

"But, if they are going to come anyway, then you've just lost the battle," Trustee Horis Armstrong said.

Trustee Wally Knapitsch said he understood why some parents were sending their elementary students along with their high school children to County of Beaver schools.

"They think it's ridiculous to have two buses transporting their kids to two different jurisdictions," Knapitsch said.

"But, when you have elementary kids, the more you can cut down on the distance travelled the better," he said.

"However, I don't think we should be settling this one," Knapitsch remarked.

"We are concerned that we don't get involved with any controversies, so that parents are parking in front of the bus and leaving the driver pick up their kids," he said.

"Where are we going to stand then? The pressure is still here. I'd hate to have to bring in the police in a situation like this," Reinhold added.

"It seems a little unfair. The buses are caught in a political thing which is leaving them between two jurisdictions," Trustee George Knudsen said.

"Our basic purpose is to educate the child. Are we really doing what's best for the child? We are getting children involved in something they shouldn't be involved in," he said.

Reinhold indicated he was also worried about the children.

"Are we really keeping the children's rights in mind? That's what scares me," he said.

"We are honouring their (Carmen's) request but, it's a matter of what's best for the child," said Trustee Armstrong.

Disaster plan is 'a meaningful exercise'

By Carolyn Martindale

An "excellent meaningful exercise" was the way the Tofield Community Hall Thursday morning to undergo a disaster plan exercise.

Everyone put their hands up and every body heard a lot and that's the whole purpose of the exercise," said Dan Harbin at a meeting held at the Tofield Community Hall to evaluate the disaster plan.

Harbin was referring to a simulated school bus crash accident which was set up several miles north of Tofield and involved the Tofield Community Hall to evaluate the disaster plan.

The exercise was organized by Alan Mann, the assistant director of Alberta Emergency Services, at the request of the Tofield Municipal Hospital.

We normally request the emergency services every five to seven years to test our plan," said Tofield Hospital Administrator Don Nash.

In preparation for the exercise 35 Tofield high school students assembled at the Tofield Community Hall Thursday morning to undergo a disaster plan exercise.

There was no communication between the site and the hospital. It would have been helpful to the hospital staff had they known what was coming, he added.

According to the hospital administrator the lack of communication was caused by people who refused to get off the telephone line when ambulance driver Gary Oshand indicated it was an emergency.

Harbin commended several people who had been involved in the emergency exercises.

"I have to commend the Fire Department. It wasn't long before they were searching the ditch."

The Camrose district officer also commended Harvey Martindale for asking the right question at the accident. Martindale asked, "How many are there?"

Within five minutes the BC-11 crew were at the site. They were followed by an ambulance.

at once," said Neil Brodie, director of Disaster Services for Tofield.

Confronting Your Faith

PASTOR DON MILERS OF THE CHRISTIAN AND MISSIONARY ALLIANCE CHURCH, TOLFELD

DOCTRINAL STATEMENT OF THE CHRISTIAN AND MISSIONARY ALLIANCE

1. There is one God, who is infinitely perfect, existing eternally in three persons: Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

2. Jesus Christ is true God and true man. He was conceived by the Holy Spirit and born of the Virgin Mary. He died upon the cross, the just for the unjust, as a substitutionary sacrifice, and all who believe in Him are justified on the ground of His shed blood.

3. The Holy Spirit is a divine person, sent to indwell, guide, teach, empower the believer, and convince the world of sin, of righteousness, and of judgment.

4. The Old and New Testaments, inerrant as originally given, were verbally inspired by God and are a complete revelation of His will for the salvation of men. They constitute the divine and only rule of Christian faith and practice.

5. Man was originally created in the image and likeness of God; he fell through disobedience, incurring thereby both physical and spiritual death. All men are born with a sinful nature, are separated from the life of God, and can be saved only through the atoning work of the Lord Jesus Christ. The portion of the temporal work of God, and can be saved only through the atoning work of the Lord Jesus Christ. The portion of the temporal work of God, and can be saved only through the atoning work of the Lord Jesus Christ.

6. Salvation has been provided through Jesus Christ for all men; and those who repent and believe in Him are born again of the Holy Spirit, receive the gift of eternal life, and become the children of God.

7. It is the will of God that such believers should be filled with the Holy Spirit and be sanctified wholly, being separated from sin and the world and fully dedicated to the will of God, thereby receiving power for holy living and effective service. This is both a crisis and a progressive experience wrought in the life of the believer subsequent to conversion.

8. Provision is made in the redemptive work of the Lord Jesus Christ for the healing of the mortal body. Prayer for the sick and anointing with oil are taught in the Scriptures and are privileges for the Church in this present age.

9. The Church consists of all those who believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, are redeemed through His blood, and are born again of the Holy Spirit. Christ is the Head of the Body, the Church, which has

Rural land use by-law is discussed by public

By Carolyn Martindale

Approximately thirty people attended a public hearing Tuesday evening to discuss a proposed zoning bylaw which would remove further country residential development as a conditional use of land in the County of Beaver.

The bylaw would remove use C from County land use plans. Under the new bylaw a quarter section of land may be separated into two 80-acre parcels but no smaller subdivisions would be approved.

County Council gave the bylaw first reading at a meeting last month. The bylaw was drafted to allow the county time to digest the large number of country residential lots that have been approved for subdivision. The county is currently experiencing difficulties in providing services for the increasing number of rural subdivisions.

In December of last year, of two plus lots approved for country residential development, only 150 had been developed. Since January, 179 more have been approved. In January, 119 applications that were turned down have been appealed, said County of Beaver Secretary-Treasurer, Bob Cross, outlining the problem the county is facing.

We have to provide services for all these parcels. Of the annual taxes from these parcels roughly half of it goes to schools with only the balance left to cover fire protection, senior citizens, roads and other services, Cross said.

"It really doesn't pay to have any more country residential development," said the Secretary-Treasurer.

According to Cross, the County of Beaver would remove further country rural residential development "until such time as the county could use the demand for such development."

In other business, Council authorized the submission of a brief to the County of Beaver supporting the County's proposed zoning bylaw which would remove further country residential development as a conditional use of land.

Council decided to submit the brief to the County at a public hearing for the proposed bylaw which was scheduled for Tuesday evening.

Tofield made the decision in view of their alarm at the number of subdivisions which have been approved for the rural areas near Tofield.

Council said Tofield is already unable to provide adequate landfill, fire protection and other services for the town's land, let alone for the increasing number of rural subdivisions.

Tofield gives approval for road re-alignment

By Carolyn Martindale

At a meeting Monday evening, Tofield Council approved plans for a proposed realignment of Secondary Highway 84, north across the tracks to 60 Avenue where it links with Highway 84. The alignment includes proposed intersections at 51 Avenue, 55 Avenue and 60 Avenue.

The alignment Tofield approved was one of two alignments proposed by Alberta Transportation. The second alignment was located 100 meters east of the route Tofield approved.

Council was in favor of the first route because it had a gentler curve and it met Highway 14 at a right angle. The second route would cause a hairpin intersection at the junction of Highway 14 and the alignment.

The proposed alignment would provide an alternate route through Tofield, and would enable future development of the area south of the railway tracks, according to Tofield Administrator, Neil Brodie said.

Currently, as one can get approval for any development south of the tracks because there is no road access to the area, Brodie said.

The new alignment would eliminate the part of the current Highway 84 route which runs north from Highway 14, east along 51 Street, north on 50 Street and east along 60 Avenue.

Brodie said Council will be asking Alberta Transportation for a detailed design of the alignment, and when work on the road can be scheduled.

Ham Christensen, who was elected town councillor at a by-election two weeks ago, attended his first meeting Monday night. At the meeting Christensen took his official oath of office.

In other business, Council authorized the submission of a brief to the County of Beaver supporting the County's proposed zoning bylaw which would remove further country residential development as a conditional use of land.

Council decided to submit the brief to the County at a public hearing for the proposed bylaw which was scheduled for Tuesday evening.

Tofield made the decision in view of their alarm at the number of subdivisions which have been approved for the rural areas near Tofield.

Council said Tofield is already unable to provide adequate landfill, fire protection and other services for the town's land, let alone for the increasing number of rural subdivisions.

Tax penalty boost approved in Holden

By Carolyn Martindale

At a meeting last Wednesday, Holden Council passed a resolution to increase the tax penalty on unpaid taxes from the current five per cent to 12 per cent as of November 1.

According to the bylaw, a 12 per cent tax will be added to taxes that are unpaid 60 days after the mailing date of the tax notice. A 12 per cent penalty will also be assessed on tax arrears after the closing of business on December 31 of the taxation year.

The bylaw also provides for a five per cent discount on the payment of taxes before January 31 excepting frontage and local improvement taxes which become due and payable in the year in which payment is made.

In other business, Council passed a resolution to ban vehicles weighing over one ton from being parked on 40 Avenue in Holden.

Councillors made the decision to combat the hazardous situation that is created when other drivers are unable to see past the large vehicles.

However, the village has not yet decided how to issue warnings to the drivers of the heavy vehicles.

Council also passed a motion to accept a bid of $18 on the Holden Water Tower.

Council voted in favor of selling the tower to Thackery, providing Thackery moves the tower to a site suitable to the village.

Thackery was the only tender received by the village.

which will replace a 1977 village zoning by-law. The by-law was given first reading at the August 15 meeting.
However, passage of the by-law was delayed by the Village to allow Barbara Mitchell, Councilor at Large, to present a motion to amend the by-law to make minor changes in the by-law.
The councilors passed the by-law following a public hearing which was held during the meeting. The hearing was scheduled to allow residents to express their views on the new by-law. However, no one attended for the hearing.

CAUTION WHEN CANNING
FIBRATES
Agriculture Canada urges consumers to add citric acid or bottled lemon juice to canned tomatoes to ensure a safe product. Occasional low acid tomatoes create a risk of botulism if they are processed in a boiling water bath. The number of varieties of tomatoes has greatly increased in recent years and the acid content varies according to the variety, and with the particular growing conditions. Tomatoes become even less acidic later on in the season or if they are overripe. When there's a low acid level an acid must be used in canning tomatoes to bring it to the required acidity, preventing spoilage.

Confronting Your Faith

WITH PASTOR DON MOLES OF THE CHRISTIAN AND MISSIONARY ALLIANCE CHURCH, TOFIELD

"A FATHER'S HIGHEST CALLING"

I believe that the home, the church and the school are the main moulding forces in shaping today's youth. However, if the FAMILY is not imparting the proper values to the child, then he falls prey to the base influences of the world.

I am convinced that if we are to salvage the FAMILY UNIT in this 20th century, we must return to the Word of God as our guide book. This will make it possible to establish the FAMILY on a firm foundation.

I believe that a father's highest calling is to be found in the acceptance of his responsibility to taking the rightful place as an example to the members of his family. His top priority must be the daily practice of God's Word. "Ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath, but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." (Ephesians 6:4)

Dads, how can you best accomplish this all-important task? Does the Bible give you any advice? Actually, God's Word is full of instruction for practical daily living. Following are some guidelines:

CORRECT YOUR CHILDREN WHEN NECESSARY. You deny not shift this responsibility. Proverbs 13:24 commands, "Withhold not correction from the child." We also read, "The Lord is a father to the fatherless, and a refuge to the orphan." (Psalm 146:1)

INSTRUCT THEM IN THE BIBLE. You should be encouraged to do so by the promise of Proverbs 22:6, "Train up a child in the way he should go, when he is old, he will not depart from it."

TEACH YOUR CHILDREN TO STUDY THE WORD OF GOD FOR THEMSELVES. Paul wrote, "And that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus." (2 Timothy 3:15) What a blessing if the same could be said of your children!

ENCOURAGE THEM TO MEMORIZE THE SCRIPTURES. "Wherein shall a young man cleanse his way? By taking heed thereto according to Thy word. Thy word have I hidden in mine heart, that I might not sin against Thee." (Psalm 119:11)

SET A GOOD AND CONSISTENT EXAMPLE. A wise father walks in "holy living and godliness." (2 Peter 3:11)

Fire protection talks planned

County Council has decided to send representatives to the village of Holden and Ryley to discuss fire protection problems in the County of Beaver.

At a meeting last Thursday, residents of the number of fire of livestock the county was assessing them for the new sewer and water project.

October 19 has been set as the day the County Court of Beavertown will have a meeting to discuss the number of fire of livestock the county was assessing them for the new sewer and water project.

County Fire Chief, Laurie Weatherill, agreed to accompany a group of the council members when they visit the village council.

The matter of fire protection has already been discussed by the council.

Council made the decision out of concern that there were too few firemen to service county fire protection needs.

According to Tofield, Ryley and Holden fire departments, there are not enough volunteer firemen to handle a major fire in their respective areas.

"Much of the blame has to be taken so that the County would have higher control of the gravel pit."

According to County Public Works Foreman Gerry Alst, gravel is being loaded from the pit at all hours of the night without control.

County gravel is being used in areas without control.

Arsonist starts blaze

Tofield RCMP say arson was responsible for a fire which caused approximately $10,000 damages to the Link Hardware Store warehouse in Tofield on Sunday night.

The fire broke out about 9 p.m. in the metal warehouse behind the hardware store.

Tofield volunteer firemen managed to keep the blaze from spreading to the hardware store.

"It was a good thing someone noticed it or the building would have been lost," said a fireman.

Another fireman tore back several metal panels to allow water to be sprayed from outside.

"A fire in a metal building is hard to fight because you have to fight it from the inside," the fireman said.

As a result several firemen were forced to enter the building. Another fireman tore back several metal panels to allow water to be sprayed from outside.

Main Street lights are to be upgraded

Calgary Power was granted approval to upgrade street lights on Main Street in Tofield at a council meeting on Monday night.

The upgrading program, which will cost $11,200, involves replacing street lights on Main Street between 31 and 54 Avenue with 400 watt high pressure sodium lights mounted on steel poles. The new lights will have underground wiring and will be anchored in the sidewalk along the west side of Main Street.

The new lights will be installed at the intersection of Main Street for better lighting. The program involves replacing eight or nine wooden light standards which have overhead wiring. The new wooden standard, located north of 54 Avenue, will not be replaced. However, Calgary Power will upgrade the light.

In other business, Council requested that the Tofield RCMP be asked to police the alley south of the Tofield School, where it meets 54 Street.

Councillors were concerned about vehicles speeding through the alley when school children cross, in hand south along 54 Street.

Councillor Laurie Weatherill suggested stop signs be installed at both ends of the alley where it crosses 54 Street.

"It was a good thing someone noticed it or the building would have been lost," said a fireman.

Another fireman tore back several metal panels to allow water to be sprayed from outside.

"A fire in a metal building is hard to fight because you have to fight it from the inside," the fireman said.

"Cruelty to animals"

Your editorial on cruelty to animals in the Sept. 27 paper was commendable.

One aspect of cruelty to animals which seems to be overlooked in this country, occurs right in our backyards.

About every winter, and especially in if it prolonged or unusually severe, one hears of cattle being starved to death.

And strangely, the sympathy seems to go to the owner rather than to the helpless animals. To die of cold and inanition is a slow and miserable death.

If a man's cattle die of neglect, he has should evoke little sympathy. Rather, he should be fined.

Cattle have rights too, and these include an adequate feed supply, being fed and sheltered.

An adequate feed supply means enough for the severest winter which means a carry-over in an average year.

More power to the USDA.

Dear Sir:

I read with interest and considerable indignation your recent report of the proceedings of the latest meeting of the Ryley Village Council.

Mr. Andrusch's remark to the effect that some people in Ryley live like dogs in one descending and most unfortunate. The mid-rigorous intentions of Village Council in general are hardly more commendable.

It is surely a good idea to clean up the town in order to make it attractive to present and prospective residents.

The Village would, however, do well by maintaining their own property in some measure of respectability.

I am familiar, as are others, with property owned by the Village upon which the waste have not been cut for two years.

In light of the inability of Village Council to clean up their own back yard, I cannot regard their latest pronouncements with anything but skepticism.

Sincerely,
Marty Babin

Growers rejoice?

Grain growers have lots of room to be thankful to Don Mazankowski for his attempt to get grain to market, even if his attempt, and those of his commissioner, former deputy premier Hon. Hugh Hornor, don't quite come off as well as they had hoped.

Only this week a report from the Canadian Wheat Board, with actual figures for the amounts of grain shipped, confirmed what farmers had known all along, without benefit of the actual figures, which is that a good deal less grain was shipped in the 1978 crop year than in the 1977 year. And even that fell far behind the tonnage chalked up in 1976.

The Palliser Wheat Growers, for instance, expressed their delight in Mr. Mazankowski's move, pointing out that $600 million of grain sales had to be passed up last, because of the inability (or unwillingness) of the system to handle it.

The outlook for the grains industry has never been brighter, said Palliser's president, Jim Wright, adding that world trade is at record levels. Their only reservation, he continued, is that it takes so long to begin to come to grips with the grain transportation problem.

Faced with bulging bins from previous years, farmers across the west will be eying Mr. Hornor's moves with a great deal of interest and anxiety, all the while realizing they can't expect too much too soon. Naturally, the grain trade, the railways, the terminals, the longshoremen, the port authorities, the grain inspectors, and others, will all have their attention equally intently focused on Mr. Hornor's potential program, but it's not quite the same for them as it is for the farmers. Their pay goes on anyway, but that's not the case for the farmer. Having grain in the bin may be a lot better than having nothing, but it's still pretty hard to spend grain that's still in the bin.

OTTAWA, 1979-10-4—The issue which involves the Clark government considerably as we gear up for the opening of Parliament is the Federally-owned oil company, Petro-Canada. Two years ago, when the Tories first turned their attention to the Liberal-created crown corporation, there was some universal hostility towards Trudeau in the private oil business. Public opinion was divided to determine if the oil company's assets, and there are a few Tory back-benchers who would still party ranks to vote against such a measure, too. That means the government would likely be defeated if it tried to follow through on its pledge concerning the oil company.

To answer the dilemma, Clark has turned to a list from the book of former Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau: When faced with a difficult problem, compromise is a sure thing. The Tories have got three billion assets studying the issue to determine if the oil company's assets, and there are a few Tory back-benchers who would still party ranks to vote against such a

Crop yields are good

Excellent yields are generally predicted for most crops which should be all taken from the fields within the next week or 10 days.

In the Red Deer region, farmers there can generally expect to do over their average per acre are higher than in other areas in wheat, barley and flax and are just slightly lower in rapeseed and oats.

Twelve hundred tons are expected around the area, and 1980 around 1600 and 1981 around 1800 in the New West region.

In the Red Deer area, farmers are expecting yields of 100 bushels per acre in wheat, 120 in barley, 140 in flax and 160 in rapeseed.

In Round Hill, farmers are looking for 100 bushels while both Baid and Ryley are getting 110 bushels.

Yields in other regions are 90 bushels in wheat, the annual average, 110 bushels in flax, 120 in barley and 140 in rapeseed.

The Red Deer area is expected to average 100 bushels of flax for every acre planted.

Deerhead and Camrose are producing about 50 bushels per acre while Baid and Ryley are yielding about 30 bushels.

Camrose farmers obtained 100 bushels in the area while Baid and Ryley are yielding about 30 bushels.

Wheat Pool scholarships and college

Camrose Lutheran College will benefit from this year's program of bursaries offered by the Alberta Wheat Pool, since three out of four bursary winners will be attending C.L.C.

Among the four bursaries awarded, three went to Carmen Brown of Camrose, Arnold Butler of Westlock and Carol Smith of Stony Plain.

Miss Brown plans business administration and commerce, and is enrolled this year at the college, after making all her high school in Camrose, where she was active in the North Canadian and Fairweather Beef Clubs.

Mr. Butler graduated from the Westlock High School, and is registered at C.L.C. in his first year in the faculty of agriculture. He was a member of the C.L.C. Beef Club.

Carol Smith is returning to C.L.C. for her second year and is continuing her courses in business economics.

PROCESSED FRUIT SYRUPS

In response to consumer demand, new government regulations have come into effect permitting a greater variety of syrup strengths in processed fruit.

E.R. Smith of Agriculture Canada's fruit and vegetable division says the new regulations allow for lighter syrups in processed fruits and for fruit packed in their own juices without additional sugar.

If consumer demand meets expectations, the law sweet canned fruits could eventually become commonplace in supermarkets.

They were seated at the bridal table with their attendants Jean Hyster, Gracie Holden, and the groom's cousin Betty Ostland, Edmonton. A beautiful wedding cake centered the table and lighted candles were placed on either side.

Working in the kitchen were their only child, Mrs. Lynn Ostland of Edmonton and her sister, Ellen Owen of Edmonton. The emcee was Billy Ostland of Edmonton.

Music was present from New Norway, Edmonton, Calgary, Edberg, Roseland, Tofield, Holden, Ryley and Sherwood Park.

Country residential curtailed by county Camrose college launches new appeal

By Carolyn Martindale

A zoning bylaw that will revert further country residential development as a conditional use of land was given third and final reading at a County of Beaver County meeting last Thursday.

County councillors voted unanimously in favour of the bylaw which will prevent Zone C from County removal. Under the new bylaw, land in the C zoning cannot be separated into small parcels.
A quarter section of land could be separated into two 16-acre parcels but no smaller subdivisions would be permitted.

Council passed the bylaw to allow the County of Beaver time to digest the large number of country residential lots that have been approved for subdivision. The county is currently experiencing difficulties in providing services for the increasing number of rural subdivisions.

Of the over 600 lots approved for country residential development last year, only 130 have been developed. In addition, 110 applications have been turned down. The bylaw was approved, County Secretary John G. Gies, said at a public meeting Sept. 13, called to discuss the bylaw.

The County has discovered that there really wasn't the demand for these parcels that the council was led to believe, said Cross, pointing out the number of lots that have been approved for development but which remain undeveloped.

According to Cross the new bylaw would remove further country residential development from county zoning "until such time as the County could use the demand for such development."

"It's just a matter of getting a handle" on the county's time to digest the current rural residential lots that have been approved for development, he said at the public hearing.

Camrose Lutheran College has launched a special appeal to more than 1000 donors of past and present students for gifts and pledges towards a new capital development program, announced Rev.
Glenn Johnson, minister.

Johnson has been president of the college for a number of years, during most of its more than 40-year history.

Johnson has an overall objective of $1,700,000. The new program has an overall objective of $1,700,000. New gifts totalling more than $1,700,000 have been spent on new residence, new buildings, landscaping and other improvements.

Considered priorities at the present are a new $750,000 classroom and science extension, a Faith and Life Centre estimated at $1,000,000 and considerably expanded library resources.

"We could use these additional funds," said President Johnson, in announcing the new appeal. Recognizing that he's talking about a good deal of money, Mr. Johnson estimated that more than 200 students on campus, which is increased to 30 percent from last year, the need for more space is urgent. The college faced with the need to spend a comparatively short space of time.

Kingman
Mrs. Lily Ullig, Mrs. Andrew Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Olson, all of Camrose, were Sept. 21 visitors with Bert and Gertrude Asp.

A social dinner was held in the Kingman Lutheran church on Sunday, Sept. 23. It was open to everyone back to the church and also was a welcome to any newcomers.

On Sunday, Sept. 30 members of the grade three and four Sunday School and their families went on a tour of the Muttart Conservatory in Edmonton as part of their study on creativity. These families taking part were the Dale Wil-ders, David Osmen, Reg Thompson, Alan Ergas and Mervyn Shindler.

Kingman Silver Club held their meeting on Wednesday evening in the hall with 30 people attending. As the electricity was off for most of the evening some discussion on the history book took place and a lot of visiting was done.
Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Gladys Johnson and Mrs. Jessie Peterson.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Pedder of Hagenau were Wednesday visitors with Bert and Gertrude Asp.

A Roper's Memorial shower was held at the Orvin Bostrom home on Friday evening. The honorary chairman was Burton Turi and Rose Lehman who are getting married on Oct. 6. Approximately 20 people attended.

Neslie and John and Joe and Rene Knack and Ted and Annie Knack were supper guests at the home of Dennis and Jean Knack of Ardrossan on Saturday evening.

A former resident of the Kingman area, Mr. Garth
Wilson, passed away last Thursday. He was married to the former Mabel Myrnes and they lived at Surrey, B.C.

Mr. Johnson himself contributed a great deal to the building program in the past three years. After initial approval of the program, he entered on a program of travel and visiting local and national organizations, seeking support for the expansion program. Mr.
Johnson said some interest was shown by a number of groups, and his program proved highly successful.

Johnson made it some instance over a period of years.

An indication is that more than $50,000 in advance gifts has already been pledged toward the classroom and science extension.

The College is also appealing to the Lutheran church community for congregational and individual support, with a goal of a minimum gift of $100 over three years from each church member. These donations will be channeled to finance the Faith and Life Centre, which will serve as the centre of student activities and spiritual life on campus.

While the college is operated under the auspices of the Lutheran church, the majority of students have for a number of years been non-Lutheran.

Notwithstanding, the policy of the college has always been to provide Christ-centered education in an educational environment.

The most recent appeal, directed at members of the college, is directed by Paul G.
Jacobson, who recently joined the college as director of development.

It is part of a continuing expansion program, which sees degree-granting status and an expansion of student enrolment goals within the relatively near future. An enrolment of approximately a thousand students is expected, although college officials feel this is the limit of reasonable expansion consistent with the maintenance of many of their goals and objectives in the operation of the college.

Playground equipment installed at Holden

New equipment was installed in the Holden Playground during the past summer months.

The Elsa Lodge provided $800 for the purchase of the needed equipment with the local Lodge providing $200 of the provincial body contributing $600.

A fence was installed around the playground area where the new equipment included a swing slide set, monkey and elephant ride, teeterball, and a wading stream.

The equipment was installed by STCP students Linda Mackay and Dana Pasnak who are assisted by volunteers including Mel Haas, Lyle Adnamsky, Gordon Komarsky, Joe Fernald, Wayne Gundlach and Christine Mackay.

Volunteer women Bruce Cavallazzi, Harold Blissett, Vernon Pratt and Grant Fredericks participated in the fundraising competition held in Tofield on Sunday. They were third (impressive) until one realized that there were only three teams competing. They reported an enjoyable afternoon and thought the barbecued steaks were delicious.

By now you have received your Further Education program for the fall. "Ladies Know Your Car" will begin on Wed. Oct. 17, with Gary Henry of Viking acting as instructor. If you are interested in the above course, please phone Sandy Seibels at 662-3015 or Ben Fredericks at 662-3882. The Regional Recreation Board is also sponsoring two courses in Bruce. Jean Ronnestad is offering "Bakery" beginning Oct. 29 and "Square Dance Lessons" will be held starting Oct. 18. Allan Zverewich will be instructing. You can register for these courses by phoning 662-3773.

A turkey dinner, sponsored by the Bruce Agricultural Society, will be held at the Community Centre (school) on Fri. 11 p.m.

Progressive Farming

District Agricultural

EVALUATE YOUR FERTILIZER PROGRAM DURING HARVESTING

The best time to assess your fertilizer program and to locate areas where the growth is not what it might be is when you are harvesting.

Size of straw length of straw and seed and combine performance can all be used to indicate areas of poor growth, short stubble plants or a marked variability in crop.

Don't Laverly, head of Agriculture's soil and feed testing laboratory in Edmonton, says that any of the above characteristics that are noted should be taken into consideration when taking and using the recommendations sampling small areas of unusual growth separately from the rest of the field or avoiding them altogether and sampling large areas of poor or unusual growth separately as the factors causing the growth differences can be identified and corrected.

Mr. Laverly also recommends noting changes in growth and yield that occur between low areas and high areas or ridges. "The soil is not the same," he says. "The soil is not the same."

Mr. Laverly, head of Agriculture's soil and feed testing laboratory in Ed-

"Nutrient supplies, soil acidity or alkalinity or soil salts may well be causing the difference in crop growth and yield."

Factors that should have been noted during the growing season and which should be taken into consideration in a well planned fertilizer program include areas where the seed was slow to germinate, areas where the crop was slow to mature and areas where the crop died because of weak straw.

Mr. Laverly believes that a carefully planned soil based program that is based upon uniform soil type, past management techniques and observable crop growth differences can go a long way towards proving the data needed for future management changes.

"Knowledge of the factors that are causing variations in crop growth and yield can of use be used to indicate the changes that are needed in a fertilizer program and the management of a field," he says.

The best time to take and to submit soil samples is after October 1. Sampling kits and guides can be obtained from your district agriculturalist.

RUIDAL SHOWER
A crowd of 70 ladies gathered at the Shaw Community Center and showered Cindy Petryshen with many lovely gifts.

The shower was arranged by her bridesmaids, Mrs. Carol Steffers and Lois Wager. A short program was held with two songs by Shelly and Debbie Law. A reading, "What is a Daughter?", was given by Janice Petryshen and a reading was given by Lois Wager entitled "What a Wife!"

When Cindy entered the hall, balloons were broken which were hanging in the doorway and Cindy was showered with confetti.

Cindy's bridesmaids, Lynette Petryshen, a sister, Shelly Steffers and Janice Petryshen helped her unwrap her gifts. All the boxes from the gifts were put on a paper bag which Cindy wore on her head the rest of the evening. She received a photo album of her baby pictures to her teenage years. There lunch was served by the ladies.

Cindy will be married to

One person injured in highway accident

One man was injured in an accident which saw a semi-trailer truck collide with a tractor pulling a hayrack on Highway 14, several miles west of Tofield on Tuesday.

James Balak sustained chest injuries and minor cuts when the semi was driven off the road and into the ditch.

Balak's wife, Brenda, who was a passenger in the truck was not injured. The driver of the tractor, Lawrence Gill of Tofield, was also uninjured in the accident.

The semi and trailer straddled across Highway 14 blocking traffic for over an hour while Tofield volunteer firemen, RCMP and car operators tried to remove the damaged vehicle from the road.

The extensively damaged tractor and hayrack were towed off the highway. However, it took three graders to get the semi upright and to pull it to the side of the road to allow traffic to flow.

Tofield RCMP are investigating the accident.

Test was meaningful says E.M.O. officer

A breakdown in communications appeared to be the only major problem during a recent emergency simulation exercise in Tofield.

E.M.O. District Officer Stan Horton of Camrose, in a report released after the exercise (held Sept. 12), noted that most aspects of the emergency were handled in the proper manner.

Mr. Horton noted that communications from the crash site to the hospital, police of fire and town office failed completely, but added that such a problem can easily be corrected.

The district officer pointed out that RCMP were first to arrive at the crash scene and were followed quickly by ambulances and members of the fire department, adding that the police moved quickly and efficiently in taking over control.

Mr. Horton deemed the test meaningful and felt, with more than 100 Tofield residents involved, their knowledge and concern were deeply stimulated by the exercise.

The Camrose director was also pleased with the interest shown by both the public and the news media.

Confronting Your Faith

By Rev. David Mould
of the Tofield United Church

WHAT THE UNITED CHURCH OF CANADA BELIEVES

What does the United Church believe? This question is often asked by people from other denominations or religious traditions who wish to understand the United Church better, or even by its own members searching for some standard of belief amidst the whirl of conflicting opinions and ideologies.

The question assumes that people come together in a church, at least in part, because they hold certain beliefs in common; it is obvious, however, to anyone who knows United Church people that they represent a very wide diversity of beliefs, attitudes and practices. How can this be? Is it even possible to state what the United Church believes?

One fact seems obvious: what the church says it believes is not necessarily what every individual member of the church believes. The United Church has always cherished the right and responsibility of each individual Christian to come to, and formulate, his or her own understanding of faith. Belief is personal; it is also dynamic. Thus, religious beliefs are in constant tension with changing information, knowledge, perception, language and ways of thinking. This means that, while trust in and loyalty to God may remain constant, the ways in which that faith is expressed and experienced will change. Consequently any attempt on the part of the church to state its official beliefs must be understood in the historical context in which it is made and be seen as part of an ongoing process rather than a final declaration.

In this and following articles, an attempt will be made to summarize in a very general way some of the main points of belief which the United Church considers important. Such a statement cannot hope to do justice to the precision or completeness of the official statements of the United Church. These are readily available to anyone wishing to study them.

WHAT WE BELIEVE ABOUT GOD

It is appropriate to begin by summarizing our belief about God. We worship and confess our faith in one God, who is alive and who makes himself known to his people in nature, history and in the human heart and centrally in the life, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ. Freshly here this revelation is to be perceived, and how it relates to the ordinary events of history, and the witness and authority of Scripture is more difficult to say. As recently as 1966, a committee charged with studying these questions was unable to come to agreement on some of them.

We can and do affirm, however, that the God who reveals himself is seen as loving and just. We know Him as the One who "has created and is creating," and although He is intimately related to our history and involved in the affairs of the world as "upholder and governor," still He leaves His human subjects free to make their own decisions and to determine their own ways. While He is perceived as a mystery beyond the power of human minds to grasp, yet we believe He is among us and related to our humanity.

Amidst all the speculation about God which has raged among us in recent decades, we have become more tentative and hesitant in speaking of Him but not less confident in declaring that "He is with us...we are not alone."

Graden wins $500

Winner of the $500 October lottery prize was George Graden. The draw was made at the monthly meeting of the Beaver Heritage and Agricultural Society.

Two more prizes will be drawn in November and December.

Reports to the meeting indicated that the grade four swimming program is going well.

This program, scheduled to start October 19, gives each grade four student in Holden, Tofield and Ryley an opportunity to take swimming instruction. The general set of after school lessons will finish October 17.

Now that harvest is near completion, interest has been shown in another set of lessons which is scheduled to start following the current set.

A swim club has been started, offering an excellent opportunity for individuals to improve their swimming techniques and strength. Club members swim almost daily for an hour under the supervision of staff.

Information on any swim program is available by calling the Ryley Pool.

The annual swim-a-thon is scheduled for Sunday, November 11.

Nitrogen on crops plays role

Nitrogen is one of the main factors that limit grass forage yields. This was shown in tests carried out by Alberta Agriculture's soils branch on black soils in the Edmonton area. Doug Penney of the soils branch reports that the yield of bromegrass on a site near Edmonton showed little response to nitrogen at fertiliser above 10 pounds per acre when a single cut of forage was taken.

However, when two cuts were taken, the forage yield was found to increase up to 20 pounds per acre. Mr. Penney also reports that the protein content in the bromegrass increased from 1.5 to 1.8 per cent when the nitrogen was applied to 15 to 20 per cent when a high rate was used. Nitrogen rates of up to 10 pounds per acre were found to have little effect on the protein content of the forage, and, in some cases, the 40 pound per acre rate actually decreased the protein content by a small amount. "A small decrease in the protein level has also been observed," says Mr. Penney, "when a relatively low rate of nitrogen has been applied to cereal crops grown on a nitrogen-deficient soil".

The tests showed that the recovery of applied nitrogen in the harvested forage averaged about 60 per cent and tended to be consistent over a wide range of application rates. "When yield response to nitrogen tended to decline at the higher application rates, the protein level in the forage increased by a corresponding amount so that the level of nitrogen uptake remained constant over the wide range of application rates," Mr. Penney says. Alfalfa and alfalfa-brome mixtures (those containing at least 10 per cent alfalfa) apparently showed little or no response to applied nitrogen in the tests. In fact, in some years the nitrogen decreased the yield and the protein content of the alfalfa and the alfalfa-brome mixtures. Although nitrogen is sometimes recommended to stimulate the early spring growth of legumes and legume mixtures, Mr. Penney says that the Edmonton trial results do not support this practice for legumes or legume mixtures that have a legume content of 50 per cent or more. Alberta Agriculture's soils branch has been carrying out fertilizer trials on forage crops since 1974 as part of a cooperative study involving Agriculture Canada's research stations and the University of Alberta's Soil Science Department.

3100 miles of water

As man faces the next century, one question stands above all others: How well - and how long - can earth sustain its ever growing population? As much as anything, water holds the key to that question, water to drink, water to grow the food we eat, water to sustain industrial growth.

as so as to make the land green and fruitful. It is rather difficult to accept the increasing drought condition when you realize that at any given moment an estimated 1,100 cubic miles of water is being redistributed between the earth and the atmosphere. This seems like a staggering amount of water to be lost, miles above the ground, especially when we realize that each cubic mile of water is enough to fill a mile-high, mile-square tank. Yet this is merely one thousandth part of one per cent of the earth's total water supply.

The stupendous recycling operation is possible because of the particular properties of water itself. At average earth temperatures, water is a liquid. But only slight temperature changes are required to change it to vapor or to a frozen state.

Water expands and rises to mingle with the atmosphere. Liquid and solid moisture in the atmosphere is pulled down by the earth's gravity. Hence the change from one state to another plays a key role in the water cycle. In the summer's day, an acre of corn adds 4,000 gallons of vapor to the air - and the entire planet world contributes countless tons. But most of the vapor evaporates from the water that covers three quarters of our world.

This major operation occurs because water molecules have a built in attraction for each other - plus a tendency to unite to move faster. In liquid water, they cling in strings and slither around following the leader. With a little more heat, they move fast enough to break their mutual bonds and leave home as separate molecules of vapor.

Mr. Bernard A. Power, a Canadian Scientist, after ten years of research, discovered a method to release some of this water by seeding Cumulus clouds with silver iodide contained in anti-bore aloft by an aircraft. These weather modification units can be positioned precisely in the cloud system, activate the cloud, and resulting in heavy precipitation within 30 minutes. This patented process is equally effective in both warm or cold cloud seeding.

Weather modification is being used very successfully in many parts of the world today for the purpose of increasing municipal water supply, in agriculture, in hydroelectric power generation and in forest fire suppression. At an average cost of one-tenth of a cent per thousand gallons this is the most economical way to deliver water to those in need.

Oct. 19, 1979 - 15

This weather modification system is reported to be the most efficient system available, and has been successfully used on three continents in the last ten years.

Training program set

A fireman's training program and a new fire hall may encourage more volunteers to join the Toileid Fire Department, says an Toileid instructor.

In the past we have had little to offer new volunteer firemen. The facilities in our fire hall are inadequate and we never got around to a proper fireman's training program, said Don Carlson, who recently completed a week long fireman's instructor course at the Fire School in Vernon.

Carlson said he intends to start fireman's training course for new volunteers.

"It is training what you can learn about firefighting," said Carlson, who is also a full-time fireman for the City of Edmonton.

"It is like to be able to pass whatever knowledge I have," According to Carlson, the instructor course he took was very informative. The course taught him how to prepare lessons and it taught him different teaching techniques, he said.

The training program is all laid out in International Fire Service Training Association manuals, he said.

Carlson said he would start by teaching basic firefighting techniques. Different aspects of fires and the different equipment for each type of fire.

Plans which have been recently drafted for a new Toileid Fire Hall could also influence more people to become volunteer firefighters, he said.

The new modern facility would have a meeting room, and would have more room for fire practices than the small existing facility, Carlson said.

Both the training program and the grounds of a new fire hall could boost the morale in the fire department and encourage more people to join, he said.

"Once we get our manpower up we could have a pretty good little fire department,"

Detectors save lives

Statistics show many fire deaths are caused by smoke inhalation.

Smoke alarms can help save those lives by sending the presence of smoke in the early stage of a fire while the conditions in the building are still such that evacuation is still possible.

In fact, there have been cases when a smoke alarm, wrapped as a Christmas gift under a tree, has actually alerted a family to the presence of a fire. Alarms still in the box and stored in a closet have also warned people.

If properly installed, located and maintained, smoke alarms can help save lives.

The two basic types of smoke alarms are the photoelectric and ionization models.

The ionization detector contains a radioactive source in the smoke chamber that emits radiation, resulting in a weak flow of electric current. When particles, such as the ones produced by fire, enter the smoke chamber, they reduce the current and trigger the alarm.

The photoelectric detector contains a chamber with either overlapping or parallel covers, which prevent the entrance of outside sources of light, but which will allow the light beam to be interrupted by the smoke and detect the alarm sound.

In what's the difference between these two types of smoke alarms? The photoelectric detector will usually respond to the larger smoke particles of smoldering fires faster than the ionization type, but it is slower in responding to

FALL TILLAGE FOR NEXT YEAR'S RAPE CROP

Fall tilling of cereal stubble that is going to be planted to rapeseed the following year is highly recommended for reducing an excessive amount of straw. It may also be desirable to improve soil tilth and to control weeds and volunteer growth.

Alberta Agriculture's oilseed crops specialist, Phil Thomas, points out that a heavy trash cover in the spring can prevent the soil from warming up and drying out sufficiently for a rape crop to be seeded at the optimum time. Also, straw and stubble that have been worked in the fall are easier to deal with the Burning is an alternative method of removing heavy trash, but it should never be done in the fall. In fact, burning should only be done as a last resort in the spring when all other attempts at removing the straw have failed and seeding is likely to be delayed because of excessively wet fields.

Fall weed control can be achieved by spraying perennial weeds right after harvesting and annual weeds just before freeze-up.

School enrollments continue decline

By Carolyn Martindale

County of Beaver schools have 79 fewer students this year, according to a school operation report presented to the Board of Education last Tuesday.

The report showed 2,023 students were attending the county's 16 schools compared to 2,102 who attended the schools last year.

In Tofield's two schools enrollment dropped to 796 from 772 last year.

Viking School enrollment dropped from 613 to 569 this year.

Hyman saw a drop of five, from 547 to 542.

In Halden, enrollments were also down from 900 last year to 888 this year, while the Halden Colony registered an increase of two, from 34 to 36.

The figures follow the trend of declining enrollment in the county schools and in schools throughout the province.

In the County of Beaver, school enrollment has been dropping by 60 to 80 students per year for the past several years, says County Council Superintendent, Fred Robb.

The declining enrollment poses a problem for the school board as it attempts to provide a wide range of subjects for fewer students and under a tighter budget.

Robb said this year's figures are disappointing.

"We (Board of Education) had hoped last year was the bottom year and that enrollment would start to level off. By all predictions enrollment should have been up by 80 students this year," the Superintendent said, citing increases in residential development as one reason enrollment was expected to rise.

However, there were fewer school enrollees than expected.

Regional recreation to disband

By Carolyn Martindale

"If we are going to close down, let's do it as quickly and as neatly as possible," he said.

However, in the discussion that followed the decision to disband, the three authorities indicated they were reluctant to let go of the regional system and were already seeking a new regional agreement even before the old one was terminated.

The representatives could not come to an agreement on whether the assets of the regional board should be sold or put in storage in anticipation of a future regional agreement.

"I have to think of disposing of the stuff (assets) if we are going to get into some other sort of a regional arrangement," said Hyman Councilor Larry Andrusch.

The Regional Recreation Board was dissolved in December, there will be no one to run the theatre.

The theatre bookings are currently managed by Regional Recreation Board Administrator George Baker.

However, at Tuesday's meeting the recreation board decided to give the responsibility for the theatre to the Regional Recreation Board.

"I don't see anything in the system in the middle of the year and giving only 30 days notice," he said.

"I really don't matter whether Tofield's and Viking's withdrawal was legal or we are going to disband the recreation board," said Halden Mayor Osh Shylars.

indicating the board had to make a decision on whether to disband or whether to continue operating and that they would operate somewhere in between the two.

However, County Councilor, Hilda Arneberg, said the responsibilities had to be relegated to someone, particularly where the Halden Regional Arts Centre was concerned.

The theatre, which is owned by the County of Beaver, has been operated by the Regional Recreation Board since December 1978. The Regional Arts Centre has been booked until May of 1980, and since the Regional Recreation Board is dissolved in December, there will be no one to run the theatre.

Their home is located in the "Stoney Hill Heritage Homes" area of Ottawa where many stately homes date back to the 1800's. The area is being preserved as such, with no new buildings allowed to replace the old homes.

School and School Bus Operations During Storms

1. Schools in the County of Beaver will operate on all regular school days. Should school buses not operate due to hazardous road conditions, teachers, town pupils, and rural pupils who can be transported safely to school by their parents, will be expected to attend.
2. Should an over-night storm cause blocked roads or the serious danger of blocked roads, school bus runs will be cancelled. Radio station CFWW (Camrose) will broadcast messages, starting at 6:30 a.m., informing parents of the cancellation.
3. Should it be necessary to send pupils home by school bus at some time during the school day because of stormy conditions, these procedures will be followed:
 - a) The Principal of the school has authority to send school buses home any time during the school day.
 - b) Radio station CFWW will broadcast messages that rural pupils are enroute home.
 - c) Parents, school bus drivers and others who are informed on road conditions or a closed to telephone the Principal, the County Council or the County Office of Riley should they suspect that stormy conditions will block roads.
4. Road and weather conditions vary considerably throughout the County. For this reason, each school will operate independently under this procedure. It is possible that morning runs may be cancelled at some schools and not at others. Similarly, buses may be routed home during the school day at some schools and not at others.
5. Parents are reminded that it is their right to decide whether or not their children will get on the bus in the morning should conditions be stormy or hazardous.
6. Please be certain that all pupils are dressed adequately warm each day. A school bus can become stranded on any given day due to road conditions or mechanical breakdown.

FALL-APPLIED
WILD-TOY HERBICIDE PERFORMANCE AFFECTED BY EVAPORATION LOSSES

A scientist at Agriculture Canada's research station in Regina, Sask., says evaporation is the most important factor in loss from the fall application of wild-toy herbicides.

A Wild-Toy Action Committee press release quotes the scientist, Dr. Allan Smith, who has conducted extensive research into the carryover of Avadex BW, Treflan and Cloas in various types of soils, as saying the undesirable chemical form of wild-toy herbicides are extremely volatile.

As much as five per cent herbicide can evaporate if its incorporation is delayed for even a few hours after its application, and immediate incorporation is crucial when liquid forms are used. Losses are higher when the application is carried out during hot, windy weather.

Better results are apparently obtained from fall-applied wild-toy herbicides that are incorporated with harrows and disc-type implements, as opposed to cultivators and rototillers.

The latter leave more of the chemical near the soil surface. However, even with incorporation, some evaporation will take place until the herbicide becomes stable and immobile in the soil.

Dr. Smith recommends that liquid wild-toy herbicides be applied to dry soil whenever possible because losses are greatest when the soil is moist.

Even though the granular formulations of Avadex BW and Treflan are not as susceptible to evaporation, it is still important to follow incorporation recommendations to ensure that the granules are evenly spread throughout the soil.

Moisture is required after the granules have been incorporated to dissolve them and release the herbicide into the soil. Granules that do not dissolve before the next year's crop germinates can "crust" the soil, says that can damage the crop. Also, wild-toy herbicides can grow through the untreated areas.

Dr. Smith says if no rain falls between the time the herbicide is applied and freeze-up, very little of the herbicide

Old fashioned

Tofield farmer, Alan Gill, decided to harvest 10 acres of his land on the old-fashioned way this year. Gill dug out an old threshing machine and hauled it by hand with the help of his friends and neighbours. Pictured here left to right: Henry Stambaugh, West Lawson and Dennis Lawson both shuck on a haystack worked by two horses. Gill said the group had so much fun that they will be back by next year.

SWEDES BEAT CANADIANS AT BREAKFAST TABLE

The French philosopher Moliere is quoted as saying "One should not live, but live to eat", but eating to live is much easier said than done.

Take for example, breakfast. The first and most important meal of the day. The body has gone without nourishment for the longest time period during the 24 hour day.

Studies have shown that people who eat a well balanced and nutritious breakfast have more nerve and vitality, are capable of more activities during the morning hours, respond and react quicker and tire less easily. Yet, most Canadian skip breakfast than any other meal.

Breakfast shoppers claim countless reasons for doing so. But in this country the most common complaints are that breakfast foods are boring, take too much effort to prepare and add too many calories to the diet.

It is interesting to observe the eating habits of people in other countries, particularly those where breakfast competes as the favorite meal of the day, and note the type of food these people eat.

For example, the Swedes, noted for their good health, start their breakfast with a delicious, dry whole grain bread known as crispbread.

"Crispbread is like any other bread except that it has the added advantage of being naturally crisp, so doesn't have to be toasted," a saying of mine.

Crispbread has an interesting composition. Made from unadorned whole grain, usually rye or wheat, they are cooked very slowly to yield a dry, crisp about 75 calories per slice, their texture. This cooking process crispbreads weigh in at a very low calorie count, but has attractive 30 calories per slice, instead of the 100 calories per slice. Converting to breakfast and minerals, thereby requiring no crispbread may not turn you into critical additives. Because it is a Swede, but it certainly should naturally dry, crispbread re-got rid of the mid-morning slump, so preservatives to keep it moist are attributed to low blood sugar levels due to lack of food.

A few quick and delicious two jump added, adding more breakfast items that are preservatives to a quick and easy-to-eat to convert you into a breakfast eater:

chicken cheese and mild onion wraps on golden rye crispbread.

almond ham and parsley on whole light crispbread.

peanut butter and corn syrup on wheat crispbread.

grilled mushrooms (a little more time but simply delicious) on olive light crispbread.

Hay Lakes girl in finals for Miss Rodeo Canada

A nineteen year old Hay Lakes area girl is a finalist in the Miss Rodeo Canada competition.

Andrea Borys was selected as a finalist during the Miss Rodeo Canada competition on Sunday, when she beat out competitors from other centres in Alberta, as well as Saskatchewan and British Columbia for one of four spots as a finalist.

Miss Borys was born and raised in Leduc. She is presently living with her mother, Mrs. Elsie Kovach, on a farm just south of the village. She plans to attend to Grand MacEwan Community College where she will be studying in the field of public relations.

Miss Borys had entered the competition on the recommendation of Marlene Côté of Wetaskiwin, a former Canadian and a former Miss Rodeo Canada.

The Hay Lakes candidate is riding oriented, being an active competitor in barrel racing for which she has a CRCA permit.

In addition, she belongs to the Quarter Horse Association of Alberta, the Edmonton Riding & Roping Association, Salisbury Saddle Club and is also a member of the Canadian Girls Rodeo Association.

The final in the Miss Rodeo Canada contest will be judged in Edmonton from Nov. 16-18 during the Canadian rodeo finals.

Judging will be based on fan appeal, appearance, riding ability, rodeo knowledge, personality and public speaking.

The other three finalists in the Miss Rodeo Canada competition are Laurie Jensen of Williams Lake, B.C.; Joan Gies of Saskatoon; and Hope Balcer of Prince Rupert, B.C.

Alberta's Electric utility companies have two major tasks. One is to supply the total electrical requirements throughout the year. The other is to have sufficient generating capacity to meet the peak requirements that occur around supper time on cold winter days.

By reducing the peak requirements, the number of new generating plants can also be reduced. Major appliances such as dishwashers and clothes dryers should not be operated between 5:30 a.m. and 7:00 p.m.

Here are more energy saving ideas:

Block heaters must be on only two hours before starting the car in the morning. A simple electric timer will soon pay for itself.

Perintosh gets housing

Perintosh will be the site of a new senior citizens' residence.

Alberta Housing Corporation has announced that a four-unit senior citizens residence will be constructed in the village.

The Hon. Tom Chambers, Minister of Housing & Public Works indicated that the contract to construct the four-unit unit has been awarded to Handy Andy Construction Ltd. of Edmonton.

The Edmonton firm's bid amounted to $177,800 and was twelve thousand dollars lower than the only other tender that was accepted. One other bidder had been disqualified.

Co-operation ahead feels Liberal leader between East and West

Much closer understanding of each other's position and problems developed as a result of the recent conference of senior Liberals from all over the country. Mack Taylor, told Camrose Herald on Monday.

Discussions between East and West, which went on for eight and heavy, produced many understandings on both sides, under the able chairmanship of Sydney Smith, former Montreal educator, and now leader of Ontario's Liberal caucus. Mr. Taylor, who is an Alberta Liberal leader.

Naturally, he said, energy and Alberta oil occupied a central place in the discussions.

He said that the West's prices would run their industry, Alberta could be said, with the question of how the Ontario tariff could be the world price, yet basis in our own markets. They find the same high costs of labor he said, and in addition, find the dollar seriously devalued, with the yen at a premium.

Discussions produced the knowledge that much of Ontario's industrial plant has been allowed to become old and inefficient because it has been protected by tariffs, said Mr. Taylor, while the west ravaged countries have all been able to, or forced to, install brand new equipment.

In this respect, he said, we have only a few years to go before we will be the dominant factor in Canadian oil supply. Newfoundland is only a few years away from developing five times as much oil as Alberta ever has proven, he declared, and we may lose our dominance within the decade.

Mr. Taylor declared his opposition to the concept of first ministers meetings, at which premiers and prime minister meet. They shouldn't be able to broker power, he said, questioning the capacity of a premier able to "break" for his province.

There is a very high political factor involved in the pricing of gasoline, he reported, because politicians find they can spend the public's money more wisely than the people themselves.

Tracing costs, he said, in Alberta, and using about 88¢ a barrel as a standard price, the producer gets about 67¢ and so does the province, these two figures making the wellhead price. To these, he said are added transportation costs, refining costs, and the federal government's share, making the tankage price.

Then, he said, the provincial government adds its own retail sales tax, adding that he had been in the recent meeting that Ontario takes very nearly as much from a barrel of oil as does Alberta.

Questioned as to his feeling on PetroCan, Mr. Taylor said he had been initially opposed to PetroCan, but added a rider that it could perform a useful service, because anything so important as energy should never be controlled 80 to 90 per cent by foreigners. However, he said, you should never set up only one crown corporation in a field, and cited DeCanville who set up three competing government corporations to offer the best service. Britain is just coming to this point, he said.

We already have one potential alternative to PetroCan, he said, in the CDC, which operates a very large refinery which recently bought Tennessee Oil. The opportunity exists to diversify government operations in the oil business and to introduce market place type competition for the benefit of all Canadians.

Answering a further question, he noted approval of Premier Lougheed's policy of selling off gas and oil reserves for dollars which sell through inflation. They would increase faster in value, he declared, if left sitting in the ground, and even this would provide an opportunity for the companies to sell the product to the people, then turn their money to other uses.

County hockey league will have seven teams

The County of Camrose Senior Hockey League will open in early November with either seven or eight teams.

Four of last winter's teams are definite returns, two teams from the past have returned and one newcomer has been added.

Seven may not be back and may take a year off because of a lack of players and an inability to obtain the services of a coach. A definite decision on the league's status was to have been made early this week by team officials.

The four returning teams are Camrose Hurricanes (defending champions), Elkhound, New Norway and Round Hill.

Roundhill and Bonshaw have entered teams for the coming winter. Both centres had been larger members in the past.

The new entry is from Telford. That team's application was approved last week after having been turned down at an earlier meeting.

With seven entries, league officials have decided to operate with one division.

During the coming winter, Camrose will be joined in Camrose's two arenas as well as in Bonshaw, Telford and Roundhill.

Dana Andreassen has accepted the secretary's position with Dale Winter in the Camrose's pool and Ed Clinton will be the statisticians.

It's Christmas deadline time as far as the Post Office is concerned.

For example, Christmas delivery deadline times for airmail delivery in Australia and New Zealand has already come and gone, by nearly a week.

Mail destined for Europe should be in the Post Office by Friday of this week, at the latest.

Closer to home, the deadline for the United States and distant points in Canada is December 13 with the local delivery still quite secure up to and including December 17.

First class rates for Canada, the United States and overseas is 17 cents while overseas rates are 50 cents. Priority means the envelope should be sealed.

Third class rates in Canada and the United States is 18 cents while the overseas rate is 27 cents. Cards for both Canada and the United States should be sealed while overseas destinations should have the cards left unsealed.

Included in the deadlines that have already passed are Cuba, Haiti, Africa, Asia, New Zealand and Australia. This doesn't mean that every effort won't be exerted to try and deliver Christmas mail in time if it is posted now.

Friday's deadline for inland delivery is for Europe, Argentina, Paraguay, West India and the rest of Central and South America. November 9 has been established as the deadline for Europe, Great Britain, Northern Ireland, Republic of Ireland and the West Indies.

County will sponsor students at "Forum"

By Carolyn Martindale

The Board of Education has agreed to provide a total of $750 to sponsor two County of Beaver students to attend the Forum for Young Canadians in Ottawa this year.

At a meeting last Tuesday, the board voted in favor of providing the funding for two students, should two County students be selected to attend the Forum. The Forum for Young Canadians provides a one-week course in the workings of Canadian government for 100 senior high school students across Canada. Each year 100 students are selected for the course on the basis of applications they submit to the Forum for Young Canadians.

The applications are provided by the organizations and are distributed through the schools. Last year, one county of Beaver student was selected to attend the course.

Superintendent of Schools Fred Reicholt described the course as a valuable learning experience for students. Reicholt said he hoped at least one County of Beaver student would be chosen to attend this year. The course includes a series of lectures on the Canadian judicial system, the legislative process, foreign relations, defense, human rights and federal provincial relations. The course also provides information on the press, business, and labour and how they affect the government. Forum for Young Canadians allows the students to visit Parliament and to discuss issues with cabinet ministers, party leaders, members of Parliament and senior government officials. In other business at Tuesday's meeting, School Board Chairman Charlie Beers was appointed a vice (three director for the County of Beaver. Beers will represent the County of Beaver as a director at the annual meeting being held on Oct. 23.

Beers was also appointed in charge of County of Beaver bid for the annual Alberta Teachers Association convention which will be held next month.

Air forces test in 'fight' program

Flying units of three countries joined forces Monday in launching a month long training program working out of Cold Lake.

The training ranges at Cold Lake, 80 km from the city, are being used, providing realistic situations not available to U.S. flyers in the Nevada desert.

Projected are the full spectrum of roles which aircrews might expect in combat, including close support, armed reconnaissance, defense support, interception and air superiority.

The purpose is to increase combat capability of aircrews by providing peace-time combat experience in a realistic environment.

Doctors missed at conference

While the second national conference of the Canadian Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (CCALD) attracted a cross-section of people from the people's association, the CCALD association that was disappointed in the lack of interest shown by the medical profession.

The medical profession doesn't seem to think it's an area that they should be knowledgeable in. Georgia Nelson, resource person with the CCALD association (CCALD) told The Canadian.

"They (the medical profession) were driven by their absence."

Nelson explained that a great deal of medical information is in the conference hall, but the medical profession is not interested in it. She remarked, saying many people are still ignorant of the problems of the learning disabled, including the medical profession.

Those attending from the CCALD association included parents, principals, administrators, social workers, a probation officer, teachers, one doctor and one law enforcement officer. Also missing from the conference was a representative of the Ministerial Association.

Attendance at the three-day conference was in excess of 180 with the CCALD sponsoring 20 persons from the CCALD association.

The theme of this year's conference was "Opening the Gates - New Perspectives for a New Decade."

Bible quiz goes Sunday

The Tofield Ministerial Association will be hosting a young people's Bible quiz at the Community Hall on Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The Ministerial Association, an association of all of the pastors from Tofield area churches, has organized the quiz to stimulate interest in the Bible for the "70's" program. Sunday's quiz will be on the Book of Luke.

"We'd like to get a team of four, from each of the churches in the area," said Rev. Leonard Sogge of the Tofield churches. Church. According to Rev. Sogge, the questions were drawn up by the Ministerial and are objective questions rather than philosophical.

Rev. Sogge said the Bible quiz is an annual event. Each year the Ministerial will choose a different book in the Bible for the quiz, he said.

The quiz is a good way of getting young people involved in a community activity," Rev. Sogge said.

Wise energy use saves you money.

Ever thought about how much money you could save by using energy wisely?

Right now, we waste much of the energy we use. If everyone in Alberta saves just 5% on home heating, we'll have enough extra energy to heat all the single-family homes in the city the size of Medicine Hat and Red Deer combined!

Here are some little things we can all do to save energy — and money.

- Turn off unnecessary lights and TV sets.
- Close drapes at night — to help keep heat in.
- Use public transportation. It can be a lot easier on your pocketbook... your nerves and your car!

Use what you need — but need what you use. Wise energy management is not a sacrifice! For more energy management ideas, contact one of Alberta's Energy Utilities.

J.G. "I've got more of mine and I'm going to increase my list."

T.W. "You are getting an invitation from the Premier which makes it even that much better. Not only can you come to the party, but you're going to have an invitation you can keep put on your wall."

J.G. "I have family... and some friends that are native Albertans that are here, there and everywhere. I'm going to drop a note to a lot of these people to come back."

T.W. "I want to invite people here and make them aware — to take part in it. It's a party for everyone — and it's your party. The only difference is it's a whole year."

Three Laotian families now reside in the area

By Grace Phillips

Twenty of the "boat people" from Laos have found sanctuary and new homes in the Tofield community due to the interest and efforts of the Tofield Memorial Church as a group, and of two concerned families of that church, Mr. and Mrs. G.C. Schroeder and Mr. and Mrs. H.L. Fredericksen, who have brought two families in addition to the one family sponsored by the entire church.

The church-sponsored family was welcomed to Canada at the International Airport early in September by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thiesen, representative of the Tofield Memorial Church. The family now lives in the former John Dyck home, one-half mile south of Highway 14 on the Klippan Road.

The family consists of Serry Thongpoo, his wife, Lay Sone, Vannan (11), Pida (9), Bati (4) and daughter, Chanhana (10), Lani (6) and Savani (4).

Mr. Thongpoo's brother and brother-in-law, Keekham (18) and Sultann (17) respectively are also members of the family.

The head of the family, Mr. Thongpoo is proficient in reading and writing English and also speaks the language natively. He is a skilled mechanic, a grader operator, a cook and a welder. He is very easy to secure employment.

For which he has been licensed. Mr. Thiesen has been attempting to find employment for Mr. Thongpoo, so far without success. He asks that anyone knowing of a job opportunity for Mr. Thongpoo get in touch with him (Henry Thiesen) at 463-2611. The brother and brother-in-law are also anxious to find work.

The family sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. G.C. Schroeder who live eight miles north of town on Secondary Road 254, consists of Sompheak Keo (18) and Sanehane Keo (8) and Sompheak (7) and Sompheak (3), and Komsany and Komsany Keo, brothers of the head of the family, Mr. Keo. Sompheak is a well-qualified accountant; he is at present employed by Northwestern Utilities in seasonal work on their pipeline. Mrs. Keo is a nurse. This family lives directly south of Mrs. Kate Markham's Tofield residence.

The family sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Fredericksen is not yet complete. A girl of 15, Sompheak (15) (Tofield nickname), and a young man, Sompheak (15), will be joined later by a married couple with two children. The young man has worked as a truck driver in Laos and when he returns to Canada, he will be happy to secure employment.

Fredericksen lives ten miles west of Tofield, one and three-quarter miles south of the Klippan Lake corner on Highway 14.

This is the Tofield Memorial Church responsible for the church-sponsored group of newcomers are: Rev. John Urrau; Mrs. Marlene Urrau, who has the overall responsibility for the children's schooling; Henry Thiesen, adult language training; Mrs. Margaret Bove and Mrs. Milfred Bove, who supervise the family's shopping and familiarize them with Canadian foods; Mrs. Anne Ewart, who are responsible for the clothing needs of the family.

Fred Reinhold, Superintendent of Schools for the County of Beaver, and Keith Robson, principal of C.W. Sauer Elementary School is Tofield are working very closely with the new families and their sponsors. All children of school age have been entered in appropriate classes and are receiving the special training in English so necessary to their successful adjustment to Canada.

Mr. Thiesen hopes that the government-sponsored adult language training will begin by the end of October.

Mr. Urrau reports that the three families are happy in their new surroundings.

Children should be seen and heard.

Two hit and runs reported to RCMP

Two hit and run motor vehicle accidents were reported to the Tofield Police during the RCMP during the past week.

Lynda Wall of Tofield reported her car was damaged by a hit and run vehicle in front of the Tofield School on Tuesday in the other accident. Frank Tubb of Edmonton reported his vehicle was damaged while parked north of Tofield. Several other motor vehicle accidents occurred last week.

Yvonne Wile of Ryley claimed she was forced off the road by another vehicle. The accident occurred as she was attempting to turn onto the main entrance to Ryley on Saturday. RCMP are investigating in another accident in Ryley.

Last week, a vehicle struck a parked car. The driver of the vehicle has been charged. Three accidents involving animals were reported last week. Stacey Hickling sustained over $300 damage to her vehicle when she struck a bull while driving five miles south of Hastings Lake. John Olson of Tofield R123 struck a deer two miles south of Loomis on Tuesday. In the other accident, Vicky Beauman received minor damage when her vehicle struck a small animal near Lindstrom Estates.

Two bicycles were reported stolen from the Ryley Swimming Pool last Thursday. One of the bicycles was a blue, medium-sized boys' CCM bike. No description was given for the second bicycle.

Several highway infractions occurred last week. Saturday a moose was reported shot four miles south of Hastings Lake. RCMP are investigating. Last week several Tofield residents reported instances of hunters shooting off roads, or trespassing.

Holden 4-H begins

By Cheryl Gubelmann

The Holden 4-H Beef Club held its re-organizational meeting last Thursday in the Holden School.

Prize money from last year was distributed and D. McManis, manager of the Holden 4-H Beef Club, presented silver trays for "best record" to Kevin Dewert and Joyce Lutz.

In the elections which followed, Kevin Dewert was elected president; Michael Lutz as vice-president; and Dale Lutz as secretary.

Kary Dewert will serve as treasurer and Cheryl Gubelmann was elected reporter. Sharon Schmidt will be librarian and Randy Funnell will be the county delegate.

Weight-in of calves will be held at the Walter Lutz farm on Nov. 18. New members are welcome. Phone 662-2551 for more information.

Runners compete

Three Tofield students participated in the provincial cross country meet which was held in Calgary last weekend. Dirk Jensen finished 31 out of 40, Jim Nabrisnik was 36 out of 40, and Jackie Morris was 44 out of 40.

The three students earned the right to compete in the provincial meet when they placed among the top twelve entries of their respective categories in a zone meet which was held in Tofield on Oct. 15.

Reservoir nearly set

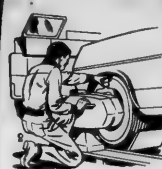

By Anne Shevchuk

Holden's water reservoir is nearly completed. Bruno Hamill, foreman for Kraft Construction (1978) Ltd. at Edmonton, stated that his firm has nearly completed the water reservoir for this village.

The water capacity of 200,000 gallons will certainly be enough water for the village, according to Mr. Hamill. The reservoir would be filled to capacity to be tested for leaks and then hooked up for service to the village.

Eight of the thirty-six pages contained a special section devoted to Fire Prevention Week.

Last week's issue of The Mercury new thirty-two pages printed.

Riders make money

The rodeo season proved to be a profitable experience for a number of people from the area during the past summer. Riders from Viking, Kinross, Rydal and Rosedale made money during this year's Canadian Cowboys Association rodeo.

Based on year-end earnings, riders from the four communities have earned the right to participate in CCA Cowboy Conventions '79.

Don Smith of Viking was the big winner, being the top all-around cowboy, with earnings totaling $1,175.

Most of Smith's earnings came from bull riding competitions where he earned a total of $730. Another $200 was picked up when he was the leader in saddle bronc riding.

Bill Chahok of Viking was the second best, earning $400 from the area when he picked up prize money of $100 for a fifth-place finish in calf roping.

Mac McElroy of Kinross was fifth overall which earned him a total of $1,025 of which $1,000 was gained from a fourth place finish in saddle bronc riding.

Rula Soppet of Rydal ended the regular season in fourth place in ladies' barrel racing and earned a total of $1,000. Doug McElroy of Kinross finished on top in junior steer riding which earned him a total of $750. Fifth place in this competition went to Cal Black of Rosedale who gained $250.

The CCA's results of this year's honors went to Terry Villeneuve of North Battleford.

By-laws passed by Holden

By Carolyn Martindale

Holden Council passed two by-laws and gave first reading to two more at a meeting last Wednesday.

Council gave first, second and third readings to a by-law which will allow the village to enter into an agreement with Alberta Environment for grant money for Holden's new water reservoir and pump-house.

A by-law to amend last year's amendment for Holden was passed which allows changes to be made in the amendment for the coming year.

Council also gave first reading to a by-law which will permit the village to issue debentures for the village's curb and gutter program.

The two by-laws will be advertised and will be sent to the Local Authorities Board for approval. Once they are approved, they will return to council for final readings.

In other business, council agreed to accept a $100 bid for the old village garbage truck.

The bid was the highest of three bids and was submitted by Henry J. Koller of Holden.

Council also recognized a request from the Holden Farms and Ranch Centre to sell ammunition. The councillors voted on record as having no objection to ammunition sales providing Holden Farms and Ranch Centre obtains a license from the Province of Alberta.

Plaque presented

Representatives of Ryley's Homecoming — Committee presented Ryley Council with a plaque commemorating the village's Homecoming celebration, following Council's organizational meeting Monday evening.

The plaque, which bears the signatures of people who lived in the Ryley area prior to 1880, was presented to council by Harriet Brown and Peter New.

The signatures were obtained last summer when former residents of Ryley returned for the village's homecoming celebration. The plaque will hang in the village office.

The Ryley Homecoming committee also plans to build a glass topped stand in the Village Office to exhibit the plaque and the homecoming guest book.

The Last Ride

May your horse never stumble
You pinch never bust
Nor the barrel of your pistol
Cling up with rust

Simply the saddle. He rode so well,
On - how my lips grow numb
A pony wails at the positive gate
For a master who doesn't come

Strump to strump we canter
On down memory lane
Ballooning the scenes of yesterday
That can never come again

John has taken his last long ride
He rests in a quiet place
Gone is his hearty handshake
And the happy smile on his face

Something is missing at the stampede ground
Because friend John is not there
I'll miss him most in the big parade
If I just don't seem quite for

Where a helping hand was needed
That's where John would be
He left us all that priceless gift
A beautiful memory.

Better training program needed for new firemen

By Carolyn Martindale

A better training program for volunteer firemen could attract more active volunteers to County of Beaver fire departments, the County Fire Chief said last Wednesday.

"Developing a training program may encourage more people to be volunteer firefighters. That may be what it takes to keep people coming out to fire practice," Louise Weatherill said.

Weatherill made the statement during a meeting with Holden Council that was arranged to discuss ways to improve fire protection in Holden.

The major problem of providing adequate fire protection in Holden, as well as in other county centres, is the lack of manpower. Over the last several years, the number of active Holden volunteer firemen has declined to six, according to Holden Fire Chief, John Gonski.

Gonski estimates the village needs at least a dozen firemen to provide adequate fire protection. However, the firemen have been successful in encouraging new volunteers to come out to fire practices which are held weekly.

"We get new guys coming out. But, they come in two or three practices and then they don't come back," said County Councillor Dennis Daniluk, who is also Holden's Deputy Fire Chief.

"After a while, even a few of the older firemen stop coming to practice. And we're not going to try to have a practice with only two guys," Daniluk said.

Weatherill suggested that a training program that incorporated guest speakers and films could keep volunteers interested. At present, new volunteer firemen receive their training at the weekly fire practices, from older firemen.

"I know a number of firemen throughout the county who have expertise in specific areas, like breathing apparatus, boats and safety. There is also an excellent film library available from the fire commissioner's office," he said.

The County Fire Chief suggested that rural fire brigades might also have a county firefighting magazine.

"Rural fire brigades may be something we will have to go back to. In the past several years ago but current fire departments have been mainly on town people," he said.

During a rural fire, rural fire brigades could be the first before the fire truck. In a situation like that, a fire truck and three men from town would probably be enough to contain the rural brigade, he said.

Holden Secretary Treasurer, Christine Mackay, and rural firemen could also be helpful during a town fire since they are often in town.

"Some of those (rural) guys spend more time in town than some of the people who live here," she said.

Newer equipment might also encourage people to take part in being a member of the fire department, suggested Daniluk.

"It doesn't make a guy feel very good about the fire county."

department who is handed someone's dry old coat when he joins," he said.

Some of the equipment should be updated to improve safety as well as morale, Weatherill said.

"It's probably questionable how reliable some of that equipment is," he added.

The County Chief suggested some type of cost sharing agreement for new equipment could be worked out between the municipalities and the fire county.

As I see it

I have again debated in the Legislature the need for "Right to Information" legislation.

On Thursday of last week, I put forward again my contention that there is a definite need for the people of Alberta to be fully informed as to the information that goes into the government's decision-making.

I am aware that a little support for the Government of Alberta is needed.

I will continue to press for "Right to Information" until it becomes a fact in Alberta.

bonance. Independently suspended wheels, located only 30 inches from the center, eliminate exterior bouncing and allow a lower cut.

Badger engineers have been putting the wheels close to the cutterbar allows to follow the ground more closely. They have mounted the cutterbar on a back-and-forth movement at the head.

The new mower/conditioner is available in 72" (B170) and 93" (B170) cutting widths, both with the unitized header design.

Other features include a fully enclosed dust blower, a fully enclosed powerline that eliminates crop wrapping and tractor-sown damage, an interlocking roller that avoids recirculating and over-conditioning, and a self-reel drive that automatically provides slip clutch capability and eliminates multiple slip clutch adjustment.

Farmers can obtain all the latest information about these and other features of the mower/conditioner by contacting their local Badger dealer or by writing to Badger, Inc., Riley, Alberta.

Four volunteers aid police

By Carolyn Martinide

Four auxiliary policemen will be assisting Tofield RCMP in the future.

Bill Peters of Fox, Trevor Holmes of Ryley, Al Stasi and Dave Dwyer, both of Tofield, will be given uniforms and will work with RCMP officers on a volunteer basis.

The auxiliary policemen are community minded people who want to assist the police and their community.

They ride with RCMP officers at their own convenience," said Capt. Al Moffat of the Tofield RCMP.

"They have the same authority as an RCMP officer when they are working with an officer. A regular police officer must be with an auxiliary policeman at all times."

Under the auxiliary program, which is run by the province, an RCMP Detachment is permitted to have as many auxiliary policemen as they have RCMP officers.

Since Tofield has five RCMP members, the detachment may have five auxiliary policemen. Each auxiliary policeman is required to volunteer a minimum of 16 hours per month, Moffat said.

Almost all RCMP detachments are using auxiliary police. The Sherwood Park Detachment has ten auxiliary policemen.

Mutilated steer found

A mutilated steer, which was found north of Tofield, was reported to Tofield RCMP on Tuesday.

It is the third mutilation to occur in the Tofield area in the last two months, said Cpl. Ed Lammeris of the Tofield Detachment.

According to Lammeris, the mutilation is similar to over twenty mutilations which have been discovered in other areas of Alberta.

An autopsy is being conducted on the mutilated animal, and RCMP are investigating. Lammeris refused to discuss any more information.

Fire hall proposed

The County of Beaver and the Town of Tofield have applied for a grant of $17,150 to build a new fire hall in Tofield.

The grant application was submitted to Alberta Housing and Public Works on Monday through the Community Services grant program.

According to the program, a municipality may apply for grant money to a maximum of $100 per capita for community projects. The maximum is $100 per capita for a maximum of 35 percent of the project while the Federal Government may fund a maximum of 5 percent and the Provincial Government may fund a maximum of 40 percent.

Plans for the proposed six bay fire hall feature 7,400 square feet of space and include a training area, a canteen room, a recreation room, an equipment storage area, lockers and showers. Parking facilities for firemen are also indicated in the plans.

Cave woman?

While a first impression might be that of an early cave woman cooking just after fire was discovered, such is not the case. Cindy

NIP grant sought

By Carolyn Martinide

Tofield Council has requested for a Neighborhood Improvement Program (NIP) grant to build a town office-library complex.

Two Administrator Neil Broder submitted the grant application for $18,000 on Monday, just three days before the Nov. 1 application deadline.

The town's first NIP grant application, for $265,000, was turned down earlier this year when Alberta Housing and Public Works ruled that other municipalities had greater need for grant money than Tofield.

Since Tofield is applying for less grant money, the town will have to pay a greater percentage of the cost of the complex than was originally provided.

Plans for the new town office-library complex call for 2,200 square feet of space for a new town office and 2,200 square feet for a new library.

There is also a possibility that 2,700 square feet will be added to the upper back portion of the building in the future.

The NIP grants operate under the Community Services Program that is administered by Alberta Housing and Public Works.

Under the program, municipalities may apply for grant money to a maximum of $100 per capita, for a community improvement project. The municipality must pick up at least 25 percent of the cost of the project.

The Provincial Government grants a maximum of 35 percent of the total cost of the project while the Federal Government offers a maximum of 50 percent of the cost.

A total of $35,000 in damages resulted when a tractor trailer and a farm tractor collided some miles south of Tofield on Friday.

The tractor, driven by Philip Anderson of R.R. Tofield, sustained $20,000 damage. The tractor trailer, driven by Otto Sieby of Holden, sustained $5,000 damage. No one was injured.

In another accident, a vehicle driven by Darrell Hilsbeck of Ryley received $2,000 damage when it struck a power pole in Ryley.

Damages to the power pole were estimated at $200.

Two automobile thefts were reported during the past week. Last Tuesday, Fred Dicks of Blackfalds reported the theft of a 1974 Dodge truck from Tofield. The vehicle was recovered Wednesday near Marvella. In the other incident, Kate Proctor of Tofield reported a 1978 Silver Pinto Hatchback was stolen in Tofield. RCMP are investigating.

Four motor vehicle accidents and two incidents of vehicles passing a school bus, were reported to Tofield RCMP last week. Several Tofield citizens have also reported instances of careless driving. RCMP say the residents are prepared to go to court over the incidents.

Two complaints of hunting infractions and two charges of impaired driving were also reported during the past week.

A new shotgun was turned in to the Tofield RCMP. The gun owner of the gun may pick it up at the Tofield detachment.

Pool closes

The swimming pool in Ryley has been closed.

According to a spokesman for the Beaver Heritage and Agricultural Society, the closure was because of mechanical problems.

Present plans call for the pool to remain in the spring after the mechanical problems are corrected and the pool has undergone a thorough cleaning.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Barber were in Bruce to visit Jim's brother, Gordon, Jim left the Bruce district in 1941 and now makes his home in Vancouver Island.

Ellen Doris left Friday for a two-week holiday in Hawaii. She accompanied her son and daughter-in-law, Malcolm and Marion and grandchildren, Marie and Christopher, who plan to spend a week in Oahu and a week in Maui.

Sergina Stur visited with long-time friends, Gladys Doris and Mary Fene, one day last week. Sergina has made her home in Cansu for the past few years.

Joan and Bud Starky are the proud parents of a baby daughter who arrived on Oct. 27 at the University Hospital, weighing 8 lb. 9 oz.

The Bruce Agricultural Society will hold its annual meeting on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the meeting room at the Community Centre.

Stampede Association members are reminded that there will be a meeting on Monday at 8 p.m. in the meeting room at the Community Centre.

Since Remembrance Day, Nov. 11, falls on a Sunday, many questions have been asked as to the legal status of the day, and of Nov. 12.

A spokesman for the Department of Labor points out that July 1st is the only such day defined as a General Holiday, meaning that the holiday rolls over to July 2nd when the 1st falls on a Sunday. In the case of any other holiday, he pointed out, it is observed on the day of the holiday.

Workers who would normally have the Sunday off are not entitled to another day off in lieu of the holiday (although this may be superseded by a collective agreement). However, workers who are required to work on the Sunday are entitled to holiday pay allowances.

Recreation news

Unfortunately, the fall swimming season didn't get off to the successful start we hoped it would last week. Problems with the Ryley pool caused a bit of disruption and the fall season had to be curtailed.

I must apologize to all the students and parents involved for the inconvenience. You can pick up your check or money at the Recreation Office.

The ladies fitness club is off to a very successful start.

An attempt is being made to open the school gym two nights a week for senior men's basketball.

Progressive Farming

BOG OUTLOOK
Printed by Agriculture Canada
Farmers long price during the last quarter of 1979 are expected to average below the 60-year hundredweight level, compared with an average of about 67¢ in October-December 1978.

Agriculture Canada economists report that hog prices dropped from 67¢ in the second quarter to 61.7¢ in the July-September quarter this year. Higher pork production in America, particularly since the spring of 1979, is responsible for the price drop. Canada's hog market during 1979 may not drop as low as had been expected because of strong consumer demand for pork.

Per capita pork consumption in 1978 was 87.8 pounds and for 1979 may average about 88 pounds.

Canada's pork trade in 1979 moved to a large surplus position. In the first nine months of 1979, Canada exported 131 million pounds, up 20 per cent over a year earlier. Canada's pork exports to mid-September 1979, at 63.3 million pounds, are only half as high as the corresponding period in 1978.

The United States market in 1979 is again the largest outlet for Canadian pork, following a four-year period in which the major export market was in Japan.

This expansion phase of the Canadian hog cycle, which commenced in 1977, was halitically in response to favorable production returns since the mid-1970s when prices rose and feed grain prices were low. Hog prices fell in the summer of 1979, and are not expected to improve during the balance of the year. However, the economists point out that hog prices may not drop as low as had been expected because of strong consumer demand for pork.

Hog prices fell in the summer of 1979, and are not expected to improve during the balance of the year. However, the economists point out that hog prices may not drop as low as had been expected because of strong consumer demand for pork.

Per capita pork consumption in 1978 was 87.8 pounds and for 1979 may average about 88 pounds.

Canada's pork trade in 1979 moved to a large surplus position. In the first nine months of 1979, Canada exported 131 million pounds, up 20 per cent over a year earlier. Canada's pork exports to mid-September 1979, at 63.3 million pounds, are only half as high as the corresponding period in 1978.

The United States market in 1979 is again the largest outlet for Canadian pork, following a four-year period in which the major export market was in Japan.

This expansion phase of the Canadian hog cycle, which commenced in 1977, was halitically in response to favorable production returns since the mid-1970s when prices rose and feed grain prices were low. Hog prices fell in the summer of 1979, and are not expected to improve during the balance of the year. However, the economists point out that hog prices may not drop as low as had been expected because of strong consumer demand for pork.

Ammonia improves feed value of straw

By Ross David
Livestock Supervisor
Alberta Agriculture
Research carried out in Saskatchewan over the past few years has shown that the feeding value of straw can be greatly improved by treating it with the same synthetic ammonia that is used as a fertilizer.

Reports presented at the Canadian Society of Animal Science meetings in Regina last summer showed that treating wheat straw with 3.5 to 5 per cent synthetic ammonia by weight can increase its digestibility by as much as 10 percentage points and its crude protein value by five to seven percentage points.

However, the researchers cautioned that farmers using ammoniated straw should be sure to have it analysed so that they know its crude protein content. The researchers also warned that the mineral level in residue containing ammoniated straw may need to be increased because straw tends to be lower in both calcium and phosphorus than grain. They said vitamins A, D and E may also need to be supplemented when straw is fed.

Earlier work carried out in both Saskatchewan and Ontario indicated results similar to those reported at the Canadian Society of Animal Science meetings. The reports showed that ammoniated straw had crude protein levels of from 8 to 11 per cent and a dry matter digestibility level of from 41 to 50 per cent. These figures make ammoniated straw almost equal in value to average good straw hay from the point of view of both protein and energy.

Ammonia can be applied to any stack that can be completely covered with 6 mill ball polyethylene. A 12 lb bag of 16% urea will treat 30 cu ft of 16% straw with residue.

At a rate of 3.5 per cent, each tonne of straw would cost $1.79 (3.5 lb. of ammonia, and a 35-tonne stack would need 794 kg (1,790 lb.) of ammonia. At that rate, it is estimated that the treatment would cost $54.50 per tonne of straw.

Because the frames from the residual ammonia in the covered stack can be very unpleasant, the plastic sheeting should always be removed from the upper side of the stack. This practice will ensure that the frames are carried away, if carefully handled, the plastic covering can be used again.

To Saskatchewan's problem of ammonia-treated straw being rejected by cattle because of its strong odour, the stack has been overcome by removing the bales from the stack five days before they are to be fed and by shaking them out before they are fed.

Smells and Costs
Drs. J. Korman and E. Conroy of the Saskatchewan research station in Saskatoon reported their findings that the plastic sheeting on an ammonia-treated straw feeding trial for wintering beef cows.

They compared the performance of cows fed 9.1 kg (20 lb.) of straw hay with those fed 2.3 kg (5 lb.) of ammonia-treated straw plus 2.4 kg (5.3 lb.) of oats. Results showed that the cows on the hay ration gained only slightly more over the winter than the ammonia-treated group, and that the cows on the hay ration had no calving problems or in the birth weights of the calves between the two groups.

Feed costs for the hay-fed cows were 54 cents per day compared with 44 cents per day for the straw-fed animals. The hay was valued at $50 per tonne and the straw at $55 per tonne and the oats at 18¢ per tonne ($1 per bushel).

The higher temperature of the straw in the stacks, the researchers found, was the reason for the results. At 30 degrees C the process takes 10 days, but at 40 degrees C it takes up to 30 days. For best results the straw should be stacked and treated as soon after harvesting as possible.

The value of ammonia injected into the stack still depends upon the temperature in the stack. Saskatchewan researchers have found that an application rate of 2.5 per cent by weight of ammonia per tonne of straw is enough in the fall. During winter and early spring, when the straw was cold, they found an application rate of 5 per cent was needed to give similar results.

If hay was $40.00 per tonne and straw $55 per tonne, the hay that would cost 54 cents per day and the ammonia-treated straw did would cost 44 cents per day. Hence, the Saskatchewan researchers concluded that it is only profitable to replace hay by the ammonia-treated straw when hay is scarce and relatively expensive compared with straw.

The use of ammonia-treated straw may be attractive to those Alberta farmers whose hay crop was poor this year and who have a large supply of straw. However, it is areas where the hay crop was good and is of suitable quality for wintering cattle that it may be more profitable to buy hay than to treat straw at a cost of $54.50 per tonne.

County hockey loop to start on Sunday

The County of Canmore Senior Hockey League opens its regular schedule on Sunday with two games in the Recreation Centre in Canmore. The league's season will be played in Toilefoid.

The league's season will be played in Toilefoid. The first game is between Canmore and Kamloops. The second game is between Canmore and Kamloops. The league's season will be played in Toilefoid.

The cold killer

There are two things you can do about winter: go south or use winter clothes. The latter may be more fun, the latter is more practical. A winter wardrobe is essential for the cold killer. The cold killer is hypothermia and how to fight it.

Hypothermia means the lowering of the temperature of the internal body organs. Symptoms are loss of energy, pressure, slow and usually irregular pulse, shivering or muscle rigidity, and altered levels of consciousness. The end result is often death.

Hypothermia can happen when somebody falls into cold water, and it can happen when anyone is out in the cold too long with too little body protection. But hypothermia is not hopeless. If you think someone is suffering from hypothermia, there are things you can do.

First aid treatment for the hypothermia victim consists of:
1. preventing further heat loss and
2. adding heat to warm the victim's body.

Because a hypothermia victim has lost the ability to generate body heat, mainly placing him in warm, dry clothes is not enough. It requires external heat to maintain the warmth level. Ideally the victim should be rewarmed under competent medical supervision.

Emergency methods of treatment include:
- get the victim to shelter;
- replace wet clothing with dry;
- reduce as much insulation as possible between the victim and any cold surface;
- increase the internal temperature by the best available method. For a layman, the best way is to add external heat on top of the victim's underwear, covering the chest and back.

Do not place it on his bare skin as this may burn him. Cover the body well to prevent heat loss.

Children should be seen and heard.

Confronting Your Faith

By Rev. David Middle
of the Tofield United Church

We continue with the series on the beliefs of the United Church.

WHAT WE BELIEVE ABOUT HUMANITY

We believe that humans are a special part of God's creation, bearing in some way the image of their Creator. We to decide and to act, and are to be responsible in creation and in fellowship with God. We have to acknowledge that from the beginning of human history, however, people have fallen away from the promised relationship into what we call sin. This is serious and tragic, and a great amount of effort on our part is required to overcome the tragedy. It is only in the fact that God in His love comes to us and forgives us, and offers Himself to us in grace, that the separation is overcome and God's intention for man becomes possible of fulfillment.

This, we believe, is closely bound up with the life, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ. In Him we are offered a new relationship with God, a new way of being in the world. We have but to accept and receive this offer gratefully.

WHAT WE BELIEVE ABOUT THE CHURCH

We believe that the Church is called into being by God, and consists of those people who put their trust in, and pledge obedience to, Christ. While it is obviously true that it is essentially one universal Church which is formed to "obey God's presence, to love and serve others, to seek justice and resist evil, to proclaim Jesus, crucified and risen, our judge and our hope."

The Church lives on two sacraments which are given to it by Christ. In the baptism of believers and the children of believers our relationship with Christ is signified and sealed; when we receive the bread and wine as symbols of the Body and Blood of Jesus, we are nourished and are strengthened.

The Church's life is and must be organized. While the fundamental ministry of the Church is to the world, the Church is called to shape and order its life so that its ministry may be made effective through the lives of all its members. We have to ensure that the Church is far from perfect, but we believe that God still calls us to be a part of its fellowship and to ensure that fellowship to all people in every place.

Health Unit promotes 'immunization month'

November is "IMMUNIZATION MONTH" across Canada. The Vegreville Health Unit joins other Local Health Authorities in Alberta, health associations, and the National Committee for Immunization Action in Canada, in a national campaign. The objective of the campaign is to increase compliance with routine immunization to particular and with recommended immunization standards in general. Immunization stimulates the body to develop protective substances against various diseases such as diphtheria, tetanus, polio, pertussis, measles, mumps, and rubella (German measles).

Most adults falsely think a childhood immunization program protects them from disease for a lifetime. In fact, immunization is a continuing process. The new immunization schedule for adults in Alberta, which was developed by the Minister of Social Services and Community Health, states that "adults may need additional protection against vaccine preventable diseases." The people point out that the new $$$ Dollar fats ...

Where are they?

The second annual beef marketing seminar for cattlemen in Central Alberta will be held on October 23 at the Ponoka Community and Recreation Centre. The seminar features the theme of $80 dollar fats. Where are they? It is being jointly sponsored by the Alberta Cattle Commission and the District Office of Alberta Agriculture. The seminar is designed to look at the factors which affect the profitability of the cattle business, including grain prices, the price of feeder cattle and the price of finished beef.

The program commences with registration and coffee at 9:00 a.m. Les Lyster, Regional Economist with Alberta Agriculture in Alderley will outline the feed grain situation and what to expect in the future. Chris Miller, western representative of the CCA (Canadian Cattlemen's Association) will look at the beef cow situation and the feeder cattle supply available. Jim Dawson, Manager of the Alberta Cattle Commission (ACC) will look at the slaughter cattle situation and what to expect in terms of supply and price.

In the afternoon, Gary Broadhead, Regional Economist in Red Deer, will use the price expectations of the previous speakers to determine cost per pound of gain and break-even prices in cattle feeding. Mike Price from the University of Alberta will discuss the results of the recent G.A.T.T. (General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) negotiations and the impact on the beef industry in Canada and Alberta. The program concludes with a meal.

Year of the child celebrated

By Carolyn Martindale
Students in the County of Beaver celebrated the anniversary Year of the Child on Wednesday with a variety of activities.

Schools in Tofield, Holden and other communities provided that focussed attention on children.

At the Tofield School, the theme of the day was National Day. Students made posters, watched films, and enjoyed special displays on children in developing countries.

The highlight in Tofield was a comparison between the lifestyle in Canada and the lifestyle of children in developing countries.

In the C.W. Sears Elementary School, children were invited to a special assembly to help people in developing countries.

They further their interpretation of what the Year of the Child was.
According to grade five student Linda Olson, International Year of the Child is the time to help kids in other nations who don't have as much as we do.
"In the Year of the Child, children should speak up for themselves as they can for human rights and participation," said Clifford Gubinsman, a grade seven student.
"It's to make us try to help children who don't have enough to eat," said grade five student, Evelyn Kousarizadeh.

Beny or Not

To Beny or Not to Beny seems to be one of the biggest problems in the Alberta Legislature these days, though it's a crying shame that so much time is being spent on an item of no more consequence. Granted, the principle at stake is that of whether half a million dollars, or several times that amount, has been spent with comparatively little knowledge or assurance of propriety, but in the face of many other needs of today, in the face of more severe problems, this can only be considered for its tokenism.

There may be deeper problems behind all the criticism, of course, that we're not aware of. There's always the problem of the minister of culture being made the scapegoat for someone else's faux pas. There's the possibility, heaven forbid, that someone was being out for a share of the price. Far more reasonable, and far more hopeful is that someone just made an honest mistake in judgment, and didn't have the time or the opportunity to check it out as thoroughly as might have been desirable. After all, most of us have bet on the wrong horse or the wrong team, one time or another, and we hope the whole world won't hear about it at autopsy.

Really, what the mistake was in accepting Roloff Beny's work in the first place, not in the price offered, or even the cost of preserving which is developing. If the material has any artistic merit to it in the first place, then a price far less than ten dollars a print for the work of a master... is a bargain indeed.

We'd probably never be accepted as a judge of art, but our own opinion of that anything more than the price of a picture postcard for Beny's work would make it overpriced. Admittedly, we haven't seen thousands, even hundreds, of his works of art, but of those we have seen, few would seem to have carried the touch of the master. Few indeed would command a place of prestige, or a place of permanence, in our catalogue of worthwhile art.

Huge profits

Strident criticism is being heaped upon the system that could see Exxon's profits rise to 3.14 billion dollars last year, with relatively similar huge profit figures accruing to a number of other major industrial firms. The figures seem literally huge, and indeed they are, but they're giving an unfair ammunition to the critics who think such industries should be nationalized, or that they should be split up, or that their profits should be confiscated.

In the first place, profit is really only meaningful when its expressed as a percentage of total revenues. And even though the total profit figures nearly doubled doesn't prove its sinful. It could, for instance, prove that last year's profits were inordinately low though few people will really accept that.

Really, we don't have the answer. But it is true that along the line we did run across Exxon's profit figure in relation to total sales which indicated that that huge profit amounted to less than five percent profit overall on sales.

Undoubtedly there are businesses making smaller profits as a percentage of sales, but there are also many making far more. And if memory serves correctly, five percent isn't considered all that great by most business operations. Especially not when it's twice the profit of the year before.

Report from

Parliament Hill

When Board Minister Don Menzies and Agriculture Minister John Wise, announced last in October that the second and final payment under the Western Grain Stabilization program for 1979 will be $113 million.

Mailing of about 137,000 payment cheques to individual permit holders taking part in the program was scheduled to begin Oct. 28th.

The $113 million to the $188 million distributed to farmers as a partial payment in early April 1979, will be paid for 1979 under the Western Grain Stabilization program, now in its fourth year of operation, will total $253 million.

"The 1979 payout alone represents a return of $2.1 for every $1.00 a producer contributed in the years 1977 and 1978 calendar years," Mr. Menzies said.

He noted that those permit holders who were enrolled and actually contributed the individual maximum level of $100 in each of the first two years received a partial payment of $1,207 in the April and will now get an additional $2,300 as their share of the final payment.

Mr. Wise, whose department administers the program, explained that the program is designed to stabilize prices and stabilize the amount of stabilization payment for 1979.

The 1979 payout will be paid in cash flow from the sale of eligible crops from the past calendar year, Canada during the past calendar year.

"The 1979 payment is a solid measure of the protection against severe fluctuations in grain prices available to grain producers under the Western Grain Stabilization program," Mr. Wise said.

"It was necessary to split the 1979 payment into a partial payment and a final payment because many farm expense and grain storage programs in final calculations were not available until the latter part of September," he added.

"Individual stabilization payments will be made to the level a farmer has contributed in the 1976, 1977 and 1978 calendar years and the ratio of his 1979 contribution to the total for the same three years of eligible crops."

To provide information with a view to their contributions from 1976 to 1978 and full participation in their stabilization payment for 1979, a detachable statement will be issued with each final payment cheque.

"The final payment for 1979 under the Western Grain Stabilization program will have significant economic impact on the wheat and grain industry in western Canada. It also has the potential impact on provincial economies."

The researchers are assessing current methods of production and the impact of the program on the population and the economy. They hope to come up with an integrated control program based on this information.

Macdonald College of Montreal is undertaking the study. The federal government is contributing $215,000 over two years.

Potato improvement is aim

By Dr. Donald J. Howard
Alberta Horticulture Research Centre, Brooks
The Alberta Potato Seed Ltd. (APSL) was initiated in 1976 as part of a continuing effort by Alberta Agriculture to help improve the province's potato industry.

Published after the successful 1979 seed potato trial, the APSL has three main objectives:

"To determine the incidence and severity of late blight and viral potato diseases and the variety of potatoes and the seed grower's name. An original certification tag should be attached to each sample, wherever possible."

The samples are planted in the field, and the seed grower's name is recorded. The samples are then harvested and the seed grower's name is recorded. The samples are then harvested and the seed grower's name is recorded.

During July and August, the trial is closed carefully for disease, varietal mix and growth characteristics by a team of plant pathologists and horticulturists. Diseased or off-type plants are marked with a color-coded tag. Mid-season readings are made available to participating growers and interested persons on a day that is set aside for viewing the trial.

In each of the past three years, this field day has been a major event for the staff of the Alberta Horticulture Research Centre, Agriculture Canada, and the Alberta Horticulture Research Centre.

The APSL is supported by cooperating growers in the form of voluntarily donated seed potato samples, but it also relies on assistance from the staff of the Alberta Horticulture Research Centre, Agriculture Canada, and the Alberta Horticulture Research Centre.

Seed and commercial potato growers who would like to learn more about the APSL should contact the APSL staff at the Alberta Horticulture Research Centre, Box 300, Brooks, T4A 0A1.

Three curlers sweep mops to coat a rock into the house during the Friendship Curling Bursary which was sponsored by the Tofield Curling Club last week. The bursary opened the curling season. Regular league curling begins Monday.

Built on firm rock

Readers who remember their Sunday school lessons from Matthew about the wise man who built his house upon the rock and a foolish man who built upon the sand will see a parallel in reports from Prince Rupert this week. The Bible quotation concludes, "A foolish man who built his house upon the sand, and the rain fell, and the floods came, and the winds blew and beat against that house and it fell; and great was the fall of it."

For months now, the case of a building collapse for a grain terminal at Prince Rupert has been between Casey Point and Ridley Island. A report commissioned by Otto Lang while he was still Minister of Transport, by the engineers Swain-Wood, came down favoring Ridley Island. Another study recommended, Casey Point, both agreed that Casey Point would be cheaper but the site would not accommodate a multi-level development. Such a development might include coal, potash, sulphur, etc.

Double has been drawn on the foundation tests at both locations. Critics declare that Ridley Island tests have been too shallow and limited to

Debbie Price feted at a bridal shower

By Grace Phillips
Nearly fifty guests honored Debbie Price, the December 1st bride-elect of Marvin Walnski, at a bridal shower in the social rooms of St. Francis of Assisi Church in Tofield on Friday.

The bride's table featured a centerpiece of white carnations and pink roses flanked by pink candles. The pink and white streamers forming a canopy were accented by traditional wedding bells.

Seated with the bride at the head table were her chosen maid of honor, Melinda Hennrich; her bridesmaids, Kim Price, Lee Ann Price and Anita Walnski; the bride's mother, Mrs. Penny Price; and the groom's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Walnski.

After presenting a corsage to Debbie, Mrs. Gail Price welcomed the guests. Mrs. Margaret Bernebeck read a poem which had Debbie as its theme.

The many lovely gifts were presented to the bride by Mrs. Gail Price, assisted by Mrs. Margaret Bernebeck and Mrs. Mary Bernebeck.

After the bride, assisted by her attendants, had opened the gifts, she thanked the ladies of the CWL for planning the shower. Debbie who had helped and those who had attended.

Debbie, presently employed as a stenographer, is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Price of Tofield. The groom-to-be, Marvin Walnski, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Walnski of Vegreville.

After their wedding, Debbie and Marvin will be living in Mundare where he is the manager of the Alberta Wheat Pool elevator.

Beaverhill League set for new season

Plans have been finalized for another season in the Beaverhill Hockey League. Mail delivery Tofield style

When grizzlies recently prevented Vince Bates from picking up power papers signed by Charlie Sears, the president of the Tofield R.C.A. had no trouble coming up with the solution—delivery by air. Winding up his faithful Cresta, Mr. Sears came aboard and took off for the hills. At the appointed time, he circled the farm and, in true first world war tradition, dropped the papers—right on target. All of which poses yet another problem for the Post Office.

Jerry Wicks of Andrew was selected as league president for a second consecutive term of office.

The regular schedule will open on four fronts on Nov. 17 with the schedule coming to a close on Feb. 23. Returning teams for the 1979-80 season are Andrew, Holden, Lamont, Mundare, Tofield, Smoky Lake, Tofield (satellites) and Waskateau. Once again, the Tofield from Tofield will play all of their home games in the Tofield Arena. Once again, the league will open on four fronts, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, for regular play.

During the Christmas holiday season, a minimum number of games will be played. The league will take a five-day holiday between Dec. 27 and only four games will be played on the final two scheduled nights of 1979. It is expected that a number of teams from the league will be taking part in a winter tour season in Camrose during the holiday season.

Games scheduled for opening night (Nov. 17) will see Tofield host Holden, Tofield plays in Andrew, Mundare in Smoky Lake and Waskateau plays in Lamont.

Jacklighters charged

Four Tofield area residents each face a fine of up to $5,000 for jacklighting for deer following an incident last Thursday night.

The four men were reported hunting for deer at night with a spotlight. According to Tofield RCMP, fines for jacklighting range from a minimum of $500 to a maximum of $5,000.

The McLeod Store in Tofield sustained over $2,000 damage when a vehicle struck the building last Tuesday evening. RCMP said the driver of the vehicle has been charged.

Tofield's Homecoming Festival is a big event in the town.

Protests take a big bite out of your food dollar. Careful selection can help you stay within your budget.

Poultry seems to be a relatively good buy at this time of year but, as with other meats, it's best to purchase by cost per serving rather than by cost per pound.

If you're buying chicken parts, for example edible yield can vary, from about 75 percent to 84 percent, depending on whether you're buying wings or breasts. A whole chicken, roasted at 160 degrees Celsius (325 degrees F), provides about 38 percent edible meat, a dramatic 30 percent, a whole leg 41 percent and a thigh 49 percent. These percentages are based on the purchased weight.

Where does the balance of the weight go? Take broilers, for example. 46.7 percent is edible meat. About 98 percent is lost in cooking, about 1 percent in bone, 4 percent in skin and 2.7 in dry loss.

Very soon we will be buying all our groceries in metric. How much should you buy for your family?

A whole chicken weighs about 1.4 kilograms (about 3 lbs.) should serve six. A chicken breast that weighs 300 grams provides two servings. A thigh per serving is about 110 grams and a whole leg about 220. All of these figures are based on a serving of 30 grams (about 1 oz.).

Think metric meats and edible yields. It may be taken from The Food Bank, Food Advisory Division of Agriculture Canada.

Fire levels coop

By Carolyn Martindale
A fire involving a chicken coop, destroying over 50 chickens, ran kilometres northwest of Leduc on Tuesday afternoon.

Tofield volunteer firemen extinguished the fire in last Lake Estates before it was allowed to spread to houses or to the heavily forested area nearby.

An explosion in the coop alerted Sharon and Eric Kaskela to the fire.

"We were in the house when the lights dimmed and then there was this terrific boom," explained Sharon Kaskela, still shaking from the incident. When she and her husband went outside, the chicken coop was already engulfed in flames, she said.

Before Tofield firemen arrived, Eric Kaskela used a garden hose, in an attempt to keep the fire from spreading inside the house. The Kaskelas said they had no idea what caused the fire.

building, he said. There was nothing the firemen could do to save the chickens, Sharon Kaskela said. "I'm just glad they were able to keep it from spreading to the house or the brush."

Sharon said she and her husband were in the coop when the fire started. She said she was in the coop when the fire started. She said she was in the coop when the fire started.

BNA Act protects churches

... Says Toffield minister

By Carolyn Martindale
According to the BNA (British North America) Act, the government has no power over churches, a Tofield Baptist minister told the County of Beaver Board of Education last Thursday.

Rev. Ike Bennett said the Board of Education should have no control over a Tofield Christian School since he contended the school "is a ministry of the Tofield Baptist Church."

"It would be a violation of Canadian laws if I was required to go to any branch of Canadian government and ask for approval for what we do in our church."

Bennett made the statement during a meeting arranged by the county to persuade the Tofield Christian School Board to seek Department of Education approval for their school which has been operating illegally since 1961. The County board has wanted the school since then.

"We don't care what goes on in the church but, with regard to educating children, there are laws," Church said.

"There is nothing that says that you can't run your church, but you have to go by the rules," Trustee Walter Kropfenich told the delegation of Board members, Anne and Ed Tiede.

"You have to go through the proper channels. It isn't our decision. You have to work through the Minister of Education," Kropfenich said.

"The board of education has certain responsibilities. We have to operate within school regulations," said Superintendent of Schools Fred Reinhold. Unless the Christian board seeks approval for their school the county board of education has no choice but to prosecute parents of children attending that school, Reinhold said.

"But, does it not say in section 18 of the School Act that our children are receiving effective and efficient education that they may be excused from (public school)?" asked Anne Bennett, who has two children attending the school.

Reinhold explained that the Minister of Education determines what constitutes "effective and efficient education." The school's curriculum must be approved by the Department of Education, he said.

"We want to follow the law of the land as long as it doesn't infringe on our religious freedom," Rev. Bennett said. Bennett indicated the School Board make seek approval of the school's teacher received certification. The teacher, who is a B.C. certified teacher, is awaiting Alberta certification.

However, Reinhold recommended the Christian School Board begin seeking approval immediately. If they seek approval "you are keeping the board outside of the law," he said.

"In allowing you to operate your school without approval of the Department of Education (County Board of Education) are actually aiding and abetting someone who is breaking the law," said panelist Trustee, Les Kelly.

Good weather has been given on foot if he is not sure for as to use them.

Councillor's ouster sought

By Carolyn Martindale
County Council has decided to ask the municipality to remove Councillor Brian Cruss from office. The decision was made at a regular meeting last Thursday evening.

Councillors said they were willing to assume some responsibility for the operation of the Regional Arts Centre in Haldimand and the parks. However, they said they would like to receive assistance from the Town of Viking and Tofield and the Village of Ryland and Haldimand.

The operation of the Regional Arts Centre was the major concern. The theatre, which is currently operating as the Regional Arts Centre, has had contracts for performances scheduled up until May of this year.

However, the theatre will be without management or funds for the summer when the board is disbanded.

"We were hoping the theatre would be able to continue to operate, but with attendance falling off at all performances, there is no way it is going to pay its own way," said Councillor Hilda Armstrong, who is the chairperson of the Regional Arts Centre.

The council has a decision as to whether to remove Cruss from office. Cruss has been a member of the council since 1974.

Cruss was elected to the council in 1974. He has been a member of the council since 1974. He has been a member of the council since 1974.

Land use workshop planned for Ryley

By Carolyn Martindale
County of Beaver residents have an opportunity to assist the county in the preparation of agricultural land use policies on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Ryland Legion Hall in Tofield.

The workshop, which will begin at 7:30 p.m., will give local farmers, landowners and farm organizations a voice in preparing agricultural policies which would form the basis for a new County land-use by-law.

County councillors, representatives from the Department of Agriculture and planners from the Department of Municipal Affairs will be participating in the workshop.

Topics for discussion in the workshop will be:

- 1) farm succession
- 2) minimum parcel size for agriculture
- 3) county residential development as it affects agriculture
- 4) intensive livestock operations, problems and potential land-use conflicts

The County intends to hold more workshops and meetings in the future to discuss other land-use concerns such as country residences and wildlife.

Municipalities throughout Alberta are preparing new land use by-laws to replace the current zoning by-law which becomes null and void on April 10. Land use by-laws are necessary to ensure that land is used in a way that is consistent with the county's land-use objectives.

Protect your trees

Full is the time of year when steps should be taken to prevent small plantings of susceptible fruit and ornamental trees from being damaged by rabbits, mice and other voracious pests. Dr. Ronald Howard of the Alberta Horticultural Research Center in Brooks suggests cutting the grass short under the trees and removing all trash around their trunks as a first step. This will destroy the natural cover of the rabbits and mice. Dr. Howard reports that there are a number of ready-made repellents on the market that will discourage rabbits, mice and other pests from feeding on trees. Most of these contain thiram which is a repellent that discourages these animals from feeding. Products which contain thiram are marketed under such trade names as Shoot, Atorgard, Radon Repellent, Wilson's Rabbit Repellent, etc.

According to Dr. Howard, you can make an effective repellent at home by mixing one part thiram with one part water, or by using a product such as Shoot, Atorgard, Radon Repellent, Wilson's Rabbit Repellent, etc. If you want to use the preparations to protect your trees against animals as well, add two to three pounds of thiram 75 WP to one gallon of water and spray the trunks and branches of white colored trees. Another repellent can be made by dissolving seven pounds of diatomaceous earth in one gallon of water and spraying the trunks and branches of trees. The rosin will dissolve in about 10 hours if the container is kept in a warm room and stirred occasionally. Do not allow the rosin to be ingested by the animals, but it should be applied by water and do not spray.

All these repellents should be applied in the late fall when the leaves have fallen and the bare trunks are in view. The temperature should be above freezing and the repellent should cover the trunk of the tree two to three feet above the snow line.

Tree guards usually provide excellent protection against rabbits and mice when only a few trees are involved and they require a minimum of upkeep. The guard should be made of quarter-inch wire screening, set three to four inches above the ground and it should reach a height of three to four feet above the ground. However, in areas which get a lot of snow the guard will have to be extended to reach at least three or four feet above the snowline to prevent rabbit damage.

Dr. Howard recommends wrapping tree trunks with burlap or small knit paper to prevent them from freezing their trunks, but he points out that the deer may still chew off some of the branches. He says a deer fence is an expensive but long-term solution for situations where deer cause serious damage to trees and gardens.

Control cattle lice

Most cattle have a few lice, but some become very heavily infested, particularly during the late fall and winter.

These lice are heavily infested become anemic and lose weight, and the cows are likely to abort or to produce light calves. Bulls that are always heavily infested with lice may become sterile.

Work carried out at the federal research station at Lethbridge shows that the systemic insecticides coumaphos, fenitrothion and trichlorfon, used in the fall treatment of warble grubs on beef and non-lactating dairy cows, will also control lice. Lice can be treated with the same chemical that was used in the fall or, if the animals, loose control is an important additional benefit of warble control.

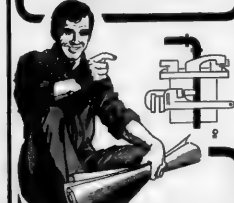

Dr. M. A. Khan, entomologist at Lethbridge research station, says animals usually shed five percent of their body weight in the fall for warble grubs and have become reinfested with lice can be treated with the same chemical that was used in the fall or, if the animals, loose control is an important additional benefit of warble control.

Beef cattle and non-lactating dairy cows that were not treated for warble grubs during the prescribed time period in the fall and lactating dairy cows that are infested with lice can be treated with a carbaryl dust or spray, a coumaphos dust, a coumaphos spray or a rotenone dust or spray. Coumaphos, a mixture of coumaphos and deltamethrin or rotenone can also be used as a backrubber application.

Dr. Khan recommends culling animals that are chronically infested with lice from the herd.

Protect your lawn before snow comes

The most effective way of controlling snow mold on lawns and other areas of turf is to apply a suitable fungicide to the grass just before the first permanent snow, says Dr. Ronald Howard, plant pathologist with the Alberta Horticultural Research Center in Brooks.

He reports that mercuric chloride (Corrosive Sublimates), mercurous chloride (Calomel) and organic mercury compounds like mercuric picogen, PMAS and selenic acid are all effective against the common snow mold pathogens that occur in Alberta.

Benomyl (Benlate) and chlorobenzyl (Tersan) are registered for controlling specific types of snow mold and do not have as wide a spectrum as the mercurial fungicides. In fact snow mold control is one of the few remaining registered uses for fungicides that contain mercury.

If you are in doubt about the type of snow mold you have on your lawn each spring, Dr. Howard recommends that you use either an organic or an inorganic mercury fungicide. Be sure to wear protective clothing when you use one of these products and be careful that it does not come in contact with your skin. Also, thoroughly wash out your sprayer after using it because some forms of mercury are corrosive to metal.

For detailed information on the types of snow mold that occurs in Alberta and their control, get a copy of the Agritech fact sheet entitled "Diseases of Turfgrasses" (78-273-00-1). It can be obtained from

Big Christmas card is ready in Tofield

By Grace Phillips
One of pre-Christmas activities in Tofield is the appearance of the Community Christmas card.
This year, the Christmas card will be sponsored by Minor Hockey of Tofield, who will benefit from it.
Lisa Schacher, secretary-treasurer of Minor Hockey reports that the five teams made up of boys in the five to 14 year group already need funds for ice time, for referees and for skating.
The card is especially acute as the needs associated with hockey have risen sharply.
The teams involved are Mighty Mites, Poo Wee,
Woods and Miniguns.
The over-sized Christmas card will be displayed in the window of Smith's Garage as it was last year. Joyous wishes to distant Christmas greetings to Tofield friend may be making a donation to Minor Hockey at the garage or at Everett's Foodland, have their name or names placed on the large card for all passers-by to see.

The Community Christmas
Card has been a feature of Christmas in Tofield for several years. Initiated by the new Tofield and Lawrence Community League, it has been used to help Minor Sports the last four years.
The boys will appreciate having your name on the card when your support for their hockey team is indicated by your donation left at Smith's and Everett's business establishments.
Mrs. Schacher intends to have the card ready for public display by Dec. 1.

Toros get split

Tofield Toros have a 2-1 record in the County of Cameron Senior Hockey League after splitting games during the past week.
Toros started play in the league when they made their debut a successful one by beating Havelock 10-1.
The Toros were edged 4-1 by Rosedale and, they whipped Carleton Place 7-2 margin.
Toros will host Bawlin on Friday night and then host Kingman early Sunday
evening.
Friday's game with Bawlin will be part of a twin-bill which will see Kingman and Cameron play in an earlier contest.
In the game with Rosedale, Toros fell behind 4-0 early in the second period and just couldn't make it all the way back and were edged.
Kelli Zimmerman paced Rosedale's attack by scoring two goals while singles were added by Mitchell, Tim Buckley and Billy Zimmerman.
Scoring the Tofield markers were Lorne Farmer, Fred Batal, Lauris Lushock and Fred Barry.
Tofield was assessed only two penalties in the contest while Rosedale picked up twelve.
Shows on goal were not recorded for the game.
Monday's game with Carleton saw the Toros rack up a relatively easy 7-3 triumph over Cameron. Details of the contest were not available by press deadline.

Tofield buys space in Alberta history

By Carolyn Martindale

The Town of Tofield will spend $1,200 on a color booklet titled "Tofield: a colorful Alberta's 75th birthday".

The money also buys Tofield space in a large volume on the history of cities, towns and national parks in Alberta, which is being organized to celebrate Alberta's birthday next year.

Council agreed to spend the money following a meeting with a representative from Edmonton to Alberta, a private company which is handling the government-sponsored project.

Tofield Council agreed to purchase three pages of space at a cost of $400 per page in the history of Alberta.

In addition, the town will receive several free pages of space for its members in the Premier, the MP for the Tofield area, the president of the 75th Anniversary Committee as well as a page for Tofield activities listed planned for the town's birthday.

The town will receive 750 copies of the booklet. Another 1,200 copies of the Tofield booklet will be distributed through the tourist associations. These volumes of history on all of Alberta's 10 towns, 11 cities and five national parks will also be given to the town.

Since the book will be sold to Tofield businessmen who would like to advertise in the booklet and volume. The only requirement the businessmen must meet is that they are in the town of Tofield.

Advertising space will be sold at a rate of $2,000 per page for black and white.

"At that price, there won't be a lot of advertisers," said Mayor Councilor Laurie Westall.

Vinson and Red Wyng to appear in Holden

By Carolyn Martindale
Laura Vinson and her three-year-old son Red Wyng will be appearing in concert at the Regional Arts Centre in Holden Friday evening.

The folk-country band was formed nine years ago. Among their performances are appearances at the "Country Hunter Show, Family Country and the Alberta Live. They entertained during the 1978-79 season at the Centennial Games in 1978 and have performed at Edmonton's Citadel Theatre and the University of Alberta.

Vinson, who was born in Braden, taught himself to play the guitar while in her teens. After high school, she attended the University of Alberta where she received a degree in education.

While in university she formed a folk group which performed at Edmonton coffee houses and clubs. After the folk group broke up, Vinson worked as a solo performer before joining a rock and roll band which landed a regular slot on an Edmonton television show.

When the television series finished Vinson and the remaining musicians formed Red Wyng. Vinson chose the name Red Wyng after an old fiddle tune about an Indian.

Red Wyng released two albums, "The Sun Always Shines" and "First Flight".

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Halbova, Darren and Robin of Woodward Park were visitors Sunday at the Robson Boulevard home.

The Holden Beaver and Cubs had their inventory ceremony in conjunction with a potluck supper on Nov. 6 in the United Church basement. The families of both teams sat on the supper, thus waited while their sons became hall-fledged members of the Scout movement. Of course, the Scoutmaster, because this is a brand new Beaver Cub and Cub Pack, there was a large number of boys to be initiated. Fifteen Beavers and one Tender and 18 Cubs received their Law, Promise and Motto before the District Commissioner of the Wildrose District, John Hall.

The Cubs will be having a test battery drive all this week to raise funds for their winter projects and supplies. Supper serving batteries they would like to donate can have them picked up by phoning: Gail MacGregor at 688-3048; Marilyn Lapard at 688-3048; or Deanna McLean at 688-3048. Remembrance Day in Holden was held with the usual service to honor those who gave their lives in two world wars. The parade band by the Legion flag bearers and numbers were followed by Ladies Auxiliary members, the Cubs, Beavers, Girl Guides, Cubs, Beavers and leaders, in the contingent.

The Last Post was played and the flag lowered, with two minutes silence observed, then Reveille sounds and flags were raised. Wreaths were placed by the Legion, Auxiliary, Village of Holden, B.P.O. #184, Provincial Government, Scouts, and the Students Union.

The public service held in the Community Hall with Mrs. Beth Campbell in charge. Mrs. Olive Good was the pianist and the president of R.I. Church Bazaar, Union road "Flowers Place".

After the service, Legion and Auxiliary members and guests enjoyed a buffet lunch in the Legion Hall. Petra Stauffer memorial presented to Tofield Lodge

By Grace Phillips
On Oct. 28, the Tofield Lodge was enhanced by the gift of a plaque and picture in memory of Mrs. Petra Stauffer, who is fondly remembered by Tofielders as their Centennial Queen in 1967.

The plaque and picture were presented to John Stauffer, a manager of the Lodge, by Petra's son, Leonard of Tofield, and daughter Evelyn, Mrs. Norman Stauffer of Burnham, in memory of their mother's life and achievement.

The picture is a color photo of Petra in a floral dress, smiling. It is a color photo of Petra in a floral dress, smiling. It is a color photo of Petra in a floral dress, smiling.

At well as the plaque and picture from the family, the Lodge received a gift of money from the Petra Stauffer Memorial Fund, to be used for recreation facilities at the Lodge.

Petra Stauffer (nee Lehmman) was born in 1898 in the Burnham district. She grew up, she shared all the joys and sorrows of pioneer life. In 1917 she married Joseph Stauffer; they had two children, Leonard and Evelyn. In 1921, Mr. Stauffer died.

For several years Mrs. Stauffer drove a school bus for the County of Beaver. She moved into Tofield, holding a new house and becoming very active in community work as well as church affairs.

As Centennial Queen, a role she fulfilled with charm and dignity, she also not only presided over all local functions during 1967, but also visited hospitals, nursing homes, senior citizens' lodges and schools in her official capacity, bringing much pleasure to those she met.

Member of Tofield's Centennial Committee, Petra fostered the idea of a park on Main Street and when the plan was implemented by the town, Petra was frequently seen caring for the flowers and trees. With her little Kodak box camera she took the pictures which now (unlabeled) hang in the Lodge.

Each member of the group received a scarf and hat when they visited the Cub lodge, promise and motto.

The new Cub pack will be holding a battery drive on Saturday in early March. The Cub will be collecting any old car batteries or radiators which they will send to salvage company.

Anyone wishing to donate old batteries or radiators may phone Marilyn Lindsay, Cub Pack or Al Stoad, 643-3837.

The location of the picture of Petra is appropriate because she was holding the Lodge when another project for which Petra worked though she did not live to see it completed. Petra Stauffer is remembered in Tofield for more than her stature in public affairs. Her interest in, and concern for, people was demonstrated by her visits to the sick and the shut-in, and by the warm welcome extended to visitors at her home at all times, but especially on her birthday, Aug. 28, when she held open houses for several days to accommodate all who wanted to come.

Petra died on Feb. 4, 1976 and is buried beside her husband in the cemetery of the Burnham district.

Her son, Leonard, his wife Evelyn (nee Lawson) and their son Warren live in the Burnham district. Their elder son Ken, his wife Barbara and their children, Ryan, Cameron and Lisa live near Tofield.

Petra's daughter, Evelyn, and her husband Norman are Edmonton residents. Their elder son, David, lives in Burnham. Their daughter and son-in-law, Anne and her husband, are in Burnham, and their younger daughter Patricia and her husband Allen live in Gibbon, B.C.

Buy cattle by tender

By Gordon Ross
Alberta Agriculture's Regional Livestock Inspector at Lethbridge

Cattle producers who decide to get rid of part of their herd are always faced with the decision of how to establish a price for the animals that must be sold.

This price determination can be as hard on the owner as on the animals. Taking cattle to the nearest auction market may yield the most competitive bidding. However, since it involves time, transportation and relocation, it is hard on the animals and the resulting weight loss can be a factor in reducing gross return.

In addition to the stress placed on the animals, contact with sources of disease and parasite infestations may lower the bid a prospective buyer is willing to offer.

To avoid stressing the cattle and to still retain some aspects of competitive bidding, some producers are turning to tender selling. When they use this method, they advertise a package of animals by whatever means they feel is practical under their specific circumstances. A description of the cattle and selling, weighing and feeding conditions are outlined to prospective buyers, who are invited to inspect the animals during a specified time and to place an offer, usually in writing. Producers who are well established in the system will accept verbal bids from buyers who are known to

The seller can accept the highest bid or any other bid if he so desires as he need not accept any bid. He has not incurred any expense in assembling or moving the cattle as he would have done if he had received a similar bid at a central selling location.

Feeding by tender has been used in the past for large groups of cattle, but producers are now finding that it will also work for smaller groups. The modern feed exchange, located at various points throughout the province, is one type of tender which has proved to be an efficient way of selling finished cattle.

Production efficiency is the best pipeline is necessary in our present economy. Since stress and disease are connected with the movement of feeder cattle, any system of price determination that will reduce or eliminate them should be encouraged.

Tofield United Church celebrates anniversary

By Grace Phillips

A two-part event highlighted the anniversary celebration of the Tofield United Church this week.

On Sat. Nov. 17, a congregational picnic reg. organized by the United Ch. celebrated about 75 participants to the social event at the church. Presided by the special occasion were the Rev. Mr. Iwasa, his wife Inger and their daughter Rachel. Mr. Iwasa was the United Church minister in Tofield 1923-1965 and was involved in the planning and the actual construction of the present United Church.

After supper, Rev. David Moulden thanked those who had prepared it, and welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Iwasa and Rachel. In reply Mr. Iwasa recalled some of pleasures and difficulties associated with the building of the church, of the many friendships he had made in Tofield and district, of the pleasure of renewing these friendships and sharing them with his family on this occasion.

The Iwasas now live in Calgary where Mr. Iwasa is the "Church-in-Society" minister for both Central and North United Churches. His ministry is with the people of the city core, helping them relate to the church. Many social programs are involved, particularly with recent immigrants.

The following morning, Mr. Iwasa was the guest speaker at the church service. He reminded the congregation to value the presence of the church and those who had built on the foundation laid by them. He also spoke of the duty of Christians to be active in society when its values were taught by Christ, but to be non-militant when self-interest replaced Christian ideals as the prevalent value of society.

The anniversary service also featured special music by Mrs. Melita Wall, Mrs. Sharon King, Mrs. Betty Ann Gallinger and Rev. David Moulden. Concluding the service, Mr. Moulden welcomed back Mrs. Iwasa who had been ill while visiting her daughter in Toronto.

The growth of the United Church in Tofield parallels that of the community and province. In 1888 the Methodist minister, George McDougall, visited the Beaverhill Lake area to minister to the Indians; by 1888 the area was sufficiently settled to require the services of two student ministers, Mr. Henry Shilling, Presbyterian, and Mr. Whitfield, Methodist. The two denominations held services on alternate Sundays in the log schoolhouse, one-half mile north of the present school.

In 1906, the Presbyterians built a church called S. Andrew's on "Mt. Zion" hill overlooking the Assiniboine valley, leaving the log school house to the Methodists. In 1908 and 1910, these churches were both moved to the then site of Tofield, north of the present school. After the Grand Trunk Pacific railway came through (July 1, 1909) the churches were again moved, the Presbyterian Church, now the Masonic Hall, to its present location and the log Methodist Church to a site immediately north of the present United Church. Services were also held in homes in the Ketchikan and Lakeshore districts. Methodist and Presbyterian came together when the United Church of Canada was formed in 1925 and worshipped in the Presbyterian Church. The present church, built under the supervision of J.L. Francis and C.W. Robinson, was opened in May, 1926. Volunteer labor, including much from members of other denominations, made the early completion of the church possible.

Falkenberg will speak

Howard Falkenberg, president of Unifarm, will be a guest speaker in Tofield next week.

Mr. Falkenberg will be addressing a forum in the Tofield Community on Monday night, with the session scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m.

The forum is part of a series of seminars conducted by the Unifarm organization to discuss transportation, as well as other farm related topics. Monday's meeting is open to all interested persons.

Winter driving tips

With the first snows of winter in the air, Alberta Transportation has issued a warning to all drivers that now is the time to get their cars and trucks prepared for adverse road conditions.

1. Install winter tires and check vehicle anti-freeze early, thus avoiding the big bill when the first big snow falls.
2. Remember to check all oil, fluid, and tire pressure.
3. Good tread on all wheels, not just the driving wheels, is essential to vehicle control.
4. All four tires should be of the same construction.
5. Never use tires of different construction on the same axle.
6. Never mount radial tires on the front axle with belted or bias belted on the rear.

Alberta Transportation Safety Branch has series, "Tire Maintenance Can Be Dangerous" which explains the hazards of mis-matched tires. Different different constructions can seriously affect the handling characteristics of your car, making it difficult to control under certain conditions.

Finally, the Branch reminds all drivers that mental preparation is also important.

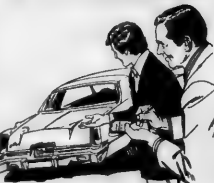

Two often, research reveals, drivers blame weather and road conditions when the real cause of accidents is failure of the driver to adjust to conditions.

Official opening

Deputy-chairman of the County of Beaver Board of Education, Horatia Amalgam (centre), cut the ribbon at the official opening of the C.W. Sears Elementary School.

Sears Roebuck officially opens

The grade one's give the ding along, and joined in "O Canada".

Mr. Langford welcomed the students of the school, and congratulated the Board of Education on the new school and its staff. The principal and faculty had had hard working parties. Since the school had obviously been planned for its students, Mr. Langford was pleased that the program included lessons from all of them.

After the grade two's tradition of "It's Me!" accompanied by Mrs. Warner, Mayor Dr. W. Langford presented the keys of the town of Tofield to the new school. He congratulated the Board of Education on the new school and its staff, and wished them every success in the future.

Dr. Walter Beck, M.L.A. for Oliver, congratulated the Board of Education on the new school and its staff, and wished them every success in the future.

After the grade two's tradition of "It's Me!" accompanied by Mrs. Warner, Mayor Dr. W. Langford presented the keys of the town of Tofield to the new school. He congratulated the Board of Education on the new school and its staff, and wished them every success in the future.

Accident claims man

A Tofield man was killed and two people were injured following a head-on collision on a quiet road on Saturday.

The accident occurred on Highway 1A, near the intersection of Highway 1A and Highway 1B. The victim was a 35-year-old man who was driving a 1978 Ford. He was killed instantly.

The two injured people were a 12-year-old boy and a 10-year-old girl. They were both taken to the hospital and are expected to survive.

The police are investigating the cause of the accident. It is believed that the driver of the Ford was speeding.

Holden Society elects directors

Five directors were elected to the board of the Holden Society at the annual meeting held last week.

The directors are: Gordon Tuck, Raymond Kraybill, Marlene Hume, Bill Hume and Lorne Goldstein.

The society is dedicated to the preservation of the Holden breed and the promotion of its interests.

That Place refused property tax refund

Tofield Council turned down a request on Monday that the town of Tofield be granted a refund of property taxes for the year 1978.

The council's decision was based on the fact that the town of Tofield had not paid its property taxes for the year 1978.

The town of Tofield had claimed that it was entitled to a refund of its property taxes for the year 1978 because it had not paid its taxes for that year.

The president of the Lions Club, Gary Monahan, presented a cheque for $4,000 to the treasurer of the Lions Club, Gordon Tuck, on Monday.

The cheque was for the Lions Club's contribution to the Tofield Hospital. The Lions Club has been supporting the hospital since its opening.

When liquor is served minors won't be there ... at Tofield events

Young people who were planning to attend the Tofield Community Hall New Year's Eve dance will have to find other activities, following a town council decision made Monday evening.

Council decided no persons under the age of 18 will be permitted to attend dances, with the exception of wedding receptions, when liquor is served at the Tofield Community Hall.

"They (minors) aren't allowed into the hotel here, why should we, as the general public, permit them to have access to liquor at the hall?" said Councilor Ed Regier.

The decision will be made in a clause in the hall rental agreement with the town, which organizations must sign prior to renting the hall.

Any organization which is requested to have violated the contract by allowing minors to attend a dance when liquor is available, will be unable to rent the hall on future occasions, council ruled.

Wedding dances should be an exception because they are a private function, Regier said.

"But, all liquor functions are private functions. In order to get a liquor permit, a function has to be to private," commented Councilor Laurie Weatherill, who was the only councillor to vote against the decision.

However, Council maintained that wedding dances should be an exception.

Councilor Regier made the motion to amend the Tofield Hall Board's decision. The hall board was concerned about the number of reports of minors drinking liquor at Community Hall functions. When he contacted a representative from the Alberta Liquor Commission, Regier said he was a report of minors having been told to call the police served liquor.

THE ENERGY WHEEL

As time goes by most of us put on a few more pounds. And over the years most of us also put more kilowatt hours — and dollars — on our electric bills.

It happens so gradually most of us aren't even aware of it... a new color TV here, a frost-free refrigerator there... and it adds up to fatter energy bills.

You can slim your energy bills with an ENERGY WHEEL, a quick reference for energy consumption and the cost of operating many common electrical appliances.

For your complimentary ENERGY WHEEL, write to ENERGY MANAGEMENT SERVICES, Box 1900, Calgary, Alberta T2P 2M1.

Last rites planned for Alan Rhodes

Funeral services for Alan Rhodes, of Tofield R22, will take place Friday morning in Edmonton.

Mr. Rhodes passed away on Saturday at the age of 38 years.

He is survived by his wife, Doreen; two sons, James and Jonathan; one daughter, Cheryl; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rhodes in Regina; and numerous other relatives, also in Regina.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. at the Chapel of Chances in Edmonton on Sunday at 10 o'clock Friday morning. Cremation will follow.

The family has asked that memorials be given, in his memory, to the Heart at Cancer Trust.

Kingman

The people attended the Silver Club meeting last Wednesday afternoon. The ladies talked about the Christmas dinner and showed slides on cooking poultry and proper nutrition. Business meeting the lunch was most delicious and Mrs. Kate Knoch.

Several families from the Silver Club met at the Tofield hall on Saturday evening. There is Linda and Terry Rae, Nov. 28, a daughter, 14, is a mother grandchild for Edward and Thomas Fleming.

The Kingston Recreation Association meeting was held Nov. 21 with eleven persons present. Hockey regulations were discussed and a motion was made that all boys must pay $10 for the season. If they can't play, they are to make changes payable to the Kingston Recreation Association.

Plans are made for skating on ice as soon as the weather permits. Donald Schacht will manage the rink this year. Because the rink does not pay for itself, it is to be brought to the rink to help maintain the rink and the parents whose children use it.

The plan for the installation and installation appear to be held Dec. 7 more complete. Material is to be brought to the rink to help maintain the rink and the parents whose children use it.

Heavy guests at Edward Fleming's were Mary and Harold Fisher of Grouse. Afternoon visitors were Mrs. Jean, Donald and Maude Patis.

Holden borrows reservoir money

Holden village council passed a motion to borrow money for the village water reservoir and pump-out at a meeting last Wednesday evening.

The money will provide interest financing until the village receives a $100,000 grant for the project.

According to Holden Secretary-Treasurer, Christine McKay, Holden's water reservoir and pump-out are almost completed.

The facility should be operational within a month, pending satisfactory testing, McKay said.

In other business, council agreed to pay their share of the Regional Recreation Board's three mill agreement to the amount of $4,000.

Council also voted to approve of supporting a County aqueduct commission to cover operating costs of the Regional Area Centre in Holden.

WATER AND LIVESTOCK PRODUCTION
 by Dr. Frank Bahar
 Alberta Agriculture
 Extension Veterinarian

In an age when we talk knowledge about the lack various nutrients, such as vitamins and minerals, and were against the dangers of energy and protein deficiency, we often tend to forget the importance of the most nutrient of all—water. It is second only to air as a basic requirement for life, and yet, because of its usually availability, it often does not receive the attention that it warrants.

Water should be available to cattle at all times. Consumption varies with the age and sex of animal, feed intake, for example, drink five to six litres every 24 hours while dairy cattle drink 10 to 15 litres every 24 hours. Studies at the University of Guelph in Ontario showed that water consumption of beef cattle on a maintenance and fattening resulted to be as follows:

PICK UP TABS

Dairy cattle which were allowed free access to water drank mostly between 7 a.m. and between 6 a.m. Cows with a continuous supply of water drank 14 percent more water and produced 3.4 percent more milk and 13.7 percent more butterfat than cows which had access to water only twice a day. With a 4 degree
 C rise in temperature, water consumption increased 10 percent. Dry Holstein cows drank nine gallons of water each day, while cows with access to water increased by 19 gallons per day of milking cows. Calves drank one to five gallons per day.

The National Research Council recommends that water allowance for cattle be increased by 10 percent during the last four months of pregnancy.

Total Daily Water Intake
 by Beef Cattle (in lbs.):

Animal	Weight (lb.)	Temperature	10°C	20°C	30°C
600	20-38	25-48	40-60
800	20-48	25-48	50-100
600	20-38	25-48	40-60
800	20-48	25-48	50-100
1000	20-48	25-48	50-100

Despite the fact that it is generally considered to be of little consequence to the average producer, water quality is important to livestock.
 Water with a high saline content is probably of greatest concern. Dr. J.P. Martin, Alberta Agriculture's animal nutritionist, says that water should not be a limiting factor to maximum production as long as:

- It contains less than 7,000 p.p.m. (parts per million) of total salts. Animals on maintenance rations or older animals on production rations can likely cope with higher levels (10,000 p.p.m.).
- It contains less than 100 p.p.m. nitrate.
- It does not contain focal contaminants or alkali toxins.
- It is readily available.

The water requirements of cattle, particularly beef calves, are often neglected during the winter. While it is true that cattle can, and obviously do, survive on the range with only snow in their water sources, requirements, there is no doubt that they are in much better health and more efficient producers when they are supplied with a good source of water.
 The considerable effort required to obtain enough snow to meet an animal's water requirements is often not available for food gathering efforts. Also much study has been required to see the snow in the animal's water and this must come from the animal's food.

 Alberta Agriculture is not available for much or such production.

If the source of water is a stream or creek, an ice-free water should be maintained. If water is supplied in tanks or barrels, heaters should be provided to make the water available to the animal.
 Water source under winter conditions should be kept for enough water to provide sufficient daily exercise for the cattle, these sources should not be located so far apart that the amount of walking the cattle must do will use up energy that would otherwise be available for the production of meat or milk. In fact, cattle should not have to travel more than two miles to water, and this distance should be reduced if the temperature is rough.

A good water supply, freely available at all times, is essential for efficient livestock production.

Do you know this man?

By Carolyn Martindale
RCMP are hoping that a facial reconstruction of a body found near Tofield in 1977 may reveal the search for the identity of the victim.

Using the bones of the victim, U.S. forensic anthropologist Dr. Clyde Snow recently completed a facial reconstruction of the man who was brutally murdered and dumped in an old maple tank, four miles north of Lindsborg. The body was found by a farmer in April of 1977.

"The body was as badly decomposed (that of dead) it was impossible to tell whether the victim was male or female," said Capt. Ed Lamont of Tofield.

Lamont estimated the man had been dead for between six months and one year. He said the victim had been tortured, sexually mutilated and had been shot twice.

A report issued from RCMP's K Division in Edmonton indicates other information about the victim has been learned.

According to the report, the man was between five foot three inches, and five foot nine inches tall. He had dark hair and weighed between 140 and 180 pounds. The age of the man is estimated between 35 and 45. The victim was wearing a blue work shirt, "Tobert," blue jeans, grey wool socks, and imitation walking shoes.

Anyone having any information which might lead to the identity of this man is asked to contact RCMP Homicide Detail at 679-6668 or the nearest detachment of the RCMP.

Satellites lead

Tofield Satellites have taken over some possession of first place in the Tofield Hockey League.

Two wins in three outings during the past week moved Tofield into top spot while second place is shared by Ryley, Lamont and Andrew.

Lamont is in fifth place while sixth spot is occupied by Lindsborg. Tofield is in the basement after being beaten in four starts. Hadden has been hampered by a lack of ice because of the mild weather which has eliminated practice and home games.

On Saturday night, Hadden is in Lamont while Ryley plays in Mundare and Sinsky Lake goes to Andrew.

Tuesday night games will see Ryley host Andrew. Tofield while Sinsky Lake plays in Mundare. Tofield is supposed to play in Hadden but that game also could be changed at the date of the contest may be changed.

After losing 6-4 by

Ryley, Tofield bounced back to record two straight wins, whipping Andrew 7-3 and then outgunning Sinsky Lake 9-4.

After winning against Tofield, Ryley had a game with Hadden postponed before losing 4-3 to Lamont.

Lamont picked up two other wins as they whipped Mundare 7-1 and stopped Sinsky Lake 7-4.

In other games played, Andrew stopped Mundare 4-0 while Mundare trounced Hadden 17-5.

St. Nicholas evening celebrated by Dutch

By Alice Sparreboom
Dutch people will remember the happiness of childhood in the Netherlands on the evening of Dec. 5, better known to the Dutch as Sinter Klaas Avond (Saint Nicholas Evening).

A man dressed in the rich robes of a Bishop, riding a beautiful white horse, represents Saint Nicholas. He has many helpers known as Zwarte Pieten (Black Pevens). They are disguised as black men and help Saint Nicholas with his many duties.

The Saint questions the children about their behavior during the year and promises to return on Saint Nicholas Evening with gifts for the good children.

The children fill their shoes with hay and carrots for the Saint's horse. This is usually done on the evenings of Dec. 3 and 4.

Black Peter who is believed to come through the chimney on the evening of Dec. 5, takes the hay and carrots and leaves small gifts in their place.

Many Canadians believe that this festive day is Christmas in the Netherlands. This is not true. It has nothing to do with Christmas. It just so happened that this festive day is also in December.

Saint Nicholas was believed to have lived in the third century A.D. He was a bishop known to have come from Spain. He was extremely kind, and often went out at night taking presents to the needy. He was believed to have died on Dec. 6.

Saint Nicholas was a well loved man and when he died, people decided to celebrate Dec. 6 as a Festival Day by exchanging gifts.

December 26 is a religious holiday in the Netherlands, enjoyed by many people by the singing of Christmas carols while sitting around the Christmas tree.

In December, the Dutch have extra festive day, which should not be mistaken for Christmas.

Ministik news

Mr. Jim Rodick
The Lakes Crafts Centre held their annual meeting on Nov. 30 with a fair number of members in attendance.

After the business session which included final plans for the annual games afternoon to be held on Dec. 8, it was time for election of officers.

Glen Ferguson remained as president; Adina Robertson as secretary; and Barbara Gladue as vice-president.

Jean Dunham replaced Theresa Regier who resigned as treasurer having held the term for four years.

Margaret Patterson was lunch ladies.

There will be no December meeting, the next meeting being on Jan. 30.

Most of the tickets on the quilt have been sold.

Christmas Lunch returned home on Saturday after a four-day stay in Tofield Hospital. Those who attended the United Church welcomed Arthur Dunsen back after a six-week absence. He had surgery on his back to correct an arthritic condition.

Albert and Barbara Herricks, Margaret and Pat Patterson, Bill and Vi Rodicks and Agnes Robertson attended the Brotherhood Church annual banquet and social on Saturday.

Paul and Berline Lahti have been recent victims of a Jan. 1st, being confined to home for over a week.

The meeting class who attended the Crafts Centre each Tuesday evening have resumed until after Christmas.

Friends who remember Hugh Brown of Hudson, B.C. will be sorry to hear of his passing last Thursday. Hugh with other members of his family resided in Ministik for several years, where Albert and Barbara Herricks now live.

NSF cheque alert issued by RCMP

By Carolyn Martindale

Non-sufficient cheques totalling $1,400 have been passed to three Tofield businesses during the past week, according to Col. Ed Lamontagna of Tofield RCMP detachment.

Lamontagna advises all business to be on the look out when taking cheques from strangers.

Over $1,000 worth of property was stolen from a farm south of Hudson on Sunday. Melvin Boyce told Tofield RCMP that a deep freezer and furniture were among the articles stolen from his farm.

Three other thefts were reported to Tofield RCMP last week.

On Saturday, Jody McAndrew of Tofield RCMP reported the theft of a 1977 Pontiac LeMans. RCMP say the vehicle has since been recovered and charges are pending.

In another incident, G.W. Brown of Sharrowed Park reported the theft of 100 gallons of gas from his property northwest of Tofield on Sunday.

Steve Skolowski of Hudson reported the theft of a rural tire and rim. The tire was stolen from his parked vehicle last Wednesday.

Glen Kent of Ryley reported a hit and run to RCMP last Wednesday. Kent's vehicle was struck while parked in front of the Ryley Hotel.

On Monday, Ray Carleton of Tofield reported his vehicle had been tampered with. Carleton said mud and dirt had been put in his gas tank.

Last Wednesday, Don Wood of Tofield RCMP reported he had found a red and white van with one and one-half horns.

Five motor vehicle accidents were reported last week, but there were no injuries.

During the month of November, there were 25 motor vehicle accidents in the Tofield area. One person was killed and 13 others were injured in connection with the accidents.

Other November totals show RCMP charged 30 drivers with speeding and 19 with impaired driving. There were 19 liquor offences, 13 charges of failing to appear in court, 10 thefts under $500 and one charge of wilful damage.

LEAVE YOURSELF ALONE

Eugenie Price
"I'm sick of examining myself, my 'viciousness', my 'passions', the works. I am weary of the self-centered, self-hating books, pamphlets, and articles. The healthy-minded person is the one who is focused outside of self and whose attention is on God and other people. says this regular novelist and inspirational writer. She then explains specific areas of life where we can and should leave ourselves alone.

privilege of paying homage to the books of Shakespeare, and of telling others about them. Mr. Murray encouraged his audience to follow the example of the shepherd.

Jesus' sacrifice of his life was the greatest for his people. He laid down his life for all. His hands, nailed open on the cross, are ready to touch, bless, and uplift all who want.

Mr. Murray closed with prayer, asking that all our needs be met, that our hearts be responsive, our love extended to all.

After Miss Ragner had expressed the appreciation of the audience for her message, she called on Mr. and Mrs. Sloan for another group of songs. Mr. Murray closed the program with a prayer.

Like the Christmas spirit, don't break down because of the noise, confusion and hilarity of a real family. It breaks down when we enter a situation with all kinds of expectations that no one else knows about.

This Christmas, go home with an open, accepting mind. That means for what they are and try not to be judgmental. Most, most of all have a very happy Christmas!

Toros tied for lead

Tofield Toros have moved into the first place in the County (Calverton) Senior League.

The Toros registered a 64 victory over New Norway on Friday night to grab a share of top spot in the standings. Following details of the game were:

Tofield and Norval have identical 44 records and share first place with Kipling and Rensselaire who have 43 each.

Only four points separate the top and bottom teams in the league in what is shaping up to be a terrific battle for league honors.

Next action for the Toros is scheduled for tonight (Thursday) when the team will play its first road game, travelling to Estevan for a contest.

The Toros team will play one other game during the coming week when they host Kipling on Monday night.

Two other league games will be played in Tofield on Friday night when New Norway goes against Rensselaire and Camrose hosts Kipling.

One of the Toros is still second in the goal-scoring race with a 3.6 goal average, according to statistics released earlier this week.

Meanwhile is the only member of the Tofield squad to be listed in the scoring race but he is tied for fifth place with 13 points.

Toros are the second best team in the league in terms of goals scored, having been named only 118 minutes to date. They have, with 12 victories, lost a game penalty total.

By contrast, Kipling is the team possessing the fewest goals in the league, having scored only 11 goals in the six tie.

400 attend concert

Over 400 people braved cold weather to attend the C.W. Beary Elementary School Christmas concert last Wednesday. Big hits were a big hit as the entire school followed their music to the Tofield concert. The program began with singing O Canada and the children, by grade three students. The audience joined C.W.

Beary students in singing "Away in a Manger" before the kindergarten classes presented "Here's Our New Year". A grade one class presented "What Will We Do Today". Another grade one class presented a poem called "Santa's Toy Shop". The kindergarten classes then sang "Silent Night" and "Hallelujah the King of Kings".

Grade two performances started with "Christmas Time" and proceeded with "Jesus Day". The audience joined the students in the song, "Joy to the World". Following that a grade one class sang "Christmas Song" and "Hallelujah the King of Kings". The grade two followed with a recitation on the symbols of Christmas.

A grade one class presented a play "The True Angel", and the kindergarten classes performed "Owe the Christmas Santa Came". "Pretty the Snowman", "Here Comes Santa Claus" and "Noddy for Christmas" were sung by the grade three students.

The program ended with all C.W. Beary students performing exercises to music. After the concert, Santa Claus appeared with oranges for all the children.

Tofield increases insurance

by Carolyn Martindale
Tofield Council voted in favor of increasing the town's general liability insurance coverage by five million dollars at a meeting last Monday.

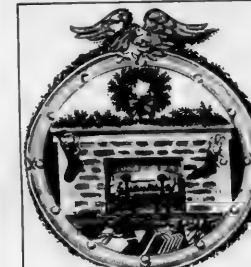

The increase, which will cost an additional $125 in insurance premiums, will be paid prior to the meeting being held.

The policy that covers Tofield recreation will be increased by $5 million for accidental death or dismemberment and up to $10 million for medical expenses not covered by third-party insurance. The insurance also provides $100,000 for property and up to $100,000 for liability.

Under the general liability insurance program, Tofield recreation will be covered by an insurance policy for $1.25 million. The cost of the insurance program is estimated to be $125,000 per year.

The town also agreed to pay $125,000 for accident insurance for Tofield recreation program.

Peace on Earth

Send me as an instrument of Thy Peace:
where there is hatred, let me sow love,
where there is injury, pardon,
where there is doubt, faith,
where there is despair, hope,
where there is darkness, light,
where there is sadness, joy.
O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled, as to console, to be understood, as to understand,
to be loved as to love,
for it is in giving that we receive, it is in pardoning that we are pardoned and it is in dying that we are born to subject to inspection and must meet government standards. The corporation is to ensure that installation is done properly. It will not vented property, an expense could result. Council also agreed Monday afternoon to upgrade the five righting equipment at the village fire hall.

The decision was made after council asked the Fire Commissioner's office to conduct an evaluation of Ryley fire equipment. According to the evaluation, an estimated $15,000 is necessary to upgrade the equipment. However, councilors said they didn't feel all of the equipment recommended was necessary for a village the size of Ryley.

Tofield Court report

Three Tofield men were fined in Tofield Court last Tuesday, for alcohol related charges.

Donald Jurgens was fined $200 for impaired driving. Clayton Ross was fined $200 for driving with an alcohol level of over .05. Brian Purvis was fined $200 for driving with an alcohol level over .05.

Another $12,000 will be necessary to provide the culverts, manholes and drainage systems which are required to drain water from within the town.

Tofield's third proposal was to provide parking for the balance of the village where curb and gutter have already been installed.

Mary Little of the Gas Inspection Branch in Camrose reported on the Division Council, at the request of Ryley Council.

Council had received complaints from residents regarding people doing their own fitting and plumbing, and the councilors wanted to know how they might get fitting regulations.

According to Little, a permit must obtain a home permit in order to do either their own gas fitting or plumbing. To receive a home permit, a person must be the owner of the house and must reside in the house. The gas fitting is then

Councillor sought for Division Three

By Carolyn Martindale

Members for the Division of Division Three councillor will open on Jan. 4. Council members last Tuesday.

An election will follow four weeks later if two or more candidates are named for the position.

Council is requesting Councillor Colin Branson, who resigned Nov. 29, for another term.

The County had asked Branson to resign on Oct. 15 after he had issued four consecutive council orders without obtaining a resolution from Council to do so. However, Branson refused to resign. He requested a three-month leave of absence, which Council denied.

That day Branson's bail was received by the Sheriff's Office. Council issued a court order to detain him until March. However, later that month Branson advised his resignation, and proceeding for the court order has since been dropped.

Council is now considering the election next year.

However, they decided against it because they said they were not likely to be able to get a councillor who is not opposed to represent the area for the remainder of the term.

Councilors made the decision at a meeting last Thursday after receiving a bill for transporting 100 tons of gravel to the seed cleaning plant. Council was told that they were sent a bill for hauling gravel which they did not authorize to be moved from the county pit.

This was done improperly. If they used county gravel, they have to have a contract, said Councilor Walter Thompson. Council also agreed to bill the seed cleaning plant for the 14 yards of gravel.

The council decided not to respond to a petition that asked them to install lights at the railway crossing at the intersection of the road. The council has been considering by order to be a dangerous crossing.

Robert Tworick sent the 12-page petition to council and indicated a copy had also been sent to local MP and Minister of Transport, Dan McLaughlin.

We have already acted on it. We put stop signs at that crossing," Councilor Charles Sears said. Sears, who represents that area, also said there was no money left in the budget for the railway lights which would cost over $10,000.

Council agreed that the county has no money left in the budget for the railway lights which would cost over $10,000.

The County has decided to hire an executive assistant to help take a load off county administrative staff.

According to Secretary-Treasurer, Jack Owen, he was asked to be responsible for duties regarding recreation as well as municipal matters.

RECREATION AND SWIM
Jan. 7 has been set as the date council will hold a meeting in Kinross to discuss the cost of the new swimming pool project proposed by Kinross.

Three representatives from Yule Community Council, who attended last Thursday's meeting, said the $10,000 freight commitment proposed for the landfill was reasonable.

The representatives said the amount of the amount of work that had to be done.

A Christmas message from F. Lynch-Staunton

Today Christmas throughout the world will be celebrating Christmas. This should be a happy event with families together, young and old, sharing happiness and goodwill.

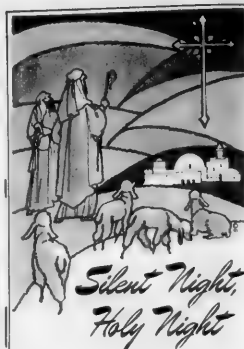

Let us just stop and think of the people less fortunate than ourselves. Many people throughout the world live in a constant state of hunger and poverty. Maybe we can help in a small way to improve these.

Then there are some at home who are sick and abandoned, men who are alone, and men who haven't the money to make a really Merry Christmas for their little ones.

If all of us could spend a little time and a little money, maybe a call, a few candles for the children, add a little to their Christmas dinner, I am sure that the pleasure of doing so would be ample reward.

I expect to spend Christmas with my family, daughters, son and numerous grandchildren, which is as it should be, and I hope that everyone of you have family, friends and company for this great day.

Merry Christmas and God Bless You.

Silent Night, Holy Night

On that night, long ago, a dazzling star guided shepherds to our Savior. On this holiday we hope the radiance of the season guides you to a happy and loving Christmas. Thanks, all Keep Your Herd in Condition the Easy Way.

Feed roughage and the safe, efficient liquid, CLS Controlled Release

You can do right by your herd the easy, economical way by feeding your own roughage and the liquid liquid supplement going, Nutrena CLS, with patented Controlled Release.

Nutrena CLS is safe. Patented Controlled Release means controlled breakdown of urea. Here's a liquid that's really safe for cows and young stock. To prove how safe it is, Cornell researchers tested it against a conventional urea-based liquid supplement. Five pounds of the conventional liquid fed directly to the rumen produced toxicity. Eleven pounds (more than twice the amount) of CLS Controlled Release produced no toxicity. You can feed free-choice safely with Nutrena CLS Controlled Release.

Nutrena CLS is 83% more efficient. You get more feed value from your roughage and lower feed costs than with a conventional urea-based liquid supplement. Our nitrogen-retention studies showed that Nutrena CLS Controlled Release is able to be 83% more efficient than a typical urea-based liquid in protein building power. Cattle stay on the feed for good clean-up of roughage.

Let your Nutrena dealer about the easy, economical way to keep your herd in condition.

Local improvements approved in Tofield

By Carolyn Martindale

Tofield Council has passed two by-laws for local improvements in the form of curb and gutter and paving programs.

The estimated cost of the paving program is $188,738.54 while the curb and gutter program is estimated to cost $60,737.50.

If the by-law receives final approval, land on that portion of the street where the local improvements are to be made will be taxed at a rate of $6.34 per front foot for the paving program and $1.84 per front foot for the curb and gutter.

The streets slated for pavements are between 51 and 53 Street and between 48 and 49 Street, on 52 Avenue; from 58 Avenue northerly and between 54 and 56 Avenue on 51 Street; and between 53 and 56 Avenue on 53 Street.

Streets where curb and gutter are to be constructed are between 51 and 53 Street and between 48 and 49 Street, on 52 Avenue; the west side of 58 Avenue northerly on 51 Street; and between 53 and 56 Avenue on 53 Street.

In other business at last Monday's meeting, Council passed two other by-laws.

One by-law provided for parallel parking on 52 Avenue from the alley by McLeod Street east to 48 Street. Council passed the by-law to correct a hazardous situation that occurs when vehicles are angled parked along the narrow stretch of road. The other by-law passed provides for the removal of $10.00 from the town when a licensed female dog is sprayed.

Council decided not to install a yield sign at the intersection of 51 Street and 56 Avenue as a Tofield resident had requested.

Councillor Warren Wilson said there were other intersections that needed signs more than that intersection did. The matter was turned over to the By-law Committee for consideration.

The committee will do a study of intersections which may require signs.

Councillor Laurie Weatherill also suggested the town update its stop signs from yellow to red.

never in the case of failure of certain bonds of nature. In face of the ultimate disruption of coal there is always water power and electricity to fall back upon. Instances might be multiplied.

The point is that there is already in use a fair substitute for gasoline in alcohol, which can be produced from almost any sort of organic waste. The big task is to produce it more cheaply and to devise engines to use it economically and with good results.

It may be that other power will be devised, infinitely more powerful than gasoline, which can be produced more cheaply. In these days of miracles of chemistry this is entirely possible. In the meantime the security of a suitable power is likely to have some effect in hindering the development and expansion of the automobile industry.

Confronting your faith

with Carl Hansen, Co-Pastor of Tofield
Methodist Church

Giving and Christmas are not just a time to get things together. But giving is much more than just a time to do as Christmas does. It is a time every day in just a different way.

Giving is basic to the very existence of life. The sun gives its energy, the atmosphere gives life to the earth, and the soil gives life to the plants. Living things receive only to give in return, to the atmosphere, carbon dioxide or oxygen and water; to the soil, nutrients; to the plants, food. In the family, the cycle of life is broken, the cycle of life is broken.

The family that doesn't reproduce dies out. The family that doesn't spread new life, that doesn't give to life, is doomed. It is unnatural for living things to be born and to die. It is natural to be giving.

Consider the parable of the two men in Palestine. The son of Galilee is a small lake fed by the fresh waters flowing in from the slopes of Mt. Hermon. At the mouth of the lake is a trap given away water to the Jordan River. The waters of Galilee are always fresh and full of fish and provide a livelihood and enjoyment for many people. The other man, the Dead Sea, receives the fresh water flowing into it from the Jordan River. But it doesn't give it back. It holds it all for itself. The Dead Sea is dead. It supports no life. It stinks. And neither man nor animal could live on its shores. So it is with human beings who have not learned the grace of giving.

Living in the gift that God has given means that we must give. The parable that Jesus told of two men in Palestine. The son of Galilee is a small lake fed by the fresh waters flowing in from the slopes of Mt. Hermon. At the mouth of the lake is a trap given away water to the Jordan River. The waters of Galilee are always fresh and full of fish and provide a livelihood and enjoyment for many people. The other man, the Dead Sea, receives the fresh water flowing into it from the Jordan River. But it doesn't give it back. It holds it all for itself. The Dead Sea is dead. It supports no life. It stinks. And neither man nor animal could live on its shores. So it is with human beings who have not learned the grace of giving.

relationships can be satisfactory only when there is an attitude of generosity and willingness to give one's best for the good of the other.

"God loves a cheerful giver." The world needs more cheerful givers. More of our people are reaching older ages and are isolated from warm human fellowship in their places of retirement. These challenges of our time and situation to help alleviate their loneliness; countless little children are neglected by uninvolved parents or abandoned by parents altogether. These need our love and affection, our time and attention. Our refusal today, mostly innocent victims of other men's sins, need our compassion, our love, our money, our hospitality.

Will you and I be like the son of Galilee, or like the Dead Sea? Will we receive an overflowing fountain of life, or a cupped of selfishness?

CONCRETE IN HERD

Dear Sir:
This is the time of year that celebrates the birth of Christ the Lord, our Saviour, which should bring peace and love and joy to our hearts. But, on Monday morning, I found out that my beloved wife had died. I was so shocked and sad that I could not even cry. I was so shocked and sad that I could not even cry.

At first there was anger and then there was sadness. I was so shocked and sad that I could not even cry. I was so shocked and sad that I could not even cry.

On further investigation, I found it had been found all a foot or more above ground and found away on a meadow.

But that tree left a trail of large which was my wife's. (Elder's note: description of trail deleted.)

We hope it will bring joy to someone, but also a warning to someone to leave that land is stealing.

We are not young anymore, and had planned times to enjoy in our declining years. May the Lord bless all who read this.

Merry Christmas to all and a Happy New Year.

SR 834 re-alignment is topic for councils

By Carolyn Martindale
The County Board of Education plans to meet with Tofield Council next month to discuss the proposed alignment of secondary road 834. The school trustees made the decision of a meeting last Tuesday after receiving a letter from Tofield Council which stated the town council had passed a resolution to confirm the proposed alignment for SR 834. The re-alignment stretches from a half kilometre west of the intersection of Highway 14, north across the tracks along 67 Street to 84 Avenue where it links with the northern portion of the town alignment, which was drawn up by Alberta Transportation, includes intersections at 51, 55 and 88 Avenue. The plan also includes cut and fill on 51, 55 and 88 Avenue, and closing off one access to the C.W. Sears Elementary School on 67 Street.

CONTRASTS
At the jubilation season of Christmas comes our wish to extend to the staff and all readers our warmest wishes for Christmas and a healthy and prosperous 1980! Thanks for your co-operation over the past year from Mrs. Joe Kamel.

Mrs. Marilyn Hietanen and boys were callers Thursday at her mother's, Mrs. Hilda Logan, Camrose, for her birthday.

Joe and Emma Knudsen were Saturday visitors at the Mike Christy and Peter Danish home, Camrose. On Tuesday they called on the Roy Kelly and Anna Perry.

Mrs. Art Katsley went by bus Dec. 1 to attend the wedding of her niece Tracy Wilk and Brian Dubois at the Catholic Church in Leduc. The couple will live in New Sarepta.

the re-alignment on the grounds that it would create a very highway along 67 Street which they said was particularly undesirable near elementary school. Trustees said following the alignment, SR 834 would become a major thoroughfare between Highway 14 and 16. At the October meeting with Tofield Council, they asked the town council to consider an alternative route which would bypass the school.

In their Nov. 23 letter to the County, Tofield said they had met with Alberta Transportation, and had considered two routes for SR 834, both of which bypassed the town of the town. The town said both routes would interfere with present and proposed development for the town, would split several parcels of County land and in addition the present SR 834 route would have to be maintained as the only route to Tofield from the north.

The letter explained that one reason for considering alignment P-1 was to provide an alternate route to the current SR 834 route which runs through Tofield. Presently SR 834 runs north from Highway 14 east along 51 Street and north on 55 Street and east along 88 Avenue where it joins the northern stretch of SR 834. Responding to the County's concern over traffic, the letter stated that information supplied by Alberta Transportation indicated almost all of the traffic using SR 834 is travelling east to or from Tofield. Only a very small percentage uses SR 834 as a through route.

Tofield Council re-iterated Alberta Transportation had indicated only one access to the C.W. Sears School would be permitted. The town suggested the parking lot be moved from north of the school to east of the school where the bus turnaround is located, and also that the bus turnaround be constructed north of the school using only one access.

Putting a bus turnaround north of the school would use South Edmonton Denture Clinic

Buying a new car?

Are you considering buying a new car? Here is what you should do.

Take into account the maintenance and fuel costs over the lifetime of the car as well as the purchase price. You could, for example, save $4,000 on gasoline if you drive a compact car, instead of a heavier, full-sized model for 10 years at an annual average mileage of 15,000 kilometres.

A seven percent annual increase in fuel costs. Transport Canada publishes a Free Fuel Economy Guide that makes it easy to compare all current car makes and models. It can be obtained from the Public Affairs Branch, Transport Canada, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0P6.

Factors that affect fuel economy include vehicle weight, engine size, transmission, differential, type of tire, tune-up, speed and the driver.

The heavier the vehicle, the more fuel it will use. This is one reason that car manufacturers are reducing car weights. A smaller engine will use less fuel than a larger one, partly because of less weight and partly because of a higher efficiency.

A properly operated manual transmission will save a considerable amount of gas compared with an automatic, particularly in a smaller car. As a general rule, a low ratio differential (1.4 to 1.5) will give better fuel economy than a high ratio differential (1.5 to 1.1). The low ratio also puts less strain on the engine at highway speeds, but will be slower during acceleration.

Compared with conventional tires, radial tires are noted for their longer life, better handling and improved fuel economy. However, as with all tires, they must be inflated with the correct air pressure.

Important energy savings are possible with a car that has been properly tuned. It will also be more reliable and last longer.

Slower highway speeds, in addition to saving tires, save fuel. Tests show that most never spent. A smooth start and moderate acceleration reduces fuel consumption. A two-minute warm up is more than enough, even in the coldest weather. Remember, an idling car is getting new ton per litre or gallon and can drastically reduce your average fuel economy.

The above article comes from a booklet entitled "Energy Matters". Published by Alberta Energy and Natural Resources, it also contains a great deal of useful information on causes of fuel waste to the average driver, reducing fuel bills by the correct operation of the furnace and water heater, saving electricity, tips on insulating a house and a list of sources from which additional information can be obtained on the areas covered in the booklet.

Copies of "Energy Matters" (1979-80) can be obtained from the Publications Office, Alberta Agriculture, 9714-50 Street, Edmonton, T6E 3C3.

Check out our wishes for you... they add up to a long list of deserved Christmas pleasures. Thanks again for your friendship.

However, the board later changed the mind and said they would not submit an application to the Department of Education.

As a member to the County School Superintendent, the members of the church school board said asking for government approval would be putting their church "under government control."

"We do not make a distinction between Sunday School and Monday School as both are ministries of our church," the Christian Board said.

At a County meeting last Tuesday, Hainault told school trustees that a recent amendment to the school act had shifted the responsibility for the Christian School to the Department of Education.

The amendment requires all school in Alberta to be registered with the Department of Education.

Prior to the amendment, it was up to the local Board of Education to take action, according to the attendance regulations in the School Act, which requires all children ages 6 to 16 to attend a school approved by the government.

The new owners who had moved in, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Duggan and Mrs. Judy Duggan, were burned to death and lost all their possessions.

It is thought that three children who were in the house escaped by the back door. The Duggans are presently living in the Palmer-McDonald house at Ryley. The new owners of the farm reside in Edmonton.

Toros grab 2nd

Towfield Toros have taken over sole possession of second place in the County (Camrose) Junior Hockey League.

Toros recorded a win and a tie in two outings during the past week and had a game in Kamloops postponed because of a lack of ice (natural).

Toros now trail Swift by only one point with both teams having played eight games to date.

The only scheduled game for the Toros last night during the contest week was on Friday night when they beat Swift 4-1 in a game played at Swift.

A November game with Swift in the Toros' schedule was played during the holiday season. Other than that, following Friday's game, Toros won't see any action again until Jan. 4 when they face New Horizons in Towfield.

Dale Glass of the Toros has taken over the lead in the goalkeepers' race with a sparkling 2.6 goals against average.

Dave Ombinski and Lorne Lushick of the Toros are sixth and seventh, respectively, in the scoring race.

In other individual activities, Brent Sawchuk and Dale Lushick of Swift are the leaders in the scoring race while Glen Carlson of Swift is the league's leading defenseman.

Each team has the team penalty parade with 280 minutes, so ahead of Camrose while New Horizons has accumulated 79 minutes.

They left the friendly session of the Towfield Toros for the first time last night when they travelled down to Swift where they held the home team in a 2-2 stalemate.

Arriving with festive wishes for a truly enchanting holiday. Thanks to our many devoted friends.

Santa wins children

A little girl smiles while Santa considers her Christmas wish. The joy gentleman didn't make any promises to deliver all of the gifts requested of him. However, he did wish the hearts of many children by giving them a bag of candies when he stopped in at the Holden Community Hall on Saturday.

Red Deer man hurt in two-vehicle crash

by Carolyn Mortinade

A Red Deer man sustained neck injuries and lacerations to his face following a two-vehicle accident two miles south of Leduc on Dec. 28. Terrence McDonald was injured when the vehicle he was driving collided with a vehicle driven by Bruce Jackson of Tofield.

Six other motor vehicle accidents were reported to Tofield RCMP over the holidays. Two of the accidents involved deer. There were no injuries reported.

Two hit and run accidents occurred over the holidays. Debra Boyd of Tofield reported her 1977 Dodge van had been struck during the night of Dec. 28. In the other incident, Pat Brainerd of Edmonton reported her 1975 Ford Falcon was struck on the passenger side while parked at the Postman Store.

Three break-ins occurred in the Tofield area recently. The caretaker at the Tofield School reported there was evidence of a break-in at the Tofield High School band room on Monday. However, nothing was reported stolen.

Lloyd Shaw of Tofield reported that over $80 was missing following a break-in at his residence on Dec. 28. In the third incident, Orville Jones reported a break-in at the Tofield Legion Hall on Dec. 28. However, nothing was reported missing.

Three thefts were also reported to Tofield RCMP. Henry Brunson of Blackfalds reported the theft of his 1979 Ford three-quarter ton blue club cab on Dec. 18. The truck has since been found, south of Vegreville. In another theft, three jerseys from Mundare were caught stealing hockey equipment Dec. 18 during a hockey game at the Tofield Arena. The third theft was a drive shaft removed from a 1984 GMC parked behind Watson Tofield.

Tofield RCMP are investigating two incidents of wildlife damage in the Tofield area. In the first case, the flag was reported torn off the Tofield Post Office. In the other incident, a vehicle damaged a lawn at the residence of Irvin Eisenbaum of Tofield.

Area residents have reported problems with snow machines running up and down alleys in Tofield. Two dogs were also reported running loose in the Hastings Lake area.

Tofield RCMP answered over 10 complaints over the past two weeks.

Satellites are 2nd

by Ed Climen

Tofield residents have dropped to second place in the Beaverhill Hockey League, according to available information.

Satellite had two games scheduled since the last publication of The Mercury. However, results from scheduled games with Ryley and Mundare were not received by Radio CFCW. It was not immediately known if the games were played or had any postponement.

Results of scheduled games between Ryley and Ryley, and Mundare and Mundare also were not received.

Games between Ryley and Ryley, and Ryley and Ryley at Mundare were postponed. In the only game that was reported, Andrew headed Mundare 11-0 to move him into possession of first place.

Tofield (Thursday) will use Tofield host Smoky Lake while Ryley plays in Mundare and Ryley goes to Leduc. On Saturday night, Ryley hosts Mundare in Tofield, Ryley goes to Leduc and Ryley hosts Ryley in Smoky Lake. The schedule for the balance of the 1980 season has not been received by The Mercury.

Confronting your faith

with Carl Lammann, Co-Pastor of the Salmon Mennonite Church

In the last two articles we saw how giving is a necessary and integral part of the natural life process, and a central expression of God's character. How it would thus be expected that Christians be inclined to be God's giving people. Generosity, kindness and benevolence are to be central characteristics in their lives. Christians are to be living out Christmas through all the year.

Jesus speaks of his followers as "salt" and "light" in this world of men. Salt is a giver. It is the flavor and changes flavor, it brings out the best in food. In the process salt gives away itself, losing its identity. Salt also is a good preservative, in giving of itself it preserves that which it is mixed. So must the Christian give of himself to enhance the flavor of his society and preserve the best in his society.

Light is also a giver. Light shines out into the darkness, giving enlightenment, showing the way, revealing what is true and real. So Christians are called to share the truth they have received, passing it on to others. Jesus calls Christians the "light of the world". It is their duty to banish from the world the shadows of superstition and ignorance, the shadows of oppression and injustice and wrong.

Fountains are unselfish. Receiving abundant supplies of cool fresh water, passing on to all they receive for the benefit of whoever is in need. God intends for all Christians to be like flowing fountains passing on to others the abundant treasures received.

Fountains do not hoard their flowing or else they would cease to be fountains. Fountains become cisterns or perhaps even a "Dead Sea". So, too, Christians do not hoard their spiritual, AND PHYSICAL, POSSESSIONS OR ELSE THEY WOULD CEASE TO BE "CHRISTIANS".

It is not natural for Christians to hoard, but to give. For the Christ taught us to "love another as I have loved you"; to be channels of blessing. "For ye have received freely given," to "go into all the world and preach the good news." Matt. 28:19. To the rich hoarder he said, "You lack one thing, go, sell what you have, and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me." Matt. 19:21. To those who would hoard to be rich, he said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Acts 20:35, and "He who sows his seed will also reap, and he who sows little will also reap much, and he who sows late will also reap early." Matt. 13:12. To those who are stingy, he said, "Whoever gives to one of these little ones a cup of cold water because he is thirsty, shall not lose his reward." Matt. 10:42. To those who are stingy, he said, "Whoever would be first among you must be last of all." Matt. 10:43-44. He who would steal is told to work hard so that he would have something to lend to heart, but to give away to the needy. Luke 6:38.

So it is only natural for Christians, like God, to give. And in the presence of such dire need in the world around them, they cannot but. They hear the cry of the homeless, the hungry, the oppressed, the lonely. They open their hearts. They share their food. They share God's love. Christians are givers.

Tofield is organizing for 75th anniversary

A meeting of interested groups, organizations and individuals was held in the Town Council Chambers on Monday to organize the celebration of the 75th anniversary of the Province of Alberta in the community.

Interested individuals are invited to attend the meeting. Any suggestions may be made to the Town Office at 80-228.

"This of Tofield" The most meeting to plan the 75th anniversary celebration will be held in the Town Council Chambers on Wednesday, Jan. 25 at 7:30 p.m.

Representatives of the Historical Association, Parks and Recreation Board, Historical Society, Royal Canadian Legion, Red Cross, Agricultural Society and Town Council agreed that plans should be made to celebrate the anniversary in the community in this important occasion. The three basic suggestions were to hold a series of events for organizations to sponsor cultural and historical functions or activities during the year; that July 1st be celebrated as the date for the main anniversary celebration; and that a permanent design or monument be designed and erected in the community.

Survey is conducted

The questionnaire, which will be distributed through the schools and sent out to the public, will be completed on each of 10 different areas. The 10-question form was designed to give local towns, county residents on public roads and with the town and regional government.

Election scheduled

The Town Council is scheduled for the Feb. 12 election for the Division Three. The candidates are to be announced by Jan. 25. The candidates are to be announced by Jan. 25. The candidates are to be announced by Jan. 25.

Family Life seminar is planned in Viking

A family life education seminar for parents will be conducted at the Viking School in its community building in January and February. At a meeting Tuesday, the County Board of Education agreed to allow the seminar to be conducted in the school and to schedule their support to the Viking and District Educational.

Mr. Tim Johnson, president of the Board of Education, said the seminar was designed to help parents discuss sexuality with their children. The program will add parents to getting over the barrier of talking about sex.

The seminar is directed to parents of Grade 8 students, however, Johnson indicated all parents are invited to attend. "The seminar is a tremendous thing. That's the first good common sense approach to teaching sex education to kids," Truston Lee Kelly said at the meeting.

Mr. Johnson said the Board of Education approved salary negotiations from Jan. 2 which saw five drivers receive an 8.5 per cent increase. In a report negotiating committee chairman, Truston

Walker Knapfield indicated that the rate daily rate increase to $8.13 and that drivers would receive 16.1 cents per mile from the previous 13 cent rate. Drivers also added for a $4.00 meal allowance and an increase in sick leave from 12 to 14 days. The settlement also included a $8 per pay for holidays declared by the Board of Education, and 75 per cent emergency leave cancellation. The drivers had been seeking 100 per cent for all duties leave were cancelled.

The County Board of Education awarded $100,000 a contract for four 1988 school buses totaling about $100,000 on Monday. The County will be purchasing one 30-passenger bus for $23,944 and three 30-passenger buses for $23,154 each. Although the $100,000 tender was not the lowest tender, the Board decided to purchase the buses because the $100,000 tender had the lowest price per seat.

The Board of Education will be printing up County graduation certificates for county school graduates. The certificates will bear the county colors and will have the school name on it.

Property returned

by Carolyn Martindale

A cassette recorder and tapes valued at $600 were reported stolen in Ryley on New Year's Day.

However, the stolen property miraculously appeared on the owner's doorstep the following evening.

Larry Pedersen reported the theft to Tofteld RCMP following a break-in at his home last Tuesday. RCMP made several inquiries regarding the stolen goods.

On Wednesday evening, Pedersen answered a knock at his door to find the cassette and tapes on his doorstep.

Two hit and runs were also reported to RCMP last week. Last Tuesday a vehicle owned by Dean McLeod of Tofteld sustained $800 damage while parked in front of the Landbrook Hotel. RCMP have since located the offending driver.

In the other incident which occurred last Thursday, a vehicle sustained $300 damage while parked in front of Tofteld Fun and Games. Greg McLeod of Landbrook reported the incident to RCMP.

Three incidents of vandalism were reported during the past week.

Last Friday Vince Bates of Tofteld RIDE RCMP be-noticed a spruce tree on his property had been cut down. On Saturday, Leonard Stauder of Tofteld RIDE reported that his mailboxes had been knocked down and damaged six miles south of Round Hill.

Vandalism also depleted two 1,000 pound bags of hay on Main Street in Tofteld on New Year's Eve.

Tofteld RCMP answered 30 complaints last week.

Toros still third

Tofteld Toros are still in third place in the County (Camrose) Senior Hockey League following a split in games played during the past week.

Three teams have two games in hand on Swift and three games in hand on Camrose with wins in three make-up games putting them right back into contention for top spot.

Toros have two games scheduled for the coming week. They will host Round Hill on Friday night and be at home to Invermay on Sunday night.

In both instances, the Tofteld games will be part of two-kits that are scheduled.

Dave Clement of the Toros is still in fifth place in the individual scoring race with 14 points while Laurie Landbrook has moved into a tie for seventh place with 10 points.

Snow Removal

If you're enough when you have to clear snow off of one vehicle, but how would you like to clear snow from a whole lot of vehicles? Eighteen year-old

Two accesses sought to the Sears School

by Carolyn Martindale

The Town of Tofield will be asking Alberta Transportation to allow the C.W. Sears School to maintain two access routes to the school providing they were permitted two access routes. The trustees attended the meeting to voice concerns regarding the hazardous situation which they said would result if one of the accesses blocked off the turn-around were out. With one access blocked off the turn-around would be rendered useless and buses would be forced to turn on the school grounds which would be dangerous for school children. Trustees also said that current bus routes which avoid Tofield pedestrian traffic would have to be modified and would again present a hazard to children walking to school.

The school access closure is one of several closures included in a plan for the realignment of Secondary Highway 84, which is at line 100 Highway 14, down 47 Street to 48 Avenue where it links with the northern part of 84. The plan, known as P-1, also includes closing off all road accesses to 47 Street except 81, 82 and 84 Avenue. The plan was drawn up by Tofield by Alberta Transportation to provide an alternate route through Tofield. At a meeting last year with Dick Serwah of Alberta Transportation and Tofield trustees, the Board of Education said they were opposed to P-1 because they said it would create a busy highway which would be undesirable through a school zone. However, in Tofield's trustees said they could live with the Highway running past the school providing they were permitted two access routes. Two access routes would allow the school to utilize its bus turn-around and would allow the country to maintain bus routes which currently travel down Main Street along 47 Street and out the C.W. Sears School. The bus turn-around to the closed loop turn-around and head north along 47 Street and out the main way it came. By only allowing one access route would be forced to travel south along 47 Street through pedestrian traffic, the trustees contended.

Trustee Arnold Swift said he could see the merit in closing off road accesses to the alignment because they would add traffic to 47 Street, which would become a major route through Tofield. "But the C.W. Sears School contributes nothing to the traffic. There is no place for traffic to be generated at the school," Swift said. The Board of Education members also said the access closure would destroy the aesthetics of the school grounds as it is currently laid out. The bus turn-around in front of the school would have to be moved, occupy needed playground area. The trustees indicated the board's position is that the school would have to be

'Maz' sells wheat to Brazil

Financed with equipment under the new, Arnold Malone plan, The Canadian last week-end to report a huge sale of Canadian wheat to Brazil.

"On behalf of the Hon. Don Menzies," said Crawford MP Malone, "I am pleased to announce that Canada has just completed a sale of from 3 to 3.5 million tonnes of wheat to Brazil."

"This is the largest sale Canada has ever made to Brazil," continued the Member of Parliament.

The agreement is for two million tonnes in 1980, 200,000 in 1981 and 100,000 additional in 1982. An updated agreement has been reached," added Mr. Malone, "for a further 300,000 tonnes in each year, to be taken up by mutual agreement."

"The Canadian Wheat Board and the Brazilian Wheat Board will meet periodically," continued Mr. Malone in his statement, "to negotiate the specifics of the contract, respecting grades, pricing and shipping schedules. The agreement was made possible by a federal government guarantee for three year credit terms to Brazil for the purchase of Canadian wheat."

Skating instruction is offered in Holden

Figure and power skating instruction commenced Jan. 6 as the Holden Skating Club started its 19th year of operation.

Executive officers were elected with Betty Lutz continuing as president (1980-1981); and Isabelle Schreiber is the new secretary-treasurer (1980-1981).

In addition to figure skating instruction in both four and two wheels, the club offers instruction in the following categories: learn to skate; beginner; advanced; power skating; and ice hockey.

Registration has increased this year to 44 children. The program is non-competitive and geared to basic figure skating and skating for fun.

A telephone committee will be contacting the parents if parents should have to be contacted.

Donald and Neil Pomeroy are the club's instructors in Natick, Ontario, who have been teaching figure and power skating for three years. The received her training at Vancouver and Sherwood Park and by attending two summer camps in Eastern figure skating schools.

The small registration in power skating surprised Mr. Olshak as she mentions that the beginner players from 8-17 years of age are taking power skating in increasing numbers in numerous centres in Alberta.

Registrations are still being accepted for figure or power skating. Contact the executive officers for more information.

as well as vegetable cooking water. Simply save the water vegetables every couple of days then make a "chase out the bridges" stew. Add celery, carrots, onion tips and corn cobs.

For extra protein add your own home cooked bones to the pot. Remember one cup of instant beans equals one serving of meat.

By doubling the recipe, you can freeze half for a quick meal. Freeze stew in a half sized pan, then remove from pan and place in a freeze-treating pans for another use.

For an instant pot pie try defrosting a frozen pot pie and place on top of stew. Add rolls in top and bake in oven. For a "In a Stew" give this office a call and leave your name and address.

Holden takes over Arts Centre

by Carolyn Martindale

Despite worries about being left holding the bag, Holden Village Council has agreed to be the signing authority for the Regional Arts Centre and to temporarily assume responsibility for all bills.

Council made the decision last Wednesday in response to a request from the management committee of the Regional Arts Centre.

The village agreed to take on the responsibilities on the condition that in the future an agreement to contribute money for theatre operation cost be signed between the municipalities of the Recreation Board.

Concerns were expressed that unless an agreement was signed, the village would end up bearing the total cost of operating the theatre, without assurance that they would be reimbursed for part of the expense. They said the Arts Centre was a responsibility of all residents of a workshop which focused on reviewing land uses in their area.

The County of Beaver placed advertisements in The Mercury regarding the workshop.

However, the residents said that land owners within the workshop should have been notified by the workshop.

A summary of how the land use changes would affect the land owners should have been notified by the workshop, they said.

The criticism came during the day-long agricultural workshop which was focused on reviewing the county's zoning by-law as it applies to that area.

The workshop was the second in a series sponsored by the County of Beaver to allow county residents to provide input into the preparation of the county's new land use by-law which will replace the current zoning by-law in April of 1980.

Agricultural zone B is a restricted development zone that allows a buffer zone of 100 feet around Beaverhill Lake, the Ministihk Bird Sanctuary, and the Blackfoot Grazing Reserve.

The purpose of the buffer zone is to preserve the wildlife that inhabits the area.

However, farmers within the zone stated at the workshop that the buffer zone with its accompanying land use restrictions would put a control on their potential income.

"When land owners start looking at the rules that we have to live by, it's gone to change our lives," said Ron Gough, a land owner who farms within the buffer zone.

The buffer zone could restrict poultry and livestock farmers from expanding their operations in certain areas of the zone. Some farmers may already be in violation of the zoning by-law which restricts

County is criticized at land-use workshop

by Carolyn Martindale

Several county residents criticized the County of Beaver last Monday, for not individually notifying zone B residents of a workshop which focused on reviewing land uses in their area.

The County of Beaver placed advertisements in The Mercury regarding the workshop.

However, the residents said that land owners within the workshop should have been notified by the workshop.

A summary of how the land use changes would affect the land owners should have been notified by the workshop, they said.

The criticism came during the day-long agricultural workshop which was focused on reviewing the county's zoning by-law as it applies to that area.

The workshop was the second in a series sponsored by the County of Beaver to allow county residents to provide input into the preparation of the county's new land use by-law which will replace the current zoning by-law in April of 1980.

Agricultural zone B is a restricted development zone that allows a buffer zone of 100 feet around Beaverhill Lake, the Ministihk Bird Sanctuary, and the Blackfoot Grazing Reserve.

The purpose of the buffer zone is to preserve the wildlife that inhabits the area.

However, farmers within the zone stated at the workshop that the buffer zone with its accompanying land use restrictions would put a control on their potential income.

"When land owners start looking at the rules that we have to live by, it's gone to change our lives," said Ron Gough, a land owner who farms within the buffer zone.

The buffer zone could restrict poultry and livestock farmers from expanding their operations in certain areas of the zone. Some farmers may already be in violation of the zoning by-law which restricts farmers from having large scale feedlots in zone B areas.

Under the zoning by-law, permitted use in zone B includes grazing of livestock and poultry, but not a commercial feedlot, piggy, or large scale poultry ranch. Turkey or chicken raising are listed as conditional uses, providing they are not within one-half mile of the Ministihk Bird Sanctuary or the Blackfoot Grazing Reserve.

A few farmers said the buffer zone restrictions would not affect them until a large scale feedlot was defined clearly.

No one at the workshop was able to clarify how many animal units a farmer could have before he was considered to be operating a commercial operation.

Buffer zones are expensive for the farmer, the president of the Round Hill-Dodds Agricultural Protective Society, Bernice van Tuijthoven.

The map shows the Blackfoot Grazing Reserve, which is a large, irregularly shaped area. To the north of the reserve is the Moraine, and to the east is Beaver Lake. To the south of the reserve is the Shovelan Lake Park, which includes Shovelan Lake. The Minister's Bird Sanctuary is located to the west of the reserve. The map also shows the location of the Shovelan Lake, the Shovelan Lake Park, and the Shovelan Lake. The map is overlaid with a grid and includes various labels for roads, rivers, and landmarks.

Regional recreation saga is slow to die

By Carolyn Martindale

The saga of the Regional Recreation Board drama is as yet another reminder that it is not always the possibility of setting up a municipality for operating the country's financially ailing recreation facilities.

Although the Recreation Board was officially dissolved on Dec. 31, a series of meetings have been held since to try to tie up loose ends. Another such meeting was to be held in Tofield last evening (Wednesday). All five governing authorities were scheduled to attend.

(Note: Details of the meeting were not available before The Mercury went to press.)

According to recreation management board chairman Hyndes Armitage, the governing authority was to discuss the possibility of setting up a municipality for operating the country's financially ailing recreation facilities.

At a meeting last Wednesday, the Village of Tofield agreed to take over signing authority for the Seagram project. Armitage said he was up between the two projects. The Village of Tofield also agreed to advance $400 to the Seagram project. The Village of Tofield also agreed to advance $400 to the Seagram project. Play school is rewarding for moms and tots

By Carolyn Martindale
The efforts of a group of Holden mothers are providing new women and their young children with a rewarding day out.

The mothers cooperatively operate the Holden Play School at the Legion Hall Wednesday mornings. At the school, youngsters learn to play with other children their own age. Mothers supervise while their own children play. The play school, which has been operating since November, is a wonderful of activities for the preschoolers.

Three small tag games, on hand from the Holden School, provide working space where the children fingerpaint, paste, draw pictures, draw or work with playdough.

"For the springing computer there are wooden blocks of different shapes and sizes. And for children who like to play with blocks, a collection of old clothes and shoes.

A doll and a collection of old books provide a space where mothers can read to their youngsters. In another corner, children can make-believe they are coming for children of their own, using plastic cooking utensils.

The sandbox, located in the center of the hall, is a favorite of the children. This container is a child's plastic sandpail with handles. The sand is covered with small pieces of wood to make it easier to clean up and will not harm them if they happen to eat it.

The cornmeal and other safe materials are used with the children's safety in mind. The paint and playdough are non-toxic, made from flour, water and food coloring. Even the glass the children use will not harm them if they happen to break it when using it.

Last week over 30 children, aged 14 months to 4½ years, attended the play school. The mothers pay a fee of $10 a month to bring their children every week. From November to April, women cannot bring their children regularly pay $8 cents per week.

Mothers enjoy the two-hour sessions almost as much as their children. They say it gives them a chance to get out and talk with other mothers while watching their own children at play.

The mothers say the play school is good for the youngsters and some have noticed a change in their children.

"It made such a difference in Darryl's behavior when he went to play school he always wanted to be entertained. Now he can entertain himself with things at home on his own," says Linda Cunningham about her two-year-old son.

The play school is good for children because of the wide range of activities it provides, adds Marian Pak, who has been bringing her children regularly since November.

"It keeps them occupied. I have no trouble getting the kids out of bed on Wednesdays. It's a woman thing if they have to go to play school. I guess I look forward to it too," she admits with a smile.

Although the kids enjoy the play school, Pak says that once a week is enough.

"They are eager to come, but they are also eager to go. By 11:30 a.m. they are tired."

The mothers agree that the play school is especially good for children who ordinarily have little contact with other children. It helps the youngsters overcome shyness, and teaches them how to play and share with other children.

Sharing is a new experience for the children who are accustomed to playing by themselves.

The play school is also a good preparation for the children who will soon be entering kindergarten. By having some experience there to play school, the children will be ready to enter "real" school by themselves.

More than anything else it is the involvement of the mothers that has made the play school a successful endeavor. Any time their household chores, the women are able to take an active interest in what their children are doing. And with many mothers, the youngsters are more at ease, deriving all of their energy to working and playing.

We really have a great bunch of mothers here," says Darlene Stambaugh, one of the women responsible for getting the Holden Play School started.

The women take turns bringing the morning lunch and taking the children away from the play school and the paint.

"At first we were worried that some women would take advantage of the play school,

The cornmeal sand-box is a favorite for the youngsters and consider it a babysitting service. But the women know that they are responsible for their own children," says Paula Martindale, a mother who attends regularly.

The idea for the Holden Play School came about last winter when two Holden mothers, Stambaugh and Brenda McCoy, tired of transporting their children to a play school in Holden.

"We just thought it was crazy, especially in the winter when the roads were so bad, to have to take them to a play school in Holden. With ideas from the volunteer Play School the women set out to establish a similar organization for Holden.

But the biggest problem they encountered was finding a place to hold the school.

"The play school would have been in operation last spring but we couldn't find a place. We thought we could get a room in the Holden School, but it ended up the school needed the room," she said.

Then, in October, the Holden Legion informed the women they could have the use of their hall for $8 per month.

Although the mothers are charged a $10 fee, the play school operates mainly on donations.

The children's dress-up clothes, toys and books are among the materials donated to the play school by local residents. The school also received a $100 donation from the Beaver Hockey Club, and $200 from the proceeds of the Holden Festival. The mothers also raised over $100 at a bake sale in December.

Stambaugh said the mothers have also learned that a large group of children would demand different activities than a small group.

When there is a large group of kids their attention span is shorter. So on days when there are a lot of children it is useless to try to make them all do the same thing, she said.

The mothers, always looking for new activities to offer in the play school, will use the money to purchase new materials.

Patricia are encouraged to attend play school meetings which are held every six weeks, and which provide a forum for new ideas.

for the reading corner and providing the children with old telephones to play with.

Stambaugh said a "Parent Night" might prove to be a good time to construct some of these projects.

Among new ideas being considered for the play school are a climbing apparatus, painting table, a children's kitchen centre and work benches. The group is also looking toward building a book shelf.

Holden Council passed a motion last Wednesday to ask the Holden Recreation Board to act as a 75th Anniversary Committee for the village.

The Village will ask the board to plan and implement a suitable anniversary project to commemorate Alberta's 75th anniversary.

Approximately $6,000 is available to Holden through the province's 200 per capita grant for 75th anniversary celebrations.

In other business, the village agreed to change the name of the village from "Holden" to "Kingman" by the end of the year.

Souvenir spoon

Jack Tiedemann of Telford is looking for any information regarding a souvenir sterling silver spoon, estimated to be at least 50 years old. Tiedemann came across the spoon recently and is interested in having it classified for his mother's collection of museum pieces. The spoon has the name Tiedemann engraved on it. The spoon also bears nine different coat of arms, as well as the old Canadian coat of arms. After writing to the provincial Archives, Tiedemann learned that the spoon was made prior to Nov. 21, 1921, because on that date the Canadian Coat of arms was changed. The Tiedemann spoon still bears the old coat of arms - a Beaver.

Hit and run mishap results in charges

A vehicle owned by Fern Tiedemann of Telford sustained over $1,000 damages in a hit and run accident in Telford on Sunday.

Telford police have charged a Canmore man in connection with the incident. The man will be facing charges of hit and run, impaired driving, refusing to blow in a breathalyzer and driving without a license. He is to appear in Telford Court Feb. 13. Three men were convicted in Vancouver Court Jan. 17 of stealing hockey equipment during a hockey game in Telford.

Brian Swab of Edmonton and Mark Henning of Mead, each received a conditional discharge with one year probation. Robert Zack of Mead received suspended sentence with nine months probation. Telford RCMP say that all hockey equipment has been returned.

Telford RCMP have charged seven individuals with illegal operating snowmobiles. Police say they will continue to crack down on the offending snowmobile operators.

Two vehicles sustained a total over $1,000 damage in separate accidents with deer. One vehicle sustained an estimated $1,000 damage, while damage to the second vehicle has been stated at $800.

Canfarm sets strategy for Alberta's market

Ten territories have been mapped out in an aggressive new marketing approach for Canfarm in Alberta.

This new strategy is part of the company's plan to intensify its service to farmers across the country. "We now have a range of farm financial management and production planning services to suit the needs of all farmers," said Bob Paul, Canfarm's Regional Marketing Manager. "But, we fully realize that good products must be backed up with first rate local service and that's what we're going to do."

The establishment of the marketing territories coincides with the launching of Canfarm's new financial management and record keeping services. These include Taxpac, a service to help farmers with filing and planning their income tax; Profitpac, a service which also allows farmers to use their records for management and planning; and Crop-pac, a service specifically designed for corporate farms.

Farmrite is a completely new service designed to allow farmers to do their records as they pay their bills. Each time a cheque is written, the information is automatically recorded on a journal underneath. Offer non-ch�ue items such as income are added to the journal. Canfarm then transforms the journal into an easy-to-understand set of farm financial records. The farmer can use these records for tax preparation as well as financial management.

Some of the production management services, such as the Dairy Feed Service and the Beef Planning Service, will be available to farmers through companies who have agreed to become Canfarm agents, while other services such as the New Management Service will be available through Canfarm representatives. Parrish & Heinbocker, through their subsidiary, New Life Foods, were the first feed company to reach an agreement with Canfarm to offer two services to their clients.

The territories are set in Alberta are described by a main centre in each one. These are Medicine Hat,

Regional recreation is dying a very slow death

by Carolyn Martinide

The Regional Recreation Board is in a state of flux. In a recent meeting, a number of representatives from all five governing authorities in the region met to discuss the future of the board.

Viking Mayor Steinar Hoken, who chaired the meeting, said that it was "not a decision-making meeting."

However, decisions could not have been made anyway. Ryley, Tofield, Hoken and the County of Beaver had only been informed of two of the decisions which eventually ended up on the agenda.

Prior to the meeting, the Town of Viking had sent letters to the municipalities informing them that the topics to be discussed at the meeting were establishing a mill rate for the operation of recreational facilities and setting up boundaries for local recreation areas.

However, in addition, Hoken, Ryley, Viking and the County of Beaver also agreed in principle to a suggestion that each municipality contribute toward the cost of the board's operation. Hoken said that the board is acting as the signing authority for the board, have already contributed some toward the board. Tofield remained silent on the issue. Hoken said that at a meeting in December that they were to offer in help to the board. Hoken said that they were to offer in help to the board. Hoken said that they were to offer in help to the board.

However, management committee chairman Ryley said that it was almost impossible to estimate how much it was going to cost to operate the board.

Later, during a discussion of a mill rate for operation of recreational facilities throughout the county, Tofield Councilor Jack Langpit said that the Arta Centre should be included in the mill rate for operation of all facilities.

"Everywhere we go the theatre is considered special. I don't see how it got divorced from the rest of the facilities," Langpit said.

County Councilor Armbrage pointed out that the theatre was considered separate from the rest because it had been the responsibility of the Regional Recreation Board before the board dissolved Dec. 21.

Other recreation facilities in the county are the responsibility of the individual towns and villages, she said. The governing authority of the recreation board agreed at one time that the theatre would be the whole county, she said.

Youth hall proposed as a '75th' project

by Carolyn Martindale
Part of Tofield's anniversary grant should be used to construct a youth hall, a representative of Tofield youth groups said last Wednesday.

Howard Gates suggested the youth building could be dedicated to planners of the Tofield area.

Gates made the suggestion at a meeting at the town office which was called to organize 75th anniversary projects for Tofield.

The Town of Tofield has received a cheque for $27,200 from the 75th Anniversary Committee. The money is to be used for suitable anniversary projects to commemorate Alberta's 75th birthday.

The suggestion for the youth building was one of many proposals made by 15 people representing different Tofield organizations who attended the meeting.

Bruce Dalkey, who attended the meeting on behalf of the Lions Club, proposed that money be used to repair existing facilities rather than building new facilities.

Dalkey said the Lions Club was prepared to donate $1,500 toward purchasing new chairs for the Tofield Community hall. He suggested that some money be used to repair the hall and extend the last of the year.

However, Ryley has two goals set for the Tofield while Andrew enjoys a four-game campaign.

Lamont currently holds fourth place while Munder, Stokely Lake and Watson hold fifth place. However, no team has yet been eliminated from a chance at earning a playoff berth.

The regular schedule runs until near the end of next month.

On Saturday night, Ryley will host Andrew in Tofield, Tofield plays in Munder and Stokely Lake travels to Lamont.

On Tuesday night's action, Ryley hosts Munder in Tofield, Munder plays in Lamont and Stokely Lake goes to Munder.

In addition to the regular games, a number of postponed games are still to be played.

No dates apparently have been set for any of these postponed contests.

Tofield scored an important win last Thursday night when they defeated Andrew 6-2 and then they whipped Holden 13-1.

Ryley ended out as exciting 6-1 victory over Holden while Andrew bounced back to Champ Munder 15-4.

Two other games either were not played or the scores were not reported to Idaho CPWC. On Thursday night, Holden was to have beaten Ryley while Munder played in Lamont.

On Saturday night, Andrew played the third meeting between the two teams with the Vikings emerging with a 5-4 win. The game summary follows after the league (official) standings.

made suits that will provide the town with an emergency communication system.

The system which will cost $2,000 will have several five-wirelines.

The portable base station will be located in the town office, and mobile radio units will be placed in the Tofield Fire Hall, and three public vehicles.

The base station operates on either battery or a regular current and can be moved from the town office in case of emergency.

The mobile radio units are interchangeable and can be placed in other stations or vehicles.

On a local frequency the radio system will allow the town office to communicate with town workers in public works vehicles.

Other frequencies are expected to be used to communicate on an emergency or disaster basis with the Tofield Hospital, ambulance and fire departments, as well as the County of Beaver.

Conrad has applied through Alberta Disaster Services for a $2,500 grant to be used toward the cost of the equipment.

Abolish Saturday

Locally elected councils throughout this region, as well as all the Chambers of Commerce or Boards of Trade should be protesting the latest economy move of the Post Office in trying to close down small Post Offices on Saturdays.

The move seems obviously to have been thought up by the very towers of the big city, where thousands of offices are open only Monday to Friday. But the smaller centres haven't changed all that much over the years... the biggest day of the week is Saturday, and often the visit to the Post Office is just one part of the business being done by various members of the family.

That's not to say, of course, that the smaller centres might close down entirely if they lost one day of mail service, but it wouldn't hurt them to operate. For that matter, they could close down to one day a week, we suppose, and still the mail would get through," after a fashion.

But surely to goodness that's not the way to proceed. Surely the emphasis should be on more service, on faster service, more effective service. Surely the concept when air mail was introduced was to speed the delivery of the mail, not to increase the time taken for delivery, or to increase charges for storage.

There's the other possibility, of course, which is to shut down the Post Office completely, and turn the whole process over to the couriers who are more and more rapidly creaming off such a lucrative part of the business. But look at the cost!

Low penalty

If memory serves, it was in The Mikado that Gilbert and Sullivan came up with the memorable line about letting "the punishment fit the crime," and probably justice ever since have been trying to do that, with more or less effectiveness.

We couldn't help but think justice went somewhat wild of the mark in Southern Alberta recently, when a company producing feeds for livestock shipped to two horse owners in the area custom horse feeds containing moinensid sodium. There's nothing wrong with the substance for cattle and poultry, and it has been approved in the feed for these animals. But it's known to be injurious to horses, and the upset in Southern Alberta was that two horses died after eating the feed... custom prepared.

Convicted for contravention of the Canada Feeds Act and Regulations, the feed company was fined $500 on each of two counts.

And here we think justice was wide of the mark. Surely in today's world there's hardly a horse anywhere that isn't worth more than $500.

And when the owner is buying custom prepared feeds, that in itself says the animals were far more valuable.

Surely this is a case where the punishment didn't fit the crime.

REQUEST MEETING

County Council, Office of Beaver, No. 9,
c/o Mr. A. Robert Cross, Beaver County Treasurer,
P.O. Box 146,
Ryley, Alberta
T0B 4A0
Re:

Proposed Land-Use By-Law
Agricultural Zone B
One Mile Buffer Around
Blackfoot Grade Beaver
Municipal Bird Sanctuary, Beaverhill Lake.

The Cooking Lake Meridian Landowner's Association considers the Council of Beaver County in their decision to hold Public Workshops as a preliminary to drafting planning policy.

It is regretful this preamble had no success convincing landowners at the Jan. 11, 1990 workshop of the need for Zone B.
At Council is no doubt aware, when the Chairman (Beaver Kestelman) asked who was in favour of Zone B, not one landowner raised a hand.

THIS ASSOCIATION WOULD ALSO

address the matter of communications. Landowners were not notified of this workshop, by mail or local news (Mercury) and by having a workshop during the day a large percentage of landowners cannot be in attendance.

I know the Blackfoot Grange and Beaverhill Lake Landowners Association will join with us in requesting a more comprehensive evaluation to justify what good and what cost might be accommodated by Zone B.

It is with this in mind that we request at least two more meetings (evening) prior to the drafting of by-laws. One to inform landowners and allow discussions of relative data, and the second to arrive at a formidable conclusion.

The CLMHA thank you in advance for your understanding our request and await your decision.
Yours truly,
D.W. Finkbe
President, CLMHA

Dear Sirs:

On behalf of the Beaver Heritage and Agricultural Society, I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your financial support in paying the $9,000.00 owing in the capital debt of the swimming pool.

This leaves only $1,000.00 as interest payments to be made, which the society hopes to clear as soon as possible.

Your action is greatly appreciated by the board of directors and others concerned with the swimming pool.

Yours truly,

Proposed new hospital is waiting for approval

by Carolyn Martindale

The Tofield Municipal Hospital Board is still waiting for word from provincial government officials regarding the possibility of a new hospital being built in Tofield.
On August 11 the board submitted a project request to the Alberta Department of Hospitals and Medical Care for a 50-bed hospital with an adjoining 30-bed nursing home at an estimated cost of $4,300,000.

The project request included four alternative proposals.
However, when contacted Friday, hospital administrator
Don Roth said the hospital board had not been advised as to whether any of the proposals would be accepted.

The hospital, which is running at full occupancy does not have adequate facilities and does not meet current building and fire safety standards, Roth said.

The present hospital has only one examining room for out-patients and as a result doctors must use the delivery room or a patient's room as an examining room.

Roth said the washroom facilities are also completely inadequate as four bathrooms must be shared among the hospital patients.

The present 30-bed hospital services from the west end of the County of Beaver to Hollis, and with the county population increasing every year the Tofield hospital situation is expected to get increasingly worse.

By August Roth said it was essential that the proposal for a new hospital be approved immediately.
Even if it is approved now it will be five or six years before it is completed because of the extensive planning that is required in a $4 million dollar project, Roth said.

By attaching the 30-bed nursing home to the hospital the board planned to save money by eliminating the duplication of services and to move out of the community or occupancy beds in the active treatment hospital. Roth said, suggesting the need for a nursing home.

The four other proposals were for a 50-bed hospital Department of Hospitals and Medical Care were as follows:
rebuild the current 30-bed hospital and attached 30-bed nursing home at a cost of $4,300,000.
renovate the current capital and construct a 50-bed nursing home for $3,100,000.

build a 30-bed hospital at a cost of $4,300,000.
build a 50-bed hospital at a cost of $3,000,000.

Have Canadians no pride?

among many Canadians in Alberta is the item originally published in Orillia, Ont., at the end of last July. In fact, an Orillia resident.

"Sunday afternoon I was told the large majority of my fellow Canadians, settled in the United States, believed in the Rangers and Canadians believed in it.

"And, as in the column before every player game, the mission was to win. The United States and Canada was to speed the delivery of the mail, not to increase the time taken for delivery, or to increase charges for storage.

There's the other possibility, of course, which is to shut down the Post Office completely, and turn the whole process over to the couriers who are more and more rapidly creaming off such a lucrative part of the business.
But look at the cost!

managed to struggle to live indifferent, their shoulders slumped and arms crossed, talking to each other. At this point I thought they were looking at the hands in their pockets and some even talked about the national anthem.

"If people cannot take pride in their national emblem, the one thing that stands for this country, it is not surprising that they do not deserve to have
"Canadiana" in their homes and offices.

"I believe that the

therefore have many things

Canadian Comment

By Peter Ward

Ottawa (SP) - The Tories have had a severe credibility problem during this election campaign—a problem which won't exactly fly off their heads. Twenty-four hours before the government fell last Dec. 13, there were MPs who really thought John Clark's administration would be defeated over the Canada bailout.

A vast majority of observers in the capital were sure that the Liberal leadership convention scheduled for late March in Winnipeg would give the Clark government at least five months of operation free of the fear of defeat.

Tory strategists decided that all the necessary bad news—like John Crosbie's sustained budget—would be available well before the convention. That the last news tioned so that the period of January and February would be spangled with new government schemes. The idea was to overshadow the media coverage of the Tories' own leadership and leave the Clark government with public opinion polls drastically reversed.

It was a plot that should have worked in the judgment of any sane political observer, but it foundered on the rocks of that unexpected defeat of the government on Dec. 13.

What happened to the Tory government announcements?
Well, you've seen that the change announced as government exactly that—programs ready to go.

The plans made were innovative and constructive.
There are other schemes, too,
which we may never see.

The plans have been taken out of those initiatives by the opposition, which has labelled the "goodies" as Tory discretionary and their realized plans that the Tories have a record of changing their plans on similar promises.

The results of this unusual election will depend very much on whether or not the Tories have been able to revive the "goodies" as Tory discretionary and their realized plans that the Tories have
a record of changing their plans on similar promises.

NEW POTATOES FOR THE FRUITFUL

Potato growers in western Canada could benefit from a Canada-U.S. cooperative program to find new potato varieties adapted to prairie conditions.

The new varieties produced by prairie breeders are tested at locations in several north-central states as well as at Meriden, Man., and Bismarck, N.D.

Five new selections are being evaluated in the Canadian portion of the trials and have been found to be superior to existing varieties in some characteristics.

Pipe replaced

Terry Cannon of Northwestern Utilities seals a new section of pipe that was installed at the Tofield School last week. Cannon was one of the workers who were at the school on Friday to complete the job. The new pipe replaced a corroded pipe which allowed water to enter and freeze in the gas line, cutting off gas to junior high school classrooms in the school on Monday.

Unscheduled holiday enjoyed by students

by Carolyn Martindale
 Tofield junior high school students received an unscheduled holiday on Wednesday when gas, which heated their classrooms, had to be turned off to allow Northwestern Utilities to replace a gas line.

Grade seven, eight and nine students, who have classes in the second section of the school, were given the day off while a crew worked to install the return of new pipe.

According to Tofield principal Al Pollock, four teachers were not working in the junior high school classes of the school on Monday. However, the students were able to use senior high classrooms since the seniors had the day off for their summer break. Northwestern Utilities workers got the gas flowing but, on Thursday, other problems developed and on Wednesday the gas was turned off to allow a crew to install a new line.

Lorna Anderson of Northwestern Utilities said a crew road pipe allowed water to enter the gas line. The water was spent taping and sealing, cutting off gas to the filling the new line.

Learning disabilities is theme for seminar

by Carolyn Martindale
 Coping with the learning disabled children is the theme of the County of Beaver Joint Professional Day which will be held at the C.W. Sears School on Friday.

While county students have the day off, over 100 county teachers, secretaries and librarians are expected to attend the day of seminars.

The professional day sessions are also open to the general public. However, registration is necessary for those who intend to attend the luncheon which will be held at the Tofield Legion Hall at 11:30.

While teachers and parents attend seminars focusing on understanding and helping children who have learning disabilities, librarians and secretaries will be attending separate sessions pertinent to their own work in the school.

Dr. Neil Gannon's luncheon speech is expected to be a highlight of the day. Gannon is a former County of Beaver School Superintendent.

The day gets underway at 9:15 a.m. when a seminar on Motivating Teachers will be presented.

Following a brief coffee break teachers can attend one of three one-hour seminars. Those who attend the simulated learning experience seminar will be put in the position of a child with a learning disability.

At the same time a session called building remedial materials will be conducted. This session will help adults assemble resource materials to assist children who are having problems in certain areas.

Interpreting psychological test results will provide an insight into why the tests are conducted as well as what they indicate.

Following lunch people may choose between three additional one-hour seminars. While a repeat of the Simulated Learning Experience seminar is held, sessions on understanding comprehension and stress management will be held.

A session on behavior management will be the final activity of the day.

MEET AN AOC REPRESENTATIVE

Mundare and Smoky Lake have been eliminated from winning first or second place in the standings, but both still have a chance at earning a berth in the playoffs.

Confronting Your Faith

with Rev. John Ursan

Tofield Memorial Church

Life in the Kingdom calls for the making of choices. As persons who are made in the image of God, we possess the freedom of choice. Therefore, if we are to live in the Kingdom, we must choose to do so. We must choose initially and we must choose repeatedly.

This is a law of life.
In this article, we will discuss the mechanics of choice-making. The myths associated with the process, and the maturity required in exercising our freedom of choice.

In John 8:31-47, Jesus is in dialogue with some Jews who could not believe the words they were hearing because their minds were closed to the truth; in other words, they were unable to make a reasonable choice.

THE MECHANICS OF CHOICE-MAKING Jesus says, "If you hold to my teaching, you are really free. Then you will know the truth, and the truth will set you free."

There is an important response in Jesus' statement.
Obeying Jesus' teaching will lead to the truth, and it is the truth revealed by Jesus which will set us free.

When Jesus says, "If you hold to my teaching," what does He mean? His meaning can be clarified by considering these familiar words from different perspectives. The words are: honor, obedience, submission.

HONOR
The commandment in Exodus 20:12 says, "Honor your father and your mother."
From a child's point of view, these words mean to acknowledge their parent's superior position, to give weight to their parent's values and to consider them when making a choice of action.

From the perspective of a parent, these words are the sublimity to make decisions statements about important matters and limit to set the child free to make his own choice.

This procedure allows the child to make decisions regarding his own life without wholesale rebellion since he has been set free to do so.

OBEDIENCE
In Ephesians 6:1 we read,
"Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right."
Obeying means listening well, to get the full meaning of the parent's message. In the same context, parents must leave their children the responsibility of choosing their course of action. Otherwise, they may alienate the children by forcing, rather than allowing a choice. Children should not be forced to make choices that really only reflect the parents' views because, as soon as the same strings are cut, they will reject what they were forced to accept.

SUBMISSION
Hebrews 13:17 says, "Obey your leaders and submit to their authority." These people are referred to as persuasive and teachable. The responsibility to be open to new insights belongs to the hearer who can then weigh and choose his response. "Submit"
means to yield, to give way, to those in authority. We must learn to listen to, and honor others.

God in giving us freedom of choice took a risk that we would sometimes choose wrongly and bear the consequences. But if growth is to take place, the mechanism of choice-making must be adhered to.

OTHER ASSURANCES
The Jews mentioned in John 8:31 obviously not been listening carefully nor had they given consideration to what Jesus had been saying.
Their concept of being free was based on the fact that they counted on their relationship to Abraham as ensuring freedom.

The first myth that many people believe about freedom of choice is expressed as, "I don't need to choose a better alternative; everything is fine just the way it is." Often, however, it is much harder for God through Jesus to convince us we are bound by the very thing we think is freeing us than for God to help us to exercise His transforming power to make us into new creatures.

In John 8:31-47, Jesus is in dialogue with some Jews who could not believe the words
they were hearing because their minds were closed to the truth; in other words, they were unable to make a reasonable choice.

MATURITY IN MAKING CHOICES

Condemnation in the making of choices is given in (a) Luke 9:18, "Then I will let you go and you will choose the way of life and property, death and destruction." (b) Matthew 7:13-14, "Enter through the narrow gate, for wide is the gate and broad is the way that leads to destruction and many enter through it. But small is the gate and narrow the road that leads to life, and only a few find it."

A spiritually and morally mature person, in making the inevitable choices of life will listen well, consider the options, respond to what is said to him, will be teachable, personable, and open to new insights. He will exercise his freedom to make choices and accept the responsibility of choosing. He will not shirk himself of such responsibility.

We choose initially and we choose repeatedly. Because God has given us the freedom of choice, we are responsible to Him to use it wisely.
It is choice not chance that determines human destiny.

The set made out of a squashed trash can, was presented to him by Vic Petrus, chairman of the Joint Professional Development Day committee. Gannon, who is a former County of Beaver school superintendent, received the award as a joke. Mazankowski will vote in Vegreville

Voters in the Vegreville constituency are set to see their member of parliament at the last general election, the last day of his term.

Minister of Transport Don Mazankowski is spending this week campaigning in Manitoba after spending the early part of the campaign in Ontario, Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

Although he did not spend any time campaigning in his own constituency since the election was called, Mr. Mazankowski does expect to be in Vegreville on Monday to cast his own ballot and visit constituents.

Mr. Mazankowski's bid for re-election during Monday's vote is being opposed by various parties from five other parties.

Former provincial M.L.A. Alex Gorday of Vegreville is contesting the seat on behalf of the Social Credit Party. Carl Hobel of the Rinkoos Party candidate while Henry Mandelbaum of Edmonton is receiving the NDP banner.

The Liberal candidate is Florence Ruchansky of Massey while Bill Truett of Edmonton is again contesting the seat on behalf of the Conservative Party of Canada.

The Social Credit and Rinkoos parties were not represented when the last general election was held in May of last year.

In that May election, Mr. Mazankowski easily retained his seat in parliament when he gathered nearly 70 per cent of the vote.

Advances polls were held on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday. Polls will open at nine o'clock on Monday morning and will remain open all day.

Countdown of House school trustees were critical of the province's plan to spend $24 million on Alberta's 75th birthday, at a Board of Education meeting on Tuesday.

"It's just a bunch of foolishness," said Trustee George Knudsen. He was referring to $20 per capita grants the municipalities will receive for suitable anniversary celebrations.

"You mean these are legitimate reasons to spend the money," said Trustee Hilda Armstrong. She said the purpose of a grant to people guidelines which may the 75th anniversary projects should have a lasting effect.

"I don't know what your idea is. If that isn't lasting, I don't know what it is," he said. However, if trustees wanted to know exactly how much the projects would cost before making a decision.

In other Board of Education business, trustees passed a motion to endorse the People's Project Petition being circulated through Alberta. The petition, which is to be sent to Quebec residents, requests that Quebec stay within Confederation.

The Board of Education also passed a resolution which approved sending the petition to the Board of Education was written and added to Alberta households with their gas bills.

Bringing the petition to the Board of Education delays the purpose of a grant to people guidelines which may the 75th anniversary projects should have a lasting effect.

All potential electric power problems you face aren't man made. Natural disasters—due to wind, ice, snow, fire and flood—can also suddenly and seriously disrupt power, throwing you on your own resources.

● STAY-PUT STABILITY...
Special spring mounts developed by Generac eliminates "walking" when unit is in use.

Confronting Your Faith

Rev. John Urmann
of the Toftfield Ministry Church

This week, we will consider how our relationship would be affected should he suddenly take back from us three of his best gifts—love, family relationships and health. Would we truly return these precious gifts?

The story of Abraham and Isaac illustrates the agony felt by one who was called on to return God's gift of a much-desired and long-awaited son (Isaac, for whom Abraham and Sarah had longingly waited for many years), was a youth when God tested Abraham (Genesis 22) by saying, "Abraham, you say that you love me. Take your only son, Isaac, whom you love, to the region of Mount Moriah. Sacrifice him there as a burnt offering at a place I will indicate."

Abraham, gathering the necessary supplies for the journey, prepared to go. Isaac questioned the lack of a sacrificial animal, but Abraham assured him that God would provide the lamb for the offering.

Arriving at the designated site, Abraham built the altar, bound his son, placed him on the altar, and was about to slay his beloved son with a knife when an angel called out to him, saying, "Do not lay a hand on the boy. Now I know you love God, because you have not withheld from Me your son, your only son."

God's primary objective in our lives is to bring us to a point of active trust and confidence in Him. He controls the circumstances of our lives but not our responses to them. We have freedom of choice in our responses as did the widow who wrote to Holden Taylor after a missionary conference saying, "I cannot put up your hand money or jewels, for my husband is dead and we have had a hard shift to live. I have one jewel, my daughter who has long wanted to go. I would like to let her go from my care, but last night I gave my 'alabaster box' of precious moments to Christ. So, if you will be glad to send her, I will be glad to send her."

God had given her. The girl God had given us separates us from Him? A gift can separate actions from the giver as in the case of the father who gave his son a very special gift, a 1960 Oldsmobile dark blue. Father and son had previously had a very close relationship, sharing many activities but now the boy spent all his time riding the bike or working on it and the previous happy relationship was deteriorating, alienating the father and son to drift apart.

In the same way, we become so entangled and so become with God's gifts to us that we become so valuable to us that when our security is threatened by the loss of a family member, our world collapses. Abraham was free to because he held loosely, and in trust, the gifts God had given him. In order to be God's kind of person, we must be free to return His gifts. Job knew what it meant to return God's gifts. He was a great man in Israel as proven by his large family, many servants, much land and herds and flocks of livestock. One day, Job's trust in God was tested. Disasters followed each other in the loss of livestock and servants killed by marauding bandits. Plagues befell his sheep and shepherds, his camels were stolen, his sons and daughters were killed by a tornado. Job's reaction to these misfortunes was, "The Lord gave and the Lord has taken away. Blessed be the name of the Lord."

Job was still afflicted with very painful physical ailments. Though his wife urged him to "Curse God and die," he refused, saying, "I shall not accept good from God and not trouble." Job thus showed that he was free to return God's gifts. He held the gifts so loosely that, precious though they were to him, when they were taken he wasn't holding onto them so tightly that he went with them. To be God's kind of person, we must be able to give back His gifts when required.

In Mark 10:17-22, the rich young ruler asked, "What must I do to inherit eternal life?" He had willingly and meticulously kept all the commandments but when he was told, in answer to his question, to sell everything he owned and give the money to the poor, he could not bring himself to do so. God's gift of possessions can prevent us from following Jesus if we hold them too tightly.

Treasurer in heaven is laid up only as treasure on earth is laid down.

All things fall into the right perspective for us if we are free to give our own lives back to God. Jesus speaks about the origins of life in Matthew 18: "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow me. For who will save his life who loses it for my sake shall find it. For what is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" So, be free to give your life back to God while you are still living it.

Alice Ross-Mounties' mom

Kingman

By Vicki Knight
Mounties are a passing in St. Albert usually learn some particular charm before being about anyone else in town. That person is Alice Ross-Mounties' mom.

Alice Ross-Mounties has been a RCMP for almost 30 years. She is now a RCMP officer at her home in St. Albert. Since 1968, several Mounties have been born to her in St. Albert, a room, and enjoyed the cosmopolitan life and knowledge of their land. Although her brother Neil Ross was born to her as one of the citizens who developed modern St. Albert, Alice moved away from her home for 25 years, when she worked as an MT operator in Tofield. It was on her return that she began to read reports to RCMP officers.

Alice is the ideal landlady. She doesn't go in for men hanging around the house, especially ones with "red and black" which is an illness attributed to RCMP officers. However she is never aware to notice, which she was used to include the occasional "red and black" in the years since she has become a second mother to the officers of the RCMP detachment who has joined in the various celebrations with true Western enthusiasm, making the journey to nine or 10 Grey County and innumerable hockey games. With a remnant of a "red and black" which she was used to include the occasional "red and black" in the years since she has become a second mother to the officers of the RCMP detachment who has joined in the various celebrations with true Western enthusiasm, making the journey to nine or 10 Grey County and innumerable hockey games.

The Mounties might not stay for long, but the true friendships they share with her have endured. Many have returned and still return to visit, bringing with them their wives and children. She corresponds with them by mail, and keeps in touch with their progress.

The Mounties have not allowed Alice Ross' generosity of spirit go unacknowledged. In 1970, she was presented with an elegant silver tray, which the detachment had had made. It had a picture of honor on the living room wall.

The latest tribute from them came to her a few weeks ago, the RCMP Recognition Ball. The ball followed on the heels of a visit from the RCMP detachment, and Alice had to meet all the "boys" from the detachment. And there she met her... ready with a Mutual Ride commemorative book which they had made. Commanding Officer, Inspector Walker had all signed Alice points out in the book that they have each written the names of their horses, well, a fact which three Alice for a moment.

"I thought I was their wives names at first, and wondered at some of the names they had!" she chuckles.

Although the ball was given by the Mounties to honor the RCMP and the Mounties, it was made spontaneously that night, a fact which delighted her. However, she is sure to assert that the evening had been in tribute to the officers not to her, and told me to be sure that this was made clear. It was.

Other trophies received a visitor that the house's occupants is a valued member of the community. A check for the support of flowers sits on the table, a gift from the detachable Tense Laird, St. Albert's information office.

and a friend of Alice's. It is a house that has been a very appreciative people have passed. In the middle of it all Alice Ross-Mounties' mom, a character, one of many that have contributed to the unique personality of this community. We would miss like her. From the St. Albert Gazette she may speak deprecatingly of her age, but it is the last thing an observer notices about Alice Ross, for she is a character, one of many that have contributed to the unique personality of this community. We would miss like her. From the St. Albert Gazette

COUNTIES AND PAGES
This winter, fire departments will investigate many fires caused by improperly installed fireplaces, faulty equipment, inadequate ventilation or careless operation. Quite often the cause is a crowbar. It is that nasty black stick that builds up along the sides of chimneys and stoves. It forms as vapors from burning wood, trying to a solid or flaky mass. Its rate of accumulation depends on many factors—how long the wood has seasoned, how the fire is fueled, the outside temperature, amount of draft, how hot the fire is burning as well as the size and type of chimney.

One fact to be accepted is that the chimney must be cleaned. The trick is learning to do it with it.

Establish a routine for the storage of fuel, the care of the wood burner and firing technique. Check daily for crowbar build up up experience cleaning a chimney. If necessary, the aware that the better the fire, the less crowbar is developed. Weekly cleanings may be necessary in mild climates, even though monthly cleanings may be enough in colder months. Have a clearly understood plan to handle a chimney fire.

In any area as critical as energy conservation there are some common errors.

"A garbage disposal needs hot water to work right." No. Use cold water. Hot water softens grease, causing build-up in the piping.

Toros battle for 1st

Two wins and a tie during the past week have vaulted the Tofield Toros back into contention for first place in the Camrose County Senior Hockey League.

Toros are currently tied for second place with Camrose, and both trail the leaders from Havelby by only one point with the regular schedule due to come to an end on Friday night.

Havelby defeated Bashaw on Tuesday night and clinched first place.

The Toros have learned that the playoff format was changed at the start of the season, for the semi-finals.

Havelby will meet New Norway in one best of three series while Camrose and Tofield will league in the other series, with both series opening in Camrose on Sunday night.

Each of the teams have one game left in the schedule with Tofield's game being against Camrose, in Tofield on Friday night.

Havelby's final game was against Havelby on Tuesday night in Bashaw and a victory would have clinched first place for Havelby.

If Havelby takes first place, Tofield would have to host Camrose in order to finish in second spot. If the teams ended in a draw on Friday night, Camrose would get second place because of a better goal for and against record in the season's play.

New Norway has been named of fourth place. Playoffs are scheduled to get underway in Camrose on Sunday night with the first game being the third place finisher while second goes against fourth.

Earlier, the league had ruled that all playoff games would be held in Camrose. Teams in the league received news had news early in the week, when president, Ron Shantz, tendered his resignation, effective this coming Friday. In addition, there was a strong possibility that the commissioner, Garry Mandab, might follow suit and also resign.

Both men have become quite disenchanted with the fighting and number of injuries during the season, and recently reached the breaking point late last week when Camrose submitted a formal protest over losing three wins last November.

With playoffs set for Sunday, arenas and arranging the game officials now falls on the shoulders of the teams making the playoffs.

Votes on various league awards, covering the regular season, normally arranged by the league president, will also have to be completed by league officials.

Three members of the Toros are in the top ten in the individual race.

Dave Urness is fifth with 40 points. Lorne Landeck is fourth and Gary Olson is in eighth place.

Dale Olson of the Tofield team is third in the goalkeepers' race with a 3.07 goals against average while Ormrod holds down seventh place in the individual penalty parade.

One of the Toros' victories came in easy fashion when Havelby was unable to ice a team and the Toros won by default.

In a game that had earlier been postponed twice, the Toros reached up as easy 4-1 win over Bashaw. Scoring details were not available.

Toros and New Norway battled to a 3-3 stalemate in Camrose on Sunday.

Roland Labossiere, Landeck and Paul Estel scored for the Toros while New Norway's goals came from Weaver, Stewart and O. Trueman.

New Norway was assessed eight penalties to seven for Tofield.

Calling outside firemen costly

By Carolyn Martindale
County Council insisted Friday that it would pay only a portion of the cost of fire bills that are issued to County of Beaver residents who they call a fire department outside the County.

Acting on a recommendation from the county fire committee, Council agreed to pay for the labour of the firemen at the same rate it would have paid its own firemen had they been called to fight the fire. The County also stipulated that it would pay the labour costs only when a county resident did not have insurance to cover the cost.

The decision was made Friday during a meeting which was held to finish the lengthy agenda of council business from the regular meeting Thursday.

Council established the policy as a result of a fire bill for $60 which a county resident presented to the County of Beaver for reimbursement.

The Vegreville and District Fire Protection Association had issued the bill to the resident after the Vegreville fire department had been called to fight a fire at his residence in the County of Beaver.

County Fire Chief Laurie Weatherill suggested to Council that a policy be established to deal with all such bills, rather than dealing with each bill individually.

According to the new policy, the county will be responsible for 60 of the $60 bill. The remainder of the amount would have to be paid by the resident or his insurance company.

"There has to be a certain amount of sense on county residents to know which fire department to call," Weatherill stated in support of the county's policy.

County of Beaver fire trucks are located nearer to almost all county residents than any fire departments outside of the county, the fire chief said.

At a meeting held on Monday, the rate of pay for firemen called to fight a fire in the County of Beaver was set at $10 per hour for the fireman, and the county decided the rate was in order for its firemen as well.

The County was receptive to the suggestion of paying fire chiefs more than firemen. A fire chief has more responsibility than a fireman because he must investigate the cause of every fire, and fill out the necessary forms, Weatherill said.

However, the county has not yet decided on a rate of pay for fire chiefs.

Council approved a recommendation that the County make an attempt to establish working agreements with fire departments in counties surrounding the County of Beaver.

The major purpose of such an agreement is to establish whether or not a county will answer a fire call in another county, according to the County fire chief.

The fire chief has to consider that he may be leaving his own area unprotected if he ventures out of the county in the absence of a working agreement, he said.

But when an agreement exists between two counties a fire chief has authorization to go into that county, Weatherill said.

In addition, the agreement set out in advance the fee that municipalities will charge when they answer a call in another county.

Midget Playoffs will open Friday

The playoffs schedule for Tofield's entry in the provincial midget hockey playoffs had to be changed, due to a mix-up.

The first game in the tournament series was to have been played in Tofield on Saturday with the second game in Elk Point on Sunday.

Because of an apparent breakdown in communications, there was a lack of understanding of the schedule and the dates were rescheduled.

The first game in the June 2 quarter-finals will be played in the Tofield Arena on Friday night at nine o'clock with the second game in Elk Point on Saturday afternoon.

A chartered bus will leave the Tofield Arena for Elk Point at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday and there is room available for a number of fans.

Anyone interested in making the trip should contact Ken Fischer at 662-3827 or Fred Blumey at 662-3824.

The winner of this series will meet the winner of a series between Smoky Lake and Port Saskatchewan in the semi-finals.

In other minor hockey play during the past week, Tofield teams won three out of five games played.

The pee wee team took part in a tournament in Policeville where they picked up wins in their first two outings.

In the 'A' final, Tofield will meet the winner of a series between Smoky Lake and Port Saskatchewan in the semi-finals.

The night males teamed with their moms in an exhibition game and managed to squeak through with a narrow 7-4 victory.

Comedy planned

The Beaverhill Players will soon be presenting another play at the Holden Theatre.

The "Family Man", a modern comedy written by Benjamin Bernard Zavis and Carl Leo, shows the results when a working husband and a housewife swap roles for six months.

The play will star amateur actors from several towns in the County of Beaver.

Opening night will be Thursday, March 6.

Other performances will be presented March 7, 8 and 9.

Mazankowski wins

Don Mazankowski easily retained his seat in the Vegreville Constituency following Monday's general election.

Although his share of the popular vote dropped by nearly four percent, Mazankowski picked up almost three-quarters of all votes cast, to force his five opposition candidates to lose their deposits.

Mazankowski's losses at the polls were gathered in by Liberal Frances Ratchany and two candidates whose parties were not represented in last May's election, Social Credit and Rhinoceros.

The fact that Mazankowski did not spend one single day campaigning in his own constituency might have some bearing on his four percent loss in the popular vote. He spent the entire campaign in other provinces.

A total of 34,157 ballots were cast on Monday, only 21 fewer than were cast in May.

Mazankowski picked up a total of 25,696 votes on Monday, far ahead of his nearest rival, Ratchany, who picked up 4,383 votes although her party gained nearly one and one-half percent of the popular vote.

NDP candidate Henry Mandelbaum picked up 2,137 votes, about the same percentage as was the case in the May election.

Former MLA Alex Garvey, running for the Soviets, had 886 votes while Carl Thiel picked up 389 votes for the Rhinoceros Party.

Conservative Party of Canada candidate Bill Truitt trailed the field by getting only 189 votes, about one-half of the total he obtained in May.

During the Progressive Conservatives' short period of office, Mr. Mazankowski had held the position of Minister of Transport.

Returning Officer Kay McManis of Vegreville is expected to release the official count on Friday.

Ice Concert set

The Tofield Skating Club will be presenting their Concert on Ice at the Tofield Arena Saturday evening at seven o'clock.

Over 20 Tofield skaters will be performing solos and routines during the concert.

The Sko-Vits, an 18 member precision skating team from the Northern Zone are also scheduled to appear.

During the program, skaters will be presenting 75th anniversary certificates to 5000 residents who have lived in Alberta 75 years or more.

The presentations will be the club's project to commemorate Alberta's 75th birthday.

Another highlight of the concert will be the crowning of the first Queen of the Skating Club.

Christy Watt, Brenda Macleay, Jackie Pollock and the McCabes are among the two teams of skating queen.

Good dancers

A couple enjoy a waltz during his 60th birthday celebration at the Tofield Community Hall last Wednesday. Over 50 people attended the dance.

Toros face elimination

Tolfield Toros are facing elimination from the Camrose-Toronto League playoffs. The team is leading the penalty parade while players leave the individual Toros to play for the Camrose entry in the opening game of their best-of-three series which will be played Sunday night in Camrose with a third game, if needed, planned for the following day.

By the time The Mercury was delivered last week the story to the effect that the Toros would meet Camrose in the semi-finals was incorrect, but the situation was changed again over the weekend.

Harold had clinched first place only to have league officials rule that Camrose had earlier in the season and returned two victories to the team, putting Camrose into top spot and changing the entire playoff structure.

Then, on the weekend during a special meeting, league officials reversed themselves and took the wins away from Camrose again, putting Harlow back into first place and putting the playoff picture back the way it had been reported.

Final individual statistics are expected to be released later this week when two game sheets from the regular schedule are forwarded to the statisticians. Brent Swank of Harlow appears to have clinched the scoring title while Bob Johnson of Camrose is definitely the goalie with the most goals against average. Camrose is leading the penalty parade while players leave the individual Toros to play for the Camrose entry in the opening game of their best-of-three series which will be played Sunday night in Camrose with a third game, if needed, planned for the following day.

The game was rough and choppy throughout with a total of 32 penalties being assessed by officials with Camrose picking up 19 while Toros was tagged with 13.

Toros couldn't get untracked in their game with Camrose on Sunday and trailed 1-0 after the opening period and 1-1 after the middle stanza before eventually losing by a 3-1 margin.

Beaverhill playoffs will open on Tuesday

Playoffs in the Beaverhill Hockey League will open on Tuesday at the home of the teams finishing in first and second place, moving to third and fourth place spots next Thursday.

The best of seven semi-finals will pit the first and fourth place teams against each other while second and third will meet in the other semi.

All playoff games will be held on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night, according to league president, Jerry Witak of Andrew.

Arrangements have been made to forward the final official standings and individual statistics for publication in The Mercury.

While Telford Semifinals still held their grip on first place, Ryley still had a chance to overtake the leaders.

Andrew and Lamont are still battling it out for third place although Andrew currently holds the lead.

On Tuesday night, Lamont stayed in the running for third place when they recorded an easy 11-0 shutout win over Alton.

Three games scheduled for Saturday night either were not played or results were not forwarded to CFOW.

Games are scheduled for tonight (Thursday), Saturday and Sunday to bring the regular schedule to a close.

Tonight's game will see Maudsley play in Lamont.

On Saturday night, Telford will play in Lamont while Ryley will travel over to Maudsley.

The final games of the season will be on Sunday when Ryley will play host to Maudsley.

Arts Society offers to 'operate' theatre

by Carolyn Martinello
Concern for the future of the Regional Arts Centre has prompted the Beaver Regional Arts Society to offer to assume responsibility for the "multiple operation" of the theatre.

The brief presented to County Council last Thursday, the society offered to be responsible for the programming and administration of the theatre, which has been without management since the Regional Recreation Board dissolved last year.

"We understand the county hasn't had much success in finding a manager for the theatre, and we are willing to help out," said Rex Dilsen, who admitted that managing the theatre would be in the society's best interest as well.

Dilsen and Anne McDonald presented the proposal to council on behalf of the Regional Arts Society, which is a group of about 20 people who are interested in promoting arts and crafts in the county.

Councillor Walter Kropelchick commended the organization for its "good intentions" but, County said the council had no authority to make the decision on its own.

A decision regarding the proposal would have to be made between all of the governing authorities of the county, the Regional Recreation Board.

Dilsen indicated the society would be sending copies of the proposal to the other municipalities as well.

The proposal stated that the society would attempt to hire a part-time manager to operate the theatre.

Although the brief also stated that the Arts Society would work toward raising funds to help finance the theatre, it was not stated that the organization had little means of financial support.

The group would depend mainly on cooperation of the municipalities to fund the theatre.

The proposal also asked that the society be allowed to operate the theatre without referral to any governing authority.

Kropelchick pointed out that municipalities who agreed to help finance the operation of the theatre would have to have representation on a board of directors for the theatre.

Dilsen later clarified the proposal saying the society didn't want to have to consult five separate authorities for every little thing. "We realize we'll have to answer to the municipalities, which financing is concerned."

"But, we don't want to have to have a board of meeting with six of the towns and villages to get permission to fix the furnace," he explained.

The Arts Society has been looking after the theatre for almost two months, at the request of the Recreation Board.

The committee asked the society to look after the theatre until the governing authorities established a plan to operate it.

The committee had hoped to finalize some plans by the end of January, however, efforts to hire recreation leaders have not been successful.

The municipalities are currently awaiting the result of the 1979 Recreation Board audit before making any decisions.

"We agreed to look after the theatre but it was supposed to be on a temporary basis. Everyone in the society is working at it but there has to be a lot more co-ordination. We feel if the Arts Society was to run it, we want it in its entirety," said Dilsen. He indicated that if the society was completely responsible for the theatre, they could co-ordinate its operation better.

"The theatre isn't being run enough. We're uncertain about how much we could crowd into it. But the society is willing to work at it," Dilsen said.

"The theatre hasn't had much of a chance. The Arts Society doesn't have the money, but we are looking at the theatre 100 percent."

Land use concerns voiced

by Carolyn Martinello
Country residential development proved to be the major concern of over 80 people who attended the land-use workshop at the Ryer Legion last Wednesday.

Most of the discussion was of a public meeting last September, when the County of Beaver held a prior to eliminating the country residential development zone on the county zoning by-law.

At that time the County said it could no longer afford to service the increasing number of country residences that are appearing at the west end of the county. Country residents said they needed time to digest over 500 parcels that have been zoned for country residential development but which remain undeveloped.

According to the by-law they passed in September no country residential subdivisions under 10 acres would be approved. The county has also recommended that the minimum parcel size be raised to 180 acres.

The workshop last Wednesday was held to review the county's reasons for eliminating zone C, and to invite more public input on the matter. Two other topics of the workshop were highway district development and the timing of development permits.

"If the amendments are only 80 per cent, a developer can afford to wait on them for a while," said Dilsen.

However, another county resident pointed out that the county could not afford to service the country residential subdivisions already approved for development.

"Country residential is on their own, so they can't pay for themselves," said Richard Dilsen, who works for the Edmonton Regional Planning Commission.

Dilsen stated that 80 per cent of the County of Beaver tax base was derived from farmland, and that to the end, it would be farmers who would be hurt by country residential development.

Developer stated that with the number of country residences that have already appeared there could conceivably be 100,000 people living at the west end of the county with no school, no fire protection and no police protection.

"It won't be an absolute nightmare," he said.

Land use concerns voiced

During a brief talk on highway development, Peter Roche of Alberta Transportation explained that there were special regulations for the development of land within one-half mile of all primary highways (Highway 1, 16, 22, etc.).

A permit for development within the highway development zone must be granted by Alberta Transportation, he said.

Roche explained that the general purpose of the district was to control development in the vicinity of major highways to allow for the proper alignment of primary highways.

During the discussion on development permits several farmers objected to having to obtain development permits to construct buildings on their own land.

However, Jamie Irl of Municipal Planning said that the policy required a minimum of development permits was "revised out of the Alberta Planning Act," and as such was required across the province.

According to the Planning Board residents must obtain development permits prior to the construction or renovation of any building prior to starting any excavation, or any change in the use of land, such as a livestock or feedlot operation.

Roche explained that the county could make a resident's operation illegal if it already existed. However, he said, he could restrict the resident from expanding his operation.

County Reeve George Kropelchick explained that the requirement for development permits was already in effect, but that the county had been requested to enforce it.

In the future, the county will be enforcing it, he said.

Elliot carves logs into Canadian art

By Carolyn MacIntosh
Through a modern method of wood carving a Tofield man is turning logs into Canadian art.

Using a chainsaw as his only tool, Garfield Elliot carves logs into sculptures of animals and figures as well as signs and souvenir plaques.

His sculptures, which range in height from under one foot to over five feet, bear intricate detail which doesn't seem possible with a chainsaw.

A chainsaw is a delicate tool to the 39-year-old, skilled hands as carver eyes, ears and even hair on his sculptures.

However, the carver must be seen to be believed. At his shed near Bruce, where he carves during the winter, Elliot begins by selecting a log, the perfect to use either cedar or black poplar. For this particular carving Elliot chooses a two-foot log of poplar.

He starts by cutting a section off of either side of the log. Elliot says the saw to carve the outline of a small animal perceived on a stump. As he works quickly, yet carefully the animal begins to take shape. Rough edges are carved smooth to form a carved body. Elliot uses the chainsaw as if it were a paintbrush to sketch eyes, ears, protruding teeth and a flat broad tail.

In less than 30 minutes the carving is complete. And with the sawdust settles a furry little beaver emerges complete with detailed lines which simulate hair.

Hundreds of carvings
But the work is not yet complete. The carving is left to dry for several days after which Elliot uses a blow torch to add color and to bring out fine detail.

Following that the black poplar carving receives a finishing coat of clear varnish. Other carvings are treated similarly with linseed oil.

In this manner Elliot has completed hundreds of bears, eagles, squirrels, big horn sheep, fish, horses, mammals and even old men passing sleep.

For 2½ years he has made his living as a sculptor. He has done commissions for shopping malls and businesses but most of his time is spent carving private orders for people.

People see his carvings he has done for other people and they make similar requests. He also does special orders, such as a pig, he carved recently for a policeman's wife.

Although he lives in Tofield with his stepmother, step brothers and step sister, Elliot spends a lot of his time on the road.

Over 80,000 miles
Last year alone he travelled over 80,000 miles while marketing his work.

Unlike many artists who have trouble selling their work, Elliot has trouble keeping up with the demand.

In December one of his business partners, he carved over 300 sculptures to fill orders for people in the Bruce Hills area around him.

Elliot spends several weeks carving before taking to the road. While displaying his work at roadside or in shopping malls, Elliot continues to carve.

Taking inventory is never a problem for Elliot since his carvings are sold almost as soon as they are completed.

Sculptures are popular
Sculptures are popular.

Unusually Elliot can leave Tofield with a pickup truck full of carvings on Wednesday, only to return Friday with an empty truck and dozens of more orders for his work.

The prices of the carvings range from under $10 to over $60, depending on the size and the detail.

Recently he completed a bear which cost for $100. The bear was over five feet tall and it took Elliot two days to carve it.

The souvenir plaques he carves sell for around $20 and take him about 10 minutes to carve.

However, his carvings continue to sell well.

"People like wood and they like the fact that each carving is original," Elliot explains. "I couldn't carve two alike if I tried," he adds.

The sculptor says his animal carvings are popular because people like animals. "They like to see something that's an animal because they get satisfaction out of knowing that no animal has died to do it."

One of six carvers
But Elliot is not the only artist in his family. In fact, carving runs in his family.

Elliot's father, Don Colp, who lives in California, has made his living as a chainsaw sculptor for over 20 years. Colp's brothers Ernie and Arthur also carve with chainsaws.

Matthew "Squaky" Colp, Elliot's 15-year-old stepbrother is also a sculptor. However, Squaky carves on a smaller scale and he prefers to carve with a knife. Later the 15-year-old finishes his carvings by using different drill bits. Squaky has more than 15 years of carving he has done during his spare time. These are displayed in the living room of his home in Tofield alongside larger sculptures Elliot has completed.

Squaky has gone on several work trips with Elliot and he plans to work with him during the summer.

Elliot's eight-year-old son Brent, who lives in Edmonton, is another prospective carver. Brent is currently learning how to handle a saw and when he's ready Elliot plans to teach him how to carve.

"You can't learn chainsaw carving in any school," Elliot says.

It is Elliot's own stepdad Don Colp who taught Elliot how to carve.

Elliot quit school when he was fifteen and worked with his stepdad cutting wood for a pulp mill. Elliot later travelled all with Colp for two years watching him do chainsaw sculpture.

"He's the best. He can carve anything," Elliot says of his stepdad.

However, Elliot's stepdad Don Colp maintains that Elliot has equalled her husband as a carver and in one respect is even better.

"Garfield's eagles are better," she says proudly. She ought to be a good judge since she travelled with Don Colp for several years before they were divorced over a year ago.

Chainsaw carving didn't come easily to Elliot. He recalls his first carving took him all day to complete and it was "pretty funny looking," he recalls.

"But it's like anything else, you have to work at it," Elliot says.

You have to be able to handle a chainsaw well before you should attempt carving with it, says Elliot, pointing out his own pulp mill experience helped to prepare him for carving.

"You have to have a little artistic ability too," he says modestly.

However, many of the people who have watched Elliot work have said they could carve just as well. You can't really blame them for thinking that way since Elliot makes carving look easy.

"You have to know what cuts to make. You have to hold the saw steady all the time. One little slip and that's the end of the carving," Elliot said.

Some say "that's easy, I bet I could do it."

In the future he plans to create a line of carvings which he hopes would become a tourist attraction.

"I'd like to buy a five-acre area and create a bunch of log carvings. It would be a park where people would pay admission to go through."

There would be carvings like Goldilocks and the three bears, he said outlining only one of his ideas.

Anyone wishing to object to these closures will be required to attend the Town Council meeting at the Town Office, Tofield on March 24th, 1980 at 7:00 p.m. at which time all objections will be heard.

Squaky has more than 15 years of carving he has done during his spare time. These are displayed in the living room of his home in Tofield alongside larger sculptures Elliot has completed.

Squaky has gone on several work trips with Elliot and he plans to work with him during the summer.

Elliot's eight-year-old son Brent, who lives in Edmonton, is another prospective carver. Brent is currently learning how to handle a saw and when he's ready Elliot plans to teach him how to carve.

"You can't learn chainsaw carving in any school," Elliot says.

It is Elliot's own stepdad Don Colp who taught Elliot how to carve.

Elliot quit school when he was fifteen and worked with his stepdad cutting wood for a pulp mill. Elliot later travelled all with Colp for two years watching him do chainsaw sculpture.

"He's the best. He can carve anything," Elliot says of his stepdad.

However, Elliot's stepdad Don Colp maintains that Elliot has equalled her husband as a carver and in one respect is even better.

"Garfield's eagles are better," she says proudly. She ought to be a good judge since she travelled with Don Colp for several years before they were divorced over a year ago.

Chainsaw carving didn't come easily to Elliot. He recalls his first carving took him all day to complete and it was "pretty funny looking," he recalls.

"But it's like anything else, you have to work at it," Elliot says.

You have to be able to handle a chainsaw well before you should attempt carving with it, says Elliot, pointing out his own pulp mill experience helped to prepare him for carving.

"You have to have a little artistic ability too," he says modestly.

However, many of the people who have watched Elliot work have said they could carve just as well. You can't really blame them for thinking that way since Elliot makes carving look easy.

"You have to know what cuts to make. You have to hold the saw steady all the time. One little slip and that's the end of the carving," Elliot said.

Some say "that's easy, I bet I could do it."

In the future he plans to create a line of carvings which he hopes would become a tourist attraction.

"I'd like to buy a five-acre area and create a bunch of log carvings. It would be a park where people would pay admission to go through."

Anyone wishing to object to these closures will be required to attend the Town Council meeting at the Town Office, Tofield on March 24th, 1980 at 7:00 p.m. at which time all objections will be heard.

Fire policy talks planned by Tofield

By Carolyn Martindale
Tofield Council plans to meet with County Council to discuss fire policies between the two municipalities, following a Council meeting Monday.

Among the major Tofield concerns are whether the county will make a financial commitment toward the construction of a new fire hall in Tofield.

"The county has indicated they require a new fire hall is necessary in the town, but we have no written word that says they will assist us," said Tofield Mayor Dr. William Prosser.

Tofield also intends to discuss policies regarding the payment of firemen. The county recently decided to raise the rate it was paying county firemen to $18 per hour from $8 per hour and to institute a payment of $1 for each practice. Tofield pays firemen $8 per hour, with no pay for practice.

The county currently pays firemen who fight county fires while the town pays for firefighters at town level.

The county will be paying firemen who live outside town who attend the five practices. However, if the town decides to start paying for practices they would have to pay most of the firemen since they are not in the Tofield fire hall.

The Tofield fire hall is the largest fire hall in the area and has been built with her project "The Beauty of Tofield."

The group plans to the grade four to six division of the fair near Shady Brook and the Tofield fire hall. The group plans to have their entry called "Cleaning Plants in Water."

Laurel Kowalski of Tofield took first position in the individual grade four to six class with her project "How Cretaceous Ferns."

The trophy for best project on an agricultural theme was awarded to Michael Hall of Tofield for his entry "Where Will They Grow?"

Paul Tofield, mayor, also of Tofield, won the trophy for best project on an ecological theme.

Tofield and Ryley staging real battle

Tofield and Ryley are hooked on a real deal to decide a finalist for the Beaverfoot Hockey League.

Their last of seven semi-final series is scheduled at two games each and the series will be headed for the final seven games.

On the other hand, Andrew will be well-represented for the finals since they won their series with Lamont in four straight games.

Ryley and Tofield will resume their struggle tonight (Thursday) and again on Saturday, with both games to be played in Tofield.

If a seventh and deciding game is necessary, it will be played in Tofield this coming Tuesday night.

The Grins against Andrew will open either Tuesday or Thursday (next week) night in Tofield.

Andrew really didn't have too much trouble in upsetting first-place Lamont with the first game being the only close contest.

Andrew edged Lamont 3-1 in the opener and then rolled to three easy wins by scores of 6-3, 7-3 and 10-7.

Ryley took the first two games of the other semi-final series when they posted 5-1 and 2-1 victories over Tofield.

Tofield then bounced back to deadlock the series at two games each when the facilitator picked up 7-4 and 6-3 victories.

The final official league standings saw Lamont finish the regular scheduled in top spot with Tofield and Ryley tied for second place while Andrew finished fourth, followed by Lamont, Ryley and Tofield.

Science Fair attracts entries with his entry "How Can We Protect Our Environment?"

The 125 cheque from North-Western District for the best project as an energy conservation device was awarded to two groups: Dale Lake and Ron Gledhill of Tofield, and Dwayne Gera and Darrell Prisk of Ryley will share the money.

The second and third place entries in each of the five contest categories are as follows:

Grade 4 to 6 (5th place): Second—Michael Kowalski and Michael Kowalski, Ryley.

Grade 7 to 9 (5th place): Second—Dana Stenhouse and Blair Kowalski, Ryley.

Grade 10 to 12 (5th place): Second—Cheryl Anderson and Loretta Workentin, Ryley.

Grade 13 to 18 (5th place): Second—Dorothy Petrick, Ryley.

Grade 19 to 24 (5th place): Second—Kathy Gledhill and Tracy Dewar, Tofield.

Grade 25 to 30 (5th place): Second—Joyce Lada and Ryley.

Grade 31 to 36 (5th place): Second—Jamie Lembo, Tofield.

Holden Ambulance is still operating Mackay said.

The administrator also said that the ambulance was not "unsafe" as The Mercury had quoted a councillor as saying during a Feb. 26 Council meeting.

If the ambulance was unsafe the village wouldn't allow it to respond to calls," Mackay said. She also stated that the present village ambulance had a faulty emergency brake and not faulty brakes as had been stated in the story in The Mercury.

Council is aware that the vehicle is old and there could be problems with it. There could be problems with any vehicle, the administrator said.

The lack of trained ambulance drivers and attendants to drive the Holden ambulance was a primary reason for council's move to consider shutting down the service, Mackay said.

Although Holden Council is in favor of discontinuing the service, the decision may not be made for several weeks.

Prize winners

Bonnie Woloschuk and Marie Chryl of Holden pose with the trophies they were awarded Monday night when they placed first in the grade 10 to 12 class of the County Science Fair. Their project called "Abiotic Factors of a Shaded Environment" is among those projects eligible to be entered in the Regional Science Fair in Edmonton. —Carolyn Martindale Photo

New Norway hosts girls' A hoop play

New Norway is hosting the Central Alberta High School 'A' girls' basketball finals on Saturday.

Only three teams have entered the zone playoffs after Region 4, consisting of Edmonton, Calgary and Inverness, did not enter this winter's competition.

In addition to the host team from New Norway, the other two entries are from Ryley and Consort.

The teams will tangle with round-robin series at the first place team winning the zone crown.

If there is a three-way tie after the round-robin, the team with the best record will be declared the winner. If two teams are still tied, they will play a sudden-death game for the title.

The winner of Saturday's tournament will advance to the provincial finals on the following weekend, in Stirling.

Saturday's first game will get underway at 10:30 a.m. and will pit the host team from New Norway against Ryley.

Ryley will tangle with Consort at one o'clock while New Norway and Consort will meet at three o'clock.

If a deciding game is necessary, it will be played at five o'clock.

Minor teams win

Tofield minor hockey teams experienced an excellent week as they won five out of six games that were played.

The latter reached up three straight wins in relatively easy fashion to win top honors during a tournament in Ardrossan.

They opened the tournament by defeating the home team, 5-2. Thrashing Josephburg 10-3 and then won 'A' honors when they defeated Pulaskville 4-3 in the tournament's final contest.

This coming weekend, the team will be travelling to New Norway for another tournament and officials are hoping to receive the same kind of support from parents that they got over the past weekend.

The post was also won for the finals in the Highway 13 Pee Wee Hockey League.

The first game in the finals will be played tonight (Thursday) in Beaumont where they edged Josephburg 4-3 in their first outing and then were eliminated after shorting a 4-1 loss at the hands of Devon.

In an exhibition game, Tofield whipped Holden by a 10-1 margin.

Street closing by-law read

A by-law which will close off portions of two Telford avenues to accommodate the proposed Vincent subdivision was given first reading last Monday.

The by-law would close A1 Ave. from 50 St. westerly to the government road, read sidewalks, and would close 50 Ave. from 50 St. to 1280 feet west.

The proposed subdivision, which surrounds the Telford Hospital, provides for a curved collector road to be constructed to join 51 Ave. to 50 Ave. at a point approximately 1280 feet west of 50 St.

The collector road coincides with a major road plan prepared by Transportation but was approved by the town in July, 1978.

Comedy opens tonight

by Carolyn Martindale
Tonight (Thursday) is opening night for the Beaverhill Players' presentation of The Family Man, a three-act comedy about a husband and wife who switch roles for six months.

The Mercury apologizes for a story last week which erroneously reported that the play was opening last Thursday. The play will be performed tonight, Friday, and Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

The Family Man, which is directed by Joan Dushan, describes the hilarious events which follow when Bill Cahill (Walker Lutz) is forced into the role of housewife after an injury takes him out of the work force. Cahill's wife, Miles (Marylou Dolan) becomes the family's breadwinner as she leaves her job to take a job.

The comedy which was written by Benjamin Bernard Harris and Carl Leo also stars Terry Dolan and Barbara Frickie as the Cahill's two children, Roger and Nancy.

Other actors featured in the performance include Earl Davis, Paul Allen, Betty Ann Carlson, Mike Jones, George Baker, Shirley Wilkinson, Carol Jensen and Karen Melnick, as well as director, Joan Dushan.

Tofield gets $240,500

By Carolyn Martindale
Tofield residents will be benefitting from grants totaling $240,500 under the Neighborhood Improvement Program (NIP) sponsored by the provincial and federal governments, town administrator Neil Brodie said Monday.

Tofield's application for $180,000 in NIP funds for the construction of a town office-library complex was recently approved. NIP funds in the amount of $72,500 have also been granted for the construction of a new Tofield fire hall, Brodie said.

The application for the fire hall was submitted by the County of Beaver for Tofield. Both applications were made in November.

The town office-library is expected to cost approximately $180,000 while the fire hall has been estimated at $225,000.

Detailed drawings for the municipal building are already being prepared. At a meeting Feb. 25 Council decided to have an architect draw up the plans, although at the time the town had not received word that they would be receiving the $180,000 NIP grant.

Council had voted in favor of proceeding with the drawings on Feb. 25 because they said the structure would have to be built sometime and they feared the longer the Town waited the more costs would rise.

The Town of Tofield had applied for a grant of $240,500 for the NIP grant early last year to build the library complex. However, the request was turned down last August when it was ruled that other municipalities had a greater need for NIP money than Tofield.

In August three other County of Beaver facilities were granted a total of $240,750 under the NIP program.

Ryley benefited from $200,000 for two different projects. Ryley's major grant of $171,000 was used for the construction of an artificial ice curling rink, an outdoor skating rink, dressing rooms and a trailer dumping station.

The second grant of $69,000 will be used for the construction of a library.

The Town of Vegreville planned to use its NIP grant of $69,000 for a street upgrading program.

Money allotted to the Village of Holden in the amount of $69,000 is being used on a sidewalk, curb and gutter program for some village streets.

Trustees plan program to upgrade playgrounds

by Carolyn Martindale
The County Board of Education is planning to upgrade school playgrounds as a project in commemoration of Alberta's 75th birthday.

At a board meeting on Tuesday, school trustees authorized superintendent Fred Hatzel to draw up a proposal for the playground upgrading program so that it could be presented to County Council for approval for the 75th anniversary grant money.

Hatzel said the project would cost between $4,000 and $5,000 for each of the county's five schools. He suggested the program could be financed jointly by board of education money and 75th anniversary grant funds.

The proposal includes hard asphalt surfaces for all five schools for the surface used for tennis, skipping, roller skating in the summer, and skating rinks in the winter, Hatzel said.

The proposal also calls for playground equipment to be installed at the new C.W. Dean Elementary School over a three-year period. Under the plan the elementary school would receive basic playground equipment the first year, additional equipment the second year and an asphalt surface in the final year.

In addition equipment would be added to complete the Ryley playground.

The proposal will be presented at the next council meeting for approval.

Writer is proud of Alberta heritage

By Carolyn Martindale
This week, The Mercury is publishing a feature on Lakeshore-McKenzie correspondent Ellen Eaton taking pride in her Alberta heritage. The feature is the third in a series of articles on district correspondents.

The Mercury relies on district correspondents to write community news items. Although they receive little remuneration for their work, the correspondents submit news columns each week.

Lakeshore-McKenzie correspondent Ellen Eaton takes pride in her Alberta heritage, and she said she is "so proud to be a part of it."

"I'm proud to have been born in Alberta," says the 70-year-old who has written columns for the Mercury since 1960.

new items for her district area of Tofield for over 20 years.

"I love Alberta's wide open spaces and the feeling of being unbounded," she writes.

A particularly proud moment for Eaton was on Feb. 25 when she was among over 30 senior citizens over 75 years of age who received anniversary certificates commemorating Alberta's 75th birthday.

The presentations were made by the Tofield Statute Club during intermission of the Ice Concert.

"I've lived in Alberta all my life. Not many of those who received certificates can say that," says the tiny woman, beaming with pride as she displays the certificate and small 75th anniversary flag she received.

She had curly white hair, and bright blue eyes that shine when she smiles.

Although she was only three years old, Eaton says she remembers the year that Alberta became a province of Canada. "It wasn't long after that the first Canadian Northern Railroad passenger train came through," she laments, as she recalls the area where she lived.

Prior to 1905, Lamont was part of the Star District in what was considered part of the Northwest Territories, Eaton explains.

Eaton began corresponding for The Mercury around 1960, and she said she will continue for "as long as I can write."

District news is important to people, especially those who have moved out of the area. Without district news, there would be fewer out-of-town subscribers to The Mercury," Eaton adds.

She doesn't mind writing news. "But it's such a chore to have to provide so many people all of the time. They know I write news, they should call me."

Sunday she would like a young person to take over her column. "But the person has to have an interest in district news."

Eaton is looking forward to spring because that is when she intends to move back to her farm 4½ miles north of Tofield. She has been living in an apartment in Tofield since she returned in February from Ontario, where she visits with her daughter for several months of each winter.

Eaton said she moved into town this winter to satisfy family and friends who are worried about her living alone out on the farm. At her farm there is no running water, and washroom facilities are outbuildings.

However, the 70-year-old is determined to move back to her farm in time to plant her wheat.

"Everyone says I'm crazy to go back on the farm, but it's where I want to be," the correspondent said.

"I love the land. When things go wrong I can go out and work in my garden. When I am close to nature I feel comfortable," she said.

Eaton realized her failing health will force her to move into town permanently sometime, but she insists that it is several years off. In the meantime she will live in town during the winter and spend the rest of the year on her farm, Eaton said.

She had scarier fever when she was a baby and the disease left her with a weak heart.

"I never bothered me when I was young. I played on school teams, and I loved to play basketball," the correspondent said.

However, in the last few years she admits her heart condition has slowed her down a bit. Her weak heart was the major reason her family urged her to move into town, she said.

Yet she continues to climb the 15 stairs to her second floor apartment without passing, and she refuses any assistance. "There's nothing wrong with me. I'm very sure on my feet," she insists.

She grew up in Lamont. The youngest of 10 children, and "I was spoiled from the day I was born," Eaton admits with a smile.

In 1923, she married Owen Eaton and for three years the couple lived in a big, heated tent in Elk Island Park, where Owen fed buffalo and drove a team of horses for a road-building gang.

Following that, the Eatons moved to land 4½ miles north of Tofield where they farmed. Owen also worked, being well as other farmers. The couple have two sons and one daughter.

After her husband's death in 1960, Eaton rented out the land to a farmer.

She enjoys cooking and sewing, and her choice of hobbies is a favorite among her friends.

The correspondent, who is to knit and crochet. However, in recent years, arthritis has prevented her from crocheting.

She is proud of her nine grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Hail suppression project to stay

Alberta's minister of agriculture, Dallas Schmidt, has announced that the Alberta Hail Suppression Project will be continued and given an expanded role in weather modification research in the province.

The announcement comes after an extensive government review of the project following completion of its mandate.

"Hail suppression has long been a desired aim in Alberta," said the agriculture minister. "For the past few years we've conducted ongoing research in this area, and the results we've seen to date have appeared quite promising."

Established in 1974 with a five-year mandate, the provincial hail suppression project was granted a 12-month extension in September 1979 to allow a final report to be drafted. The report was tabled in the legislature last November.

The project results, though promising, could also be interpreted as just a long-term variation in Alberta's climatic pattern," said Mr. Schmidt.

To some extent that's why we have decided to continue the project. We want to see if the trends that indicate reduced hail damage will actually hold up over the longer term.

"That decision also remains in line with the aim of the original program—to reduce the hail that can strike with such devastating force in various agricultural areas of the province."

Under the new guidelines, the Research Council of Alberta will replace Alberta Agriculture as the administrative overseer of the weather modification program. A board that advises the minister will be retained.

Subcommittees will also be created to act as advisory bodies on the three major disciplines of the revised project: rain increase, snowpack improvement and hail suppression.

The first two items are new elements being introduced, said the minister. Both have resulted through expanding the scope of weather modification to a larger, more diverse target region of central Alberta.

The first addition, a ground generator system, will attempt to increase rainfall in the areas east and south of Calgary. Preliminary planning on this phase will begin immediately, said Mr. Schmidt.

The second element, snowpack improvement, is an attempt to increase snowfall in those areas that feed spring runoff on the eastern slopes.

"We hope this will benefit Alberta producers by generating adequate water sources for agriculture," Mr. Schmidt said. "We will also aid our overall water management in the southern part of the province."

The final element, hail suppression, provided much of the data produced in the original project. As before, an aircraft cloud-seeding operation will be concentrated in a 120-mile wide, elongated area centered on Red Deer—the so-called capital of Alberta's hail belt.

Funding for the revised program has not yet been decided, according to Mr. Schmidt. However, the minister said it is unlikely any new commitment will be less than that appropriated in years past.

The project's operating budget for the fiscal year 1979-80 is $2.3 million.

Lutherans celebrate 450th anniversary

1980 is an anniversary year of major importance for the Lutheran Church. This is the 450th anniversary of the Book of Concord which was published in June of 1580 and which contained the seven confessions of doctrine to which the Lutheran Church subscribes.

The year 1980 is another anniversary in that it is exactly 450 years since the issuance of the Augsburg Confession (basic statement of faith and doctrine for the Lutheran Church).

Canmore Lutheran College is currently hosting a Book of Concord anniversary celebration which concludes tonight (Wednesday).

Dr. Robert Kolb, assistant professor of religion and history at Concordia College in St. Paul, Minnesota, has been in Canmore as a guest lecturer to mark the occasion.

Dr. Kolb was the guest lecturer at a luncheon on Monday for area clergy and their wives and addressed the CLC faculty and staff on Monday night. Yesterday (Tuesday) he delivered three lectures to the entire CLC campus community.

Dr. Kolb will deliver his final lecture tonight (Wednesday) in the CLC Convocation Centre at 8:30 p.m. with residents of the city and surrounding area invited to attend.

Following Dr. Kolb's lecture, a service of evening prayer will bring the three-day Book of Concord celebration to a conclusion.

Vehicle licensing can be done by mail

If, almost now, vehicle licensing time again and this year, there's a difference. Most Albertans will no longer have to wait in long lines at the issuing offices to get their license. The licensing office is required only if there are any changes to be made on the registration, or if the mail-back deadline of April 1 is missed.

The license validation sticker will be returned by mail.

For the first time on a province-wide basis, vehicle owners will be able to renew their registrations by mail.

License renewal applications will arrive in the mail around the first week in March. If all the information is correct, the vehicle owner can complete the form and mail it back with a cheque or money order. A trip to the issuing office is required only if there are any changes to be made on the registration, or if the mail-back deadline of April 1 is missed.

Confronting your faith

with Rev. Len Slope,

Kagman Lutheran Parish

The book "Pilgrim's Progress" by John Bunyan has been a longstanding classic and is especially appreciated for the way the writer expresses in picturesque terms the deep meaning of Christian faith. We quote these paragraphs which are titled, "The Faith Given him last by His Sovereign, and Life by His Death."

"How I saw in my dream, that the highway up which Christian was to go was fence on either side by a wall, and the wall was called salvation. Up this way, therefore, did Christian walk, and he was not without great difficulty, because of the load on his back.

"He ran thus till he came to a place somewhat ascending; and upon that place stood a cross, and a little below, in the bottom, a sepulchre. So I saw in my dream that just as Christian came up with the cross, his burden loosed from off his shoulders and fell all about him, and began to tumble, and so continued to do till it came to the mouth of the sepulchre, where it fell in, and I saw it no more.

There was Christian glad and lightness, and said with a merry heart, 'He hath given me rest by his sorrow, and life by his death.' Then he stood up to be able to look and wonder; for it was very surprising to him that the sight of the cross should thus ease him of his burden. He looked therefore, and looked again, even till the springs that were in his hand sent the waters down his cheeks. Now as he stood looking and weeping, behold, three shining ones came to him, and saluted him with, 'Peace be to thee.' So the first said to him, 'Thy sin be forgiven thee.' The second stripped him of his rags, and clothed him with a change of raiment. The third also set a mark on his forehead and gave him a rod with a seal upon it, which he hid him look on as he ran, and said that he should give it in at the celestial gate. So they went their way. Then Christian gave three leaps of joy, and went on singing, 'John Bunyan

Laird lentil is the best

The Laird lentil, a Canadian variety, developed at the University of Saskatchewan and released in 1976, is the variety recommended for Alberta, but, at this time, it should be grown only under contract.

They will contain flowering and setting seed and their growth is terminated by some environmental factor like a nitrogen deficiency, drought, heat stress or frost.

Mr. Park also says a firm, wood-free seedling on a well drained, highly fertile soil is recommended for lentils. Seeding is usually done with an erlenmeyer flask, but he says the seed will be under when the lentils are in the soil.

A clover is used, the soil should be partial after the crop has been added to prevent an excess loss of moisture. Heavy fields should be avoided or the soil should be packed after seeding, regardless of whether a drill or a disc was used.

The seedling rate will depend upon the size of the seed, but the optimum rate is about 15 pounds per acre of row, in rows that are 15 centimeters apart. This rate would not suit about 10 kg for children's lentils.

The recommended time to plant lentils is before May 15 on well drained soils, and before May 15 on heavy soils. The yield will be higher as the planting date is earlier, but he says the seed will be under when the lentils are in the soil.

Nitrogen is necessary for lentils to grow, but it is not usually necessary to apply it. Heavy manure or compost should be avoided or the soil should be packed after seeding, regardless of whether a drill or a disc was used.

The seedling rate will depend upon the size of the seed, but cost of their nitrogen requirements. Mr. Park emphasizes that the most important way of obtaining profitable yields is the successful limitation of weed competition. The weeds are usually the same as those found in other crops.

He says relatively weed-free crops can be achieved by planting in a weed-free field, practicing cultural weed control and using herbicides.

Cultural weed control can be done by harvesting the crop in the fall, leaving the straw in the field, and then the weeds are killed by the frost.

He says the seed will be under when the lentils are in the soil.

Tofield re-zoning opposed by Fairgrounds committee

by Carolyn Martinelli
Over 30 people attended a public hearing Monday evening to voice opposition to the re-zoning of 15 lots from part residential to industrial.

The development which is located in a two-block stretch north of the present Tofield Fairgrounds has been considered part of the Fairgrounds for years, and representatives from the Tofield Fairgrounds and Advisory Committee. The re-zoning would reduce the size of the Fairgrounds by over four acres, they said.

Lil Van Bunkirk, president of the Fairgrounds committee, said that the re-zoning would reduce the size of the Fairgrounds by over four acres, they said.

Mary Stinson honoured on her '80th' birthday

by Grace Phillips

The congregation of the Tolsted United Church were hosts to the approximately two hundred people who signed the good book presented over by Mrs. Mary Stinson and Mrs. Melita Wall.

A large banner proclaiming "Happy 80th birthday, Mary Stinson" hung over the head table which featured the birthday cake, candles, and bouquets of spring flowers. The cake was made by Mrs. Joyce Swift and decorated by Agnes Bumpal in honor of Mrs. Stinson. The luncheon table for the birthday ladies was decorated with flowers and candles.

At the head table were seated with the guest of honor her three children, Mrs. Betty Brooks, Dr. Shirley Stinson, Donald Stinson and his wife Ruth, sister-in-law Mrs. Anne Isom, from Abernethy, Saskatchewan, Lytle and his son from Bragg Creek.

Rev. Harold and Mrs. Richard of Stinson. Rev. David Modde welcomed the guests to the happy occasion, held tribute to Mrs. Stinson's 80 years of work in the church and honoured the head table guests.

Mrs. Li Salas presented a surprise to Mrs. Stinson on behalf of the choir before Mrs. Mary Stinson was called on to express the admiration and affection of those present for Mrs. Stinson.

Mrs. Stinson is an obviously sincere, heart-felt tribute, and she was happy to be in with Mrs. Stinson a happy birthday and to express her appreciation of the company of the church for a long and happy association with one who, the longer she is known, the better she is liked. Mrs. Stinson has been most generous with her gift of music to friends and strangers alike. She is a truly talented musician being able, after one hearing, to reproduce a complicated musical composition. She is also a composer; a Christmas gift each of her children will cherish is an original composition by their mother.

Mrs. Stinson has assisted in the school musical festivals of earlier years, has played for countless funerals, weddings, on school festivals, vocal, on school in addition to fulfilling her weekly duties as church organist and director of both junior and senior choirs.

In earlier years, she gave piano lessons, presenting her own compositions to the Tolsted United Church. She has been one of her students in a new professional musician. Mrs. Stinson's terrific sense of humor caused her to laugh at herself with others and it is no doubt a factor which helps her to relate so well to young and old.

Mrs. Stinson and her husband, J. Edwin Stinson, and Mrs. Everett were an example in all in their relationship of mutual trust and respect. During the last few years, Mrs. Stinson has mostly been bedridden and her husband has been in and out of the hospital. She remains an active member in many activities; she took up on behalf of all those present remarked on the tremendous amount of work Mrs. Stinson, quite unobtrusively, had carried on the lives of all around her. "80 years," he said, "she would have done a better job. He also recalled social experiences with the Stinson children.

John Wall made a presentation to Mrs. Stinson on behalf of the Lions Club of which Mrs. Stinson is a willing helper. He expressed appreciation for her many hours of help on Ladies' Night, Charter Nights and sing-alongs.

Gary Hogan, chairman of Board of Stinson of the United Church, presented Mrs. Stinson with a gift and a cheque. He said that although he was a comparative newcomer to Tolsted, he was happy to make this presentation to Mrs. Stinson, who has the ability to transcend all age barriers. He was proud to say "Mrs. Stinson is my friend."

Mrs. Stinson in her gracious manner thanked everyone for the "best birthday party ever," those who had prepared the event, participated in the program, attended the party from near and far, but had special thanks for the attendance of members of the Kallal family whose mother was celebrating her 80th birthday the same day.

Mrs. Stinson shared a few thoughts on the importance of the church and the people's lives. It gave us, she said, opportunity for worship, for fellowship, both local and worldwide, and for service to others. She was glad to be a member of this congregation and happy to be among the community of which she is proud.

Mrs. Stinson had a letter from her former classmate at CJC and the U of A, Dr. Walter Rock, M.L.A., expressing their regret at being unable to attend the birthday party.

Mrs. Brooks commented on the kindness of the community members in making this perfect day for her mother. Mr. Modde recalled the many people who had worked with Mrs. Stinson over the years and were no longer with us.

When the candles on the birthday cake had been lit, and "Happy Birthday" had been sung, and a standing ovation given to the celebrant, a musical benediction "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You" was sung by Mrs. Melita Wall.

A social time followed when old acquaintances were renewed. A teacher before Mrs. Stinson came from Abernethy, Saskatchewan, to Tolsted with her husband in 1908. The Stinsons had three children, Shirley, Betty and Donald, who grew up and received their early education in Tolsted. Shirley is now Dr. Stinson at the University Hospital in Edmonton. Betty and her husband, Dr. Barry Brooks, live in Toronto. They have five children, Patricia, Debbie, Shelley, Steve and Nan, as well as one granddaughter, Danielle Serle. Donald has long been a pilot for Air Canada. He and his wife Ruth live in Toronto.

The children are busy. Mary and Jennifer their grandchildren in St. Louis. Mrs. Stinson visits her family frequently but, continues to make her home in Tolsted.

Alberta's birthday

O' Canada, our blessed land, How thankful we should be It is so great and beautiful, The provinces to see.

They hold the riches so glorious, Each province has its share. The cattle, crops and industries, It's all so great and fair.

Indeed, our land is wonderful, Where milk and honey flows; Where fish and fowl are plentiful, And massive timber grows.

The oil, and coal and minerals Make us so rich, you see. The great Creator put it there; How grateful we should be.

The people have the freedom, too To worship as they please. We choose our occupation here, And make our life with ease.

The older people get good care, The sick and needy too. And those that cannot find a job, Get help the whole year through.

So, we should never grumble here In this, our land, so great. Let's honor God, and follow his Will, Ward, in humble faith.

It is best said, that man pollutes The rivers and the air. But it is worse, and it's a crime, To spoil our trees so fair.

Pollution flows into our homes Through television shows; Through dirty books and dirty songs Its poison brings us woes.

Pollution flows into our minds. Polluted is the heart By greedy and uncaring people. How shameful is their art.

Let's take a stand, on this our day, Against all this and stop. Let's offer something positive, To build our nation up.

Build up the character and mind. Lift up the moral code. Encourage everything that's good. Clean up the whole world.

And over all, O' Canada, Do not forget by God's name. The blessings come from Him alone; Praise Him, our gracious God.

Hard to comprehend

Almost incomprehensible is the action of the provincial department of agriculture last week in straitjacketing the Alberta Farm Producers Marketing Board. Especially when it had already established a 'committee of review' any precipitate action before the committee had a chance even to get started is hard to understand.

Dallas Schmidt, as minister of agriculture, is hardly known as a man to move precipitately in this way, so the move is all the more mystifying. Since it was taken seemingly with no prior consultation (even the caucus was not informed) and since it must have been obvious that hog breeders would be incensed, there must have been some underlying principle prompting the procedure, though like many other observers we can think of nothing which would justify such high-handed action.

Even the Tory M.A. for this riding, which borders on that of Mr. Schmidt, is hard put to explain the action, and is torn between his need for loyalty to the government, and to his constituents.

In the end, of course, he has almost no choice but to side with his party, though it may, and should, cost his conscience dearly. It's hard not to recall eight or nine years ago when Mr. Lougheed convincingly and repeatedly campaigned on the credo of "People before Party!" The realities of government quickly pushed that into the recesses of his mind, it seems, and now it's the entire team solidarity which is imperative.

Four hog producers! Four public!

Ottawa bites harder

All through the recent federal election the Liberals decided the budget brought in by former finance minister John Crosbie, and the Conservatives' emphasis on paring expenses. The idea was to balance the budget in order to reduce the huge expansion of interest payments needed to service the rapidly expanding national debt caused by inflationary deficits.

It must come as a definite surprise, therefore, to hear the present Finance Minister, Mr.

MacEachern, warning that taxes cannot go down, that indeed there will probably be a cruel new bite in the budget coming up shortly.

In effect, what Mr. MacEachern is admitting is that the Conservatives were dead on in their late fall budget. In fact, things are even worse now than they were then. But he couldn't come out and straggle away just that right, now, could he?

Just wait until he brings in the budget, and see how it sounds then.

Canadian Comment

By Peter Ward

OTTAWA (AP)—Now that we've got an election winner—Liberal party leader Pierre Trudeau has been re-elected premier—the time has come for the government to give money—screening on energy and oil into action.

The spectacle of all three parties arguing over the price of crude oil and gasoline during the election campaign was seriously that of a lineup of Dutch boys at the altar, trying to decide which one had the biggest diaper, and hence, could most effectively appreciate the growing tide draining the Canadian economy.

World oil prices are going nowhere but up. World oil supplies are diminishing as we use them. Not only is it inevitable that the price of oil will go up, but it's also inevitable that it will cost the foreseeable future.

Canada is in the fortunate position of having resources of her own which can postpone, for now, the inevitable switch to all the modern industrial economies to fuels other than hydrocarbons. Politicians are starving that valuable potential down the drain. Not only are Canadians paying an unnecessarily high price for their own oil and natural gas, but the federal treasury—hence the tax-payers—is subsidizing the ever more expensive crude oil which we import to fuel our prodigious appetites.

Canada's hydrocarbon supplies give her a time bridge during which to develop alternative fuels, and yet we stand playing Dutch boy at the altar.

Politicians directed at winning energy self-sufficiency for Canada by the year 1986 are the right ones to follow. That means the price of hydrocarbons falls and the rise fairly rapidly to something near world prices. It also means that extra revenue from higher prices charged on a national basis can be channelled into research and development of alternate energy.

Canada can have something there to fuel the economy when hydrocarbons run out. It can even be world leaders, exporting technology which would flow much more into home Canadian industry. Neither Tories nor Liberals have shown the slightest desire to tackle such a proposition with more than ad hoc measures.

Concentrated research and development on hydrogen energy is, however, being left to a few private industry and academic, because government lacks the nerve and the funds necessary.

The Enemy Within

It is the shoving mirror in 1986, and thinking how history books are in it is hard to believe that 45 years have passed since you and a few others applied to join the Royal Air Force.

From the British Isles, from Australia, New Zealand, Rhodesia, South Africa—the "old" dominions—men made their way to Adair House at the Admiralty and the Admiralty.

By today's standard the selection procedure was perfect. An interview before a board of officers ("see you here at school. Have you kept it up?") and a medical examination which included being spun around in a swirl chair, standing on one leg with eyes closed, and repeating back to him words that the doctor whispered at you from across the room.

Then the wait, followed at last by the swiftness with the magic letters OMBAS and the joining instructions: "You are in proceed . . ." It is the procedure in Hamilton on footpaths, water and to the mysteries of the Arvo Chisel with its 120 hp Genset engine.

First that gentle Molise and, later, the Hawker Hart was a delight. No radio, navigation by mental dead reckoning, the smell of fresh cut grass as you yield off for landing.

Memory was triggered by reading "Canadians in the Royal Air Force" by Les Allison, of Roland, Macdonald, and seeing photographs of friends long dead.

In Allison's words: "When war began in September 1939 there were more Canadian airmen in the RAF than in the RCAF and they were in action from the first day . . . RAF Bomber Command alone lost near 50,000 killed in action 1939-45 of whom some 10,000 were Canadian."

The book was self-published. In a lead-in section to "Acknowledgements" Allison writes: "We applied to Canada Council, at considerable personal expense, for help in writing this part of Canadian history . . . Of course we were refused . . . but we have on the thousands of 'projects' they do finance . . . A 'real researcher' got some $8,000 to study the behavior and habits of some part of Quebec."

So, he wrote, he wrote: "The years slip by and slowly our lives make their being determined by disunity, unrest and hatred."

Someday by a manifestation of leadership things have become reversed. It there really a grand conspiracy going on in the top levels? How honest?

Reading that book brought to mind another—Gerald Porter's "In Retreat—The Canadian Forces in the Twentieth Century." As Porter wrote: "Today, after a decade of Britain's management of the armed forces, Canada stands on the brink of the 1980s as a defenceless nation, geographically dependent on the poorly and protection of better-equipped allies."

After Hungary, after Czechoslovakia, after Soviet backed Cuban aggression in Africa, after Afghanistan, can doubt Soviet intentions. We are here we are in the Thirties. All this has changed is that the fascist enemy is now our east, and strategic misadventure.

Yet, an election engineered, the man who dismantled our own forces, the man whose sympathy for the Soviet Union and Cuba is notorious, that man is expected to become Prime Minister again!

Regehrs celebrate 50th

On March 18, the family of Rev. Dave and Mrs. Reghehr celebrated five to celebrate with them, the occasion of their parents' 50th wedding anniversary.

A program of thanksgiving was held in the Tofield Methodist church, led by their daughter, Alice Klamm.

Included in the program were songs by the members of the family as well as an invocation by the Rev. Dave and the Rev. Reghehr.

Water Reghehr traced some of the family history from the time of his parents' marriage on Jan. 8, 1930.

Rev. Dave Reghehr gave a brief overview of his 50 years of ministry. He highlighted some of his experiences in the Peace River country and his efforts in Tofield area since their arrival in 1941.

While he campaigns safely in Canada, (Porter's words) "in the pretty Black Forest country, their families sleeping in rows of brightly-painted P.O.W.s, the men of Canada's tiny and ill-equipped NATO brigade keep close watch as the armed forces, Canada stands on the brink of the 1980s as a defenceless nation, geographically dependent on the Rev. Al Heldersheim gave the closing remarks and was followed by a song by the family.

Following this, a delicious lunch was served by the M.Y.W.A.

Present for the occasion were the following children: Alice and John Klamm, Elida and Neil Baergen, Walter and Sharon Reghehr, Irene and John Baergen, Dave Reghehr and Daley.

Family members who were unable to be present were Betty and Anne Reghehr of Winnipeg, Ernie and Nancy Reghehr of Waterloo, Ont., and Margaret and Mervyn Fries of Wisconsin, U.S.A.

Other relatives and friends came from Chilliwack, New Westminster, Calgary and Edmonton.

In addition to the good wishes expressed by those present were congratulations from government officials in Tofield area since their arrival in 1941.

New weed causes problems

By Dr. P.A. O'Sullivan
Agriculture Canada
Research Station at Lacombe Caveaux, an annual bushy plant, is rapidly becoming a problem weed in Western Canada, particularly for the rape grower.

D.A. Dev, a weed biologist with Agriculture Canada at Lacombe, estimates that half million acres in Alberta are now infested with caveaux.
This acreage includes a large portion of south-central Alberta and the Peace River district.

The problem with the weed is twofold: firstly, there is an increase of controlling caveaux in rapeseed, and, secondly, it is virtually impossible to separate caveaux seed from rapeseed.

For those who do not know what caveaux looks like, it is very easily identified by its square stem, which is covered with backwards pointing bristles. Another sure way of finding out whether or not you have caveaux is by walking through your field some time towards the end of the growing season.

If caveaux is there, it will leave the field with you by wrapping itself around your past legs and holding on by means of its backward-pointing bristles. The plant grows from two to four feet high and has leaves in whorls of six or eight.

Not only are there no har-bicides currently registered for controlling caveaux in rapeseed, but the weed does not appear on any list of herbicides which are used in caveaux.

In experiments conducted at the Lacombe research station in 1979, several compounds showed good promise for caveaux control in cereals.
These included Buctril M or Revolatil M, Torch and Senor plus MCPA. All applications were made at currently recommended field rates when the caveaux had one or two leaf whorls.

In studies conducted elsewhere, caveaux was controlled in cereals with Compact at 15-18 oz/A (active ingredient) or Barrel at 1.5 oz/A (active ingredient).

As far as caveaux control in rape is concerned, only bromoxynil shows some promise of controlling this weed.
An ester form of bromoxynil (not currently available in Canada) was superior to the amine form (available in Canada), but rape injury was severe with the ester.

The results recorded above represent one year's data collected from one experiment on rape and one on barley. We are presenting them here because no reliable information currently exists on the control of caveaux.

If a farmer has a problem with caveaux, these results may serve as a guide for him to experiment with.

In order to provide reliable information on the control of this new problem weed, many more experiments will need to be conducted over several years.

Boulevard tree pruning is subject

Does your job involve the maintenance of large shade trees?

Alberta Agriculture's horticultural branch will be holding a boulevard tree pruning course at Ponoka on April 1 and 2.

Organized in 1978 in response to the increasing demand for information and training in the proper pruning of boulevard trees, this special course had 50 participants last year.

It is intended for people whose jobs involve the maintenance of trees in institutional grounds and for people who prune large shade trees in cities, towns and villages.

It is also intended to help Albertans protect their American cities against the deadly Dutch elm disease, which is causing such serious losses in Manitoba.

Herman Osterhals, in charge of Alberta Agriculture's tree planting programs, says proper pruning will go a long way towards safeguarding our cities, which are our most desirable boulevard trees.

The two-day course covers the pruning techniques recommended for properly shaping large trees and prescribed safety measures.

According to Mr. Osterhals, many large shade trees, especially those in smaller urban centres, are ruined by the pruning techniques that are being used. He says people often simply cut off the top of their trees when they reach a certain height instead of controlling their size by shearing them as they grow.

The boulevard tree pruning course also includes information on the correct spacing of boulevard trees, choice of species, where and when to plant them and good maintenance procedures.

The deadline for registering for the course is March 30. Applicants will be accepted on a first come, first serve basis. Application forms can be obtained from the Provincial Tree Nursery, R.R. #2, Edmonton T5B 0K3 (Telephone 972-3031).
